SHERM CHAMBERLAIN

LOCAL CANDIDATE • LOCAL VALUES

"FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY BEGINS AT HOME. As a father of recent college graduates and co-owner of a local business, I understand and have practiced good financial planning. I encourage Third Ward voters to carefully examine the financial track records of both Council candidates. Management of our City's budget should only be entrusted to those who have personally demonstrated sound financial management."

POLITICAL HONESTY. I have always taken into account the opinions of Third Ward residents when deciding issues. If I don't agree with a position I will not for the sake of gaining votes, attempt to tell people what they want to hear."

COOPERATION IS THE KEY. I have served on local boards for twenty years because of my genuine concern for the well being of Charlevoix. We don't need to add more council members with a political axe to grind. It's time to rise above the current political bickering, set aside differences and work cooperatively for the benefit of the City."

Elsenheimer, McKimmy battle for 105th seat

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

ELECTION

Charlevoix residents, and all others in the 105th state representative district, will be picking from two fresh candidates on Nov. 2.

The seat was held by Republican Ken Bradstreet, but he must vacate it due to term limits. This means voters must pick either Republican Kevin Elsenheimer or Democrat Jim McKimmy and both have solid opinions on how to best serve the citizens of this district.

Both men have ties to Charlevoix. Elsenheimer's law office partner, Jim Young, represents the city of Charlevoix and McKimmy was the school district's superintendent in the 1970s.

Elsenheimer said the key issue for the next representative of the 105th, will be dealing with the state budget.

"That really effects us. The budget crisis gives us the opportunity to reevaluate how we fund the state government," he said. "We can determine whether or not the way we fund roads and bridges using the gas tax money is an appropriate way to keep pace with increasing costs of those improvements."

He added this will give the state a chance to also determine whether the single business tax — something he opposes — is an appropriate tool to tax corporations.

On the state budget, McKimmy pointed right to the single business tax as the problem. But, he said the problem is the Republican's desire to end it.

McKimmy said cuts to the single business tax are responsible for 45 percent of the budget problem facing the state. McKimmy also pointed out that, already, 65 percent of the businesses in the state of Michigan do not pay the single business tax.

Those who do pay the tax, he said, tend to be the larger corporations.

"People advocating a single business tax reduction are really talking about tax breaks to the biggest companies," he said.

Other losses in the budget, when combined with these cuts in the single business tax, are the state's dependence on the personal income and sales tax. With a hurting economy, both of those taxes are going to go down.

Another big issue facing the residents of this district is the economy.

Elsenheimer said he believes the key to attracting good jobs to the district is the designation of enterprise or renaissance zones. These zones are attractive to business due to lower taxes.

He said he would also like to pursue job incubator sites throughout the district. In these sites, a company could start up using a facility owned by the government. Once it is on its feet, it moves on to its own site.

He also believes phasing out the single business tax will help the business environment in the district and state.

By doing these things, Elsenheimer said he wants to make the state more friendly to businesses, thus attracting more.

McKimmy believes jobs are actually the answer to our state budget problems. With more jobs, we have more money coming into the state.

McKimmy said he would like reward businesses that create well paying jobs in the state of Michigan with special tax cuts. A well paying job would be one that pays $8 per hour, plus benefits, or $12 to $14 per hour without benefits.

"That person has a reasonable chance to make it," he said.

He also advocates making sure economic development organizations, such as the Michigan Growth Alliance, in the state are adequately funded so they can promote the area and entice companies to come.

And when one company comes in, McKimmy said there are typically spin off companies.

"We have a common interest in the 105th. If we work together through existing agencies, I think we can make northern Michigan desirable," he said.

One of the things that makes northern Michigan desirable to both candidates are our natural resources. Both candidates said it is important to protect the environment, but when it came to our Great Lakes water, they had different ways of protecting it.

Elsenheimer argues the law right now gives the governor of Michigan the right to veto any withdrawal of Great Lakes water by any Great Lakes state.

He said some people don't think that is the case and would like Michigan to join an agreement between the states around the Great Lakes that sets up a process for drawing water. The problem is, this gives every state equal power. Which means states like Minnesota could start pumping water for their prairie areas or selling it in the western states.

But, McKimmy said by not being a part of this agreement, Michigan is loosing out. He agrees that the pact is poorly written, but said until Michigan is a part of it, it can not work to change the language.

He disagrees with Elsenheimer that the governor has the power to veto water withdrawals and points to the water bottling plant in Mecosta county as an example. With that case, the citizens of Mecosta had to band together and take the issue to the courts using their own money.

With this act, the state could act on behalf of the citizens.

Vote with your tastebuds as well as your ballot

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

What's a good way to promote healthy political choices than through cookies?

Kris Way, owner of The Coffee Shop in Charlevoix, is featuring a cookie election in which sugar cookies decorated with a "B" for President George W. Bush and a "K" for Senator John Kerry are considered one vote.

"Really for me personally and as the store owner, it is to sell cookies," Way said.

The election started at the beginning of October and will run right up to the election. Way said the cookies will still be available on Nov. 2.

Way said she's not trying to take a side, but just sell cookies and have some fun. Her employees favor both Bush and Kerry and she said they try to push their Presidential favorite to the customers interested in casting a vote.

"It's really been fun," she said. "We all laugh and joke with it."

The idea came about from Way's sister who lives near a bakery in Kalamazoo. Way said her sister told her about how the bakery was selling cookies marked with each candidates initial and keeping a tally of how many "votes" were cast.

Way said the bakery has done this for years and other bakeries are joining in such as one in Sterling Heights. Way said the interesting fact is that the party ahead in the cookie election always won the real election.

Currently, Bush cookie votes are at 55 percent and Kerry cookie votes are at 45 percent. However, one person can "vote" as many times as they want to. Way said it has been fun to compare the cookie percentages to the real ones.

Way said the most "votes" sold at one time was about a dozen, but most people usually purchase one.

"It's spurred a lot of conversation and conflict with people," she said.

Way said one person got upset because they didn't think they should have to buy a vote. Way said the whole cookie election is just for fun and nothing official or serious.

"Most people think it's fun," she said.

In the beginning, both Bush and Kerry cookies were selling evenly and the vote totals were always close, Way said. However, as time went on Bush cookies took the lead.

"I can't tell if we really have more Bush people than Kerry people or if Republicans eat more cookies," she said.

The Bush cookies pulled ahead, Way said, during the 25th Annual Apple Festival and Craft Show when a lot of people came to Charlevoix.

Dan Hopkins reaches for a cookie to cast his "vote," but is stopped by Dianne DuPont. Hopkins and DuPont are two Charlevoix residents taking part in the cookie elections at The Coffee Shop.

"My regular people must be pretty even on the spectrum," she said.

Way said the majority of people casting their "votes" are adults, but people of all ages including high school students are joining in on the fun.

"It's really interesting for me to see these high school kids really into it," she said.

She said there seems to be more interest in politics among the young crowd, especially since the senior class of 2005 chose to have Bush and Kerry cardboard cut-outs topping off the end of their homecoming float.

"Kids are a lot more interested in government," she said.

Way said some students either know someone personally or know of someone who is currently serving in Iraq, which makes them more knowledgeable on politics. Way said this is natural for anyone during a time of war.

The cookies are decorated in red, white and blue frosting and cost .75 cents each. They are available and everyone is welcome to join in on the fun and cast their "vote."

Charlevoix, Boyne Falls raising money for area humane society

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

With the Charlevoix County Humane Society in need of help, Boyne Falls Public Schools challenged all schools in the Charlevoix County Area to a penny drive.

Ruth Ann Wilson, student council advisor, said the penny drive stemmed from a student council project aimed at helping the Humane Society.

"We're doing really well on it," Wilson said.

The penny drive challenge was responded to by Charlevoix High School, which has several seminar's taking part.

"It's definitely a great opportunity for these students to help other organizations if they are in need of support," Wilson said. "It's a great chance for them to give back."

The giving doesn't stop with the penny drive. There was also a pet walk and silent auction on Oct. 23 that helped boost the donations received.

Wilson said there was about $404 dollars raised from the penny drive alone, but with the pet walk and silent auction a total of $2,323 has been raised and will be donated to the Humane Society.

Wilson said the desire to help the Humane Society goes back to a former student of Boyne Falls Public School named Renee Wasylewski who graduated in 2002.

Wilson said Wasylewski was volunteering her time at the Humane Society during a job shadowing opportunity, which led her to meeting donor Bill Schuiling. Wilson said he connected with Wasylewski and gave five Laddie Scholarships to the school for $1,000 each.

Since then, Wilson said the school has received 10 Laddie Scholarships for $1,000 each.

"We thank the Humane Society for that," Wilson said. "When we heard they were in need of finances we wanted to step up to help."

The penny drive ends Oct. 27 and a check will be presented to the Humane Society on Oct. 28 at Boyne Falls Public School for the total amount raised.

Friends of Library happy with response from forum

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Meet the Candidates occurred on Oct. 20 at the Charlevoix Public Library and Kay Heise, president of the Charlevoix Friends of the Library, said the event surpassed what was expected.

"Wow," she said. "I'm absolutely delighted we could provide this forum."

Heise said 80 people attended the event and since it was such a success, the event will most likely be given in the future.

"The library is available to hold these types of events as long as the public desires it," she said.

Several young people attended the event, including those in Anne Marie Conway's government class that helped with the forum.

Alex Heffling, 18, said he's not very interested in local politics as much as he is in the bigger elections.

He said he will be leaving for college and won't be here, but he hopes whoever is picked for mayor will make the town better off than what it is right now.

Heffling said Carlson answered the questions more so than Campbell.

"I think I formed a good opinion," he said.

Rayder's season ends with rainy loss to Glads

By B. JON GOHS
Sports writer

There was no lifeboat big enough to rescue the Rayders from their 27-13 loss to the Gladiators in Saturday night's waterlogged contest.

All weather related cliché's aside, Charlevoix's final game and resultant loss of the season knocked them out of the running for a playoff berth.

According to coach Jess, he's never seen so much rain on a football field.

"It was pretty bad. It was tough to hang on to the ball that's for sure," he said.

And, he added, "You really couldn't make a cut running the ball, you pretty much had to run north and south."

Twice the game was delayed for 30 minutes due to lightning, as per the rules of high school football. The final delay lasted only 15 minutes as the poor weather finally cleared.

And although the rain's effects were negative, there were other serious issues hurting the Rayders.

Jess said, "At the beginning of the game we missed some tackles, but after the first quarter we sured things up on defense and played real well."

Regardless of their positive play after the disastrous first quarter, the Rayders just couldn't seem to catch up. .

"We put ourselves in too big of a hole to recover from," Jess said.

The Rayders first TD was in the second quarter and their second TD was in the beginning of the third quarter. But it wasn't enough to even the game as the Gladiators scored two touchdowns in the first quarter and one in the second and third.

QB Cody Crain's passing percentage is down three points this week from 50 to 47 giving him a season average of 55 percent. Crain was 23 of 49 for 249 yards with one TD and two interceptions in Saturday's game. He also lead rushing with 11 carries for 47 yards. He completed 128 of 232 for 1541 yards thrown for the season.

(Seasonal statistics of other players were unavailable at time of publication.)

Lead receivers included Ben Bergmann with nine catches for 104 yards and a six yard TD pass from Crain.

Mitchell Klooster had seven catches for 93 yards and recovered a Gladiator end zone fumble for a TD.

Jeff Golovich lead defense with 15 tackles and kicked an extra point, while Chris Waha and Jake Teuscher had nine tackles each with Teuscher racking up an interception.

The Gladiators' running game was just what the Rayders expected — brutal. But, according to Coach Jess, it was a good game nonetheless.

The Rayders' season is over and the fans have gone home, but the work of the varsity team is far from over.

Jess said, "We take about a week off and then start lifting weights to get stronger for next year."

Charlevoix will lose about 12 seniors to graduation next spring, but many juniors and sophomores from this years varsity team will return next year, "so our defense will be tough," Jess said.

The Rayders managed the winning season they've spent several years looking for.

"Our overall standing is 5-4 and we placed third in the league," he said. "I think it was a great year for the program in general — the kids got a taste of winning."

Though it is too early to speculate on next year's team, Jess said, this taste of wining, "should carry over for these juniors and sophomores that were on varsity this year."

The best part of this season, he said, was watching his team improve.

"I was really proud of these kids," he said. "Last year they only won one game, and as frustrating as that is, it made them work harder."

And, he added, "I'm really proud of how they played. "But the kids aren't the only ones Coach Jess is proud of.

Assistant coaches Josh Skeel (defensive coordinator) and Special Teams Coach Dan Yenglin, both of whom will return next season, did a great job, Jess said.

For Jess, the highlight of this season was, "Probably those two wins over East Jordan and Boyne city because of the rivalry and because they were last minute wins."

Girls' basketball team continues to dominate

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Rayder express rolled on to two more wins last week, defeating their closest rivals in the Lake Michigan Conference.

Charlevoix beat Harbor Springs, 67-47 and Traverse City St. Francis, 76-62.

The Rayders moved up to number two in the latest Associated Press Class C girls basketball poll.

The wins clinched a share of the Lake Michigan Conference championship as the Rayders, with their 11-0 conference mark, leads Harbor Springs and Traverse City St. Francis with their 7-3 records with three games with only three league games to go.

"We didn't shoot the ball well in either game," coach Keith Haske said. 'It's a good sign that we still won both the way we did. Usually in a season you hit a lull, especially shooting the ball on the perimeter. If this is our lull, then we went through it fine."

He added, "It's great when your defense and rebounding can carry you through on nights when you're not shooting well."

The Rayders led at the quarters against Harbor by scores of 17-13, 38-18 and 47-31.

On the night, Grace Farrell posted a double-double with 17 points and 12 rebounds. She also had three assists and three steals.

Kari Way had 13 points and six rebounds. Shannon Dibble scored 10 points.

Sarah Cross contributed nine points, six rebounds, three assists and four steals.

Against the Gladiators, Charlevoix led 15-7, 34-21 and 54-38 at the quarter marks.

Jaime Pettis led the Rayders with 16 points, five rebounds and four steals. Farrell scored 13 points and had 11 rebounds. Nitchman and Dibble were also in double-figures with 13 and 11 points respectively.

Madison Ramsey had four assists and four steals.

"Shannon Dibble and Sarah Cross really stepped up and made some big free throws at the end of the game," Haske said. "It was a tight game at that point—10 to 12 points—and you don't want to miss."

The Rayders JV team also kept its record undefeated at 16-0 with wins over Harbor Springs and St. Francis as well.

Both teams returned to action on the road at Grayling on Tuesday, Oct. 26. Results were unavailable at presstime. The Rayders are off on Thursday.

The districts will be in Charlevoix this year and the Rayders will open tournament play at 8 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 15 against Harbor Springs. The winner will face Boyne City on Wednesday, Nov. 17.

Elementary school to have its own election

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Adults aren't the only ones interested in politics anymore.

Charlevoix Elementary School's third grade will be having a mock presidential election for the entire school.

Third grade teachers Pat Carland, Cathy Silberhorn, Julie Bernhardt and Erik Lundteigen are all helping the students register their peers and prepare for the elections next week.

"It brings awareness of what's happening in our country," Carland said.

Silberhorn said the children know the issues occurring in the presidential election. Carland added that they know more than one would think they do considering their ages.

Both Carland and Silberhorn said the mock election will entail registering the entire school to vote, learning facts about the issues and watching a video that is being made about the presidential election.

The students will also learn the importance of voting and what parties are, which Silberhorn said is important.

"They think of parties as Halloween parties," she said.

The third grade students will also have to do a presentation that involves speaking and listening. Once they vote on Nov. 2, they will receive an "I Voted" pin featuring SpongeBob Squarepants.

Carland and Silberhorn said Chief John McLean of the United States Coast Guard has been a valuable resource throughout the entire process of preparing for the mock elections.

McLean is creating four voting booths out of cardboard and painting them white in preparation for the decorating the third grade students will do.

McLean, who has two children at the elementary school, said he enjoys volunteering his time at the school and does so in both the third and kindergarten grade levels.

"I love working with the kids and love volunteering as much time as I can," he said.

McLean said he thinks the entire mock election is important for the students and a good learning tool.

"It gives them a real understanding of the system and how it works," he said.

Library hosts forum to meet the candidates

FORUM

He agreed with Carlson on controlled growth.

The candidates were asked what is the biggest challenge facing the city and Carlson said it is getting everything back on track. In regard to the marina project, Carlson said the city needs to inform the community on all details associated with the project.

He added that the project to renovate the park and marina will result in more handicapped accessible facilities.

Campbell said the biggest challenge is finances since the state and federal governments are broke. He said the lake was supposed to be buoyed to mark how far out the proposed docks would go and added he's heard nothing but excuses and now the buoying is being delayed until after the election.

"They think if they get Boogie (Carlson) it'll all go away," he said.

When asked about the relationship between the city manager and the city council, Campbell said the city manager is accountable to the city council.

Campbell said City Manager Michael Wiesner should be up front about what is going on and not wait to tell council.

"It's imperative that we do that so we can stay on the same page," he said.

Carlson said the city council and the mayor set policy and the city manager carries out that policy. If something isn't right in the opinion of council, Carlson said they have the right to have the mayor call a review of the said employee.

"Reviews should be looked at as positive construction, not negative," Carlson said.

In response to the question about why citizens should vote for them as mayor, Carlson said he would bring the people together.

"I think I'd be a good voice for the people," he said. "I'd be a good representative for the city of Charlevoix and would be honored to do so."

Campbell said he has come in with no strings attached and has nothing to gain financially.

Questions submitted by the audience entailed how the candidates could represent those citizens who live elsewhere part of the year.

Campbell said those people's houses shouldn't be targeted for taxing. He said it's not fair to raise the taxes on summer homes.

Carlson said he would listen to someone who doesn't live in the area year round as closely as he would someone who lives in the city or townships.

Another question from the audience consisted of whether or not there would be a conflict of interest if the candidates did work for the city.

Carlson said the question was addressed to him, and that he saved the city between $4,500 and $4,800 when he did work on the beaches — a city project that he bidded on and was awarded when he was a councilmember.

"I'd probably refrain from bidding on any projects if mayor," he said.

Campbell said it's important for the mayor and city council members to bid on projects through sealed bids. He said he doesn't have a business and is retired.

As a closing statement, Campbell said he would like to continue as mayor and said the city doesn't need to bow to developers but also shouldn't shut them out. Protecting Charlevoix is important, he said.

Carlson said the actions taken today affect those living tomorrow. He said he would like to have high school kids sit in on the city council as junior members.

"The decisions we make are probably going to affect them more than they'll affect us," he said.

Carlson said he would lead the city in a level-headed direction.

Kevin A. Elsenheimer and Jim McKimmy, candidate for the 105th District also answered questions that night.

The first question centered around students that attend public schools.

Elsenheimer said he is a product of public schooling and his children attend Bellaire Public Schools. He said he served as a trustee on the Bellaire Elementary School Board for two terms.

McKimmy said all his children have gone through public schools including himself. He said there shouldn't be an increase in the number of charter schools.

When asked to explain their beliefs and feelings on pro-school choice, Elsenheimer said he takes a different position in regard to school choice issues. He said his school had to compete with charter schools for students.

"It forced us to be a better school," he said.

He said it made the school look more closely at what they were doing and how they could change things to attract more people.

Elsenheimer said some students don't thrive as well in public school settings and parents should be able to have a choice whether it's home school, charter school, private school or a public school.

McKimmy posed a question to Elsenheimer and asked why the Bellaire School District lost 40 out of 600 students and 69 percent within the public school itself.

He said 34 percent of charter schools are currently not meeting No Child Left Behind standards compared to 16 percent of public schools.

He said students at charter schools are also about six months behind their peers in public schools.

McKimmy said he doesn't agree with promoting vouchers for private or religious schools.

When asked about art funding in Northern Michigan, McKimmy said art is clearly one of the assets of a civilized society.

Elsenheimer said he was a musician for many years and paid his way through law school through his own artistic talents. However, he said it's appropriate to have public tax dollars support art when there are sufficient funds to do so.

He said something has to be cut and it's usually art.

"I don't see it changing until we get the economic house in order," he said.

Another question was if Michigan receives money for public schools, where would that money go?

Elsenheimer said it should go toward a flat fee for every district throughout the state.

"We don't need to raise the foundation grant per child," he said.

McKimmy said it's a local control issue. He said the legislature does play a role in helping to set the goals. However, in 1994 the legislature was given 100 percent control for funds of operations.

"I don't think it's the legislature's right to determine operations," he said.

In closing, McKimmy said his experience as a superintendent of schools and president of the Superintendent Association has enabled him to understand complex organizations.

Elsenheimer said he understands school budgets and issues even though he wasn't as intimately involved as McKimmy. He said he thinks it's also important to have experience in law enforcement, like he does.

The city of Charlevoix will have a new mayor, Norman "Boogie" Carlson, Jr.

Carlson beat the incumbent mayor Gabe Campbell Tuesday in a close general election 790 votes to 727 votes or 52 to 48 percent.

Carlson said he thinks his winning means the majority of people in Charlevoix wanted a change.

"Not taking anything away from the past mayor, but I think these people wanted to give me the opportunity to do what I set out to do," he said.

From here, Carlson said he wants to get everyone on the same page and get Charlevoix headed in a positive direction.

In order to get things heading forward, Carlson said he wants to help finish the City Hall project that Campbell started and to get the marina project off the ground.

Campbell, who served as mayor for the past two years, said the result of the election will mean that City Manager Michael Wiesner and City Police Chief Dennis Halverson can continue on as they have been.

"There's nobody to put restraints on him," he said about Wiesner.

Camphell said Wiesner will now move forward with a sewer line that would run out past Castle Farms, which would create sprawl.

"There's no restraint," he said.

Campbell said the city will now not cut back on anything except for services, which is something he would have kept intact.

"I don't know how much it'll take to make people annoyed," he said.

For now, Campbell said he will congratulate Carlson and then focus on doing some traveling.

In the other Charlevoix City Council races, incumbents made out well, with each one keeping their seat.

In Charlevoix's first ward, incumbent Bill Haggard beat out challenger Rebecca Doan 279 to 245 votes, or 53 percent to 46 percent.

Doan said she isn't sure what the results mean.

"We'll have to wait and see," she said.

However, Doan said she congratulates Haggard and wishes him good luck.

From here, Doan plans on continuing to attend city council meetings and staying involved. Doan said she would absolutely run again in the future.

Charlevoix's second ward voted to keep Karen Campbell on the council over challenger Alvin "Butch" Russell, 255 to 210 votes or 55 percent to 45 percent.

Campbell said she is very upset about the results of the city council and mayoral elections and said she doesn't have any plans as of yet.

Between her and Russell, Campbell said she isn't sure what her winning means.

"Oh, golly. I don't know," she said. "Well, he didn't do much campaigning if any."

Township tied on putting caps on sizes of buildings

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix Township Planning Commission is split on what size is appropriate to cap large big box buildings.

The commission is comprised of Nancy E. Rajewski, John Dixon, Dave Christiansen, Stanley Martin and John Haggard.

Haggard was absent from that meeting and Rajewski said a recent vote on the matter was tied. Rajewski and Dixon voted for an 80,000 cap size and Christiansen and Martin voted against it.

Rajewski, chairman of the Charlevoix Township Planning Commission, said she voted for the 80,000 cap size because there wasn't already a cap size and she thought it would be good for Charlevoix.

"I really think capping it at 80,000 doesn't really keep anyone from coming in," she said.

However, Rajewski said you can't cap the size so low that businesses wouldn't be able to come in and build.

The Charlevoix Kmart, Rajewski said, is about 84,000 to 85,000 square feet.

Martin said he voted against the cap size because he thought a different size would better suit the needs of the community.

"I didn't think that's what we needed," he said in regards to the proposed 80,000 square feet.

Martin wouldn't reveal the range of square feet he thought was more appropriate, but he said the issue would be brought up again.

Dixon voted for the cap size of 80,000 square feet.

"I think that retail businesses limited to that size are consistent with the characteristics of the Charlevoix community," he said.

Dixon said the idea is to try and maintain the characteristics of the community by keeping out the larger big box buildings.

"At least I felt 80,000 was a very workable size building for businesses that want to work here," Dixon said.

Rajewski said the issue will be discussed at the next meeting to see what can be done from here. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 17 at the Charlevoix Township Hall.

Citizens who run are commendable

EDITORIAL

As this editorial is written, the outcome of the general election is not known.

But, it doesn't matter to this space at this time. What matters is that this year the voters of Charlevoix had many decisions to make because there were many people running for elected office. This is a wonderful thing for our democracy.

With more choices, the people become more involved in the election. When the people become more involved, they get to know the issues more. When they get to know the issues more, they get to know their community more. And when they get to know their community more, the entire community benefits.

It was great to see all the candidates pushing hard for the offices. Sometimes it did get a little nasty, but overall your contribution to the political process, regardless if you won or lost, will not go unnoticed.

It takes a lot of guts to run for a political office. Many times you are putting your personal life on the line for the good of democracy, especially when a campaign gets nasty. But, in every election, many people take this chance just to serve the communities they live in and, many times, for positions that have little or no pay attached to them. Those who run for political office are heroes of democracy.

Elections like this one are what make America and democracy great. In how many other countries can regular people run for political office? In how many other countries can the people be trusted to run the city, county, state or country? Very few.

Everyone who ran for an elected seat on Nov. 2 and back in August, deserves to be congratulated. Hopefully you will serve as the inspiration for a future community-minded citizen who wants to get into politics.

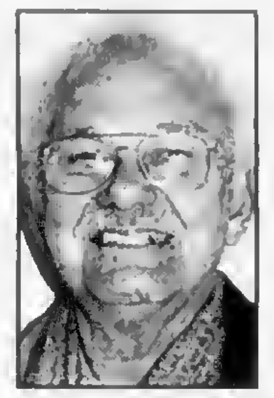
Stem cell research is moral



Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

Many people oppose the use of embryonic stem cells for research into cures for human diseases.

Most opposition is on the grounds that it is necessary to destroy a human embryo in order to acquire the cells. Stem cells have the capacity to grow into any sort of human cell, and if they can be induced to grow into nerve cells they might assist with cures for spinal cord damage or Parkinson's disease. Stem cells that could grow into pancreas cells have the potential to cure juvenile diabetes.

It will help the discussion of such issues if we are more fully informed about just what is involved. There are two potential sources of human stem cells. One is a fertilized human egg, which has two parents.

The other potential source is an unfertilized human egg which has had a skin cell nucleus transplanted into it. By any sort of biological thinking, this modified human egg really has only one parent, and what we would call conception has not occurred. In both cases, the resulting few day old collection of cells is called a blastocyst.

The destruction of a human embryo sounds like something that anyone might legitimately object to on moral grounds. The dismantling of a blastocyst sounds much more neutral. Stem cells derived from a blastocyst are not killed, they are grown in culture and can have a sort of immortality. What is destroyed in the separation of stem cells from other blastocyst cells is a collection of cells that if it became implanted in a human uterus and successfully attached itself there and if it survived for nine months in that environment could become a human baby.

A dictionary definition of an embryo describes it as a developing human individual from the time of implantation to the end of the eighth week of pregnancy, so what is involved in the accumulation of stem cells is not properly a human embryo at all. It could be much more difficult to object morally to the gentle separation of blastocyst cells from each other and the growth of some of those cells in a non-uterine environment while they are carefully examined for their potential to cure serious human diseases.

We generally require the informed consent of any person before their involvement in physical or psychological research. A cluster of blastocyst cells cannot give such consent. Often a parent or guardian can legally give consent for medical procedures in the case where the person to be treated cannot.

Whatever else may be said of the blastocyst cells' potentially valuable for research, some have two parents and some have only one. Is it possible to imagine a situation in which the parents of a frozen blastocyst could give permission for the use of those stem cells for research if the alternative is that the frozen cells will simply be discarded? Freezers in fertility laboratories all over the world retain such frozen blastocysts until the parents decide what is to be done with them.

Right now there are only two possible fates for such frozen cells. They can be unfrozen and discarded when the parents no longer have any interest in them or use for them, or (much less likely) they will be used to begin a pregnancy. We already destroy the large majority of such frozen blastocysts and few people seem overly concerned about that fate. They cannot all become children without coercing human wombs into a nine month pregnancy.

The choice for frozen human blastocysts in clinic freezers is not whether they will become an embryo or whether they will die. The choice is whether they might help unfortunate humans with presently incurable diseases or whether they will simply be discarded.

It seems to me that morally the case about the frozen blastocysts is not so different from a heart transplant. One human at death's door or just beyond it provides a living heart for another human. A blastocyst at death's door could similarly provide potential health and life to other human beings.

The blastocysts that are the product of nucleus transplantation can only be produced from an unfertilized human egg cell. Human egg cells that are not fertilized during in vitro attempts are the common source. Fertility clinics in England ask the female who produced the eggs if she wants them to be used for research. Most agree since the alternative is again simply being discarded.

Growing humans specifically to harvest their cells or organs is quite another moral question and a question to which almost everyone would answer, "That's wrong." Using frozen human blastocysts or unfertilized egg cells with the permission of the parents, and whose fate is death anyway, to help with research for curing human diseases seems to me eminently moral.

Great job

Editor:

A word of thanks goes out to the Charlevoix Rotary Club for their continuing efforts to bring quality entertainment to the Charlevoix area. We have attended three of their concerts at the Charlevoix High School Auditorium and applauded them all.

The most recent Mountain Heart concert was the topper. The show opened with two Bluegrass bands, one from Charlevoix, the other from Fife Lake, then followed by MountainHeart. The entire show was fantastic.

I urge the community to support these Rotary Club Concerts. Nowhere, this close to home, can you get this quality entertainment in such a great facility.

The next time you see an ad for a Rotary Concert get out there and purchase tickets. You will not be disappointed.

Thanks again Rotary Club for bringing great entertainment to Charlevoix.

Great concert

Editor:

I'm not much of a blue grass fan but that concert at Charlevoix High School recently was nothing short of delightful.

The first band was the no-name band consisting of three Charlevoix residents and three others from close-by towns. Their performance was as professional as any could be. Their outstanding resonant voices were a thrill. And the use of some religious songs was greatly appreciated.

The second band consisted of four people from the Fife Lake area. I don't usually like songs that amateur singers write themselves, but the three homemade songs were great and I could understand all the words for a change.

The feature band was made up of six professional musicians from (I think) Alabama. The banjo player was voted the best blue grass banjo player in the United States three years in a row. The acoustic bass player was voted one of the top five blue grass bass players in the United States. The band was fabulous and their use of several religious songs was appreciated.

The sound system and the acoustics in the high school auditorium was the best I ever heard. I understand the cost of the sound equipment was shared by the building fund and the Rotary Club.

Kudos to everyone who took part in the building of this great school and the committee that organized this fine event.

Emergency director honored for hard work

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Jack Messer, 54, the director of Emergency Management for Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties, was recently recognized for his hard work toward keeping the counties he oversees safe.

Jack Messer

Messer received the honor of being named Local Emergency Management Coordinator of the Year for populations under 50,000 at the Michigan Emergency Management Association meeting on Oct. 12 at the Grand Traverse Resort.

"I've had the opportunity to work with some really great people," he said.

Messer said Lt. Mike Tilley, the Emergency Management coordinator for district seven of the Michigan State Police, helped make his job more productive.

The people in the Charlevoix County area were great to work with, Messer said, who valued the support he received.

"It's just been a great group of people to work with," he said.

Messer moved to Charlevoix and has been director of Emergency Management for Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties since July 2003.

Before taking this position, Messer worked as the Emergency Management 911 director for three years in Sanilac County, which is north of Port Huron. Messer said he is please to have been able to bring that experience up to this area.

His experience in emergency response, however, also stems from the 25 years he served as a Michigan State Police Officer.

Messer said he is honored for the recognition he received.

"I'm working with good people," he said. "It's really the way I feel about it."

Pray about expectations

Beacons of Blessing

By FR. JIM GUNN
Rector
Christ Episcopal Church

My wife and I were going to the pool to do some water therapy last week. It was a nice day that day — one of those really good fall days where the temperature was mild hut not chilly.

On the way in a lady who was arriving at the pool at the same time as us made an interesting remark about the weather. She said something to the effect that we will now have fall weather through January and then February. March and April will be spring. I would personally welcome that prediction coming true, but I think the probability is pretty low! But that again, some of the best "summer" weather we got this year came in September and October, which is a bit out of the ordinary.

Of course, we were owed some of that since we didn't get much "summer" in June, July and August. What it boils down to is that 2004 has seemed to have quite a bit of weather that would belong to one particular season occurring during the time period allotted to another season. In other words, it has been more than usually difficult to predict what kind of weather we will get and when! The flip side of that is that expectations about weather have been more than usually disappointed.

That made me think about the trouble I have sometimes gotten myself into over failed expectations.

I am not saying that we should have no thoughts about the future. Indeed, Holy Scripture invites us to look ahead and to even count the cost of various courses of action.

The problem arises when our expectations become a sort of idol and, if they do not come to pass, then we get depressed. I am reminded of a few verses found in the Letter of James: "Now listen, you who say, 'Today or tomorrow we will go to this or that city, spend a year there, carry on husiness and make money.' Why, you do not even know what will happen tomorrow. What is your life? You are a mist that appears for a little while and then vanishes. Instead, you ought to say, 'If it is the Lord's will, we will live and do this or that.'" (James 4:13-15)

The point is that if we get too caught up in what WE are going to do, then we can miss out on what God wants to do in and through us. My wife and I have a small group meeting at our house each week at which we are presently studying the book "Experiencing God" by Henry Blackaby.

A point that he makes is that we should look about us at what God is doing and see where we should be involved in His work. It is not our work on which we ask God's blessing, hut His "good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do." (Ephesians 2:10)

The "bottom line," so to speak, is that I am inviting us to pray about our expectations, whether it be about the weather or what we are planning to do next week.

Students collecting toys for seminar project

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

One Charlevoix High School seminar is taking their community service project to a glohal level.

Jill Erskine and her seminar class are undertaking the task of gathering small toys to be given to children in other countries through those going on mission trips.

"I think there are a lot of fortunate children in the Charlevoix community and they don't realize how other people live," she said.

Erskine's seminar class will be collecting fast food restaurant toys or toys similar in size for the project. The toys must be small in order to fit as many as possible in one bag and for traveling purposes.

"We're asking if people bring a toy that's been open and used, place it in a Ziploc bag to keep all the parts together," she said.

Erskine said she hopes to have Ziploc bags available at all the drop-off sites, which include Charlevoix Elementary School, Charlevoix Middle School, Charlevoix High School, St. Mary School and some area fast food restaurants.

The class is working on the project as a team, with some students making calls to schools and others contacting businesses.

Erskine said the class is hoping to start collecting by Dec. 1 and will continue through the school year.

Erskine said she wants her students to understand the value of a simple act of kindness and what it could mean to somebody.

"Too often they think they have it so bad, like if their parents don't get the jeans they wanted, but they don't realize how well they have it and how bad others really have it," she said.

Mitchell Klooster, 18, will possibly be going on a mission trip next summer and the goal of the project is to gather enough toys to fill one suitcase, so as many children as possible can receive a toy.

This past summer, Klooster went to Guatemala during a medical mission trip and helped huild waterways.

The group took a duffle bag full of Beanie Babies. He said the children were playing with sticks and they live in conditions that include limited or no water and wearing the same clothes every day.

He said the children were very excited about their toys and ran to their friends houses to see if they had received one.

Klooster said the small toy that most American children toss aside as they eat their children's meal could be something that a child in another country will keep forever and give to their children.

Klooster is planning on going to Jamaica after graduation to possibly live there for a year and help those in the area. He previously went there during spring break of 2002.

"I feel selfish because we have so much here and it'd be a waste to not use my gifts and talents," he said.

He said some of the children in Jamaica are orphans and don't have much.

"The poverty is so bad," he said.

By lending his talents, Klooster said he wants to give them toys, share his faith and help them grow up.

Klooster said he hopes the project continues each year.

"It's not like the poverty will go away," he said. "It helps me and some kids in here realize how lucky we are."

Tilley named Emergency Management Coordinator of the Year

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

A Charlevoix resident was recently honored for all the hard work he has done for those he works with.

Lt. Mike Tilley, 49, was named District Emergency Management Coordinator of the Year at the Michigan Emergency Management Association meeting on Oct. 12, at the Grand Traverse Resort.

Lt. Mike Tilley

"I am kind of honored because it is a state-wide organization of county people," he said.

However, Tilley said all the hard work is done hy those he works with.

"They are in the trenches doing the real work," he said.

Tilley works with local emergency programs, helps to fund grants and get additional funding as needed and serves as a mediator between the local and state levels.

"It (the award) came from a kind of grass roots first responders and emergency managers who I feel do the real work," he said.

Jack Messer, director of Emergency Management for Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties said Tilley deserved the reward he received.

"He's a tireless worker that's been there for all of us over the years," he said.

Michigan State Police Capt. Tim Rod, district commander over 19 counties in the northern part of Michigan, said Tilley is responsible for planning with local Emergency Management personnel to help prepare for any disaster that could come along and also coordinates all the services including some private industries.

"He's being recognized for the work he does with county coordinators," he said.

Rod said that among Tilley's constant demands and traveling, he still finds time to act as a negotiator for the Emergency Support Team.

"He's a very busy guy and does a tremendous job," Rod said. "He's a great asset to this district and this position so the honor is well deserved."

Tilley has been the coordinator for district seven for the Michigan State Police for the past six years and oversees 17 counties. He worked as a Michigan State Police officer for 20 years and spent 16 years as a road trooper in Gaylord, Petoskey and Traverse City.

His interest in law enforcement stems from his childhood, as both his parents were Detroit police officers.

Tilley went to Michigan State University where he majored in criminal justice.

Hard work and determination run in the family, for Tilley's son Keil, 20, was one of the lifeguards that helped save lives at Michigan Beach this summer. Tilley said he is proud of his son who is currently attendeding Michigan State University.

While assisting at Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant, Tilley became interested in emergency management police work.

"I got involved in going to disaster drills and plan development at Big Rock," he said.

Here, Tilley said he learned how to evacuate and protect puhlic property and he found it interesting to work with nuclear plants on emergency planning.

Tilley said he trained with federal agents through the Office of Domestic Preparedness and learned how to deal with a variety of emergency situations including radiological response, chemical and hiological response and how to respond to terrorist improvised devices.

"It is a great job," he said.

'Kerry' painted on door of residence

A Norwood township couple returned to their residence on Oct. 27 to find the word "KERRY" spray painted across the front door of their home.

The homeowner has offered a $500 cash reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the people responsible for this act, and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office will add an additional $250 to this amount for a total of $750.

Northern Martial Arts opens its own school

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Tim and Krista Bruce, of Charlevoix, are offering a new way to get some excersise and learn how to defend yourself with their new martial arts school Northern Martial Arts.

The school, one of the only full time martial arts only academies in this region, teaches Hapkido, Tia Kwan Do and Judo. Tim, who is a third degree black belt in Hapkido said what sets his school apart is that it has its own building specifically for martial arts training.

"We are the nicest stand-alone martial arts school north of Saginaw. Most other instructors who teach do so in churches or health clubs. This allows us to have a flexible schedule to better serve our student's needs," he said. "Our goal was to have a quality martial arts facility and not worry about aerobics or yoga instructors cutting into our schedules."

Tim brought Hapkido to Charlevoix about 10 to 15 years ago. At the time he was teaching small classes in churches and health clubs. After bringing a few students up to the black belt level, he backed off from teaching it.

But, the classes started to die out, until Northern Martial Arts was no more. That is, until the Bruces decided to buy their own building over summer for the school.

Tim said martial arts is a great activities not only for individuals, but also for the whole family.

Adults get an aerobic workout, learn stretching and flexibility as well as self defense. Children learn focus and concentration, respect and confidence, development of motor skills and can stay active throughout the winter.

Tim said he currently has about 15 to 20 full time students, with three or four families.

While Tim teaches the classes, belt tests are given by Master Dave Weatherly of Fenton. He is the highest ranked American in style, at an eighth degree black belt. Weatherly visits the school every other month to give demonstrations and belt tests.

Northern Martial Arts is a member of the North American Hapkido Association and the World Martial Arts.

It is located at 05998 US-31 South just, outside of Charlevoix. Hours of operation are 6 to 7:15 p.m., Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with private lessons available.

The Bruces believe those times and days will expand and the school may be running five to six days a week in the near future.

For more information on Northern Martial Arts, call (231) 547-3466.

Gas prices are above $2 again

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

With gas prices over $2 a gallon in Charlevoix once again, the price is starting to have an impact on the area.

Pat Harmon, Charlevoix County Road Commission Supervisor, said, "Our expenses are going to go up extremely. It is going to affect a lot of things."

Harmon said the Road Commission garage in Boyne City consumes 100,000 gallons of diesel alone. About three years ago that fuel was 60 cents a gallon, but the last fuel purchase this year saw $1.62. Diesel fuel usually costs less than unleaded fuel.

"My personal opinion is that it isn't going to come down. I don't think we will ever see $1.50 a gallon," he said.

Harmon pointed out some people think the gas tax goes up with higher gas prices, thus contributing more money to road commissions. But, he said this is not true.

"Regardless if the gas is 50 cents or $5 a gallon, the road commission still gets the same money," he said.

Plus, he added, "If gas continually rises, people are going to cut back and not buy as much. The sale of gas will be down so that is going to hurt us too."

At Island Airways, located at the Charlevoix Municipal Airport, they are also seeing an impact of higher prices. Island Airways runs several flights a day to and from Beaver Island.

"The prices are 10 percent higher than last year and we have only raised our prices 3 percent to compensate," said Rachel Teague, general manager of Island Airways. "It is a very expensive issue, but all of our sources are saying it is going to continue to stay high."

And according to Jim Rink, spokesperson for the Automobile Association of America, Teague may be right.

"Nobody knows what kinds of prices there will be yet. But, various government agencies have projected we won't see oil much below $40 a barrel. This means gas prices around $1.80 to $1.90 (a gallon) at least through the end of the year," he said.

Rink said there are some signs that the gas prices will "stabilize" in the near future. In fact, he said there was a significant drop in the per barrel price last week.

The problem is, the market is seeing an unprecedented demand for fuel, especially overseas. On top of that, a hurricane that came through Florida in late summer damaged a major refinery, causing gas prices to rise throughout the country.

This gas increase is also having an impact in the types of vehicles we buy.

Pat McKeown, owner of Pat McKeown Ford in Charlevoix, said the higher gas prices has started to have an impact in the buying habits of his customers who typically go for SUVs and trucks.

He said there is starting to be a trend toward the more intermediate SUVs, such as the Ford Escape, and more interest in the hybrid vehicles that run on gas and electricity.

Plus, he said the prices of SUVs and four-wheel drive vehicles coming in off lease are going down at least 20 percent since this same time last year, he said.

But, this could mean good things for resale of those SUVs. McKeown said some people are thinking that because they can get a good deal on those used SUVs, perhaps they can afford some higher gas prices.

New fence to be installed around island ferry dock

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Due to new federal security requirements, the Beaver Island ferry will be a little less accessible to the public in the near future.

At the Oct. 18 Charlevoix City Council meeting, Street Superintendent John Martin informed council that the boat company is being required to put up a large fence around its docking area. The fence will be about 8 feet tall and will run around the dock area on Round Lake, from near the dock of the Coast Guard buoy tender Acacia running around the boarding area north to the mouth of the Pine River Channel. This will prevent any unauthorized access to the boarding area and dock.

This includes the observatory area overlooking the Beaver Island Dock, on top of a boat company storage building. It will not impair the visibility from the grassy park area overlooking Round Lake near Bridge Street.

According to Martin, the fence will cost about $40,000 and is being paid for with a grant. He said the city really does not have a say in the type of fence because there is only a certain kind that can be used.

The fence looks like metal rods pointing straight up, with a curve near the top and ending in a sharp point.

Margo Marks, general manager of the Beaver Island Boat Company, said the fence should be up by the end of the month.

An 8 foot fence will be constructed in front of this observation deck.

Charlevoix Elementary students create book

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Jessa Martin, a kindergarten teacher at Charlevoix Elementary School, is helping her students prepare for lifelong reading and writing skills by adapting her own version of "I'm as Quick as a Cricket" by Audrey Wood.

"I'm as Quick as a Cricket" follows a child as they meet animals and relate themselves to those animals. Martin took the idea and had her students create a sentence that related themselves to an animal of their choice.

"The class books represent a special kind of interactive writing that also teaches reading to kindergartners," Martin wrote. "They are often the first books the students want to read during their own reading time."

Martin said she got the idea from Julie Hasse, a teacher in Boyne City who did a similar project.

With that idea in place, Martin had her students find pictures of the animals they chose and then let them use their creativity to design their own pages for the book.

Each student is allowed to take the book home so they can share it with their parents and read what they and their classmates wrote.

Allex Smith, 5, said he enjoyed doing the project and his favorite part was picking an elk as his animal.

Destiny Wilks, 5, said she had a lot of fun while creating the book and said she chose a horse because she likes horses. Wilks said her favorite part of the project was that she was able to draw.

Mckenna Ebert, 5, said she likes to draw, which made creating the book even more fun for her. She enjoyed making the scenery around her animal, which is an owl.

Martin said they can read the book to their parents or with their parents. The sentence formation is predictable, as each is similar, which allows the students to recognize high frequency words that are used commonly in the English language.

"Not only does it give them a strong sense of confident reading abilities, it gives them a sense of ownership," Martin said.

The fundamental skills they learn helps make the transition to writing on their own easier, Martin said.

Martin said the class books her students create are a part of the curriculum under the Building Blocks Program. This program focuses on developing early reading and writing skills in kindergartners.

"It's a really fun way for them to learn a lot of those skills," she said.

Martin said the books allow her students to have fun while learning how to handle the English language, read and write.

The class has completed five books so far. One book includes their version of "Brown Bear, Brown Bear, What Do You See?" called "Kindergarten, Kindergarten, What Do You See?"

This book also features easily recognizable sentence structures that help the students learn to read.

"The process of creating these books leads to all students experiencing confidence in their early reading and writing," Martin said.

Public hearing announced on dangerous animals ban

A ordinance prohibiting "dangerous animals" from Charlevoix parks and the downtown area is facing a public hearing on Nov. 15.

The Charlevoix City Council voted unanimously to have the hearing at its Oct. 18 meeting.

The ordinance would prohibit any animal which because of its size, vicious propensity or other characteristic, would constitute a danger to human life, property or domestic animals if it is not restrained or kept in a cage or any ape or monkey, alligators, crocodiles and any snakes.

This ordinance, if accepted, would apply to the Charlevoix central business district — downtown area — and all public parks. It does have an exception for special events, such as when Laura the Elephant visits East Park during the Charlevoix Venetian Festival.

Citizens are asked to attend the Nov. 15 meeting to voice their concerns or questions to council on this matter.

Police uncover bank fraud

The Charlevoix City Police Department is investigating an apparent bank fraud ring which has victimized several northern Michigan banks.

The Charlevoix City Police have arrested one Detroit woman involved in an attempted bank fraud at the Bay Winds Federal Credit Union located on May Street in the City of Charlevoix around 4 p.m. on Friday. She was driving a black. 2004 Toyota Camry.

After this arrest, the Charlevoix City Police were advised of similar successful frauds carried out at other banks in numerous northern Michigan cities. Losses from these banks may be in the thousands of dollars.

Two other suspects were able to leave the scene before officers arrived.

The scheme involved the passing of counterfeit checks and also the presentation of false identity documents to bank employees. Before attempting the Charlevoix bank fraud, this group successfully obtained large amounts of cash from banks in other northern Michigan cities.

The Charlevoix City Police is currently working with a number of northern Michigan police agencies to piece this criminal enterprise together and identify and arrest the other two people involved.

It appears that all of the suspects are from the Detroit area.

Benefit for local family to be Nov. 6

The Freedom House Ministries of Charlevoix is planning a silent auction and bake sale to benefit the Brad Crowell Family from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m., on Saturday, Nov. 6 at the Freedom House Ministries at 12705 US-31 next to Taco Bell behind Budays.

Brad was left paralyzed from the chest down after a car accident in July. He is the father of five young children.

Any questions or contributions call Connie Bradley at 547-9491 or Kathy Plumm at 547-5519.

Flu shots available for high risk children

Local health department offices and many physicians offices have flu vaccine available for children from a special supply devoted to children who qualify for the Vaccine for Children (VFC) program and who fall into one of the high-risk groups, as defined by the US Centers for Disease Control (CDC) & Prevention.

Since the flu vaccine shortage was announced in mid-October, the CDC issued revised high priority groups for flu vaccination for children. They are:

- All children 6 months through 23 months of age.
- Any child over age 2 with an underlying chronic medical condition such as heart disease, kidney disease, lung diseases like asthma, diabetes, or a weakened immune system caused by cancer treatment, HIV/AIDS, or steroid therapy.
- Children 6 months to 18 years old on chronic aspirin therapy.

"Parents and caregivers should first call their children's health care providers to see if they participate in the Vaccine for Children program," said Patricia Fralick, Director of Family Health for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the local health department that serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties.

If their children's physicians don't have VFC flu vaccine, parents can call the health department at (800) 432-4121 to confirm Vaccine for Children program eligibility and to schedule an appointment.

The Michigan Department of Community Health provides health departments with vaccine for children who are eligible for the VFC program and in turn they distribute it to participating physicians' offices. The Vaccine for Children program provides vaccine for children who receive Medicaid as well as children who are uninsured, underinsured, or an American Indian or Alaskan Native. "Underinsured" children have health insurance, but it may not cover immunizations, or they've reached their limit on preventive care. Fralick said parents need to check with their insurance provider to see if their coverage includes childhood immunizations.

Ghost Ship extremely successful this year

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

On Oct. 29, in the spirit of Halloween the United States Coast Guard had their annual Ghost Ship, but to their surprise the event drew the largest crowd and an abundance of food.

Seaman Jeff Catanzarite said between 1,000 and 1,500 people attended the Ghost Ship.

"It's the best turnout ever," he said.

Last year, he said only about 700 people came and the Coast Guard thought that was a lot.

Catanzarite and Petty Officer 2nd class (BM2) Jack Sattler said the line maintained its length throughout the night.

Sattler said his favorite part of putting on the Ghost Ship is that it's the only event that occurs on Halloween in Charlevoix.

"Every year we have a great time," he said. "That's pretty much why we do it."

Petty Officer 3rd class (BM3) Brian Klinger said this was his first year to participate in the Coast Guard Cutter ACACIA's event, but has been involved twice on the Coast Guard Cutter Mackinaw.

"Everyone comes together and is having a good time doing it," he said.

Klinger said the Coast Guard only hoped to fill one food bin for the Charlevoix County Food Shelf, but instead filled three.

Sattler said this year's food count beat last year's by far. He said last year the Coast Guard raised about six months worth of food for the food bank and the year prior raised about a year's worth.

"This year, there's a lot more," he said.

Samantha Harris of Charlevoix said she enjoyed taking her grandchildren through the Ghost Ship and found it amusing herself.

"It was quite interesting and pretty exciting," she said. "It was well worth it."

Harris said the only thing she had a problem with was being slammed into by the people in front of her who were too scared to move forward.

However, despite people bumping into her, Harris said the event was even more fun because of the fear others were experiencing and the screams that filled the halls of the ship.

"I think that's what made it so exciting," she said.

Sarah Bingman, 12, who went through with Harris, said to stay away from the chainsaw, which greeted people as they exited the errie ship.

"I thought it would be scarier," she said, but Harris said Bingman screamed through the entire thing.

Jessica Miller, 16, of Boyne City, said the Ghost Ship was more than she expected.

"I didn't think it was going to be scary, but it was," she said.

By JEREMY MCBAIN

The Charlevoix girls' cross country team is heading to the state finals.

The girls' achieved this goal Oct. 30 at the regional meet at Benzie Central when the Rayders took second place with a score of 64. Elk Rapids was in first with a score of 40. There were 16 teams.

And, on top of this achievement, the team has four runners named to the All Regional team.

"It has heen since 1996 that the girls' team has had four All Regionals medalists. The group really tightened down their spacing and four girls hit their all-time performance marks," said coach Mary Plude.

Individual scores and the All Regional runners are: Lindi Edger in fifth, with a time of 20 minutes, 21 seconds, All Regional; Emily Morgridge in eleventh, with a time of 20 minutes, 54 seconds, All Regional; Brittney Lamb in thirteenth, with a time of 20 minutes, 57 seconds, All Regional; Alina Dhaseleer in fifteenth, with a time of 21 minutes, 13 seconds, All Regional; Theresa Martin in twenty-first, with a time of 21 minutes, 45 seconds; Emily Westenbroek in twenty-fifth, with a time of 21 minutes, 54 seconds; Mia Matchett in twenty-sixth place, with a time of 21 minutes, 57 seconds.

In addition to the girls' team, the boys' team ran a nice race at the regional. However, the team placed fifth, knocking them out of state finals.

"The hoys' ran a good race, but they needed a great race to get to state," coach Ken Plude said.

Individual results were: Scott Plude in nineteenth, with a time of 17 minutes, 22 seconds; Jacob Wimmer in twenty-second, with a time of 17 minutes, 26 seconds; Jared Hunt in twenty-fourth, with a time of 17 minutes, 34 seconds; Brandon Stevens in twenty-seventh, with a time of 17 minutes, 36 seconds; Isaac Matchett in fortieth, with a time of 18 minutes, 1 second; Tom Aepelbacher in fifty-fourth, with 18 minutes, 37 seconds and Jacob Hunt in fifty-sixth, with 18 minutes, 44 seconds.

All three girls' basketball teams remain undefeated

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

It's a great accomplishment when a high school basketball team goes undefeated for a season.

What about three teams at one school going undefeated in a season?

The Charlevoix varsity, junior varsity and freshman teams all were victorious at Grayling to up their records to 17-0 on the season.

The varsity shrugged off a slow start to win, 70-41. The victory assured the Rayders of sole possession of the Lake Michigan Conference championship.

The Rayders led only 7-5 after the first quarter but pulled to a 27-15 lead at the half.

Laura Nitchman scored 12 points in the third quarter as Charlevoix pulled away, leading 47-28 after the period.

"We had an awefully slow start," coach Keith Haske said. "We shot only 11 percent in the first quarter. Nothing was going in. But we put together a real nice streak in the third quarter, going on a 12-0 run."

Nitchman finished with 15 points and four assists. Grace Farrell had her third straight double-double with 14 points, 11 rebounds, four assists and three steals.

Shannon Dihhle scored 11 points. Jaime Pettis contributed four assists and five steals.

"Our defense was tough," Haske said. "Grayling really struggled offensively. We've been solid defensively most of the year."

The Rayders, still ranked second in Class C by the Associated Press, hosted Kalkaska on Tuesday, Nov. 2. Results will appear in next week's Courier.

Charlevoix plays at Boyne City on Thursday in their Lake Michigan Conference finale.

Students selling pies to raise money for French trip

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

A group of Charlevoix High School students are selling homemade apple pies in order to help raise money for their overseas venture into France.

Sue Kessler, French teacher at Charlevoix High School, said experiencing a language by native speakers is important to learning and retaining that language.

"It comes alive," she said. "That's the only way to put it clearly into use."

Kessler said the goal is to raise $3,000, with each student keeping the money he or she personally raised through the pie fund-raiser.

The students will leave for France in early June, where they will spend one week together in Paris then spend one week in the south of France with host families.

Kessler said the trip to France is the reward students receive for spending three years in French. It also allows them to broaden their horizons and allows them to realize there's another culture out there that they have only begun to learn about.

This trip will be the fourteenth time Kessler has taken students to France, but the first time she has allowed some students from French II to come along. Kessler said these students are exceptional at French and should be allowed to have the opportunity as well.

The trip consists of students from French II, French III and French IV.

"I've always loved the French language and people," Kessler said.

Her love has prompted her to take students to France, but what keeps her continuing to do so each year is the experiences and memories her students gain.

"For me, to take a group of American students to France to find a corner of France where they can have an experience is what keeps me, keeps reassuring me it's a good thing to do," she said.

Kessler said her students come back more mature after having had to meet deadlines and finance themselves without parental guidance.

This comes with all kinds of travel, Kessler said, but especially overseas. Some students will also be experiencing flying on an airplane for the first time.

The pies are on sale now and orders will be taken until Nov. 10. They cost $10 each and will be delivered on Nov. 20 if the address is in town, otherwise, the pies can be picked up at the high school.

Charlevoix skate park celebrates its creation

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

On Oct. 26, the Charlevoix Community Skatepark came alive as those who have worked hard to make it a reality celebrated the end of the season.

Vickie Daman, president of the Charlevoix Community Skatepark Inc. said the group is currently working on a few different fundraisers and will be focusing on the new location.

Daman said the Charlevoix City Council passed the resolution allowing the permanent skate park to be constructed on the southwest corner of the land parcel currently housing the Water and Electric plant on West Carpenter Street across from the baseball fields.

As of now, the property will house the skate park for five years.

Daman said the Charlevoix Community Skatepark Inc., is shooting for an opening day in May 2005.

During the end of season bash, three different competitions were given and Daman said those who use the park judged each other to determine a winner.

Plaques were given to the winners in each category and include Colin Campbell, 14, for in-line skating, Burke Ramsey, 17, for skateboarding and a tie between Zeke Daman, 13, and Brennan Stebe, 13, for BMX bikes.

Cynthia Parker, fund-raiser coordinator for Charlevoix Community Skatepark Inc., said winners for the raffles held during the 25th Annual Apple Festival and Craft Show were drawn that day.

The winner for the 50/50 Raffle was Pam Kantola and the winner for the "Warrior" painted buffalo skull by Indian River artist and master sculptor William Doehring was Marypat Goldich of Petoskey.

Parker said Goldich will be presented with the art piece by Doehring himself.

The silent auction, which started during the Apple Festival, was completed during the end of year bash and the winner is a woman from Brutus who wishes to stay anonymous.

The winner received two buffalo head skulls painted by Doehring and titled "Seeker" and "Thunder."

Daman said there are Skatepark T-shirts on sale for $15 and hooded sweatshirts for $25 and also Bridge Walk 2004 T-shirts on sale for $10.

Sheriff warns about new telemarketer calls in area

Sheriff George T. Lasater wants to warn the citizens of Charlevoix County that an aggressive telemarketing campaign has begun statewide. "These callers do not represent my office or the Michigan Sheriffs Association, of which I am a member," said Sheriff Lasater.

Telemarketers have been calling citizens to request donations and, in some cases, say the money will be applied to a scholarship program for the children of fallen officers. While some organizations rely on telemarketing, Lasater warns that recent calls may be fraudulent telemarketing schemes.

"If a telemarketer says they are from the Michigan Sheriffs Association, you should know immediately that he or she is lying," said MSA Executive Director Terrence L. Jungel. "The MSA never requests donations by telephone. These telemarketers hurt our legitimate efforts to raise money for important training programs for the state's sheriffs."

The MSA, created by the legislature in 1877, is the oldest law enforcement organization in the state and the only one that represents the office of sheriff.

"We will not receive one dime of the money these telemarketers are trying to get," said Lasater. If you get one of these telemarketing calls, follow these steps:

- Note the date and time of the call.
- Ask the caller to clearly identify who they represent.
- Do not give the caller any financial information.
- Hang up. It's your phone, your time, your money!

For additional information, Lasater recommends contacting the MSA at (800) 875-5500. You can file a complaint by calling the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division at (877) 765-8388.

Another election season ends for Charlevoix

Campbell said she and the rest of the city council will do the best they can.

"We'll do the best we can with what we have to work with," she said.

And Charlevoix's third ward will be keeping Sherman Chamberlain as its representative on city council. Chamberlain beat challenger Dave Scott 283 votes to 197 or 59 percent to 41 percent.

Chamberlain said he wants to first thank all the voters who supported him.

"I'm looking forward to a more productive two years," he said.

Chamberlain said he hopes to get things done and square things away in order to get the city to move forward. Some things include getting the issue of whether or not dogs should be allowed in East Park underway, getting the marina project settled so the city can move ahead on it, hopefully solving the CCMS check issue in regard to Belvedere Avenue and getting the new master plan underway.

Chamberlain is grateful for the competition he received from Scott.

"Competition is good because it forces you to take a really good look at finding out what the people want," he said.

However, this will be Chamberlain's last term on city council.

Scott said he doesn't know what it means that he lost. However, he congratulates Chamberlain.

"It was a lot of fun running and I'm still going to do what I can to help out," he said.

Scott said he gave it his all despite going up against the incumbent and receiving some bad press during the campaign.

"I'm proud that we ran a good race and I appreciate everyone that voted for me," he said.

Scott said he will continue to stay active in the city and he will be available to be of help for anyone that may need assistance.

In regard to running again, Scott said he has a lot of time to think about that.

Voter turnout in the city of Charlevoix was high with 1,683 voters out of 2,374 registered casting a ballot. This is a voter turnout of 71 percent.

This coincided with the county voter turnout which was at 67 percent. The county has 21,255 registered voters and 14,267 voted.

As for county races, Republican John Jarema easily beat Green Party candidate Ellis Boal, 9,063 to 2,054 votes or 81 to 18 percent.

Jarema said he wants to thank Boal for running a good, clean campaign.

Now that he will be taking over the position in January, Jarema said he plans on moving forward and sitting down with the current staff and seeing who wishes to stay and getting everything in order.

In the county drain commissioner seat, incumbent Joanne Bier Beemon, of the Green Party, was beaten by challenger Republican Marc Seelye 8,310 to 2,846 votes or 74 to 25 percent.

Beemon said she is upset, but thinks Seelye understands that the county can't continue the same as it had in the past in regard to drains.

Beemon said she plans to work really hard with the conservancy and continue with her substitute teaching.

"I'm an environmentalist," she said. "I'll be back."

Another big issue on the ballot was a request for up to 1/3 of a mill for the Charlevoix Area Pool to provide funds for operating, maintaining and improvements. The request went to voters in the city of Charlevoix and Charlevoix and Hayes townships.

This request passed 2,000 votes to 1,653 or 55 to 45 percent.

Other results included:

- In Marion Township, a zoning referendum changing a Loeb township property from agricultural to residential zoning failed 730 votes to 167 or 81 to 18 percent.
- An operating millage in Peaine Township passed 137 to 66 votes or 67 to 32 percent.
- An airport and operations maintenance proposal in St. James Township passed 124 to 76 votes or 62 to 38 percent.
- A general operations millage in St. James Township passed 122 to 74 votes or 62 to 38 percent.
- A millage for the operation and maintenance of a landfill and transfer station in St. James Township passed 141 to 58 or 71 to 29 percent.
- An operating millage in Charlevoix Township passed 647 to 300 votes or 68 to 32 percent.
- As for the 105th District, the final tally was not known as of press time. However, Republican Kevin Elsenheimer took Charlevoix County over Democrat Jim McKimmy 8,145 to 5,395 votes or 60 to 40 percent.
- As for the national presidential race, the final tally nationwide was not known as of press time. However, Incumbent Republican George Bush beat Democratic challenger John Kerry in Charlevoix County 8,214 to 5,729 votes or 58 to 40 percent.

Students pick Bush in mock elections

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

America may have spoken on Nov. 2, but so did students in Charlevoix public schools.

Charlevoix Elementary School had a school-wide mock Presidential election and third grade teachers Pat Carland, Cathy Silberhorn, Julie Bernhardt and Erik Lundteigen helped the students register their peers and prepare for the elections. The students chose George W. Bush as their president — along with the country.

"It was beneficial for us as well because it brought a civics lesson into the classroom," Silberhorn said.

Silberhorn, Carland and Bernhardt said they will have the mock election again in the future and will use this experience to enhance the program.

The students did all of the work, Silberhorn said, for the Criminal case to close for prank

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The St. Patrick's Day culprits who dumped green sodium fluorescein into the Pine River Channel on March 17 during the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce's first annual St. Patrick's Day Pub Crawl may not be known, but the investigation into the matter is being closed.

Sgt. Vince Woods, a detective with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality's office of criminal investigation, said he hasn't heard back from Lansing yet, but the case will be closed due to a lack of evidence.

Last year, the chamber wanted to dye the channel green to copy Chicago for the St. Patrick's Day festivities, but was told five times by the MDEQ that it wasn't allowed, according to a previous article on the matter in the Charlevoix Courier.

However, someone still poured dye into the channel. The prank occurred sometime during the celebration at the Weathervane Restaurant, before participants moved to the next bar in the pub crawl.

As stated in a previous article, Jeff Sprecksell, general manager of the Weathervane Restaurant, found a box of the dye in the lower level dining room of the restaurant with a note attached telling one of his staff to pour it in the river. Sprecksell then contacted the Coast Guard who contacted Richard Shoemaker, senior environmental quality analyst with the surface water quality division of the MDEQ, to find out the dye was not to be dumped.

The MDEQ told the Courier that Sprecksell called Linda Mason, the chamber board member who coordinated the pub crawl, and told her to remove it from the restaurant. From here, the details are foggy and no one knows what happened to the dye until it ended up in the channel.

The MDEQ said the dye is usually not toxic, but could not say for certain if this prank harmed the environment in the channel because it is not sure how much was actually poured in.

Woods said the case is being closed because MDEQ's policy is that if the case gets stale in 180 days, it is closed until further information is gathered. The MDEQ was having trouble getting people to speak to them about the matter during the investigation.

However, Woods said he wants the culprits to know that the case isn't closed forever for there is a statute of limitations of six years in Michigan. This means the case can be re-opened at any time.

"I want them to know that," he said. "Six years is a long time to look over your shoulder."

Whilte the criminal investigation may come to a close, the MDEQ's Shoemaker added a possible civil case being brought against the chamber is still open. He said the chamber's lawyer and the lawyer for the MDEQ are still in discussion and evaluating the evidence at hand.

"We may have exhausted all our possible remedies," Shoemaker said.

Shoemaker said the chamber is still denying any involvement in the prank.

The case will be looked at by the law enforcement officials in Lansing.

The decision made in Lansing, Shoemaker said, will determine if the case is closed or if it is investigated further.

"They may not see it as a big issue, but it is a violation," Shoemaker said.

Machine jam doesn't cause trouble counting city votes

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

A ballot counting machine that jammed in the city's third ward Nov. 2 has caused some concern among voters in that ward, but according to city clerk Carol Ochs they have nothing to worry about.

Voters in the third ward reported that a ballot counting machine jammed and had to be turned off and on again during the general election Nov. 2. Some questioned whether their votes were counted as a result and if a recount in that ward was needed. But, Ochs said while there was a machine jam, every vote was still counted in the third ward.

"Basically it was a paper jam. We just unplugged it and plugged it back in, but it didn't change any of the votes and it read all the votes," she said. "It was just a machine error."

She said about 15 people had to wait to feed their ballots into the machine until workers got it running again.

Ochs said she confirmed that all the votes were read by comparing it with the voting log at the end of the night. When a person comes in to vote, they must fill out an application to vote, which is assigned a number. That number is put into the voter log book, which is then compared with the machine's voter count.

On Nov. 2, after voting was completed, those two numbers were the same, Ochs said. This means each ballot that was put into that machine was counted.

Furthermore, Ochs said, these machines are very sophisticated and warn you if there is a problem with a ballot right away. For example, if a person picks more than one candidate for United States president and feeds their ballot into the machine, the machine spits the ballot back out immediately and asks if they would like to redo their ballot.

If the person chooses not to redo their ballot, then the machine will accept the original ballot, but not count their vote in the presidential race — because they picked more than one — and still count all of the other votes.

Ochs said one of her deputy clerks had received a call last week from a concerned voter on the matter and she talked to one of the candidates for city council's third ward — Dave Scott — about it.

Scott ran against incumbent Sherman Chamberlain, but lost 197 to 283.

Scott said, "I have the upmost respect for Carol Ochs. I called her because someone in the ward called me about it. She told me emphatically there were no problems and I take her word for it."

Six voters receive wrong absentee ballots in city

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

A few voters in the city of Charlevoix were sent the wrong absentee ballot, making their picks for city council void in the Nov. 2 general election, said Charlevoix City Clerk Carol Ochs.

Ochs said six voters in the city received the wrong absentee ballot in the Nov. 2 election. She said she tried to contact each of the voters after she discovered the error on Nov. 2, but she could not reach them.

"We did what we could do to make sure those votes counted," she said.

Ochs said the only office this effected was for city council. None of the national races, state races of even the mayors race was effected.

Ochs said five voters in the third ward accidentally received second ward ballots and one voter in the first ward received a second ward ballot.

Once she received the wrong ballots, and could not contact the voters, Ochs remade the ballots in the presence of two democrats and two republicans on the proper absentee form. She then fed those new ballots into the voting machines to be counted.

But, because the candidate for the city council was wrong on the ballots and Ochs could not contact the voters to find out which candidate they wanted, she had to leave that section empty.

Ochs pointed out the council races in those wards would not have been changed due to those votes. In the third ward Dave Scott was beaten by incumbent Sherman Chamberlain 197 to 283 and in the first ward incumbent Bill Haggard beat Rebecca Doan 270 to 245 votes.

What really is morality in the United States?

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

Now that the election is over, I keep hearing many in the news talking about morality.

They say morality was the issue that turned this election in favor of George Bush, with issues such as abortion and gay marriage. And they are saying this resonated with the right-wing Christians in the Republican party, bringing them out in droves to the polls.

And they say, the Republicans are going to be hammering morality in the 2006 elections.

What's confusing me here is this morality they are talking about is not the same morality issues that most Christians hold dear. Is this the same morality that was preached by Jesus?

The basics of morality and those that were taught by Jesus, as they were taught to me growing up, were to end poverty, help heal the sick and promote peace. I don't remember fighting the gays being hammered into my brain as a child.

We don't hear about these big morality issues from the Republicans do we? I wonder why that is.

Perhaps it is easier to trash the gay lifestyle? Perhaps it is because abortion is such a powerful issue?

Let's look at abortion for a moment here. Now, like many of those in the Republican party, I am all for life. In fact, many people in the Republican party and those against the abortion issue claim they are pro-life.

But, when I scratch at this issue with them, I find some leeway after a person is born. Let's take President Bush for example. Bush is Pro-Life when it comes to the unborn, but he is all for the death penalty and invading countries, even if it means killing innocents in the process.

I am against the death penalty for two reasons: First, if there is any chance that any innocent person is going to be put to death then morally we must do away with the entire system. Considering there have been people in the past who have mistakenly been convicted of a crime and the fact that our court system is not perfect, then executions are immoral. Second, I believe only God has the ability to decide who should or should not die. We have no right to make that decision for Him.

Let's look at ending poverty. We claim to do this when company after company leaves the United States for other countries or gets millions in tax breaks but cuts hundreds of jobs to increase their stock price which sends more families into poverty — all legal ways of doing business in the Republican Bush America. So, this is moral?

For healing the sick, the big issue this year was stem cell research. Stem cell research could be the key to curing a number of horrible diseases, but due to misinformation people seem to think it is immoral. I urge you to read Roger Knutson's column about stem cell research in last week's edition of the Courier, you will see it is immoral not to consider this science.

And lastly, peace. The Rev. Jerry Falwell, one of the big leaders of the right-wing Christian movement, said in a recent interview on CNN that a solution to the Middle East issue was war and killing. How very Christian. I saw a bumper sticker that said it best, "When Jesus said love your enemy, I think he probably meant don't kill them."

And Bush's Middle East solution isn't great either. His solution to the Middle East was to invade Iraq based on claims of weapons of mass destruction and then change his rationale several times when it turns out false. In the meantime, while bad people are getting killed by our bombs and bullets, up to 100,000 innocents — women and children — have been killed in the process. It doesn't take a genius to figure out by killing innocents you are making more people hate America.

And don't give me that, "You have to break a few eggs to make an omelet," argument I have heard in the past. If you want to argue that, try giving the omelet argument to the father of a 4-month-old baby who was just killed in a bombing raid that missed its target.

I am tired of being preached to about morality from these people. I am tired of hearing about how if I do not subscribe to their version of morality, which according to the way I was taught conflicts with the teachings of Jesus, I am not a moral person.

And don't say I am just the liberal media. I was a hard-core Republican until about the mid-1990s, the era of Newt Gingrich and the far-right. Now I am an independent voter — I vote for the best candidate, not the best party.

So, if you want to bring morality into the political fray in 2006, so be it. Then let's look at the big issues of morality. But, I don't think some in the right wing will be too comfortable with it.

Letters to the editor

Thanks for the vote

Editor:

At the Charlevoix Area Community Pool board meeting of Nov. 5, 2004, the first meeting following the successful millage election, the board unanimously voted to thank the voters of the city of Charlevoix and Hayes and Charlevoix townships for their support of a Recreational Authority request of .33 mills, to provide maintenance and operation of the Charlevoix Area Pool. The campaign was successful and the popular Dollar Nights between 6 and 8 p.m., on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays will continue. We thank all the volunteers who helped to get out the vote, the property owners who permitted yard signs and the many groups who gave us the opportunity to tell our story.

Bruce MacArthur
Board member on behalf of
The Committee to Pass the Pool Millage

Thanks in Marion

Editor:

I'm writing to thank all the Marion Township voters for realizing the importance of getting out to the polls to cast your vote. Your voice has been heard loud and strong!

Thank you for the immense support in opposition to the Loeb Road zoning referendum.

Nearly 82 percent of Marion Township voters said no to rezoning in favor of this land remaining protected according to Township Land Use Plan.

A last big thanks to my dedicated neighbors (you know who you are) for working so hard to preserve and protect our township land.

The Township's Land Use Plan could not do it, but you did! There is no way we could have done it without you!

P.S. When is the last time you've been to your township meeting? Marion Township meetings are the third Monday evening of each month.

Rebecca Parker
Charlevoix

Thank you

Editor:

We would like to thank the residents of Marion Township for voting no on the zoning referendum. The change from agricultural to residential would have allowed a high density housing project on Loeb Road. We are glad that many of our township residents felt the same way we did, and took the time to get out and vote. The zoning referendum failed 730 votes to 167 (81 to 18 percent). Hopefully this sends a message to our township officials about what the residents of Marion Township really want!

Our extended appreciation to Wm. Doehring, artist and sculptor, for donating the one-of-a-kind buffalo skull art pieces for raffle and silent auction. Additionally, to Pam Kantola who donated her 50/50 winnings back to CCS, Inc. Fish donated to library

Something fishy is going on at the Charlevoix Puhlic Library.

Fish Tales, by Katie Belfy is now on permanent loan to the Charlevoix Public Library for children of all ages to enjoy. Fish Tales is one of the "Great Northern Fish In" fish that was part of the American Red Cross Fundraiser last year.

"The Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation Board is happy to make this permanent loan to the library. Since the fish is all about nursery rhymes with a fishy theme, the hoard felt it should be somewhere that children can enjoy the artwork," said Foundation Director Kathy Johnson.

Valerie Meyerson, library director, said, "The library community will have double the fish pleasure now that 'Balance' has some company."

Balance is the library's fish, created by artist Tony Miron and donated by Lynne and Mason Rosenthal. If you would like to visit the fish, stop by the library anytime to see Balance or during library hours to visit Fish Tales.

For other information contact the library at 547-2651.

Kiwanis Club honored for supporting scouts

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

On Nov. 3, the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix was honored for 65 years of support the group has given to Boy Scout Troop 11 and three members of the troop were recognized as Eagle Scouts.

Ted Dumbauld, charter organization representative to the Boy Scouts, attended the dinner and received the honor on behalf of the Kiwanis Club.

"We're grateful for the recognition and commendation we received for efforts over the past 65 years," he said.

These efforts have culminated into a long-time support of Boy Scout Troop 11 and other youth programs.

"The Kiwanis motto is serving children of the world, and this is our part in Charlevoix," he said.

Each Boy Scout troop needs a sponsor and Dumbauld said the Kiwanis Club at that time, 65 years ago, apparently saw a need and decided to help.

Dumbauld said the Kiwanis Club also supports several other area youth programs and is also a long-time supporter of the area Cub Scouts and Webelo Scouts.

The Kiwanis Club works with Troop 11 on some projects, but Dumbauld said the scouts are very independent.

The Scenic Trails Council of the Boy Scouts of America honored 51 scouts as a part of the 2004 Eagle Class.

Dumbauld said five percent of scouts in the area received the honor.

Three scouts from Troop 11 honored that night were John L. Wilkinson of Charlevoix, Mark D. Baldwin of Ellsworth and Thomas W. Castiglione of Charlevoix. Only Castiglione was there in person to receive his honor for the others were unable to attend the event due to college, Dumbauld said.

"Troop 11 has a history of developing Eagles," Dumbauld said.

He said Scout Master Tim May has done a lot for the group.

Dumbauld said the Kiwains Club will continue to sponsor Troop 11.

"I don't see any reason why we won't continue to support the scouts in the foreseeable future," he said. "We have a real active group (Troop 11) and we'll continue a strong scouting program in the future, I am convinced."

Thomas W. Castiglione of Charlevoix was the only member from Troop 11 present to be awarded Eagle Scout during the 65th Annual Recognition Dinner of the Scenic Trails Council of the Boy Scouts of America. There were 51 other scouts in the council given the same honor including Troop 11 scouts John L. Wilkinson of Charlevoix and Mark D. Baldwin of Ellsworth, who were unable to attend the event.

Charlevoix electric head Whitley to retire Nov. 12

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Electric and Water Superintendent Ed Whitley will be saying goodbye to the job he has held for the past 31 years.

Whitley, 55, will be retiring from his position on Nov. 12. He said it's the people he works for and those who work for him that have made the job easy.

Ed Whitley

"I always had good people," he said.

The city council, Whitley said, were always a good group to work with along with City Manager Michael Wiesner.

Whitley said the time has come for a change and exactly what that change may be is still up in the air. For now, Whitley said he is looking toward working in something dealing with construction.

Most importantly, he said he wants a seasonal job that will allow him to work from April to November, then he can relax and enjoy his pastimes.

Whitley said he has lived in Charlevoix for most of his life, with the exception of five years he spent in San Francisco, Calif. Four of those years he spent as an electrician with the U.S. Navy and toured off the coast of Vietnam on the USS Enterprise.

Servicing the Charlevoix community as the electric and water superintendent was a natural course of work for Whitley, who grew up learning the trade from his father.

Whitley said he plans on staying in Charlevoix, but will divide his time between here and Florida where his family has a house.

City Engineer Don Swem will be taking over Whitley's position. Swem, 49, has been working as the city engineer for almost three years.

Charlevoix hospital opens new sleep center

A new clinical program to monitor, diagnose, and treat a variety of sleep disorders has opened at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Called The Sleep Center, the program is housed in the hospital, where patients come to spend the night in a comfortable, home-like room. While there, registered sleep technologists, nurses, and respiratory therapists observe and record sleep patterns. Two area physicians, N. Craig Boss, MD. and David A. Walker, DO, FCCP oversee the diagnostic services.

In recent years, much has been learned about the importance of sleep, and the nature of sleep disorders — physical or psychological conditions that disturb sleep.

"Good sleep is absolutely vital to good health," said Sharon Smorch, a registered Polysomnographic Technologist who manages the center. "Sleep affects learning, concentration, coordination, energy, mood, appetite, weight, sexual function, blood pressure, cardio-vascular efficiency and more. Without adequate sleep, we are at risk for some serious health problems like stroke or heart attack."

According to Smorch, more than 10 percent of Americans are affected by a sleep disorder that interrupts or prevents a restful night. Common disorders include insomnia, snoring or sleep apnea, uncontrolled leg movements, narcolepsy, and "parasomnias" such as talking during sleep or frequent nightmares.

At the Sleep Center, technicians use sophisticated electronic monitors that gather information about a sleeping patient's heart rate, brain waves, eye movement, chest muscle and diaphragm effort, leg motion, breathing, and airflow. Data is analyzed by Boss or Walker, who prepare a written report for each patient's primary physician, along with a diagnosis, and recommendations for treatment.

Smorch says most sleep disorders are easily corrected with the help of medication, breathing assistance, modifications in diet, or lifestyle changes.

"Patients are amazed at the difference in their lives. Once treated, they feel so much better and have more energy," she said.

Diagnosis and treatment of sleep disorders is usually covered by health insurance. More information about the Charlevoix Area Hospital Sleep Center is available by calling the center, (231) 547-8900.

Northern Lights called a success

The ninth annual Northern Lights Celebration on Oct. 16, was a success and reported a net profit of near $34,000, which helps offset school operations such as salaries for staff, school supplies and general operating costs.

The staff and students of St. Mary's would like to say a big thank you to all the numerous parents and parish volunteers, donors, benefactors and sponsors.

This event would not be possible without the kindness of all donors, it is greatly appreciated by the Northern Lights Executive Board, parents, staff and most of all the children of St. Mary School.

A featured event of the evening is the Children's Art Gallery. This features art created by St. Mary students. This year it featured framed art done by the students throughout the 2003 school year.

Projects this year included, silk hoop art, homemade mousepads, magnet art, self portrait mirrors, scarves and mosaic mirrors.

Under the direction of Lori Bolt and Theresa Corcoran this year it netted approximately $1,600.

The raffle winners for the evening were as follows: The Men's Corner, which was a Canadian fishing adventure, was won by Robert DeYoung of Charlevoix. The Women's Corner, a trip for four to Toronto by Passageways Travel was won by Ann Halzelwood of Charlevoix. The Louis Orlowski Tuition Raffle was won by Kellie and Jack Sutherland. The Chocolate Lover's Ski Weekend at Shanty Creek was won by Chris and Amy Putman.

City police teach gun safety at school

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

With hunting season quickly approaching, the Charlevoix City Police Department is setting out to inform children about gun safety.

On Nov. 8, Police Officer Gerard Doan came to Charlevoix Elementary School to inform students from kindergarten through fourth grade about the importance of gun safety as a part of Project Childsafe.

Project Childsafe is a nationwide program that focuses on safe and responsible firearm ownership and storage. The program was developed by the National Shooting Foundation and is funded through a grant from the U.S. Department of Justice.

Doan has been educating students on gun safety for two years now and said the main issue is about prevention.

"The gun safety program helps prevent anything serious from happening to children and adults," Doan said.

Doan said the police department received donated gun locks last year and implemented the program.

This year, Doan said he spoke with almost every class and handed out over 400 gun locks to the students and the parental feedback has been great.

"It's a great program," he said.

For more information on Project Childsafe or to obtain a free gun lock, visit the police department or call 547-3258.

Community Christmas project has first meeting

The opening meeting of the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project was at 10 a.m. Monday, Oct. 25 at the Community Reformed Church.

Various chairs and co-chairs of the many committees within the project were present. Bev Boss of the Reformed Church is chair again this year and Mary Helen Riggle, founder of the Christmas Project many years ago, will act as her assistant once again. She is from the congregational Church.

Plans for organization were discussed, and a calendar for the various steps necessary in the project was set.

The Charlevoix Community Christmas Project is an ecumenical effort by various churches in Charlevoix and sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association, to help seniors, children and others who need a little extra hand to have a Merry Christmas.

The chairs and co-chairs in attendance and the churches they represent were: Carolyn Batdorff, Community Reformed Church, treasurer; Rosemary Horton, St. Mary's, publicity chair this year and co-chair of the Calling Committee.

Kay Smith, United Methodist Church, assistant to Mary Eveleigh of St. Mary's chair of the Non-perishable Food Committee.

Becky Wimmer, St. Mary's, co-chair of The Giving Tree.

Maggie Hosler, chair of the Senior Gift Committee, from St. Mary's.

Debbie Gelderblom, Family of Christ, chair of the Information Co-ordination Committee.

Mary Seaman of the Community Reformed Church will assist the double bagging procedure, arrange for National Honor Society members to assist clients on delivery day, and will also take care of the Christmas cards.

Monnie Dziedzic, St. Mary's, is chair of the Perishables Committee, and her assistant will be Mary Lou Dinon.

Linda Boss of the Reformed Church was also present and will join the group this year.

Not able to attend this meeting were Alida Klooster and Mary Plude of St. Mary's who will co-chair the Giving Tree; Cynthia Garland of the Congregational Church who chairs the Labeling Committee; Janis Dietrich, St. Mary's, co-chair of the Calling Committee; Marilyn Miller who chairs the Mitten Committee and Louis Lewis, chair of the delivery committee, both of the Congregational Church.

Planning got off to a good start, and it is hoped to find representatives from more churches to join the group in this truly ecumenical effort. They would like to have all Charlevoix churches represented. If you are interested in working on this Christmas project call Mary Helen Riggle at 547-9515.

Much money is needed to fund this project, all from donations, so if your organization, business, club, or group wishes to donate to a good cause, please send your check, made out to the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project, to Carolyn Batdorff, 4903 Marion Center Rd. Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Christmas should be a joyous time of year, and there is no better way to make your own Christmas happy than to see that every Charlevoix child we can reach has a truly Merry Christmas. That is the goal of the Community Christmas Project, and we hope many in the community will step forth to help us reach that goal.

Please consider the Community Christmas Project when thinking of your Christmas plans and donations.

Ellsworth students to perform 'Lifelines'

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The struggle of one local World War II prisoner of war will be brought to life in Ellsworth in an effort to show what all went through during that turbulent time.

Sonja Mack, English, Spanish and drama teacher at Ellsworth Community School, will have her drama class perform northern Michigan poet Terry Wooten's "Lifelines," which shows the life of Rapid City residents Jack and Leda Miller at that time.

Mack said she hopes the audience gains a better understanding of what the POWs went through and those who were placed in interment camps.

"I hope they get a lot of the similar reasons why Jack and Terry wanted to do this project," she said.

The project focuses on Miller's capture in 1942 and his survival of what came to be known as the Bataan Death March.

Mack said her drama class is working with social studies teacher Rhonda Lemma's humanities class to learn more about World War II in depth.

Mack said Lemma's class is working on a project the Library of Congress has issued, which is a gathering of written and recorded World War II experiences by those who lived it. Lemma's class is currently interviewing area veterans.

Lin Opgenorth, the National Honor Advisor, language arts teacher and head of the drama department at Elk Rapids High School, originally took Wooten's 85-free verse poem and structured it into a multiple character play.

The students who will be playing Leda Miller (Alice Neer, Mariah Miller and Maggie Piellusch) and those who will portray Jack Miller (Juston Weis, Spencer Burk, Polly Busman, Jason Tessmer and Jesse Steenwik) practice a dance number that tells when Jack and Leda first met in their production of Terry Wooten's 85 free verse poem, "Lifelines."

Opgenorth said Wooten wanted the poem to be separated into characters and so with Wooten, Opgenorth created five Jack Millers and three Leda Millers who all tell the story.

In November 2003, Opgenorth put on the first production of "Lifelines." She said at that time Wooten's poem hadn't been published yet.

Opgenorth said she put on the production stemmed from the National Honor Society's efforts to write letters and send care packages to a group of local soldiers in Iraq.

She said war is not a new thing and with current soldiers facing war abroad, Opgenorth brought "Lifelines" to the stage.

Her students worked with Jack and Leda Miller as Mack's class currently is.

"We worked together to really get a clear picture," she said.

The production Mack puts on will be the second time "Lifelines" has been shown on stage.

The three students who will bring to life the character of Leda Miller are Alice Neer, Mariah Miller and Maggie Piellusch.

Neer, 17, said she is a little nervous about performing the role of Miller when the real person will be watching from the audience.

"Like the people who did the play before us, they said it's like having Shakespeare in the audience while performing 'Hamlet,'" she said.

Neer said she and the other "Leda's" will try their best to portray her as true to life as they can.

One of things that stands out to Neer the most about Miller is her strength.

Neer said Miller exhibited such strength for dealing with her husband being a POW for four years and not knowing in all that time if he was dead or alive.

"She was such a strong woman back then," Neer said.

Neer said she hopes people leave "Lifelines' with a greater understanding of how hard life really was for the soldiers and families back then.

"I like how we're teaching people our age about that time period because I'm learning a lot of stuff," she said.

Miller, 14, said she isn't nervous about performing in front of Miller, but is concerned about how that performance comes across.

"I'm nervous about portraying her different than she was," she said.

Miller, like Neer, appreciates how strong Leda was.

"I think she was a very strong woman for handling Jack and not knowing if he was dead or alive," she said. "For never being on her own to being so independent."

Miller said she hopes "Lifelines" informs people on what the veterans went through, for little to no recognition at all.

She also hopes people leave with a greater understanding on the hardship soldiers and their loved ones went through.

Miller said she really only knew about the German aspect of World War II, but "Lifelines" opened her eyes to everything that happened.

"I think it's really going to be emotional for the veterans," she said.

Admission is by donation only and Mack said the goal is to raise enough money to make a tribute to local veterans.

"Lifelines" will be performed at 7 p.m. on Nov. 12 and Nov. 13 and Jack and Leda Miller will be in attendance both evenings and Wooten will be present on the Nov. 13 showing.

Kay Gee offers a sail boat, towing a decorated dingy, with the words: "The season's greatest gifts Peace, Joy, Friendships can only be wrapped with love."

Adam Chittle joins Beaver Island School as a teacher

Adam Chittle has joined Beaver Island Community School as the school's science and social studies teacher.

Chittle has a bachelor degree in biology from Albion College and a master's degree in curriculum and instruction with certification in biology and general science from the University of Detroit Mercy. He previously taught at Detroit Southeastern High School and University of Detroit Jesuit High School.

His mother, Phyllis Daily, an employee at Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, suggested he apply for the position. Unsure as to whether he even wanted to interview for the job, Chittle stopped by the school to get a feel for the place. Coincidentally, he arrived on a day of interviewing and was surprised when the team invited him to interview later that day. Dressed in casual clothes, Chittle sat down with the board members and faculty and ultimately got the job.

Chittle is teaching seventh and eighth grade science, social studies and English; ninth and tenth grade science; and eleventh and twelfth grade science. He is excited about involving students in hands-on projects, such as a recent outing to Lake Geneserath on the island to assist in a DNR Fisheries Division study.

Lake Geneserath, the island's largest inland lake, was the setting recently for 14 seventh and eighth graders in Chittle's science class to work with DNR officials to study the lake's fish population.

Using modified fyke nets in various water depths, a group of three or four students, accompanied by chaperones, was shown the intricacies of proper preparation for scientific fisheries assessments. Other students not in the boats conducted surveys to count frogs, turtles, snakes and insectivorous plant surveys.

"Using the results of their data the students have created reports following the APA format which means they are structured for publication in a scientific journal," Chittle said. "I think the students were most interested in comparing their data to that of other studies and unearthing explanations for the differences they found."

In December, ninth and tenth graders from Beaver Island Community School will venture into to the snow covered marshes to study the unique skunk cabbage.

"In years past, researchers have come from as far as Australia to do just that and it will be interesting to compare our results with theirs," Chittle said.

Beaver Island Principal and Superintendent Kitty McNamara is pleased with the excitement Chittle brings to his classes.

"He is bringing a new, younger perspective to the classroom and the students love it," she said.

Appointments may be available for flu shots

Health department officials are encouraging people who still need a flu shot to call (800) 432-4121 for an appointment or to be added to a waiting list.

"We have received additional doses of flu vaccine," said Patricia Fralick, Director of Family Health Services for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the health department that serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties. "We've set up two additional flu clinics and we've contacted everyone on our waiting list to schedule an appointment. There are still appointments available."

Fralick is encouraging everyone who meets criteria for "high risk" for developing complications from the flu to call the health department.

"We are trying to determine how many more doses of flu vaccine we need to immunize everyone who is high-risk, " she said.

Physician's offices and senior citizen centers have given flu shots to their high-risk clients and many have given extra doses to the health department to distribute.

New flu clinics are scheduled on Thursday, Nov. 11, at the health department's Antrim County office in Bellaire, and on Monday, Nov. 15, at the Charlevoix County office.

Flu shots are given by appointment only. Appointments are scheduled according to flu vaccine supplies.

Due to a shortage of flu vaccine, the CDC guidelines call for immunizing only the following groups this season:

- All children 6 months to 23 months old.
- Adults age 65 and older.
- Anyone age 2 to 64 with an underlying chronic medical condition.
- All women who will be pregnant during the flu season.
- Residents of nursing homes and long-term care facilities.
- Children 6 months to 18 years old on chronic aspirin therapy.
- Healthcare workers with direct patient care.
- Out-of-home caregivers and household contacts of children less than 6 months old.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego Counties. Its staff is dedicated to preventing disease and injury and promoting healthy communities.

For additional information about flu clinics, call (800) 432-4121 during regular business hours.

Harvest Food and Supply Drive underway

The annual Harvest Food and Supply Drive is underway to benefit the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan, Inc. (WRC)

Domestic violence may not affect you personally, but you have the opportunity to personally affect some whose life it has changed. Family violence continues to be a menace that plagues our community and communities across the country; nearly one-third of American women report being physically or sexually abused by a husband or boyfriend at some point in their lives.

As the only shelter for victims of domestic abuse in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties, the Safe Home of the WRC provides emergency shelter 24-hours-a-day, 365 days-a-year and a 24-hour crisis phone line. In the past year, 64 women and 66 children took refuge at Safe Home to escape the peril of emotional, verbal and/or physical abuse.

The center says 2,239 nights of housing were provided averaging six persons per day 365 days a year. During the past year, food and supply costs exceeded $29,600 of which over $23,925 was donated locally by groups and individual supporters.

The Harvest Food and Supply Drive is a call to action for the northern Michigan community to assist the Safe Home in providing food, household goods, and personal items to the many families who reside there. Non-perishable food items, paper products, and toiletries are a major need. The Safe Home also requires financial support with $175,000 needing to be raised each year to maintain the facility and staff and to operate the shelter 24 hours per day.

Cash donations are needed and appreciated.

To drop off a donation, receive a copy of the Safe Home Needs List, or for more information, please call the WRC: Petoskey (231) 347-1572, Cheboygan (231) 627-2380, Gaylord (989) 731-0918 or Mancelona (231) 587-8891.

The Needs List is also available online at www.wrcnm.org.

Annual tree lighting Nov. 26

The annual Charlevoix Community Christmas Tree Lighting will be held in Charlevoix's downtown East Park on Friday, Nov. 26.

Beginning at 4 p.m. children may visit Santa Claus at his Charlevoix House located at 222 Bridge Street and have a free photo taken with him compliments of Charlevoix Camera.

Decorate the Community Christmas Tree from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m. with handmade ornaments. For children who don't have an ornament they can make one at "Santa's House" thanks to Annette Nesburg and the staff of the Charlevoix Children's House who will help children create spectacular decorations. The tree is decorated thanks to the City Electric Department crew who provide a bucket truck and place the children's ornaments where they wish on the tree.

Everyone is invited to watch the children decorate the tree and enjoy music by the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful petunia truck. Warm up with free hot cocoa compliments of Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant and free cookies compliments of Friske Orchard Café and Scovie's Gourmet.

At 6 p.m. Santa Claus will officially light the Christmas tree, which is located in East Park, downtown Charlevoix.

There will also be a Christmas Decorating Contest from 4 to 6 p.m. Dec. 1.

All Charlevoix businesses are encouraged to decorate their business front and light their windows for judging. Judges will look at the entire business front.

Points will be given for holiday spirit, originality and sales appeal/use of business goods. Only businesses that have pre-registered at the Charlevoix chamber office will be judged.

THERE ARE GOOD REASONS WHY

PUBLIC NOTICE

APPEARS IN YOUR NEWSPAPER.

Currently, and historically, it is the responsibility of state and local government to publish public and legal notices here in Michigan's newspapers. This paper you're holding right now is a historical document, printed and published with a date on every page. And its pages hold your right to know what the government is doing in your community. In fact, it's law.

In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look or when to look, let alone to know what you're looking for to be informed. That is why you have, and read, your newspaper, where public notices are published with accountable circulation and presented to you on these pages in clear black and white.

Teachers, students get lesson writing skills

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

On Oct. 26 the teachers and students at Charlevoix Elementary School got a little lesson in writing.

Mark E. Dressel, educational consultant for Collins Education Associates, came to the school to teach lessons to the students as a follow up to training the staff had received last year during an inservice and for some who also attended a week long workshop this summer.

Charlevoix Elementary School Principal Richard Swenor said the entire school district implemented the Collins Writing Method last year, which involves stages of writing and focus correction areas that help a student improve their writing to a more publishable state.

"It's the best kind of professional development because he's (Dressel) actually working with the kids and not just talking to the teachers," he said.

Swenor said the teachers sat in on Dressel as he taught the students a lesson and then were able to meet with him afterward.

"Already we've seen some great progress with the kids and their writing," Swenor said.

Swenor said the kindergarten teachers sat in on Dressel's lesson he taught to the first and second graders. By doing so, the teachers have implemented reading and writing strategies into their classrooms.

Instead of teaching reading and writing separately, Swenor said the kindergartners learn how to write as they learn how to read.

"They really need to teach in conjunction together," he said. "Kids connect faster when they see the connection."

The kindergarten students are seeing pictures then spelling out the words according to how they sound.

Swenor said this connection between reading a word and writing it will enable them to get a groundwork in writing that will enable them to graduate from high school with exceptional writing abilities.

Swenor said this training and the instruction from the teachers who have already attended a summer session will enable the district and school to have all the knowledge it can in the Collins Writing Method.

"Mark Dressel is just a great trainer," Swenor said. "He understands kids at all levels and is a good educator."

Swenor said one of the most important skills Dressel introduced to the elementary students is the importance of evaluating one's own writing.

"So they can spot their own mistakes and correct them," Swenor said.

The ability to self edit, Swenor said, enables a writer to go from good to great.

Dressel will be back on Nov. 30 to talk to the high school and elementary school teachers and will also visit in February and hold another summer session.

St. Mary to host annual sleep out

On the night of Nov. 12, 2004, St. Mary's Parish will be hosting its Sixth Annual Homeless Awareness Sleepout.

The purpose of this sleepout is to raise an awareness of the causes of homelessness in our community and in our nation, and what we can do to help the situation. The sleepout will begin at 8 p.m. with the opening prayer service, and end at 8 a.m. the following morning.

The youth and the adults who will be participating in the sleepout will be spending the entire evening outside in cardboard boxes. The church has invited numerous parishes from the Charlevoix community, as well as parishes in neighboring cities, to join it for the evening. For the past five years, the event has had approximately 100 persons take part.

Proceeds from the event this year will be donated to Lighthouse PATH (Pontiac Area Transitional Housing) in Pontiac. Youth from the parish of St. Mary's spent a week this past summer working at Lighthouse Path, which is located in the poorest section of Pontiac.

Lighthouse PATH takes women and children who have been abused and are living on the streets, and gives them a place to live. The hope is that the money raised from this event will help these women and children attain a better life.

New taxi service opens in Charlevoix area

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Rod Hayward stands outside of his taxi. He has started a new 24-hour taxi service in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix resident Rod Hayward wants to help you get home safely with his new service, All Star Taxi and Shuttle.

Haywood's business motto is: "Let us be your designated driver."

"When people are going for a night out, I can get them there and back, safely and at a lower cost than them having to go to court," he said.

Haywood, a resident of the Charlevoix area since 1988, opened the new taxi service on Nov. 1.

"Charlevoix is a nice place and community so it needs a good cab service to match," he said. "I live in Charlevoix and Charlevoix deserves the best."

Haywood picks up his fares in a Ford Winstar with leather interior and said he adds a gentleman's touch to it. He knows when to open a door for a customer and how to treat them well.

Plus, Haywood stresses he has a perfect driving record.

He said he gives his customer a high quality service, in a clean, comfortable and dependable ride.

Haywood used to drive taxi for another service in Charlevoix for about year. He also is an experienced truck driver.

In addition to this experience, Haywood originally came to the area from Pontiac and was a ranch manager on South Fox Island for the Mirada Ranch. He retired in 2002 from this position.

All Star Taxi and Shuttle is open 24 hours. It can be contacted by calling (231) 675-TAXI (8294).

The Charlevoix girls' cross country team finished in ninth place out of 27 teams at the state finals last week.

Coach Mary Plude said, "We improved from our eleventh place finish last year and it was nice to crack the top 10."

She added, "This was a great group of girls to coach this year. They were very unselfish in their style of racing and training."

Lindi Edger was named All State for her second year at the finals. She finished thirtieth, with a time of 19 minutes, 50 seconds.

"It is quite the accomplishment for Lindi to be All State twice and only a sophomore," Plude said. "All of the girls showed great composure out on the course. It will be nice to have five of them returning next year."

Theresa Martin will be graduating this year and Emily Morgridge is moving to Milford.

Other individual results from the state meet were: Morgridge in eighty-first, with a time of 20 minutes, 56 seconds; Alina Dhaseleer in eighty-sixth, with a time of 20 minutes, 57 seconds; Brittney Lamh in one-hundred and twelfth, with a time of 21 minutes, 14 seconds; Emily Westenhroek in one-hundred and thirty-ninth, with a time of 21 minutes, 39 seconds; Martin in one-hundred and fifty-third, with a time of 21 minutes, 51 seconds; and Mia Matchett in one-hundred and fifty-fourth, with a time of 21 minutes, 51 seconds.

Charlevoix man showing skills on the water

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

One Charlevoix resident is taking the world of competitive waterskiing head on while competing for the first time.

Troy Smith, 21, recently competed in the United States Waterski Championship in Bakersfield, Calif., put on by International Amateur Waterski, Wakeboard and Kneeboard Tour where he placed fifth out of 17 competitors. He competed in the First Class Division of slalom skiing.

The competition lasted from Oct. 12 to Oct. 17 and featured talented skiers from 34 states and British Columbia.

The rush of competition brought back memories of his snowskiing days.

"It's quite a good feeling," he said. "It's really cool."

Smith said the event was well run and since International Amateur Waterski, Wakeboard and Kneeboard Tour is a family-oriented group, skiers competed against those in the same skill level with the youngest competitor being 4 years old to the oldest competitor at 70 years old.

Not only was Smith proving himself to the judges, but also to a crowd of 1,500 spectators.

"It's a really good event they put on," he said.

In order to qualify for the nationals, Smith had to compete on the state level and earn enough points over the season.

Smith won the Nevada State Slalom Waterski Championship and competed in the First Class Division.

"It feels pretty good," he said. "It was a lot of fun."

There were 20 competitors total, but Smith said the competition really came between him and another male skier who had gone head-to-head for over a year.

"The one thing about waterskiing is that it's a do or die sport," he said. "When you show up, your first time on the water is when you're entering the course."

Smith wasn't always a competitive waterskier, for he used to compete in snowskiing.

Snowskiing is what drew him to Nevada, for he came to the University of Nevada-Reno on a snowskiing scholarship.

However, he quit the university's team due to differences with the coach but is personally still competing when he can.

Smith grew up both snowskiing and waterskiing while in Charlevoix with his parents Steve and Mary Lou Smith.

He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 2001 and is currently attending the University of Nevada-Reno and expects to graduate in the spring of 2006. He is majoring in accounting, finance and computer information systems.

No matter where his academic training takes him, the water will always be in his life.

"Being on the water is better than any day you could have," he said. "It's the feeling of freedom and being away from everything else."

Big Rock getting appraisal, clean up continues

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

With plans in place to get most of the radioactive elements off of its site by early next year, Charlevoix Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant is looking ahead to the future use of the property.

"We are in the appraisal process. We have heard from conservancies and we have heard from real estate, but nothing has been decided and nothing has been discounted at this point," Tim Petroskey, spokesperson for Big Rock and its owner Consumer's Energy, told the citizen's group.

This was just one of the many updates members of the Big Rock Citizen's Advisory Board learned when they toured the plant Thursday.

Big Rock is currently being taken apart, following its shut down in 1997. The Citizen's Advisory Board is made up of a group of people from Charlevoix and surrounding counties that keep tabs on the nuclear power plant and its owners, Consumer's Energy.

During the tour, the group also learned that the buildings are starting to be taken down, as well as the famous stack that stood near the Lake Michigan shoreline.

The 240-foot stack is expected to be completely removed by the end of this year.

Plant Manager Kurt Haas said plans show that all of the structures at the site will be gone by the end of the first quarter next year, with the exception of the containment sphere.

The round containment sphere will begin to be dismantled by 2006.

Any concrete from the demolition with radioactive elements are either cleaned and sent to a regular disposal facility or sent to a facility licensed to take radioactive materials.

Haas told the group the company saves money if it can clean up the concrete before sending it out and the site has about one million pounds of material that might be cleaned. However, if there is any chance that the material could still have radioactive elements to it, then it is sent to one of the special facilities.

So far, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission has approved of the way things are happening at the plant, Haas said. In fact, during a recent visit by a Nuclear Regulatory Commission inspector, Haas was told the commission was very happy with the plant.

"They were so positive," he said. "He used words I have never heard the NRC (Nuclear Regulatory Commission) use."

Haas said one of the most important ideas that he is stressing at the plant is safety.

"We are going to take the time to do it right," he said. "This is mostly demolition work. Demolition work is a different kind of work."

Because of this, Big Rock has added two new safety professionals to the agency.

"We are trying to stay ahead of safety," he said.

There are currently 65 Consumer's Energy staff at the Big Rock site and 198 contractors. At the peak of decommissioning Big Rock, there were 480 people working at the site.

Charlevoix school students have mock elections

teachers were there as facilitators. As part of their preparation for the big day, the students would state a trivia question in the morning over the loud speaker and then give the answer the following day.

"I was surprised at the conversations they would have among themselves on why they would choose a particular candidate," Bernhardt said.

Students would discuss issues such as taxes and not just about what a candidate looked like, Bernhardt said.

"It was very simplified, but they had the gist of it," she said.

Carland said they received positive feedback from parents.

"I think this election evoked a lot of discussion in coffee shops, meetings, in every place," she said.

Carland, Silberhorn and Bernhardt said hands on learning is very valuable in a child's education.

"I, as an adult, learn as I do when I'm an active participant," Silberhorn said. "They (the kids) take ownership."

Carland said it allows the children to learn and grasp larger concepts because they are literally working with the material.

Bernhardt agreed.

"It gives them an opportunity to experience it first hand," she said. "Hopefully, in the future they will go out and vote."

Silberhorn added that there may very well be a future president among the student population at the elementary school.

Charlevoix Middle School and Charlevoix High School also had similar mock elections, with only the government classes participating in the high school election.

All three school mock elections declared President George W. Bush the winner over Senator John Kerry.

Charlevoix Elementary School voted school-wide with a result of 288 votes for Bush and 147 for Kerry. Charlevoix Middle School also voted school-wide with a result of 242 votes for Bush and 134 for Kerry. Charlevoix High School government classes voted with a result of 37 votes for Bush and 34 for Kerry.

Humane Society services

Charlevoix County Humane Society will host a rabies and microchip clinic from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m., on Saturday, Nov. 13. All cat and dog owners are invited to take advantage of low cost rabies vaccines and microchips for their pets at the Charlevoix County Humane Society. Dr. David Bullerdick will administer the vaccine and microchips. Cost for the rabies vaccine is $10 and microchip is $25.

All dogs in Charlevoix County are required to be licensed every year. A dog owner who has neglected to keep his dog license up to date can receive a citation from the Animal Control Officer. Proof of a current rabies shot is required when applying for a dog license. Current licenses can be purchased from the Humane Society or the Charlevoix County Treasurer's Office beginning Dec. 1, and are good through Nov. 30, 2005.

The microchip is the size of a grain of rice and has a serial number that is registered with a national database. The database contains the owner's name, address and phone number to assist in re-uniting lost animals with their owners. The microchip is inserted under the skin between the shoulder blades. Once inserted, it cannot be seen or felt. It can be read by special scanners that almost every humane society and veterinarian's office have across the United States. This technology is responsible for returning hundreds of lost pets each year to their owners. It also is used to establish ownership of a pet in cause of a dispute. No appointments are necessary for this clinic and pets will be seen on a first come, first serve basis. The Humane Society is located at 614 Beardsley Street in Boyne City. Please call 582-6774 for more information or for directions.

SCRAPBOOK

Writer remembers Charlevoix life in the 1940s

Marilyn Boss

'Days gone by'

In 1940, life was easier in some ways, and of course, harder in others.

Many single and young married people lived in the same household until they got on their feet. It worked out well for them. College was not the norm as it is today, and there were many jobs around town for younger people to do. Many of the townspeople had a little house in the back yard which they moved into during the summer months. They rented their big home to summer people. This was a great way to supplement their income. Everyone found a way to make ends meet when times were harder.

Angus and Ella Fochtman lived at 412 Dixon Avenue. He was the owner and president of the Charlevoix Oil Company, and was also supervisor in the first ward. His children at home, were Richard and Bill, who took over the business in later years. Edward and Esther were students at the time. Helen Mary Fochtman Riggle mentioned to me that she sends my column to several members of the Fochtman family, who live around the country, each month. So to all of you, I say hello, and am so glad you enjoy reminiscing with me.

Joseph Foster and his wife, Margaret, lived at 203 Nettleton. He was postmaster. Horace Fowler was the justice of the peace, and lived at 214 Antrim. Julius and Mildred Frye and daughter Linda lived at 206 W. Hurlbut in 1940. Virgil and Clara Frye also lived there. Raymond and Marie Frye and daughter Nancy Lee lived at 214 1/2 Bridge Street. Peter and Vivian Gallagher lived at 108 Clinton. He was a light house tender. Also living with them were their grown children, Helen, who was a clerk, and James W., a sailor, and Danford, a student. John and Iva Gallagher lived at 802 State Street with their children, Lucille, Dorothy and Richard. Lester and Myrtle Gallagher lived at 108 Clinton with their children, Lester and Mary. Francis Gallagher and wife, Myrtle lived at 118 E. Lincoln. Mary Louise also lived there. Francis drove a taxi.

Harry and Alice Gebeau lived at 106 E. Lincoln. Their residence was in their grocery store. It was a small neighborhood grocery, called Gebeau's Grocery. They were well liked by the school kids who went across lots to get snacks at noon.

John and Edith Geer lived at 114 E. Lincoln. Caroline Geiken was a nurse and lived at 208 Belvedere. Dan and Beth Geneit and daughter, Dee Ann lived at 1306 Bridge Street. He was a clerk, and later became postmaster. Grover and Grace Geneit lived at 209 Burns with their daughter, Camille Grover, and was a ship's carpenter. Grover Geneit Jr. lived at 209 Burns with his wife, Nida Jean. Plenny Genett, and wife, Lucy Jane lived at 301 May Street. Floyd Genia and wife, Katherine, and daughter, Clara Rose, lived at 303 Prospect. At that time, Floyd was a time keeper. In later years, he became one of the finest automobile body men and painter in the area. He would take an automobile that was in a wreck, and when he finished you could not tell that it had been fixed. He was a real artist. Summer people who had minor scratches or dents on their fine automobiles, would wait until they came to Charlevoix to have Floyd fix them. Dale wouldn't take our cars anywhere else, either. Joseph Genia lived on Mercer Street with his wife, Rachel, and sons, Melvin and James. Joseph was a mechanic at Brown Motors.

William Gibson and his wife, Belle, lived at 905 Bridge. He was the bridge tender. Elmer Gibson was a clerk at Curtis Market. Florence was a bookeeper at Charlevoix Coal and Ice Company. Gladys Gibson was a nurse. Alfred and Henrietta Gill lived at 300 Prospect with sons, Robert and Don. Alfred was a sailor. His son, Alfred Jr. (Bud) and wife, La Rue, lived at 109 E. Upright with their children, Ann, Betty, and Mary Sue. He was a driver for Argo Milling Company at the time. Ann and I have been friends since early childhood. George Glados and his wife, Mary Maude, owned the Sugar Bowl Cafe at 218 Bridge Street. Their daughter Mary, was at home at that time. They are fondly remembered by old time Charlevoixians.

Frank and Marion Glassford and their son, David, lived at 203 E. Dixon. Harry and Addie Glossenger made their home at 206 E. Upright. He was a bookeeper at Robert R. Bonthron. Addie worked at Michigan Bell Telephone. Their son, Charles lived with them. Edward and Ada Golden lived at 201 W. Garfield with their son, William. Ada was a teller at the Charlevoix County State Bank. Edward Goldstick lived at 214 Bridge. Clarence Goldstick and Helen Goldstick also lived there. William E. and Leila Goss lived with their sons Robert, Shelby, William C. and Thomas. William E. was assistant manager at Michigan Bell Telephone Co. He was also an alderman in the third ward. Their home was at 800 State Street. Louis and Inez Gravelin and son, Gerald lived at 110 E. Lincoln.

Ray and Vada Graves and their daughter, Nida Jean, lived at 317 Mason Street. They were next door neighbors of Dales' folks. Nida Jean (Jean) was a clerk at the county treasurers office. Minnie Gregory owned the Min-Eva Cafe at 302 Bridge. It was a very nice cafe. In later years, it burned to the ground. It stood on the corner across from Central Drug Store near Round Lake. Minnie lived at 214 E. Hurlbut with her daughter, Clara, who worked as a waitress in the cafe. Clifton Gregory and his wife, Amelia, lived at 507 State Street with their daughters, Sandra and Clarice, Cliff was a plumber at Robert Bonthron Plumbing and Heating. Jessie Gregory lived at 115 Michigan Ave. Harry and Angeline Gregory lived at 405 May. He was a contractor. William Gregory lived at 407 Antrim.

Andrew Grillo and his wife, Margaret owned The Charlevoix Fruit Market at 311 Bridge. Joseph Guild lived at the corner of State and Hurlbut. Jule and Lillian Guild's home was at 205 W. Upright. He worked as a mechanic at the Charlevoix Oil Company. Their daughters were June and Donna. George and Pauline Haggard lived at 320 Meech Street. Their sons were George Jr., William and James. John was born later. George was in the insurance business. Pauline owned the Polly Kay Shop with Kay Fitch. Sander and Alma Halverson lived at 201 W. Hurlbut. Sander was a fisherman, and in later years, operated a meat market next to his house. Alma was a telephone operator with Michigan Bell. Lester Hall was a printer for the Charelvoix Courier and lived with his wife, Elsie, and children at 311 Antrim. The children were Jeanette, Floyd and Lawrence. Floyd was a class member of mine in school. Harold (Pete) Hallett was in the insurance business. He and his wife, Margaret, lived at 214 E. Upright. John Hallett lived at 312 Belvedere, next to the Hallett Hotel, which John and Pete owned together. Linnie Hallett lived at 312 Belvedere. Irving Hallett and his wife Lela, lived at 204 State, with their children, Irving Jr. and Richard. Lela was a supervisor of the NYA Girls Resident Project.

Dora Hamilton was a widow (Sam). She lived at 229 Belvedere. George and Rita Hamilton lived at 509 W. Upright. Mary Hamilton was a widow (Alexander) She lived at 303 Clinton. Ray Hamilton and wife, Frances lived at 231 Belvedere. Ray owned Hamilton and Son. He was city clerk. His children were Robert and Patsy Ann. Reno and Marjorie Hamilton lived at 206 Alice St. He was a painter at Hamilton and Son. His children were Jerome, Gerald, and John. Ralph and Margit Hamilton lived at 104 W. Hurlbut. He was a station manager at W.H. Wallace. Their children were David, Nicholas, and Samuel. Nick played the snare drums in the band with Bobby Richards, Theresa Zeitler and me. He was top notch. Ralph was always interested in history and contributed much to the Charlevoix Historical Society for years.

What colorful people we had in our town. I have certainly had many stories to tell about those I knew. So many of them were instrumental in making Charelvoix what it is today.

Carlson lists his priorities

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix's new mayor, Norman "Boogie" Carlson was sworn into office Monday and has already started working on his plan for the city.

Carlson presented council with a list of goals for his term as mayor, as a way to clearly present his priorities. And, to show homage to the previous mayor Gabe Campbell — who he beat in the Nov. 2 election — many of Carlson's goals were the same as Campbell's.

"It is where I want to start and try to accomplish," he said of his plans. "I think it would have been silly to disregard (Campbell's ideas)."

At the top of Carlson's list was a plan to set a goal session with the other council members and the city administration. Carlson said he wants members of council to write down a list of goals that can be used to help guide Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner.

Carlson believes this is the first step to providing some direction to city staff and get the council and city administration on the same page when it comes to city business.

He is calling for a Dec. 13 meeting on this matter.

Carlson's next big priority is getting on top of the Charlevoix Marina Project. Carlson said he was a council member when the marina plan originally passed — Carlson actually made the motion to approve the plan.

In his motion, he said he made a stipulation that the marina plan could be tweaked if necessary by council members. In light of problems with the marina plan reported by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality last spring and concerns by the public, Carlson said we need to get going on the marina plan and address some minor tweaks.

Carlson proposed a Nov. 29 meeting with city council, the Downtown Development Authority and Pollack to go over the plan.

Carlson also said he thought get-

Charlevoix does well on MEAP

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Michigan Education Assessment Program scores for the Charlevoix High School Class of 2004 are in and they aren't anything to sneer at.

Charlevoix High School Principal Gary Grundman said the MEAP is first taken during students' junior year, and the Class of 2004 did as well or better than those who took the test the year before.

"We're very proud of those scores," he said.

The results for the number of students that met or exceeded the state standards are 81 percent for math, 90 percent for the reading strand and 82 percent for the writing strand of the English and Language Arts section, 85 percent for science, 58 percent for social studies and 85 percent for English and Language Arts.

Grundman said one new element to the MEAP is the social studies test, which is difficult and judged by harder standards. However, the scores show that there was a 30 percentage point increase for students who met or exceeded state standards compared to the previous year.

Grundman said he looks at other districts throughout the state to see how Charlevoix compares and he said Charlevoix High School is one of the best, if not the best, Class C

Buoys show location of proposed docks

This is just one of many orange buoys in Round Lake that show the ends of the proposed docks for the new Charlevoix marina.

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix residents and visitors can get an idea of just how far new docks in the proposed marina plan will reach out into Round Lake thanks to orange buoys placed in the lake Monday.

The buoys were placed in Round Lake by Charlevoix City Police Chief Dennis Halverson and members of the United States Coast Guard Station Charlevoix.

There are eight large buoys that represent the corners of four new proposed docks in the marina plan and smaller buoys between these larger ones to represent the middle point of those docks.

Former Charlevoix City Mayor Gabe Campbell, who has been pushing for the buoys since December 2003, said, "It is up to the people when they get a look at it. If they are happy, then I am happy. If they are not, then I am not."

He added, "You still really can't tell how big it is until you get the slips in."

Under the proposed marina plan, the current sea wall will be replaced and the 17 docks currently there, that extend 75 feet into Round Lake at their farthest, will be removed. In the place of the old docks will be a 67-slip state-of-the-art floating dock system that extends 220 feet into the lake at its farthest point.

The buoys are designed to show the impact of those new docks on Round Lake.

Halverson said he was given direction by City Manager Mike Wiesner about three weeks ago to place the buoys in Round Lake. With the help of the Coast Guard, he was able to place those buoys on Monday in about four hours.

Campbell said he asked the city to place those buoys out in Round Lake back in December 2003 when a city resident asked if it could be done. However, the city did not move ahead with this request until last month, when the city council made a motion instructing the city to place buoys in Round Lake.

Campbell said he does not know why the plan was held up for so long.

"They always had a different reason," he said.

Halverson said he was not aware of the plan until he was instructed by Wiesner to place the buoys.

Wiesner was not available for comment.

Women's Resource Center having fall fund-raiser

The annual Harvest Food and Supply Drive is underway to benefit the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan, Inc. (WRC)

Domestic violence may not affect you personally, but you have the opportunity to personally affect some whose life it has changed. Family violence continues to be a menace that plagues our community and communities across the country; nearly one-third of American women report being physically or sexually abused by a husband or boyfriend at some point in their lives.

As the only shelter for victims of domestic abuse in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties, the Safe Home of the WRC provides emergency shelter 24-hours-a-day, 365 days-a-year and a 24-hour crisis phone line. In the past year, 64 women and 66 children took refuge at Safe Home to escape the peril of emotional, verbal and/or physical abuse.

The center says 2,239 nights of housing were provided averaging six persons per day 365 days a year. During the past year, food and supply costs exceeded $29,600 of which over $23,925 was donated locally by groups and individual supporters.

The Harvest Food and Supply Drive is a call to action for the northern Michigan community to assist the Safe Home in providing food, household goods, and personal items to the many families who reside there. Non-perishable food items, paper products, and toiletries are a major need. The Safe Home also requires financial support with $175,000 needing to be raised each year to maintain the facility and staff and to operate the shelter 24 hous per day.

Cash donations are needed and appreciated.

To drop off a donation, receive a copy of the Safe Home Needs List, or for more information, please call the WRC: Petoskey (231) 347-1572, Cheboygan (231) 627-2380, Gaylord (989) 731-0918 or Mancelona (231) 587-8891.

Charlevoix resident named Marine of the year

Chuck Hosper receives a plaque stating he is the Marine of the Year for the northern detachment.

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix resident Chuck Hosper has been named the Marine of the Year for the Northern Michigan Detachment of the Marine Corps League.

Chuck was given this honor at the annual Marine Corps birthday dinner, Saturday at the Bay View Inn in Petoskey.

"He has shown the determination and willingness to be at every one of our meetings, regardless of his Parkinson's," said league member Bob Nolan. "He is a marine through and through. I just can't say enough good things about Chuck. He is a marine's marine."

Chuck suffers from Parkinson's Disease and is confined to a wheelchair. On top of this, he has trouble seeing, due to macular degeneration, and has trouble speaking.

Nolan said the members of each unit in the league elects a marine of the year. There is also a state marine of the year award.

The Northern Michigan Detachment has 77 members and represents three counties, Emmet, Charlevoix and Cheboygan.

Chuck's wife, Roberta, said her husband was not aware of the award until Saturday night. However, she had most of his family came to the dinner to celebrate him.

According to Roberta, Chuck is known as a very nice man, excellent father and wonderful husband, not to mention a very hard worker.

She said Chuck joined the Marine's at the age of 17 and served from 1946 to 1948, at the tail-end of World War II. She met him 53 years ago in 1951 at a YMCA camp, where they were both campers, and they have been married for 52 years.

Chuck has three children and three grandchildren, who all attended the dinner with him. They are: Dan Hosper of Bloomfield Hills, Tim Hosper of Torch Lake and Nancy Hosper of Charlevoix. The Hosper's grandchildren are Aaron, Issac and Chelsea Hosper, all of Charlevoix.

Roberta said Chuck worked in the automobile business after getting out of the service, and soon went to school to be a clay model maker. He then became a clay model maker for Chrysler and later moved over to American Motors to be the supervisor of all the clay models. He retired in 1982, two years after American Motors sold to Chrysler.

Chuck Hosper

Chuck and Roberta moved from their home in Royal Oak to Charlevoix in 1994. Roberta was very familiar with the area, as her mother and father moved here in 1956. Soon after, their daughter moved to the area, followed by one of their sons.

In addition to the Marine Corps League, Roberta said Chuck is also a member of the American Legion. But, because of his wheelchair, she said he has trouble going to the meetings.

"He has always enjoyed it though and still belongs," she said.

Family violence continues to be a menace that plagues our community and communities across the country; nearly one-third of American women report being physically or sexually abused by a husband or boyfriend at some point in their lives.

As the only shelter for victims of domestic abuse in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties, the Safe Home of the WRC provides emergency shelter 24-hours-a-day, 365 days-a-year and a 24-hour crisis phone line. In the past year, 64 women and 66 children took refuge at Safe Home to escape the peril of emotional, verbal and/or physical abuse.

The center says 2,239 nights of housing were provided averaging six persons per day 365 days a year. During the past year, food and supply costs exceeded $29,600 of which over $23,925 was donated locally by groups and individual supporters.

The Harvest Food and Supply Drive is a call to action for the northern Michigan community to assist the Safe Home in providing food, household goods, and personal items to the many families who reside there. Non-perishable food items, paper products, and toiletries are a major need. The Safe Home also requires financial support with $175,000 needing to be raised each year to maintain the facility and staff and to operate the shelter 24 hous per day.

Cash donations are needed and appreciated.

To drop off a donation, receive a copy of the Safe Home Needs List, or for more information, please call the WRC: Petoskey (231) 347-1572, Cheboygan (231) 627-2380, Gaylord (989) 731-0918 or Mancelona (231) 587-8891.

The Needs List is also available online at www.wrcnm.org.

Charlevoix resident named Marine of the year

Chuck Hosper receives a plaque stating he is the Marine of the Year for the northern detachment.

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix resident Chuck Hosper has been named the Marine of the Year for the Northern Michigan Detachment of the Marine Corps League.

Chuck was given this honor at the annual Marine Corps birthday dinner, Saturday at the Bay View Inn in Petoskey.

"He has shown the determination and willingness to be at every one of our meetings, regardless of his Parkinson's," said league member Bob Nolan. "He is a marine through and through. I just can't say enough good things about Chuck. He is a marine's marine."

Chuck suffers from Parkinson's Disease and is confined to a wheelchair. On top of this, he has trouble seeing, due to macular degeneration, and has trouble speaking.

Nolan said the members of each unit in the league elects a marine of the year. There is also a state marine of the year award.

The Northern Michigan Detachment has 77 members and represents three counties, Emmet, Charlevoix and Cheboygan.

Chuck's wife, Roberta, said her husband was not aware of the award until Saturday night. However, she had most of his family came to the dinner to celebrate him.

According to Roberta, Chuck is known as a very nice man, excellent father and wonderful husband, not to mention a very hard worker.

She said Chuck joined the Marine's at the age of 17 and served from 1946 to 1948, at the tail-end of World War II. She met him 53 years ago in 1951 at a YMCA camp, where they were both campers, and they have been married for 52 years.

Chuck has three children and three grandchildron, who all attended the dinner with him. They are: Dan Hosper of Bloomfield Hills, Tim Hosper of Torch Lake and Nancy Hosper of Charlevoix. The Hosper's grandchildren are Aaron, Issac and Chelsea Hosper, all of Charlevoix.

Roberta said Chuck worked in the automobile business after getting out of the service, and soon went to school to be a clay model maker. He then became a clay model maker for Chrysler and later moved over to American Motors to be the supervisor of all the clay models. He retired in 1982, two years after American Motors sold to Chrysler.

Chuck Hosper

Chuck and Roberta moved from their home in Royal Oak to Charlevoix in 1994. Roberta was very familiar with the area, as her mother and father moved here in 1956. Soon after, their daughter moved to the area, followed by one of their sons.

In addition to the Marine Corps League, Roberta said Chuck is also a member of the American Legion. But, because of his wheelchair, she said he has trouble going to the meetings.

"He has always enjoyed it though and still belongs," she said.

Be sure to view the Round Lake buoys

EDITORIAL

After eleven months, Charlevoix city residents and visitors will finally get a chance to see just how far out into Round Lake the proposed marina will be.

On Monday Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson and members of the United States Coast Guard placed large orange buoys in Round Lake that show how far the docks will extend. This is a fantastic idea that gives the people of Charlevoix a better idea of what kind of impact the marina plan will have on the views of Round Lake and the marina in general.

Under the proposed plan, the current sea wall will be replaced and the 17 docks, that extend 75 feet into Round Lake at their farthest, will be removed. In the place of the old docks will be a 67-slip state-of-the-art floating dock system that extends 220 feet into the lake at its farthest point.

The buoys will give residents and visitors a chance to see just what this means. We urge residents and the visitors that are still in the community to take a trip down to East Park and view the large orange buoys.

These will give you a nice idea of just what will happen to the marina under the proposed marina plan.

We just wish the buoys would have gone out into the lake back when it was requested in December 2003 by former Mayor Gabe Campbell.

These buoys show the ends of the proposed docks in the new Charlevoix marina.

How will Iraqi politicians campaign for the election?

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

It occurred to me it is a generally good thing that we have our November elections before the firearms deer hunting season begins.

It would be unseemly to have all those people with guns wandering around during an election. But then, for citizens in Iraq, everyone carrying a gun will seem something like normal. It is possible that such behavior could have a negative effect on any election.

Two weeks is sufficient time to have developed some perspective after the recent elections and maybe on elections generally. Our voter turnout was outstanding. In some places we had nearly as large a percentage of the population voting as they do in those third world countries where voting is possible.

We hear often from other countries that some presumably political faction has decided to boycott the elections as a protest against something or other. I heard very little of such talk before or during our elections. We seem to think that voting makes no difference because the two major parties are nearly identical, we behave as though our votes do in fact make a difference. It seems to me a healthy sign when we express our displeasure or pleasure with the political scene by voting rather than deciding not to vote.

People like to complain about our endless political campaigns and the increasing meanness of them, but it may be that campaigning is as important a part of democracy as is voting. Campaigning seems to be one of the ways in which we can get large numbers of people sufficiently interested in the future of government to finally express their opinion by voting.

It will be interesting to see how the campaigning in Iraq unfolds. Consider that in the United States during the presidential campaign our potential leaders traveled very widely, covering thousands of miles each day and appearing in very different parts of our country in the same day. In Iraq traveling anywhere is, and will continue for some time to be, extremely dangerous.

Even a trip to Baghdad airport from downtown is almost too dangerous to contemplate. How can a political campaign be managed in such circumstances? One way is television ads and appearances, but those too might be difficult in places where electricity is sporadic. Conditions in Iraq might not prevent voting, but they will certainly inhibit free campaigning.

The only places in the UNited States where campaigning was considered unimportant, was where the outcome of the election was not in doubt. Those states firmly in the Democratic or Republican column were seldom or never visited by the presidential candidates. I would hate to believe that the outcome of the election in Iraq was so little in doubt that we thought campaigning was unnecessary.

We ponder mechanisms for making our elections somehow more fair by limiting the input of large sums of money from groups or individuals with special interest (that usually means financial) in the outcome.

I wonder how campaigning in Iraq will be financed? And by whom? Will our government pay with public money for whatever campaigning occurs? Or will private interests have a chance to weigh in with funds?

The coming elections in Iraq could be the second most important elections in your lifetime, and you don't get to vote! Or maybe we should consider that we already have voted in those elections.

Letters to the editor

Thank you

Editor:

It's time to thank all of the volunteers who worked so hard on the political campaigns now ended. Especially, we are so pleased that the pool funding passed and know that it took hundreds of volunteers working on that one project alone. Thanks to all of you and God bless our country and community for the safe elections and everyone who cared enough to run, campaign and vote. Peace.

The Rev. Mary and Mike Willis

Thanks for the votes

Editor:

I want to thank Charlevoix County for the privilege of serving as the Charlevoix County Drain Commissioner for the last four years. Marc Seelye and I have worked closely over the last two years. We are friends and respect each other. I will spend these last two months in the Charlevoix County Drain Commissioners Office working with Marc to ensure a smooth transition of the office.

I also want to thank the voters who took the extra time to split their ticket to vote for me as a Green Party candidate. Forty-two percent of voters in Charlevoix County voted straight Republican or Democrat. A complicated ballot and waiting lines made split ticket voting more burdensome and I do appreciate the extra effort of my supporters.

It remains vital that the public stay informed and involved in issues of land use. Public support for smart growth and land use will support Marc in accomplishing his goals of protecting the water and land in Charlevoix County.

Morality

Editor:

Since you mentioned Jesus, I assume that talking about the source of information on that subject, the Bible, is fair game. I don't recall any mention of morality in the Bible, but I read it to mean that good morality is a lack of sin. To me, sins are the things that mess up our lives and relationships; they cause pain and injustice to others. Examples might be: murder, theft, adultery, lying, fornication and others. So good morality would be avoiding these sins. Good morality leads to a healthy society that is a safe and attractive place to be. Bad morality leads to an unjust and unpleasant place to live, a place where I would look and hope for a better choice.

We've probably all wished at one time or another that there was no such thing as sin. We could then do just what we pleased without any negative consequences. But that is a bit selfish and naive. The world does not work at all well that way. We have to live in relationships, and those are harmed by sin or a "lack of morality." The issue that is tearing our society apart is the wish to deny that there is such a thing as sin and the consequences thereof.

You mentioned ending poverty. You may recall that Jesus said, "You have the poor always." However, we are often reminded to care for the widows and orphans, and help those in need. He also said to the "churchy" Pharisees, "but you have overlooked the weightier demands of the Law, justice, mercy and good faith."

You mentioned the death penalty. You may also recall that God prescribes many death penalties in the Bible for sins. However, Jesus changed things. For example, in the case of the woman caught in adultery, the penalty was death, but his answer was, "Go, and sin no more." That applies to all of us.

So, what's the bottom line? The details of how to live are spelled out clearly in the manufacturer's handbook, the Bible. It is pointed out in detail what is moral and what is not, and how society gets messed up by the immorality. We can live (for a while) without morality, but we cannot have LIFE as the creator meant it to be.

Be safe when traveling through construction

The season of orange cones and construction work on our state's highways has wound down from its peak time during the warmer months, however, two recent crashes on interstate 75 and 94 have prompted Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater to issue a warning to area residents.

"Slow down and stay alert," said Lasater. "Road construction crews are out there to make our roads better for all of us. Let's show them some respect."

The Michigan Department of Transportation's Give 'em a Brake coalition shows that despite construction and maintenance projects winding down in anticipation of winter, fall is the time when crash rates tend to increase. Last year, there were a total of 5800 crashes with 1,636 injuries and 11 deaths.

"The 11 construction workers who died last year were mothers and fathers, sons and daughters who will never again enjoy the things we take for granted. Road construction workers are out there to make a living. It's our responsibility to help keep them alive," he said.

Sheriff Lasater offers the following tips for motorists who are traveling in a work zone:

- Slow down, stay alert, and expect the unexpected.
- Don't follow the car ahead of you too closely (tailgating).
- Pay attention to signs and obey road crew flaggers.
- Do not drive while drowsy or intoxicated.
- Avoid tuning your radio or talking on your cell phone until you are through the work zone.

Lasater's official professional organization, the Michigan Sheriffs' Association, is a member of the Give 'em a Brake coalition. The Michigan Sheriffs' Association was created by the Legislature in 1877. It is a nonprofit education and training association.

The executive director is Terrence L. Jungel.

Public notice is the people's right to know the issues that affect them directly, and people know the place to find public and legal notices is in the newspaper. In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, or when to look, let alone to know what you're looking for to be informed. Why guess? That is why you have, and read, your newspaper... where your right to know is already being served.

Circle of Strength gives help, info for patients

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Cancer touches almost everyone's life in one way or another, but now there's a group that can lend support, resources and much more.

Circle of Strength, a cancer resource program through the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation, was created in order to help cancer patients and their families navigate their way through a troubling time and everything is kept confidential.

Diane Gorkiewicz and Kim Stevens are behind Circle of Strength and are breast cancer survivors themselves. Their experience and that of other people involved in the program, lends a support to those currently facing the same or a similar situation.

"It's a really good alliance and it was so needed we really didn't get any flack," Gorkiewicz said.

Circle of Strength offers education, training and support to cancer patients and their family, friends and caregivers.

Gorkiewicz said there were several small groups operating in the community to provide support to people dealing with cancer, but this is the first time it's all come together.

Circle of Strength started with a donation from the Pink Ribbon Ride in 2003 and has also received a donation from the Kappa Sigma Phi Home Tour in 2004.

Since 1991, Gorkiewicz has been involved with the Woman Care program available through the health department, which provides breast and cervical exams for a small fee.

Stevens has been involved with the Navigator program through Munson for the past two years and works with 25 other breast cancer survivors who lend help to those currently facing the same situation.

Gorkiewicz and Stevens said a common misconception that occurs when one is facing an illness is that the doctor knows everything. In order to combat that thought, both Gorkiewicz and Stevens work with people to educate them on how they can find out information themselves.

Currently, Circle of Strength has partnered with the Charlevoix Public Library to offer easy access to medical information when conducting research.

Valerie Meyerson, director of the Charlevoix Public Library, said the program started a few months ago when they were approached by Gorkiewicz and Stevens who wanted to have the library as an Internet source.

Meyerson said the library created an electronic medical library that is accessible through the Charlevoix library web page. The links available there are kept up to date.

Circle of Strength helped fund the training for a library employee to learn how to develop quality electronic medical collections, Meyerson said.

"It's a good investment the hospital made," Meyerson said.

Within the first two months of having the medical library available, Meyerson said there have been over 100 hits.

"I think it's a nice collaborative effort," she said. "It's a nice service for the community."

Meyerson said the library will be having another public workshop on how to use the medical library in January.

Stevens said knowing about one's own illness and having information gathered when meeting with a doctor gives a feeling of empowerment.

"The fear of the unknown," she said. "When they know what they're dealing with it's easier to face it."

Stevens said she was fortunate to have the support of her husband and family during her time of need, but some people don't have that base.

"This is another reason why this is so important," she said of Circle of Strength.

Gorkiewicz and Stevens said there is at least one person diagnosed with cancer each week, which makes the program even more valuable.

The first major event put on by Circle of Strength was the First Annual Fashion Show and Luncheon that occurred on Oct. 23. Both Gorkiewicz and Stevens said many of the models that participated in the event are either cancer survivors or currently dealing with cancer.

"We've gotten totally positive feedback," Gorkiewicz and Stevens said, especially from those who were models in the fashion show.

They said two came from Indiana to participate in the event and it gave all involved more self confidence and an empowering feeling.

All in all, Circle of Friends works with doctors, who give referrals to the program, and other support networks in the community.

Stevens said the program works for people however they want and need support. She said Circle of Strength helps her in her work with the Navigator program and also on a personal level.

"It's on going," she said of the support received.

For more information on Circle of Strength call 547-8950 or e-mail them at circlestrength@cah.org. For more information on the Charlevoix Public Library's electronic medical library call 547-2651 or visit www.charlevoixlibrary.org.

St. Mary's hosts annual homeless sleep over

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

With cardboard boxes in place and fire's bursting from tin barrels, the St. Mary's Parish got underway its Sixth Annual Homeless Awareness Sleepover.

Patty Furtaw, pastoral minister of St. Mary's Parish, said the sleepover allows those who participate to experience a taste of what real homeless people live through every day since the group spends the entire night outside in cardboard boxes.

"The kids always say, when they stay a night out like this, that they can't imagine being homeless," Furtaw said.

The sleepover lasted from 8 p.m. on Nov. 12 to 8 a.m. on Nov. 13. Once 8 a.m. rolls around, Furtaw said the participants get to go home to their beds, but those who are homeless have to try and survive another day all over again.

Parishes from the Charlevoix community as well as those from other cities were invited to attend the sleepover. The parishes that participated in the sleepover were St. Michael's of Roscommon, St. Patrick's of Traverse City, The Cross in the Woods of Indian River, Charlevoix United Methodist Church, St. Joseph's of East Jordan and St. Mary's of Charlevoix.

The youth involved in the program collected donations for their efforts that will be given to Lighthouse PATH (Pontiac Area Transitional Housing), which gives women and children who have been abused and living on the streets a place to live and a second chance at life. Furtaw said the goal is to raise $3,000.

Several youth from St. Mary's Parish and other parishes spent a week this summer at PATH including Jaleesa Baier of St. Joseph's in East Jordan.

Baier, 16, read a paper she wrote for a class during the opening night prayer. She told of her experience working with the children at PATH and how it touched her life forever.

"Before I went I didn't really know anything," she said. "It really opened my eyes."

Now, Baier said homelessness has become a big issue for her

Commissioners getting ready for master plan work

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix Planning Commission is slowly working towards updating the city's master plan with several different exercises during their meetings that determine the needs of the community.

Using visioning exercises, under the moderation of city planner Gerry Harsch, planners can determine the city's attributes, threats and needs.

"I think they have been going very well," Harsch said of the exercises. "The planning commission is really starting to get into the process."

Harsch said the planning commission will spend about four sessions working to develop issues to deal with in the new master plan. He said the commission should be finished with that in December and then start to develop goals and objectives for the master plan early in the new year.

He does not know exactly when the commission will have a master plan ready to take to the Charlevoix City Council to have a pubic hearing on the matter.

Planning Commissioner Richard Hodgson said he also thought the process was moving along well.

"We are getting a lot of good input from the planning commission members and the audience members," he said. "A lot of it is interesting. It has been across the board."

Commissioner Ken Staley said, "It's a slow process but a thought provoking one. I think it really has purpose."

The master plan is used as a guide for development in the city of Charlevoix. Generally, the master plan is updated every 25 years by the planning commission. After it is updated by the planning commission, it is sent to the city council for a public hearing and then adoption.

During the visioning exercises, the commissioners are asked various questions, such as, "What are the city's attributes which contribute to its beauty which should be addressed in its comprehensive plan?"

For this question, commissioners responded the channel and lighthouse, as well as the Earl Young structures and architecture, the waterfront, beaches and the diverse housing stock.

Commissioners were also asked what the greatest threats to the city's beauty were. They answered too many boats that create congestion on Round Lake, no enforcement of the blight ordinance, sprawl and unsightly development, among others.

Another question to the commissioners was, "What kind of growth will adversely affect the small town character and beauty of Charlevoix?"

They answered big box stores, building sizes, change in architectural design and the danger of creating a "theme" town.

The Charlevoix City Planning Commission meets at 6 p.m., Dec. 13 in Charlevoix City Hall.

and she only hopes others will join in the effort to help those in need.

Sonja Plude, 18, was the master of ceremonies for the event and helped Baier read her paper to the crowd.

Curt Salamino, 12, of St. Patrick's Catholic Youth Union of Traverse City, participated in the event for the first time.

"I think it's a great learning experience because a lot of people don't realize how good they have it," he said.

In order to provide a safe experience, the Charlevoix Knights of Columbus, who participate every year, patrolled the area throughout the night, changing guard every two hours.

Grand Knight Steve Seely, said the knights gathered wood for the fires and set up the cardboard boxes.

"One of the major focal points of the Knights of Columbus is to help guide the youth in the community and the community at large," he said.

Seely said the event was not limited to those in parishes or churches, but open to anyone in the Northern Michigan area.

Despite the chilling cold and frost that started to form on cars, Seely said the weather was good.

"This is probably the best weather we've had because there's no wind," he said. "Last year we had a blizzard."

Even though the Charlevoix Knights of Columbus keep the participants safe, Seely said the youth are the heroes.

"The real heroes are the kids who get something out of it," he said. "We want to help raise the awareness."

Local student picked for photography show

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

For one aspiring artist in Charlevoix, capturing life on film is a natural talent and one that recently received acclaim.

Helen Beemon, a junior at Northwest Academy, was chosen as one of 54 finalists in the 24th Annual Juried Photography Exhibition on Nov. 13 at Crooked Tree Arts Center in Petoskey.

"I was happy," she said. "I did a happy dance right when I read the note."

Beemon read about the event and decided to enter two photographs she had taken while she was visiting Isla Mujeres, Mexico. The picture of several turtles in water taken was chosen for the exhibition.

Beemon said she loves photographing nature and animals, but also anything that captures her eye at the time.

The turtles on Isla Mujeres in Mexico captured her eye and that of Monte Nagler, a renowned photographer from Farmington Hills, who was the juror for the exhibit.

"I really like turtles and I pretty much just took the picture because I wanted memories of the island," who said.

Gail Lambert, visual arts director at Crooked Tree Arts Center, said that a little less than 200 photographs were received and Nagler narrowed them down according to several factors he felt were important, such as technical skill, quality and composition.

"I'm probably the youngest one that got in and these people have been doing this for most of their lives so the word is privileged," Beemon said.

Artistic talents run in her family. Beemon said her grandparents were photographers and her uncle, Ray Bier, owns Bier Art Gallery in Charlevoix.

Beemon said her family encouraged her interest in photography along with Cindy Romero, the art and Spanish teacher at Northwest Academy, who encouraged the use of different forms of media.

"This is the first time I've pretty much done anything with my photography other than have it on display at home," she said.

Beemon enjoys several forms of creative outlets, but sketching with graphite is her favorite. However, photography has always been an interest and it wasn't until she received a Pentax ZX-60 last Christmas that she really started to cultivate her photographic eye.

Photography is enjoyable, Beemon said, because of its ability to capture memories, to capture different things in life and the fact that people can look at one photograph in many different ways.

Beemon has been taking photographs for about three years and doesn't recall receiving any formal instruction. With her love for traveling and other cultures, Beemon said she hopes to have a career in photography.

"I want to work for 'National Geographic,'" she said.

For now, Beemon will finish her studies and continue to cultivate her creative talents and probably enter her photographs in future competitions.

Frosty morn

Winter is starting to make short visits to Charlevoix as it prepares for an extended stay. Each morning residents are waking to either find a dusting of snow on the ground or heavily frosted plants in their yards, such as this.

Farm Bureau helping charity with food drive

Charlevoix County Farm Bureau is working with the Michigan Farm Bureau's Promotion and Education Committee to assist Ronald McDonald Houses as part of the Harvest Gathering project.

The project, conducted by the local Farm Bureau Promotion and Education Committee, works to collect non-perishable food items for use at Ronald McDonald Houses in Michigan. Ronald McDonald Houses are homes where families of ill children may stay while their youngsters are hospitalized. There are currently Houses in Detroit, Lansing, Ann Arbor and Grand Rapids. The houses are strategically located close to major medical centers.

This year the County Farm Bureau has taken the further step of donating half of all items collected to Food Pantries in Boyne City, Charlevoix and East Jordan. The collection is planned to run through the month of November.

Items to be collected include, but are not limited to: canned vegetables, fruits, soups, condiments, juices in non-breakable containers prepackaged meals, breakfast cereal, coffee, tea, cocoa, as well as soaps, paper products and linens.

Individuals interested in donating food items should contact the County Farm Bureau Office at 547-2043; or Joe Seidel, Charlevoix County Farm Bureau Promotion and Education Chairman at 547-2181.

Donations may be dropped off at the following locations:

Many area businesses report great fall

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Charlevoix businesses located downtown seemed to experience good business this fall.

Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce President Jacqueline Merta said she didn't talk to every merchant, but those she talked to said it was a great fall. Merta said she talked to both retailers and restaurants.

"They said it was going to be a hard fall season to beat since it was so outstanding this year," she said.

Merta said she thought several things played into the business of this fall including the fair weather and the hurricane season plaguing Florida.

She said people probably stayed longer in Charlevoix due to the hurricane season and people probably visited the city more.

Kirby Dipert, chairman of the Charlevoix Retail Committee and co-owner of The Clothing Company, Color Wear and Charlevoix Wear, said he thought the "Saturday Night" effort of local merchants probably helped increase business this fall.

"Saturday Night" started after Labor Day and ended on Oct. 23 and involved several downtown merchants staying open until 8 p.m., some until 9 p.m., in an attempt to generate more business in the fall.

"We'll do it again," he said.

Dipert said fall was good and the weather was a help. He said the warm September weather helped make up for a cooler May and June.

"We're looking forward to a good spring and summer next year," he said.

Dudley Marvin, president of Stafford's Hospitality, said business for Stafford's Weathervane in Charlevoix was great.

"We've had a wonderful fall," he said.

Business has been up every month throughout the fall, Marvin said, and was outstanding in September and October. However, he said business will be normal for November.

Marvin said the 25th Annual Apple Festival and Craft Show brought an extraordinary amount of people to Charlevoix which helped business, but the fair weather also lent a hand.

"It really was an exceptional fall weather wise," he said.

Jacqueline Dipert, co-owner of The Clothing Company, said business has been good for the fall season and is up compared to this time last year.

Jacqueline said her store stays open on the weekends, but with other businesses taking part in the Charlevoix Retail Committee's effort to have businesses open late on the weekends business could be better.

"I think the town is a good town to walk around in at night," she said.

If more businesses are staying open then people who visit Charlevoix will know the town is alive at night and it could encourage them to come for the evening.

Jacqueline said some nights were bad, but overall sales were good.

"Now that the election is over it'll be a better year," she said.

Jacqueline said people can now focus on spending their money and getting on with what they need to do and not pondering who is going to win and what that person is going to do.

However, winter is coming and that is usually a harder time.

"Winter will be awful," she said. "It always is, but I'm looking forward to a better winter than last year."

NOV 2004

Health department celebrating Home Health Month

November marks National Home Health Month, celebrated each year as a way of paying tribute to the thousands of quiet heroes who provide high quality home health, home care and hospice services.

In addition this year, Nov. 14-20 has been designated as 2004 Home Care Aide Week with the theme "We're Part of the Family." Home care aides specialize in providing assistance with activities of daily living such as: meal preparation, bathing, grooming, light housekeeping, companionship, assistance to medical appointments, medication reminders, exercise and activity.

Home health care is associated with notions of comfort, compassion and security — and it provides a family-oriented alternative to institutional care.

The origins of home health care date back to the late 1880s when the home became the workplace for most nurses, since the most seriously ill people stayed at home.

By the Twentieth Century, the need for trained nurses to assist with home care had grown tremendously. Nurses began caring for the sick, teaching family members how to care for sick ones, and preventing complications and unnecessary hospital stays, right in patients' homes.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency invites the surrounding community to join their efforts recognizing and celebrating November as National Home Health and Hospice Month. As a Medicare/Medicaid certified home health care agency, accredited by the Community Health Accreditation Agency (CHAP), health department staff work closely to provide a continuum of care with physicians and other health care agencies, such as Commissions on Aging, hospitals, and nursing homes.

Typically, clients are referred to the health department by physicians following an office visit or discharge from the hospital. Clients may require home care due to congestive heart failure, wound care needs, or any number of illnesses that make it difficult for them to leave home for medical care.

Depending on the client's condition, the Home Health Team can include registered nurses, certified home health aides, medical social workers, and physical, occupational, or speech therapists. Some Home Care Team members are also specialists in wound care, diabetic care and symptom and pain management.

The health department's home health care program has become a model in many ways, meeting or exceeding all state and national standards. Its staff members focus on clients' individual needs and work with other community resources and agencies to meet them with clients.

Whatever their clients' needs, the health department works to keep them in their own homes.

When faced with a situation where placement in a care facility is the only option, the Home Health Care Team works with the care facility to facilitate a smooth transition for the client. For those clients who choose hospice services, the transition is even smoother, since the members of the Home Health Care Team also provide hospice services and continue to care for their clients until their death, providing a unique continuum of care.

For questions, telephone Home Health at the health department at (231) 547-6092 or (800) 551-4140.

Planned Parenthood offering free HIV tests

In recognition of World AIDS Day on Dec. 1, Planned Parenthood Northern Michigan will be offering free HIV tests on Nov. 30 and will be handing out red ribbons in the lobby of the health center.

The regular cost of an HIV test is $22. Appointments are necessary to receive a free test.

Planned Parenthood Northern Michigan uses the Orasure — an HIV test, which does not involve needles or taking of blood.

To be tested, a testing wand is held in the mouth for a few moments, similar to having a temperature taken. The whole procedure, including risk assessment and counseling, takes about fifteen minutes.

Results are available within two weeks of testing. The tests are completely confidential, and patients can opt to remain anonymous. Counseling and follow-up education are included with every HIV test.

Five people worldwide die of AIDS every minute of every day. HIV has hit every corner of the globe, infecting more than 42 million men, women and children, 5 million of them last year alone. Around half of all people infected with HIV are under the age of 25. It only takes moments to learn about the risks of HIV and to get tested.

Sheriff: Use caution when out hunting

Michigan's fields and forests are alive with blaze orange hunting gear and the sound of rifle shots.

Firearm deer hunting season began Monday, Nov. 15 and continues through Tuesday, Nov. 30.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater wants both visitors and residents of Charlevoix County to know some important safety rules before setting out to "bag their buck."

Your hunting license and the identification used to purchase it (Michigan driver's license, identification card or DNR sport card) must be carried with you at all times while hunting.

All hunters must wear an item of clothing (hat, cap, vest, jacket or rain gear) in "hunter orange," it must be the outermost garment and it must be visible from all sides.

If it is camouflage, at least 50 percent of the garment must be orange. Hunting hours begin approximately one-half hour before sunrise and last until approximately one-half hour after sunset.

Safety zones are all areas within 150 yards (450 feet) of an occupied building, house, cabin, barn or other farm building.

You may not hunt in this area or shoot at any animal within this area, unless you have the written permission of the property owner.

It is both illegal and dangerous to drink alcohol or use intoxicating drugs before hunting.

Sheriff Lasater also wants hunters to take the following precautions to prevent injury or death while hunting this season:

- Familiarize yourself with the area where you will be hunting.
- Never assume you are alone in the woods.
- Never assume other hunters are acting responsibly .
- If sitting against a rock or tree, make sure it is wider than your shoulders so you are not mistaken for a target.
- Be 100 percent sure of your target before shooting.

Sheriff Lasater urges all hunters to act responsibly this season.

You may still be able to get a flu shot

Health department officials are encouraging people who still need a flu shot to call (800) 432-4121 for an appointment or to be added to a waiting list.

"We have received additional doses of flu vaccine," said Patricia Fralick, Director of Family Health Services for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the health department that serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties.

"We've set up two additional flu clinics and we've contacted everyone on our waiting list to schedule an appointment. There are still appointments available."

Fralick is encouraging everyone who meets criteria for "high risk" for developing complications from the flu to call the health department.

"We are trying to determine how many more doses of flu vaccine we need to immunize everyone who is high-risk, " she said.

Physician's offices and senior citizen centers have given flu shots to their high-risk clients and many have given extra doses to the health department to distribute.

New flu clinics are scheduled on Thursday, Nov. 11, at the health department's Antrim County office in Bellaire, and on Monday, Nov. 15, at the Charlevoix County office.

Flu shots are given by appointment only. Appointments are scheduled according to flu vaccine supplies.

Due to a shortage of flu vaccine, the CDC guidelines call for immunizing only the following groups this season:

- All children 6 months to 23 months old.
- Adults age 65 and older.
- Anyone age 2 to 64 with an underlying chronic medical condition.
- All women who will be pregnant during the flu season.
- Residents of nursing homes and long-term care facilities.
- Children 6 months to 18 years old on chronic aspirin therapy.
- Healthcare workers with direct patient care.
- Out-of-home caregivers and household contacts of children less than 6 months old.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties. Its staff is dedicated to preventing disease and injury and promoting healthy communities.

For additional information about flu clinics, call (800) 432-4121 during regular business hours.

Charlevoix school studying special education

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

This year the state of Michigan adopted a new way to monitor students in special education classes by using Continuous Improvement Monitoring System, which allows for the quality of the education students receive to be looked at more in depth.

Diane Heinzelman, director of special education of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, said the new monitoring system is being implemented state-wide, but is still in its infancy stage.

"The best part is really allowing the district to look at the special education programs in the district," she said. "That's a good thing."

Heinzelman said the process involves randomly selecting special education students from a variety of disabilities and ages and looking at their Individual Education Plans for the past three years, which differs from the old monitoring technique of looking at specific aspects of the current year's Individual Education Plans.

Heinzelman said the Individual Education Plans are analyzed for changes that can be assessed for the entire school system to better everyone involved.

"We are looking at the special education system in the district to identify things that are working well or need to be changed," she said.

The process is taken from the states of California and New Mexico, which Heinzelman said have been using it for the last three years.

The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District is going to go through the training, but was not chosen as a pilot site for the program.

"We're finding teachers and administrators are very excited about this," she said.

Richard Swenor, principal at Charlevoix Elementary School, said he hopes the pilot monitoring technique will allow the school to verify that the curriculum they are currently working with works and that the students are growing.

"It'll help us to, if we do find things, monitor our own program and make changes as needed or celebrate where we are," he said.

Swenor said using three year's of information instead of one year will allow a more thorough picture to form on what is occurring with the students.

"I'm confident we're gong to see some great things as we look through the years," he said.

Heinzelman said the process is now down to the district level and the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District underwent some training on Nov. 15.

"We encourage the district to take that information they gleam from our day together to put into a school improvement process," she said.

This new monitoring system, that can still be modified and changed as needed by the state, will not only point out what curriculum changes are needed but will also reinforce what is working already.

Give thanks at church service

The Charlevoix Ministerial Association invites the community to gather together at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 24, to give thanks at the 2004 Community Thanksgiving Service.

This ecumenical service will be at the Community Reformed Church and will be led by pastors and leaders from Charlevoix churches.

As a gift of gratitude, please bring a non-perishable food item for the Charlevoix Food Pantry.

Monetary offerings received during this service will be used by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association to meet emergency needs in the community.

Community Reformed Church is on the corner of US-31 North and Meech Street, about a mile north of the bridge, in Charlevoix.

CEMEX plant sold to Brazilian company

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

CEMEX, a Mexican cement company, signed a letter of intent on Nov. 15 to sell two of its cement plants in the Great Lakes region of the United States to Brazilian cement company, Votorantim Cimentos LTDA.

The Charlevoix and Dixon-Marquette cement plants are a part of the potential transaction that is expected to close in 2005, according to a press release by CEMEX.

Votorantim presented a non-binding contract and CEMEX said they had been evaluating what to do with the two cement plants since early 2004.

The transaction assets are valued at $400 million and CEMEX stated in the press release that they plan to use the money to pay off the debt or reduce the level of debt brought on by their acquisition of RMC.

The Charlevoix and Dixon-Marquette plants have a combined production capacity of about two million metric tons per year, which CEMEX said represents about 10 percent of its operating cash flow generation of its business in the United States.

Stated in an Associate Press article from Frobes.com, this will be the first major divestment CEMEX has made since the acquisition of RMC.

The article also stated that for Votorantim's cement unit, the CEMEX deal will be the latest in a series of acquisitions.

CEMEX officials could not be reached for comment.

Undefeated girls open up district tournament

Madison McKenzie plays some tough defense on a Petoskey player during a home game on Friday.

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

A lot of schools have to dream about what it would be like to have a basketball team make a long run in the state tournament.

Not so at Charlevoix High School. The 21-0 Rayders, ranked third in Class C by the Associated Press, have classmates on the boys' team who were state runners-up last year.

Before their opening game in the districts, coach Keith Haske showed the girls' team a video chronicling the boys' run to the finals last season to inspire them before tournament play began.

The video culminated with the Rayder boys playing in the Breslin Center at Michigan State University. The Breslin is also the site of the semi-finals and finals for the girls' basketball state tournament this year for the first time.

The Lady Rayders took a step toward playing in the Breslin themselves in the opening round of tournament action, demolishing Harbor Springs, 66-38, before a sizable home crowd.

"It was a nice crowd," Haske noted. "There was a lot of noise in the gym."

Charlevoix led 19-10 after the first quarter and 34-20 at the half.

"We kind of wore them down," Haske said. "I thought (Harbor) played quite well and were hanging in there but we kept running people at them and in the middle of the third quarter, they started to wear out a little bit and started to turn the ball over. We just ran away from them at that point."

The Rayders led 47-34 after three quarters and pulled away in the fourth.

Grace Farrell had 14 points, 11 rebounds, four steals and three assists. Kari Way contributed 12 points, 10 rebounds and three assists.

Laura Nitchman scored 11 points. Jaime Pettis pilfered six steals and blocked three shots.

"I thought Jaime Pettis played great defense for us," Haske said. "And Kari Way played one of her best games of the year. Madison Ramsey is also really starting to play well again."

Last week all three Charlevoix teams (varsity, junior varsity and freshmen) capped unbeaten 20-0 regular seasons with victories over Petoskey.

The varsity won 69-40 led by Farrell's 12 points and seven rebounds. Betsy Dennis and Sarah Cross each scored eight points. Twelve Rayder players scored in the final regular season game of the year.

Charlevoix continues district play at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 17, hosting Boyne City. The winner advances to the district finals at 7 p.m. on Friday in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix students to perform 'Godspell'

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

On Nov. 20 and Nov. 21 Charlevoix High School performing arts will perform "Godspell" with its vibrant colors and multiple story lines.

Connie Ford, performing arts director, said "Godspell" was chosen for its unique story line that features multiple narratives by young people and a diverse musical display.

"We haven't done a show in a long time where there are multiple stories in one story," she said. "I felt we needed something different and that there are a variety of musical styles in it."

"Godspell" also marks a revival, Ford said, because this will be the first time the play has taken the stage at Charlevoix High School in 20 years.

The play's diverse narratives and music lend itself to being a fun production to put on, Ford said. There is also a mime element; Ford said it's fun since the performing arts department hasn't done mime in awhile.

The students performing in "Godspell" are a mixture of veteran actors who went to last winter's state finalist performance in "The Sound of Music" and novice actors.

"This is a new bunch," she said. "We're really having fun with the new novices."

Ford said the proceeds of the show will go toward the performing arts, and will help set a base fund for expenses involved with the upcoming winter show that requires traveling.

Gene Thomas Foley, 17, will portray Herb who he called a goofy, fun-loving character and is one of five four-year members of the performing arts department.

"I think it's going to be a good one," he said. "It's a good change for the community because all the political things going on, everyone has an agenda and this play sets down to the bare necessities of life."

Foley said the new members are great and everyone is working together.

Josh Stevenson, 17, will portray Judas and he's not afraid to show his mean side.

"I can pull it off," he said. "I get into a couple of slap fights with Jesus. It's kind of fun to play that role because it's outside myself."

Stevenson agrees with Foley that the novice actors are shaping up to be a great group to work with.

"I think we're picking it up pretty fast considering we just started working on it two weeks ago," he said. "If we keep up at this rate it'll be a good show."

Stevenson said "Godspell" gives the performing arts students a chance to show what they're made of.

"We're all the weird kids and it gives us a chance to shine," he said. "It's our moment to be in the spotlight and that's what I like about it."

He said the performing arts students aren't usually given a chance, but the amount of energy they put into the performance is apparent and shows through the musical numbers.

"Godspell" will be performed at 7 p.m. on Nov. 20 and at 2:30 p.m. on Nov. 21. Tickets cost $7 for adults and $5 for seniors, students and children. The estimated length of the play is 90 minutes.

Committee to review city services, budget

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix Mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson wants to include the community in a plan to review city services.

Carlson said there are currently no known problems with the city budget, but in light of probable state cuts to revenue sharing the city will be getting less money to work with in the future. Therefore, there is a need to look at the services the city is providing to determine if they are adequate or need to be changed.

"It is more of a review of what we are providing everybody and what they want," he said.

But, this issue is just too big for just the council and Carlson wants to make sure the community has a say. Therefore, Carlson said he is going to look into forming a committee composed of community members that will review city services.

Carlson said ideally, he would like every council member to have the ability to appoint two people to this committee and the mayor having the ability to appoint three people. Additionally, he said he wants to include at least two students in this mix.

Carlson said he will be presenting something on this plan at the Dec. 6 Charlevoix City Council meeting.

schools in the state.

The top scores are due to several things, Grundman said, including the correlated curriculum of the Charlevoix Public Schools.

"I think it's contributed to the strong curriculum we have and the excellent staff Charlevoix has," he said.

By having K-12 working with related curriculum, Grundman said it helps students get a basic foundation that can lead to doing well on the MEAP or other related tests.

The current curriculum at the high school undergoes yearly adjustments, Grundman said, but nothing will drastically change due to the MEAP scores.

"We'll continue to do what we've done over the past eight to 10 years," he said.

John Prescott, Charlevoix High School Counselor, English teacher and MEAP Advisor, said compared to the rest of the state, Charlevoix stands out.

"They did exceptionally well," Prescott said.

Anytime students aren't meeting the state standards, Prescott said some concern arises because the desire is to have 100 percent of the students pass the state standards.

Prescott said there are some areas for improvement, such as the science area, where 15 percent of the students tested are not obtaining a level one or two that would meet state standards.

This would mean making any necessary changes in the curriculum that would enable the students to meet the state standards, which Prescott said is the whole purpose behind the No Child Left Behind Act.

Prescott said the future may diminish the focus from the MEAP to the American College Test (ACT), which is a national exam for entrance to college.

According to an article by Lori Higgins of the Detroit Free Press titled "Senate votes to toss high school MEAP," the Michigan Senate voted in majority to do away with the MEAP test and put in its place a series of tests that may include the ACT. This wouldn't be put in place until the 2006-2007 school year.

The legislation still has to pass the state House, but Prescott said it looks like the end of the MEAP is getting closer.

New Charlevoix City Mayor takes office

ting a "big box" ordinance in the city was a big priority, one that many others on council agreed with and decided to proceed on right away. A motion was made to instruct the city staff and Charlevoix Planning Commission to begin working on a big box ordinance for the community and put a high priority on it. This motion passed council unanimously.

Carlson said the city needs to get going on a plan such as this and can not wait.

"I think if we keep putting it off, it will get put on the wayside," he said.

A big box ordinance, an ordinance that would limit the size of buildings that could be built in the city in order to keep out large retailers like Wal-Mart, was first championed by former mayor Campbell. Carlson said he also thought a big box ordinance was important to the community and the area to stop sprawl and preserve Charlevoix.

"I would like to carry this through," he said.

But, for such a plan to be effective, the city council would need to work with the surrounding townships. Carlson envisions the city taking a lead on this issue and becoming a model for other communities.

This idea was met with approval from many on council and in the audience.

One audience member, Bob Hoffman, is the president of This Is Our Town — an organization formed to keep Wal-Mart out of Charlevoix. Hoffman said grants are available to help pay for the implementation of such an ordinance, with the stipulation that the community works with the surrounding communities on it.

Hoffman said he has spoken with many other townships in the Charlevoix area and all of them seem to be interested in ordinances like the one Carlson is proposing.

Carlson's other big priority was getting reports from the city staff on projects that are taking place in the community — also something Campbell had been pushing for.

Carlson said, in the past, the city staff supplied the council with a progress report on projects costing over $1,000 and who was in charge of it. For some reason, that report is not given to the council anymore, so Carlson said he wants it revived.

His other two top priorities included looking at ways to help promote the downtown businesses and increase our downtown to help it thrive through a Main Street Program and the creation of junior council members.

Junior council members is a program designed to get the youth of the community involved with the city. Carlson said there are plans for such programs through the Michigan Municipal League.

In the memo Carlson wrote to city council outlining his priorities, he included creating a citizen's survey. Carlson said in the memo that he was concerned due to the tight city election that the community was divided and he wanted to find out why through a survey.

However, Carlson said, after some thought, he believes that is not necessary. He said he believes the election was so close due to the Charlevoix marina issue — which the council will address — and the belief that Carlson is "a yes man to City Manager Mike Wiesner."

Carlson said he will prove that is a misconception and he will work with the full council on the issues.

After the meeting, Carlson said he thought his first night as mayor went well.

"I stumbled a few times, but I expected to do that. However, I felt comfortable," he said.

Former mayor Campbell, who was in the audience at the meeting, also said he thought everything went well.

"I thought he (Carlson) did a good job," he said.

Campbell said he supports Carlson's priorities.

Charlevoix City Council Member Shirley Gibson also was happy with the first meeting.

"I liked his (Carlson) ideas," she said. "I think he handled himself well."

Vandals damage VFW Hall

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1153 was recently vandalized when four rocks were thrown through two different windows on the north side of the building.

David Goldstick, the quarter master for Post 1153, said the incident occurred sometime between 9 p.m. on Nov. 18 and 8 a.m. Nov. 19.

The rocks broke through the 48 inch by 41 inch windows and storm windows and created about $500 in damage, Troy La Count and Tony Postmus of Twin Bays Glass said.

However, Goldstick said with added cleanup costs the incident will result in about $1,000 worth of damage.

Brady's Carpet Cleaning and Janitorial cleaned up the glass while Goldstick and Bill Brady, board of trustee member and assistant quarter master, got the hall ready for that night's game of

Township planners vote for size cap

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix Township Planning Commission voted 3 to 1 to recommend a 90,000 square foot cap size for large big box buildings during their meeting on Nov. 17.

Nancy E. Rajewski, chairman of the Charlevoix Township Planning Commission, said the cap size is one proposed amendment for the township's zoning ordinance and isn't finalized.

The commission's vote represents the size most people could live with and will be presented in a public hearing in the near future, Rajewski said.

Correction

Several readers reported that a picture on page 16 of a goose in last week's edition of the Charlevoix Courier is not a visitor to Round Lake, but a local. Charlevoix reader Zita Winn, was one of those who informed us of our mistake. Here is what she wrote to us about the goose:

"I just thought you might like to know, the picture you took of the goose you saw swimming in Round Lake Monday "on his journey south" is not a visitor. He has lived in Round Lake for four years.

His name is Buddy and he has many friends in the harbor and around the lake including my dog, Clipper. Buddy is not afraid of Clipper and amazingly, Clipper is not afraid of Buddy. Buddy's signature honk, a very, very loud honk at that, can be heard day and night from May until the snow flies, whenever he is hungry. If he sees someone he recognizes as a friend, he starts honking and swims to you looking for a handout of lettuce, his favorite treat. He can be a little demanding, depending on how much time has elapsed between feedings. If car alarms go off downtown or the bridge bell sounds or a boat horn honks, Buddy immediately honks back, not once, but as many times as the horn honks.

My neighbor, Dave Guance, is Buddy's keeper and is kind enough to let Buddy reside in his boathouse where he has his own small floating perch and a good supply of food. When the lake freezes to the point where Buddy has trouble moving around, Dave transports him to a farm just outside of Charlevoix where he can enjoy the rest of the winter finding his own food. Then in early spring Dave brings Buddy back to Round Lake. He is definitely some of our local color.

I have been told by some DNR people that Buddy was probably dropped off here a few years ago because his type of goose does not have the ability to fly great distances, so they pretty much stay very close to one spot. Like any pet, Buddy knows his name, so next time you see him, have some lettuce ready, call his name and hand feed our special friend. You will have a friend for life."

Builder's Club sending troops care packages

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Six fifth graders at Charlevoix Middle School are doing their part to help the soldiers currently serving in Iraq.

Madison Zimmerman, Megan Peters, Carley Price, Austen Lobenherz, Cristin Cole and Chelsie Hoffman are a part of the Builder's Club at the middle school, a student-led community service organization and a part of the Kiwanis International family, and comprise the Community Committee.

Karrie Gaffney, staff advisor and counselor at the middle school, said the Builder's Club does a lot for the school and community, but these six students took it upon themselves to create a care package and video for the soldiers.

The students did all the work, Gaffney said, which included gathering the materials, researching the information and finding an address to where they could send the package of supplies.

Gaffney said the idea for a care package stemmed from the students themselves who wanted to do something to help the soldiers.

This project is important for the students, Gaffney said.

"It just gets them to think of things beyond themselfs," she said.

Gaffney said sending a care package and video to the soldiers also creates a more patriotic awareness for the students.

"They realize turmoil is going on in the world," she said.

For the video, the students choreographed the movements and created the dialogue they speak while introducing themselves to the soldiers they intend to continuously support.

"I think it's helpful and it's nice and it lets them know that people care about them," Peters said.

Peters said making the video was her favorite part and she finds the project important because the soldiers are fighting for freedom.

"It was important to us because they don't have this stuff in Iraq," she said of the many entertainment and hygiene items included in the care package.

Lobenherz said he enjoyed making the video and is interested in making more in the future.

"I just felt this was fun doing it," he said.

Hoffman, the chairperson of the committee, said she enjoyed gathering up items for the soldiers because she wants to help them.

"It's a good project because they're trying to help us so we should come and try to help them," she said.

Price enjoyed making the video because she and the other members were able to identify themselves to the soldiers who will receive their package and wish them luck.

"It's important just to keep them happy and keep their spirits up," she said. "So they can have confidence and do better with the war."

Cole had fun with the video as well, but she said her favorite part was that they were doing something good for the troops in Iraq.

"It's important because troops have been fighting for our country and its just a gift to give to them for fighting for our country," she said.

Zimmerman said she enjoyed gathering all the needed supplies and creating a care package for the troops. She said her mom was helpful in getting the supplies she thought the troops needed.

"It's important because they're helping our community and it's really nice for them to be brave and fighting," she said.

With future care packages, Zimmerman said she would like to gather more items and extend the length of the video.

Price, Peters and Cole have family members currently serving in the military.

Price's cousin, James Wiklanski, is set to be deployed to Iraq this winter. Peters and Cole's cousin Neal Green is currently serving overseas as a member of the U.S. Navy. Their other cousin Randi Delamater and her boyfriend Ryan Hunter are no longer in the Navy but previously served.

The Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix sponsors the Builder's Club.

"So the kids in the schools will start learning at a young age to give back to the community and help others and not expect something in return," said Gayle Gennett, the Kiwanis advisor for the fifth and sixth grade members.

Larry Roth is the Kiwanis advisor for the seventh grade members.

Gennett said the club recently sent items to the Charlevoix Food Pantry and took time to make 65 cards, one for each resident at Pine River Place, and sing Thanksgiving songs.

The cards and songs were well received and Gennett said the group is invited back for Christmas.

There are about 40 active members, Gennett said, and they are always participating in projects and maintaining active participation in the community such as raking leaves.

Gennett said the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix helps the Builder's Club out financially and offers the student officers a chance to have lunch with them so they can see how adults manage meetings. This knowledge can then be used for how they manage their meetings, Gennett said.

"It's a good thing all the way around," she said.

Builder's Club is open to anyone and for more information call Gaffney at 547-3214 or Gennett at 547-5598.

Stay sober on the roads this holiday

EDITORIAL

With the holiday season upon us, we would like to remind every one of our readers to keep it safe when out enjoying time with family and friends.

By keeping it safe, we mean staying sober when driving on the roads.

Throughout this season we find ourselves at many functions and gatherings where alcohol is being served. But, too many times during this year, journalists must report how the joy of the season was smashed due to a death on the roads caused by alcohol being served.

Too many times we hear of families being destroyed due to drunk driving. There are too many funerals, too many tears and too much sadness during a time that should be filled with happiness, all because someone wanted to drive home after drinking too much alcohol.

We have heard all the excuses before. People saying they feel fine after downing several beers, saying they will drive slower or saying they will have someone follow them home. In reality, none of these excuses work, you are still risking your life and the lives of other people on the roadway.

When someone is arrested for drunk driving in Charlevoix, we at the Courier have no sympathy for them when they spend the night in jail, pay several thousands of dollars in fines, see their insurance rates increase and read their name in our On The Record section. By that person even getting behind the wheel of a vehicle after drinking, they were showing no sympathy to the other, innocent, people on the roads that they could have killed if they were not stopped by that officer.

We urge our readers to refrain from drinking before getting behind the wheel this season. We suggest you bring along a designated driver, hire a cab or even walk home from whatever event or gathering you are planning on taking part in. And, if you see a friend or relative about to get behind the wheel after drinking, stop them. Help save them from making a big mistake.

Let's keep Charlevoix safe over the holidays.

Column response

Editor:

It is with great joy that I write this letter in response to your editorial of Nov. 10 on morality of should I say, the lack of it, in the Bush administration. I commend your intelligence and courage to face the facts head on and truly bring them to light. Your opinion on the issues of abortion, gay marriage, the death penalty, ending poverty, stem cell research and most importantly, peace, ask the same questions of the right wing "Christian" Republican party that I have been asking for the past four years. You cannot have it both ways: You cannot fight against abortion, but believe in letting people die in war — both on our side and theirs — die in poverty, die from disease or be put to death in prison. If you believe in life, all those lives must make a difference, too.

I find it totally ironic that Bush criticizes human rights in so many countries around the world, but ignores it in America in our own army. He boasts democracy in the United States and says that Iraq must have it, but our voting system doesn't even qualify for former President Jimmy Carter's peace group to monitor our election. We don't even have one person, one vote; does that bother anyone else except me?

"Mission Accomplished"? I think anyone who watches the news can see that Bush's war is not over and he has unleashed more terrorists around the world than ever existed before. You cannot oppress a people, take away their dignity, force them to accept democracy, occupy their country and expect them to be happy about it.

Is Bush going to attack every country that has an official who doesn't measure up to his Christian right so-called morality? Is Iran next? How about North Korea or Pakistan or any one of a hundred countries? Bush is beginning to act like the leaders he despises in condoning and promoting the same religious zealousness in America that he is fighting in Iraq, but he doesn't even recognize it.

Thank you, Mr. McBain, for showing me that this is still America and we can express our views in opposition to our government leaders. Thank you for your courage, your insight, your intelligence. You will be greatly missed when you leave the Courier. Till then, make every word count!

In search of morality,

Concerned about park, marina plans

Editor:

I have concerns about East Park and our marina becoming too urban and losing the quaintness of Charlevoix. I agree that we need new docks and a new sea wall, but keep in the soft lines following the curve of the park.

Round Lake is a water painting. Presently there are buoys which indicate where the docks will extend. The height of the dock alone does not impede the view of the water, however, if you stand on the dock next to the Coast Guard boat or sit in the Memorial Park, two or three story boats would block your view.

The present plan is an unnecessary infiltration of the public surface waters, both by obstructing the view and blocking recreational use to the public.

I am concerned about permanent cement arena seating for the band shell. This cold, urban renovation, although functional, does not give the warm, comfortable atmosphere that makes Charlevoix so popular.

And the fish pond will be gone, forever. The two small ponds that are planned to decorate a marina should be put in the Coast Guard building or remodel or replace the chamber building.

A viewing dock, why? If you keep the docks and soft lines of the seawall as is, you see all the view you want from the park and Bridge Street.

Do we need the grant money so fast that we are pushed to make quick decisions with minimum public input? Can't we carefully plan a suitable renovation for everyone?

We all have an interest in the future of Charlevoix. Please, let's express them to the city council and the Courier.

Get moving on marina

Editor:

As residents who may be most impacted by the new marina in Round Lake, we feel compelled to voice our opinion. We live very close to the docks and mooring area. We are also boaters who frequent many marinas in the north, including Elk Rapids, Traverse City, Petoskey and other points beyond. Consequently, we attended as many meetings as we could and closely studied the plans as they were presented. Naturally, we care deeply about water quality, the environment and our view; we also care about safe, quality docks and facilities for boaters.

After dozens of hearings and meetings over several years, most of which were well-publicized and well-attended by citizens of this city, a plan was developed. This plan was a scaled back version of the original plan, designed to satisfy the diverse opinions and interests of the citizens. Time marched by, deadlines expired, funds evaporated and still we made no progress. In the meantime, surrounding communities went ahead and developed wonderful facilities which the boating public could enjoy. Charlevoix still waited and debated. Our city government continued to bicker and snipe at each other and the agencies which sought to bring this plan to fruition. The negativism expressed in many of these meetings and the press was unproductive and frankly, tiresome.

Now, we look out at a very clear, graphic display of the plan, marked by orange buoys. It appears that while it does extend into Round Lake, the docks will swerve the needs of boaters, perhaps cut down on haphazard moorings, be safe for pedestrians in the park and impact Charlevoix in a positive way. We are whole heartedly in favor of the dock and

Thank you

Editor:

Recently I was involved in a life threatening accident involving the collapse of a hoist that I was under while working on my truck at my home.

Most times catastrophic events like this end up as a fatality.

I truly believe that I survived this because of the expertise, rapid response and care given to me by the City of Charlevoix/Charlevoix Township Fire Departments, EMS and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department. It is hard to put into words my gratitude and thanks to these heroes.

People like this make our community strong, safe and a great place to live. My family thanks you, and I thank you.

Thank you

Editor:

As this season of Thanksgiving draws closer, I want to take this opportunity to appreciate some people who helped make a recent project a wonderful success.

On Nov. 6, Freedom House sponsored a fund-raising silent auction and bake sale to benefit the Brad Crowell family. I want to first of all thank the Petoskey News-Review for running the story in the late summer about the accident that Brad suffered; it was that story that God used to enable us to open our arms to a man and a family that we did not know, had never met, and only knew that there was a need.

I thank Freedom House for embracing the vision to show the heart of Jesus by supporting and getting involved in the benefit. So many donated items for the auction, baked for the sale, promoted and were generous and contributed items for the auction. All of the people who attended, purchased, and made donations even beyond their purchases are to be thanked as well for making this event a success.

As a church, Freedom House learned the truth of the scripture that says it is more blessed to give than to receive.

We were rewarded beyond any expectation when we went to Brad, met the family, and gave them the check from the benefit. As they graciously accepted our blessing to them, we in turn were blessed by their thankfulness and the prayer Brad prayed for us.

Finally, I want to thank area churches who have been motivated by this need and are making plans for their own avenues of ministry to the Crowell family.

When we initiated this in September, it was my hope that others would learn of the need and also find an expression of love and blessing to the family.

Because of everyone working together, supporting, and contributing their part, the total to date that has come from the benefit is over $4,550.

Calls are still coming in and we are hearing of others who have heard of the need and have sent assistance on their own.

It looks like the truth of the Bible of doing and living as Jesus did has played itself out in contemporary times and it truly is a beautiful thing for which we give thanks.

Reading house call

Charlevoix Elementary School Principal Richard Swenor reads to second grader KeNen Borths, 8, on Nov. 22. Swenor came to Borths' home as a part of a yearly tradition where he goes to the homes of students who's names are drawn and reads to them. Swenor brought several books for Borths to choose from and he read three of them and did a magic show at the end. Borths is the son of Marci Borths.

November is Hospice Month

November marks National Hospice Month, celebrated each year in November, focusing on living life as fully as possible up until the end of life.

"Most people think hospice is what you do when there's nothing left to do," said Nancy Bottomley, Director of Adult Health and Aging Services for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the health department that serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties. "That couldn't be farther from the truth. Hospice provides a wide range of services to the family and patient that maximize quality of life and help people live as fully as possible, on their terms."

The health department, in partnership with Hospice of Northwest Michigan, uses an interdisciplinary team of health care professionals and trained volunteers to provide pain management, symptom control, psychosocial support, and spiritual care to dying clients, helping them to live with dignity, comfort and compassion.

Hospice is a covered benefit under Medicare, Medicaid, most private insurance plans and HMOs.

"National Hospice Month provides a wonderful opportunity to raise awareness of the options of care available," Bottomley said. "Far too many people wait until they are facing a health crisis to learn about care options. The best time to learn about end-of-life care is before it becomes a serious issue."

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

For additional information about the Hospice of Northwest Michigan, telephone Home Health at the health department at (231) 547-6092 or (800) 551-4140.

Claire A. Chew: Feb. 27, 1910 - Nov. 5, 2004

Claire A. Chew died Friday, Nov. 5, 2004 at Boulder Park Terrace in Charlevoix.

Claire was the son of Archie and Fern Chew. He was born on Feb. 27, 1910 in Hayes Township, Charlevoix County. He was raised on the Chew farm with his four brothers, Addison, Byron, Alton and Edwin; and one sister, Margaret. A fifth brother, Stanley, died in childhood.

Claire graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1928. He attended Charlevoix County Normal and Eastern Michigan College where he received a special teacher's certificate. He taught sixth grade at the Bendle School District near Flint. During summer recesses he worked at a variety of jobs in Flint or Charlevoix County. Claire worshipped at the First Church of God in Flint where he met his future wife, Pauline Reynolds Scull, and her young son, Ancil. Claire and Pauline were married in February of 1938. They were blessed with two more children, Vincent and Cheryl.

During World War II, Claire went to work for General Motors doing defense work. After the war, he continued working at GM where he became a journeyman toolmaker in the experimental engineering department of Buick. He furthered his education at General Motors Technical Institute.

Although Claire raised his family in the city of Flint, his heart was always in the north country. Every summer, as soon as school recessed, the family would head for Burt Lake where they would set up their tent at the state park. Usually Claire would return to Flint during the week to work at Buick and would join Pauline and the children at the lake on weekends.

The family would stay the limit at Burt Lake then move to another state park and set up camp again. Claire built a small outboard powered skiff that the family used for fishing and joy riding. Claire was an avid sportsman who enjoyed hunting, fishing, softball, golf and scouring the woods for berries. He also enjoyed cooking and baking and took classes in bread making.

After Claire retired, he and Pauline moved to Gaylord where they built a home on Alba Road. Claire worked part time for a while at the White Tool Corporation. While still in Flint, Claire had been active in the Big Brothers organization. He was instrumental in starting the Big Brothers in Gaylord and served a term as director. He enjoyed having a little brother, Rick. Claire and Pauline were devout Christians and worshiped regularly at the Evangelical Free Church of Gaylord.

When Claire and Pauline both became legally blind with macular degeneration and could not drive, they moved into an apartment in town. Following Pauline's death in 1997, Claire came up with a plan to combat loneliness. He requested a guestbook for Christmas. With assistance from his dear friend Helga Heath he began preparing meals at his apartment for two to four guests one evening a week. Each guest was asked to sign the book. The book contains 118 names. Needing a way to exercise his mind, Claire began memorizing poetry. He was especially fond of Longfellow's epics. With great perseverance, he would work with a powerful magnifying glass learning a word at a time until he had memorized the entire "Song of Hiawatha," "The Skeleton In Armor," "The Cremation of Sam McGee" and several others. He could be counted on to offer one of these with great dramatic flare whenever the occasion arose.

After living four years at Alpine Alten Zimmer, Claire spent his last few months at Boulder Park Terrace in Charlevoix.

Claire is survived by: his son, Vincent (Mary Ann); his daughter, Cheryl (Lee) Alexander; Pauline's son, Ancil (Mary) Scull; grandchildren, Carmen (Leonel) Rosales, Mark (Analee) Alexander, Michael (Lisa) Chew, Susan (Joseph) Carvalho, Daniel Scull, David (Carla) Scull, John (Michelle) Scull; great-grandchildren, Emily, Timothy and Coralee Rosales, Connor Chew, Nicholas and Jerod Carvalho, Andrea, Christopher, Lyndsey, Erin, Skylar and Haley Scull; brothers, Alton (Bea) and Edwin (Wanda); and sister, Margaret (Richard) Burgess.

Claire was preceded in death by his parents; his brothers, Stanley, Addison, and Byron; his grandson, Timothy Alexander; and his wife, Pauline.

His remains will be interred beside those of his beloved wife, Pauline, and their grandson, Timothy, at Flint Memorial Park Cemetery, Mt. Morris.

A celebration of Claire's life was given at Evangelical Free Church on Friday, Nov. 12.

Anne Marie Staley, 92, of Charlevoix, died Nov. 20, 2004, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan.

A funeral service was Tuesday, Nov. 2 at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Michael Mauer will officiate, and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix Camera expands to serve digital

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix Camera has added many new additions to its business to stay current with today's technological trends.

"We are a full service studio for both traditional and digital photographers," Marell Staffel, owner of Charlevoix Camera, said. "This gives us the chance to provide more customer service and high quality, which we are already known for."

Staffel said the increase in digital camera use has allowed her to expand her business into new areas. One of those areas is the addition of machines that will make "archival quality" prints from a digital camera up to 12 by 18 inches. These prints can be made from most digital cameras.

Archival quality prints will last up to 140 years.

Staffel added she also has purchased a machine that allows her customers to see the digital photographs on their camera or memory card and choose which ones to have printed, all right at Charlevoix Camera's front counter. These images can be printed right away.

Plus, with the holiday season right upon us, Staffel has added digital to her list of photographs that customers can use for their holiday cards. Customers just need to bring in their digital camera or memory card, pick a card style, pick a picture and Staffel can have the two merged into a personalized card for the customer to send to family and friends. This process works the same way for almost every other type of print.

Staffel has also added a service for those who do not have digital cameras, but want their photographs digitized. She said she is offering customers with 35 millimeter film a free computer disk of their pictures along with their traditional prints. This disk can be used by the customer to send out their pictures to relatives over e-mail or place the pictures on a personal web page, in additional to many other digital uses.

While she has expanded her business digitally, Marell has also expanded her business physically to meet the needs of her custom framing clients. Charlevoix Camera has offered custom framing for many years, but recently the business was expanded by 400 square feet to provide more framing room.

Staffel said she can frame anything a customer wants, including children's artwork, posters, photographic prints and original artwork. She can also provide "conservation framing" for that artwork that you want protected for generations.

When framing Staffel can also give her customers the perfect frame for the item they are framing and their home. Staffel is known for her designer's eye when framing.

Staffel bought Charlevoix Camera in 1992, after working there since 1984. She has been very involved in the community as a business person and has given free pictures of children with Santa and the Easter Bunny in connection with the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce since the mid-1980s. She is also a vice president of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, a board member of This Is Our Town and a member of the Pilgrim Handbell Ringers.

Charlevoix Camera is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday. It is located on Bridge Street next to Oleson's market.

How to get your news into your Charlevoix Courier

If you have a news item you think would be perfect for the Charlevoix Courier, feel free to call 547-6558, e-mail news@charlevoixcourier.com or visit the Courier office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

News items include events sponsored by non-profit organizations. Please inform us of your event at least two weeks in advance.

Our coverage area is the city of Charlevoix and its immediately surrounding areas, including Beaver Island.

Because of space limitations in the newspaper, we generally try to avoid publishing "check-handing" pictures or "ribbon-cutting" pictures. However, we will work with your organization to get a picture that reflects the event and is visually interesting to our readers.

Due to time constraints on the staff, we cannot attend every event of which we are notified. If you have a picture of your event, we will gladly consider it for publication. But, please, contact us before your event.

It should be noted, each story and picture is dealt with on its individual merits. Any policies outlined above may be suspended by the editor or general manager of the Charlevoix Courier if necessary.

Garden Club honored by governor Granholm

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club recently received a certificate of recognition for 15 years of service from Governor Jennifer Granholm and the State Transportation Director Gloria Jeff.

One of Michigan's original volunteer groups, the garden club's Adopt-A-Highway committee cleans up roadside litter along US-31 between Charlevoix and Petoskey for a two mile stretch east of Big Rock.

According to Governor Granholm's proclamation of Adopt-A-Highway Volunteer Week: "Adopt-A-Highway volunteers possess strong commitment and are dedicated to keeping our state beautiful for visitors and residents alike. An average of 15,000 volunteers participate in pickups three times a year, representing more than 2,500 groups that have adopted 5,740 miles of state highways. These services save taxpayers millions of dollars annually while removing an incredible 13 million bags of trash from Michigan highways since the inception of the program in 1990."

Garden Club committee members attest to the satisfaction of making an immediate difference for good along one of Michigan's most scenic roadways.

Infant found in area with whooping cough

> "Someone with a chronic cough may visit a newborn, not realizing that the cough is a symptom of pertussis, and the baby could end up very ill with pertussis."
> Patricia Fralick,
> Director of Family Health Services

An infant from Emmet County was recently diagnosed with pertussis, or whooping cough, according to officials at the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the health department that serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

Pertussis is a disease that is prevented with immunization, but the first DTaP "shot" which protects against diphtheria, tetanus, and pertussis, isn't given until a baby is two months old.

"Babies too young to immunize against pertussis, or children whose immunizations are not up-to date, are the most vulnerable," said Patricia Fralick, Director of Family Health Services for the health department.

"Someone with a chronic cough may visit a newborn, not realizing that the cough is a symptom of pertussis, and the baby could end up very ill with pertussis."

Adults with pertussis often do not feel particularly ill, except for a cough that won't go away. But it causes spasms of severe coughing in infants and children so bad that it is hard to eat, drink, or breathe.

These spells can sometimes last for weeks and can lead to pneumonia, seizures and death.

Infants in particular can get very ill from whooping cough and often have to be hospitalized in an intensive care unit for two weeks or more.

Major complications are most common in infants and young children and include pneumonia, seizures, malnutrition and brain infection.

"Early in the twentieth century, pertussis was one of the most common childhood diseases and a major cause of death for children," Fralick said.

Since the widespread use of vaccines, the incidence of pertussis has decreased significantly, but Michigan has seen an increase in the number of reported cases of pertussis this year.

Persons with whooping cough should be treated with certain antibiotics, both to help modify the course of the illness (if given early enough) and also to limit the spread of disease to others.

In addition, a course of preventive antibiotic therapy is recommended for household and other close contacts of a case.

Anyone diagnosed with pertussis should stay home and away from public activities — including school, childcare and the workplace — to avoid exposing others until appropriately treated with antibiotics.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties.

Its staff is dedicated to preventing disease and injury and promoting healthy communities. For more information about pertussis or the DTaP vaccine, visit www.cdc.gov, contact your physician, or telephone the health department at (800) 432-4121 during regular business hours.

Cookie houses to be at walk

The Annual First Congregational Church Cookie Walk, to be from 9 to 11 a.m. on Dec. 4 , has added a new cookie to its vast selection — one in the form of a house.

This year the Cookie Walk committee asked Charlevoix residents Barb and Tim Clagett, who have been making Cookie Houses for their grandchildren to decorate for 20 years, to share their expertise in making cookie houses with other members of the church. They willingly obliged and turned their kitchen into a hands-on Cookie House workshop where eager participants learned everything from making the dough to the assembling the pieces with royal icing.

The houses turned out at the workshops along with others that have been baked by church members will be available for sale at the cookie Walk for $15 for those wishing to have the fun of decorating their own.

Two of the ready-to-decorate houses were given to pastry chef, Kelly Romano, co-owner of the Grey Gables, who decorated them with a colorful assortment of candies, royal icing and molded chocolate. These houses will be raffled off and are on display at the First Congregational Church. Tickets are $1 each or six for $5 and are on sale at the church until 12 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 4 when the drawing will take place following the Cookie Walk.

The Annual Cookie Walk has been a much anticipated event for many years. Lines form before the doors open at 9 a.m. It's no wonder people look forward to this event since there are over 500 dozen homemade in a large variety of holiday favorites. Cookies are sold by the pound ($7 per pound).

Craft items and pre-wrapped plates of cookies for gift-giving will also be for sale.

Draft of city dog ban to be created

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix is on its way to designing a new ordinance banning dogs from East Park.

On Nov. 15, council voted unanimously to direct Charlevoix City Attorney Jim Young to draft an ordinance that would prohibit dogs from East Park, from Clinton to Mason streets, from May 15 to Oct. 15.

Originally, council was considering an ordinance draft that would ban dogs from East Park, from Clinton to Antrim streets.

It was determined this would harm the boaters that come to Charlevoix and bring their dogs, because the Charlevoix Harbormaster's Office was included in that ban.

Charlevoix Harbormaster Hal Evans said many boaters bring their dogs with them with they visit the Charlevoix marina.

He estimated half of the seasonal boaters bring dogs each year.

In a letter to council on the matter, Halverson said, "Because of the historic access to the marina office by boaters and their dogs, Hal (Evans) would like the city council to consider moving the southern boundary to Mason Street. The boaters who visit our marina would not receive prohibiting dogs between Mason Street and Antrim Street very well."

This new plan would make the entire area around the Harbor Master's office open to dogs, which some on council said would eliminate the need to create a dog run in East Park.

In addition to the boundary change, Halverson also suggested making the dog prohibition from Memorial Day to Labor Day to coincide with the dog ban on city beaches.

However, council members were not responsive to that, saying that plan would not include the Apple Festival.

Council Member Bill Bellows suggested looking at a ban that would exist from May 15 until Oct. 15.

This would include the Apple Festival and not keep dogs out of the park during the slow off season months.

Island teacher uses toothpick lumber for math lesson

Fifth-grader Jenna Battle (left) can't control her enthusiasm as the bridge her team built withstands another weight added by Donna Stambaugh, fifth/sixth grade teacher at Beaver Island Community School. Looking on beside Jenna is fifth-grader Dan LaFreniere.

The recent hurricanes in Florida had a direct hit on a project undertaken by fifth and sixth-graders at Beaver Island Community School.

As part of a recent math activity in Donna Stambaugh's class, students formed construction companies and assigned duties within the cooperative learning group.

After studying ancient and modern bridge designs, each group was assigned to design and build a bridge that met certain specifications.

They were given a budget of $1.5 million to build a bridge that could withstand the specification weight load.

And that's when the impact of the hurricanes were felt.

Students had to fill out purchase forms, write checks and balance their accounts daily as the building progressed and they purchased their building supplies — toothpicks — from Mrs. Stambaugh's Lumber Co.

As with all "real life" construction projects, problems arose.

With the hurricanes repeatedly hitting Florida, the price of lumber — the toothpicks — soared.

Some groups ran out of money prematurely and couldn't purchase the volume of toothpicks they originally hoped to buy.

The class activity culminated in a "strongest bridge contest" when each bridge was stressed to the breaking point.

Math continued during this exciting time, Stambaugh explained, because students needed to add up the weights used to stress the bridge.

All the fifth and sixth graders experienced great pride in their completed projects.

Student evaluations of the project included descriptions such as "awesome" and "I loved it."

Health Department reports Norwalk outbreak

Public health officials announced today that lab results confirm Norwalk virus as the cause of stomach flu symptoms in Charlevoix County.

About 30 people from Charlevoix County had reported gastrointestinal symptoms to the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency, the local health department that serves Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

"We carefully investigate outbreaks like this one," said Joshua Meyerson, M.D. and Medical Director for the agency. "We have nurses and sanitarians trained to conduct investigations of communicable diseases. They've talked to everyone who was ill to determine possible causes and the lab results confirm Norwalk virus."

Meyerson said hand washing — thoroughly and often — is the best defense against contracting a communicable disease like Norwalk virus.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties.

Hospital to host annual Holly Daze

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation will be hosting its 12th Annual Holly Daze dinner and auction at 6 p.m. on Dec. 1 at the Charlevoix Country Club.

The event will only occur on one day with both the live and silent auctions occurring simultaneously. Patti Barraw, event coordinator for the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation, said the change will enable things to flow more smoothly and continue the five year tradition of having the event at the country club.

"It's a community event and it lets people know what the foundation is funding," Barraw said.

"It also gives local artists and businesses the opportunity to help the hospital."

Local artists and businesses donated all the items that will be available for both auctions.

"It means a lot and it shows the community's support for the hospital," she said.

Holly Daze has always received support from the community, Barraw said, and this year's goal is set at $60,000. However, Barraw hopes history will repeat itself and the funds generated by Holly Daze will surpass the goal.

The funds will go toward the purchase of a Computer Aided Detection (CAD) Mammography System for the Charlevoix Area Hospital's Imaging Department that Barraw said is able to detect breast cancer in its early stages.

Barraw said funds will also go toward the expansion of the Boyne Rehabilitation Center and to help underwrite the hospital foundation's community outreach programs.

An abundance of original artwork will be available along with numerous gift certificate packages, travel packages and much more.

The live auction items vary in size, value and adventure. One item up for bid is historic print of Charlevoix, which proceeds will be split between the Charlevoix Historical Society and the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation.

Another item is a package that includes an autographed baseball by Hall of Famer and Voice of the Detroit Tigers Ernie Harwell and 14 former Detroit Tiger members who participated in a fantasy baseball camp.

Barraw said the package also features a print by Boyne City folk artist Deneille Spohn Moes of a baseball game that features several famous baseball icons playing the game in East Jordan.

The print, Barraw said, is number 888 out of only 950.

Another hot item is a 10 foot dinghy featuring life jackets, a life preserver and a bottle of champagne for purposes of christening the boat.

Barraw said Charlevoix Screenmasters will print the name of the boat the winner chooses on the boat and on sweatshirts and T-shirts.

There are also travel packages available such as a one week stay in a condominium in South Carolina and an adventure package featuring a site-seeing flight over northern Michigan, a hot air balloon ride and other adventurous experiences.

Several other unique items are up for bid including the opportunity to dine at Richard and Virginia Lepman's historic home while eating food prepared by City Park Grill Chef John Norman.

Barraw said numerous original pieces of artwork will be available including a garden gazing ball donated by the Bergmann Center Inc. in Charlevoix.

The gazing ball is a mosaic of broken tile and Barraw said this one is unique because it features tiles with the Holly Daze logo.

Other items include a yellow and white gold necklace valued at $1,800, a hiker's package, wreaths, topiaries and several original watercolors.

Tickets are $100 per person and can be purchased at the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation's office.

For more information call the Charlevoix Area Hospital at 547-4024.

Crooked Tree Arts Center hosting holiday theater

Who: ArtsPower National Touring Theatre
What it is: Hans Brinker's Christmas
When: 3 and 7 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 4
Where: Petoskey Middle School

The story of a loving family captures the spirit of the holiday season in ArtsPower National Touring Theatre's production of Hans Brinker's Christmas at 3 and 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4 at the Petoskey Middle School.

The performance is about 55 minutes in length. This is in connection with the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

Mary Wiklanski, Community Cultural Coordinator at Crooked Tree Arts Center, said, "ArtsPower National Touring Theatre brought "A Little Princess Christmas" to northern Michigan last December and we were very impressed with the actors, who all stayed in character and talked to the wide-eyed kids after the show."

Based on Mary Mapes Dodge's classic "Hans Brinker and The Silver Skates," and set in 1840s Holland, this original musical affirms that those who act nobly are eventually rewarded. For ticket information, call Crooked Tree Arts Center at 347-4337 or order on line www.crookedtree.org

In the small rural town of Broek, Hans Brinker dreams of becoming a doctor in Amsterdam. Unfortunately, his father's crippling accident has forced him and his sister Gretel to remain at home and support the family.

Though times are hard, Hans and Gretel remain optimistic with the coming of Christmas and the annual ice skating race, for which an expensive pair of silver skates is the first prize.

In the song "Our Luck is Bound to Change," the two imagine their prosperity if Hans were to win. The race also attracts famed surgeon Dr. Boekman and his nephew, Peter.

Hans knows that Dr. Boekman can cure his father's condition; however, the Brinkers are too poor to afford the operation. With even more incentive to win, Gretel sells her favorite necklace to buy her brother a better pair of skates. Hans prepares for the race with the song, "When I Win."

Unfortunately, the elitist Dr. Boekman has no intention of operating on Hans's working-class father. He knows that if Peter wins the race, the Brinkers will remain too impoverished to pay. Peter is also eager to win in order to prove himself to his uncle.

On the day of the race, Hans and Peter are poised to compete until disaster strikes. Dr. Boekman tells Hans and Gretel that under no circumstances will he operate on their father. Making one final appeal to the doctor, Hans and Gretel remind him of his estranged son, Lawrence, who ran away from his father to be a doctor to the poor. Dr. Boekman finally agrees to operate.

The most important race already won. Hans is now able to realize his own dreams.

Presented with the warm-hearted excitement of the holiday season and celebrating goodwill toward all mankind, "Hans Brinker and the Silver Skates" was written by ArtsPower's artistic director Greg Gunning with a score by Richard DeRosa. The costumes were designed by Fred P. Sorrentino.

Mark and Gary Blackman founded ArtsPower in 1985 and have been steering its course ever since. ArtsPower has grown into one of America's premiere producers of professional Equity theater for young and family audiences, the second largest such company in the nation. Its 19 professional touring productions have been seen by nearly seven million people in 43 states — from Alaska to Florida — in some of the nation's top cultural centers, including The Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. and Lincoln Center in New York.

Tickets are $5 for students and $10 for adults. Purchase tickets at Crooked Tree Arts Center at 347-4337 or order on-line www.crookedtree.org.

St. Mary's to host holiday craft show

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

It's that time of year again and St. Mary School is kicking off the holiday season by hosting it's 11th Annual Charlevoix Open House and Holiday Craft Show from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Dec. 4.

Janet Troppman, principal of St. Mary School, and Mary Shepard, secretary of St. Mary School, have worked together and invited several crafters to come for the event and display their wares.

Troppman said she's expecting about 300 people or more to come and attend the event, which has become a part of the craft show circuit in northern Michigan.

Shepard said there will be approximately 40 booths set up for patrons to view the various artistic talents of those who crafted the items.

Some of the crafts available include carved wood items, hand-painted glassware and birdhouses, homemade crocheted items, candles, handbags, jewelry, stained-glass items and some quilts and pillows.

If that isn't enough to find a present for someone special or for oneself, there will also be handcrafted soaps, painted driftwood items, various flower arrangements, fleece blankets, American Girl doll clothes, other doll clothes, Native American Crafts, Christmas wreaths, various Christmas center pieces and more.

St. Mary School will have concession stands with items available for lunch. There will also be a bake sale and cookie walk.

The bake sale items include brownies, pies, cakes, cookies and breads, which are made by the parents of students and members of St. Mary's Rosary Altar Society.

If cookies are more the focus, the cookie walk will feature various types and designs.

"All our parents make these cookies and we encourage them to put artistic flair into it," Troppman said.

The containers for the cookie walk cost $13 for the large, $8 for the medium and $5 for the small. However, one is allowed to fill their container with as many cookies as it will hold.

The concession stand, bake sale and cookie walk proceeds will go toward basic operation costs for St. Mary School.

A Chocolate Lover's Basket raffle will be going on during the craft show. The basket will feature anything related to chocolate, Troppman said, which could include items such as chocolate, chocolate flavored specialized coffee and such things as a novel with chocolate in the title.

This year something new has crept into the Holiday Craft Show. Troppman said St. Mary School will be taking donations to help raise money for swimming lessons for the students.

Troppman said the school has participated in the swimming lessons provided at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool every year. The funds came from a private donor last year and this year the school is conducting various fundraisers to meet the total.

During the craft show, St. Mary's Rosary Altar Society will be raffling off a framed numbered print of an original painting done by local artist Jim Annis.

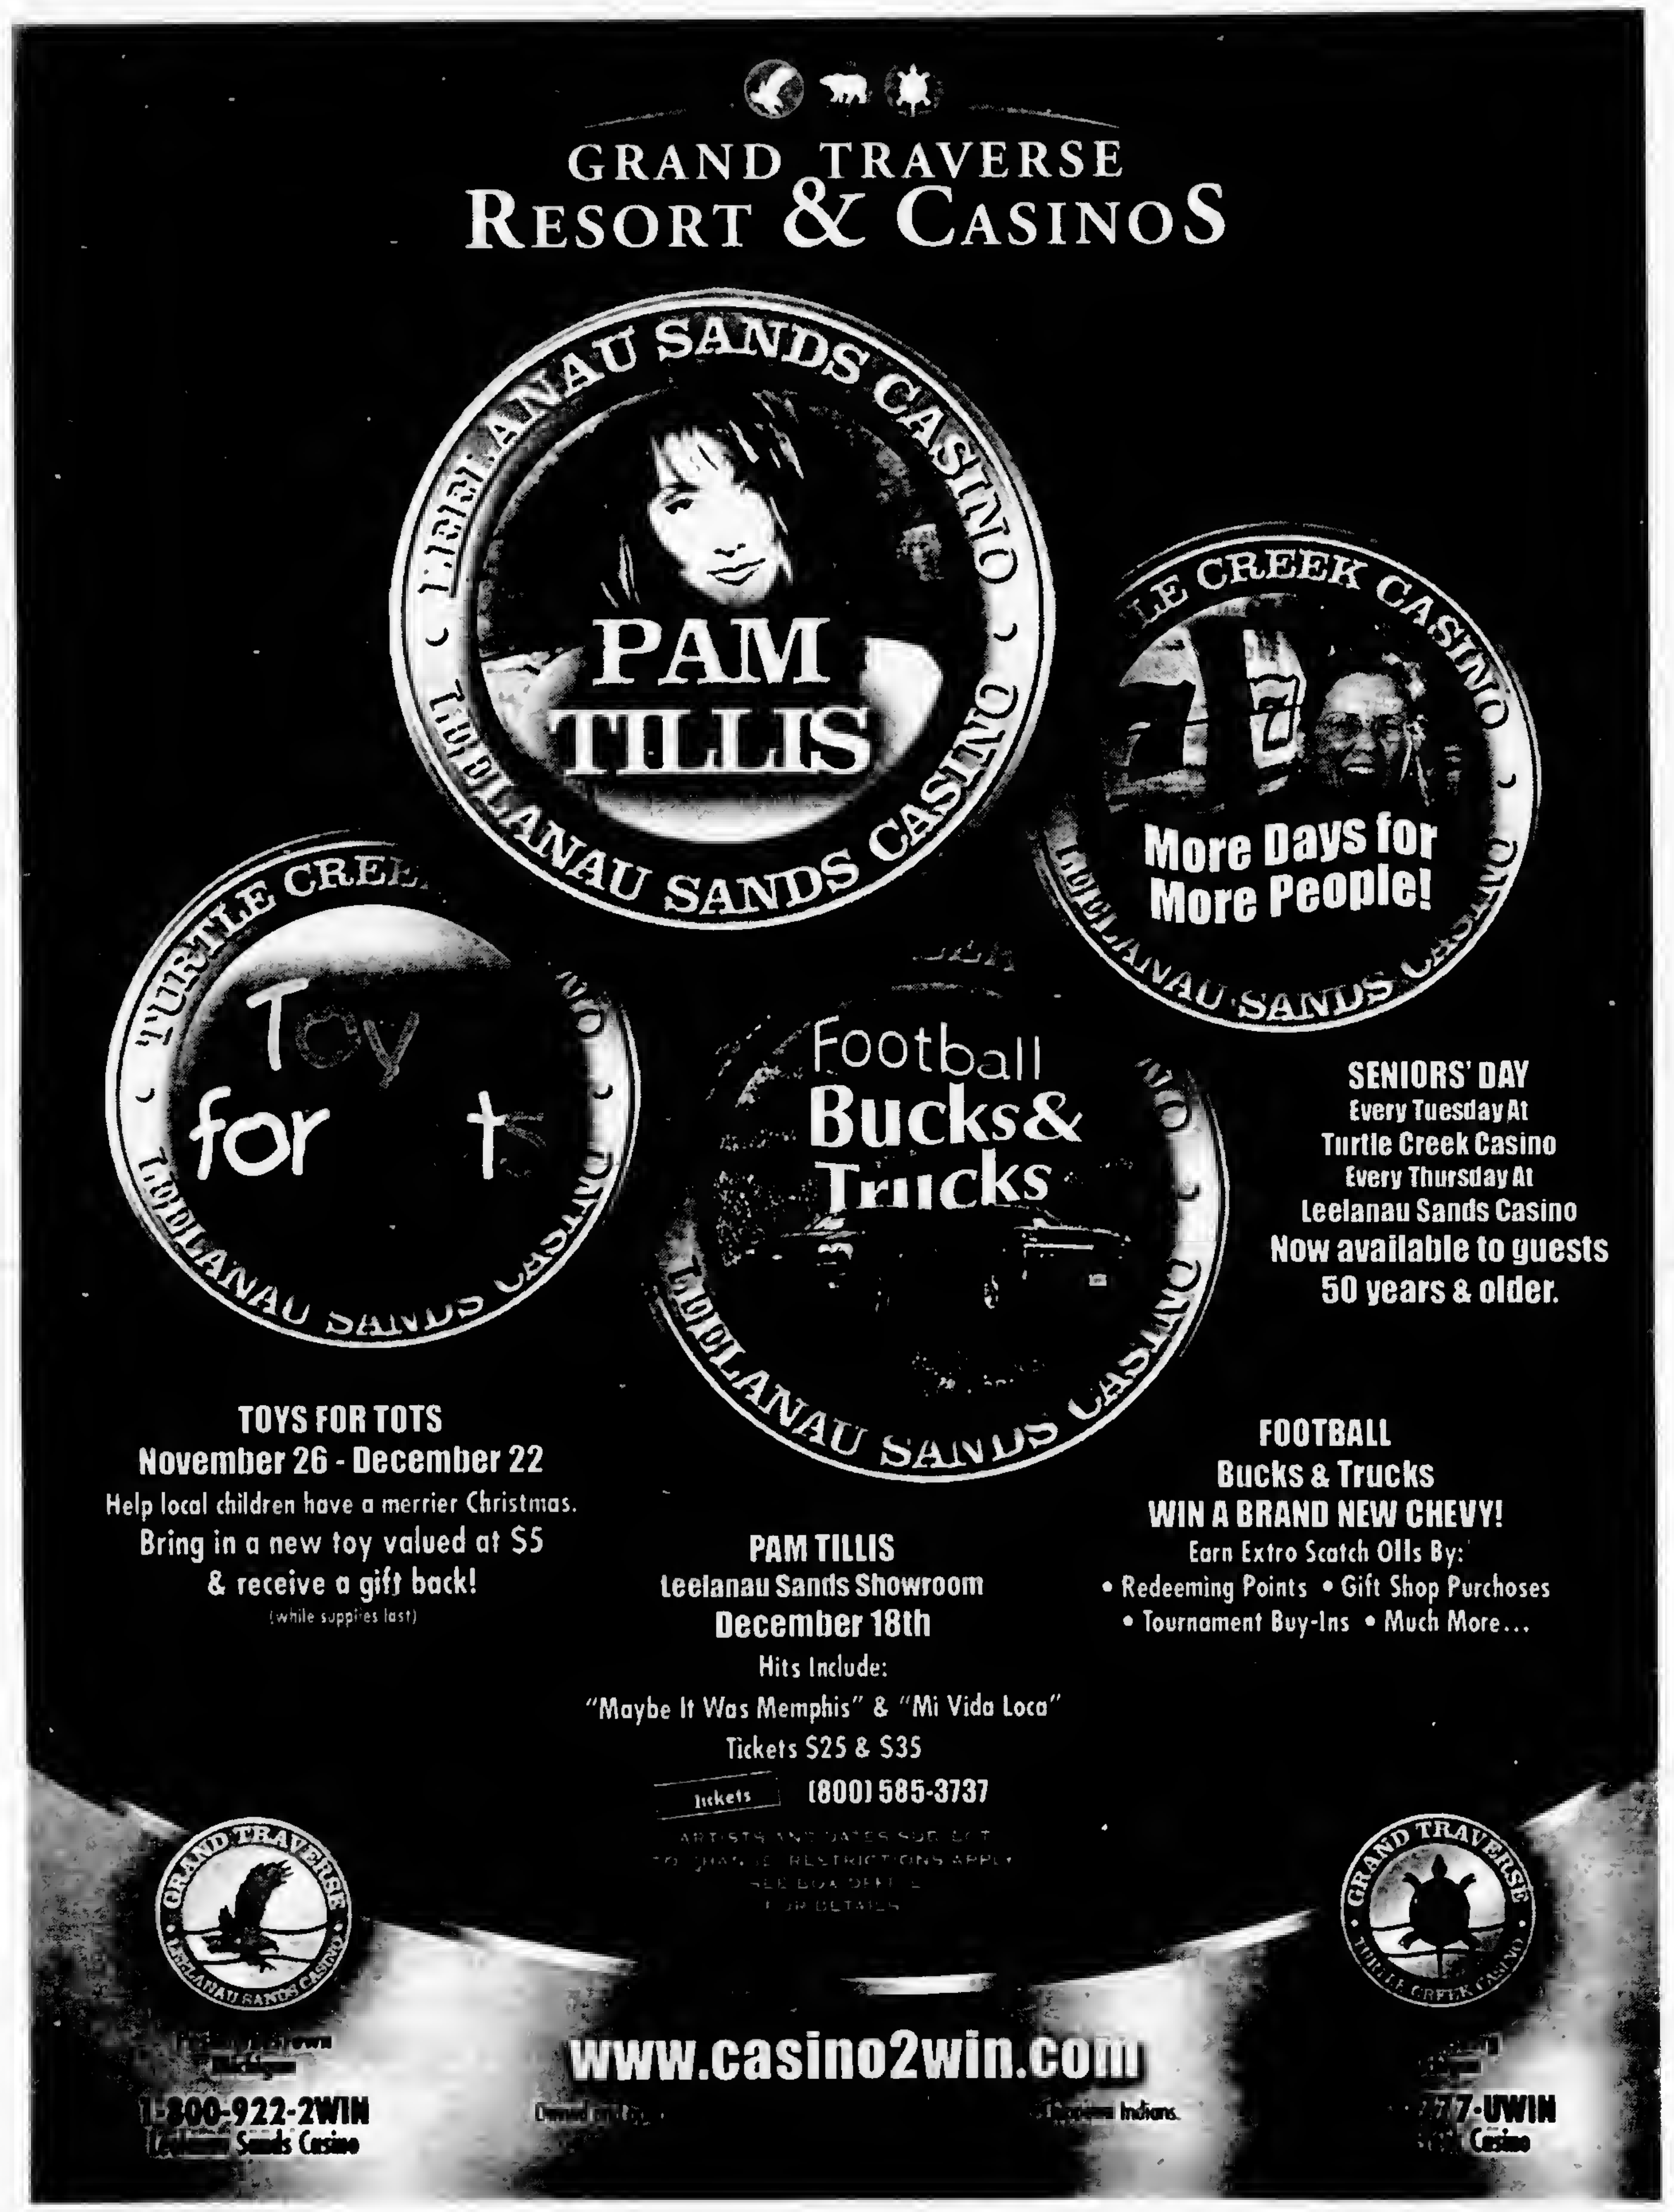
Rita Orlowski, who co-chairs the raffle with Maryann Stephan, said the painting was named by the St. Mary's Rosary Altar Society as "Charlevoix of Yesteryears" because it features old ships in Round Lake that used to be seen in Charlevoix.

Who: St. Mary's School
What it is: Annual open house and craft show to raise funds for the school
When: 3 p.m., Dec. 4
Where: St. Marys on Bridge Street

Homes that were there at the time the painting depicts can be seen in the background, Orlowski said, and some of the homes are still there today.

Tickets for the raffle cost $1 each or $5 for six tickets.

For more information on all the activities occurring during the Holiday Craft Show call St. Mary School at 547-9441.



AAA estimates more on the roads this holiday

An estimated 1 million Michiganians — 25 percent more than last year — said they will travel during the 2004 Thanksgiving holiday period, according to AAA Michigan.

The vast majority (82 percent) will visit relatives. In 2003, only 800,000 Michigan residents said they had Thanksgiving holiday travel plans.

Statewide, motorists will find gas prices at record high levels during the holiday weekend, paying an average 49 cents more per gallon than last year at his time. The statewide average for self-serve regular (as of Nov. 8) is $2.007 per gallon — a record for the Thanksgiving holiday period.

Cars, trucks and vans represent the most popular form of Thanksgiving transportation (69 percent). More Michigan residents, however, will travel by air in 2004 compared to last year (28 percent versus 13 percent).

"Thanksgiving traditionally represents family-oriented travel," said Cathy Green, vice president of sales and service for The Auto Club Group (ACG). "The increased interest in air travel reflects the overall growth we've seen in the leisure travel industry since the first quarter of the year."

According to Green, Thanksgiving falls during firearm deer hunting season and the start of the holiday shopping season, so travelers should be prepared for intermittent traffic congestion on major roads and near airports.

Among those planning a Thanksgiving vacation, 72 percent plan to go more than 100 miles from home and 51 percent plan to travel outside of Michigan.

Nearly half (49 percent) of travelers intend to stay with relatives during their journey, and 23 percent will stay at a hotel, motel or resort. Ten percent will stay with friends and 5 percent in a rented cottage or home.

The average trip will last four to five days at an average cost of $377. Peak travel dates include Wednesday, Nov. 24, and Sunday, Nov. 28.

To help cope with heavier-than-normal traffic volumes and heightened airport security, AAA recommends that travelers allow plenty of extra time to reach their destination. Check-in requirements for commercial airlines can result in loss of reserved seating for travelers who do not arrive on time (contact each airline directly for check-in rules and regulations).

AAA recommends arriving at the airport at least two to three hours before scheduled departure times. Other travel tips:

- Confirm flight schedules. Check with your airline either online or through a toll-free number to confirm flight schedules one week prior to departure and the day before departure.
- Print your boarding pass at home. Many airlines provide e-ticket services that allow you to print your boarding pass at home, complete with seat assignments. If you are checking luggage, you will still have to wait in line. If you have carry-on luggage only, you may proceed directly to security check-in.
- Be aware of airline carry-on luggage requirements. The size and number of carry-on items may be limited. Don't wait until you board the plane to find that an item needs to be checked in.
- Expect heavy congestion in front of the terminals around curb fronts. Curbs will be reserved for active loading and unloading only. Drivers dropping off or picking up passengers will not be allowed to wait. Park in short-term parking and meet your party in the baggage claim area.
- Airport security measures mean more hand-searches of checked and carry-on baggage, which may cause slowdowns at check-in and screening checkpoints.
- All passengers are required to have photo identification at the ticket counter and checkpoints. This is true regardless of the type of ticket issued (paper or electronic). Travelers heading outside of the North American continent need a valid passport.
- Wrap gifts after you arrive at your destination. Security personnel may request that gifts be unwrapped at screening checkpoints.
- Stay calm in lines and during inspections. Don't make jokes or take actions that may be construed as threatening.
- Consult airport web sites for maps and information on parking availability.

Auditors say city finances look good

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

According to an independent audit of the city of Charlevoix, the community is on good financial ground.

An audit by Rehmann Robson, certified public accountants, of Cheboygan, showed the city has done a good job in lowering its debt, keeping its budget balanced and planning for future expenses.

"I would like to commend the budget process the city has. The city manager and the city treasurer do a great job," said Mike Konicki, of Rehmann to the Charlevoix City Council Nov. 15. "The city is in a very solid financial position."

The auditors wrapped up their work in the city of Charlevoix for this report in July 2004. They presented their findings to city council at its Nov. 15 meeting.

Konicki was particularly impressed that the city spent $1.6 million on capital improvements during last year, but did not have to ask the citizens for a millage to borrow any of it due to proper planning.

Charlevoix City Treasurer Rick Brandi said this audit shows the city is doing well financially as of March 31, 2004. But, Brandi cautioned that there are challenges for the city ahead, in the form of cuts to the state revenue sharing and high business costs, such as health care.

"We have a lot of problems coming at us," he said.

But, Brandi said the city is planning for those problems by looking at two years instead of one when budgeting.

This gives the city more time to really look at its services, revenues and costs to determine what kind of financial changes need to be made.

"This is so you don't have to make a quick decision and shoot from the hip," he said.

Brandi said the city is currently in the process of working on its 2005 budget.

According to the audit, the city of Charlevoix will have $10,685,381 in revenues for 2004 and $10,606,513 in expenses. In 2003, the city had $10,788,381 in revenues and $10,228,932 in expenses.

The audit also said the primary total net assets of the city increased by $78,868. And the city has $440,295 or 12 percent of the total General Fund expenditures and transfers in an unreserved, undesignated fund balance for the General Fund. Of that, it has appropriated $1221,500 for spending in the 2004-2005 fiscal year budgets.

According to Brandi, this is on the low end of fund balances for cities.

The audit did suggest two additions to city policy.

The first being a disaster recovery plan and the second being a conflict of interest policy.

According to the audit, disaster recovery plans are intended to minimize the extent of interruption to normal business operations, establish a means for orderly recovery of programs and data and instruct personnel how to handle emergency situations.

The audit pointed out the city has such a plan for specific areas of city operations, such as public safety and the airport, but recommends creating a plan that addresses citywide operations.

Brandi said the city is looking into that recommendation.

As for a conflict of interest policy, the audit said this would be needed in the event that a member of the city council is employed by a corporation or business, or has a financial interest in a corporations or business which furnishes goods or services to the city, the council members shall declare his or her interests and refrain from debating or voting on the matter.

The auditors do believe the city has handled those situations in the past appropriately, but could not find a policy on the books.

Charlevoix City Attorney Jim Young said at the Nov. 15 city council meeting, when the auditors were presenting their findings to the council, that the city does have such a policy in writing.

However, Brandi said Monday that matter is still beings looked at as to what kind of conflict of interest policy the city actually has on the books.

Dangerous animals banned downtown

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix has banned "dangerous" animals from its downtown area in a unanimous decision by the city council Nov. 15.

After a public hearing with only one comment, council voted on the new ordinance which states: "No person shall possess a dangerous animal in any city park or on any sidewalk, public road or other public place within the Central Business District. This prohibition shall not apply to a dangerous animal which is being transported in a vehicle or container which is capable of preventing injury to a person by the dangerous animal."

The ordinance defines a dangerous animals as "any animal which because of its size, vicious propensity or other characteristic, would constitute a danger to human life, property or domestic animals if not restrained or kept in a cage or an ape, monkey of any species, alligator, crocodile or snake."

According to Charlevoix City Attorney Jim Young, the ordinance language includes an exclusion at certain times for such animals. This exclusion was added because the Charlevoix Venetian Festival brings an elephant into East Park for its annual Kids Day in July.

Under the ordinance, the elephant would be banned from the park. However, thanks to the exclusion, the Venetian Festival or any other organizations can bring such animals with permission.

This exclusion applies to all "special events" which is defined as "a festival recognized by the city or other public gathering for which approval has been given by the city council."

During the public hearing portion of the ordinance review Nov. 15, the only speaker was Charlevoix resident Bob Hoffman, who questioned the definition of the Central Business District.

Under the ordinance, the Central Business District means the boundaries of the Downtown Development Authority. However, Hoffman questioned what would happen if the Downtown Development Authority was dismissed. A Downtown Development Authority is meant to be a temporary organization formed for the purpose of construction of a downtown project.

It was decided that matter would be looked into when the time comes to disband the Downtown Development Authority in Charlevoix — something that is not being planned for several years.

This new ordinance banning dangerous animals will take effect Dec. 15. A violation of the ordinance is a civil infraction.

Ready for the winter

With sand piles built up high to protect against the wind and the lifeguard chairs taken down, Michigan Beach is ready for another wintery season in Charlevoix. But, as always, after a winter covered with ice and snow, the beach will return to its normal self, packed with bathers, next summer.

Sheriff offering to help clean up

Sheriff George T. Lasater announced the Fall Clean Up Program for senior citizens of Charlevoix County.

Lasater will be assigning county jail prisoners, supervised by a sheriff's officer, to assist senior citizens with raking and general clean up of their yards.

The program also includes townships in Charlevoix County where prisoners may be assigned, under supervision, to clean cemeteries, parks and other areas.

Lasater said only prisoners who are not a security risk to the community will be assigned this detail.

Anyone who is interested please contact the Commission on Aging office at 237-0103.

Marina to be topic of joint city meeting Nov. 29

There will be a 7 p.m. meeting, Monday, Nov. 29 on the Charlevoix City Marina at Charlevoix City Hall.

The meeting was called by Charlevoix City Mayor Norman Carlson to get the community information on where the city is at with the project.

Carlson said this was needed in light of problems reported with the marina by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and the possibility of "tweaking" the plan to fit the needs of the community more.

The Charlevoix City Council, Downtown Development Authority and project designer Peter Polloack will be going over the project.

The more the merrier.

NOV 2004

School district to consolidate elections

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix Public School Board voted to change the regular election date from June to May each year during the Nov. 8 meeting.

Charlevoix Public Schools Superintendent John Sturock said new legislation was passed last year that intends to try and consolidate elections around the national November elections.

Sturock said part of the reasoning behind the election consolidation bills is that people could get elected to positions without a large voter turnout.

He said unless there was a money issue on the ballot, very few people turned out to vote.

"It's a concern in other parts of the state," Sturock said. "Not so much here."

Sturock said schools were given the choice to have their elections in November or May. If schools didn't choose, the election date would have automatically been November and Sturock said that would have caused the school board terms to become six year terms instead of four year terms.

He said choosing to move the election up one month was the best choice in order to keep everything flowing nicely.

Nothing much has changed except that the elections will be held a month earlier and Charlevoix County is now in charge of overseeing the election process.

County Clerk Jane Brannon said nothing is finalized yet concerning the exact nature of how the county will run the elections, which will be given at individual township halls and city hall.

Some thought was that the consolidated elections would increase voter turnout.

"It was never designed to enhance voter turnout," she said.

Brannon said some thoughts were that having one place to vote would make it easier on the voter.

However, since most schools had a designated place for voting, Brannon said things might become more confusing.

"I think they're going to make it a little more difficult," she said.

However, Brannon said the only way to know if the new process will work or won't work is to see how the elections go at the new locations.

The elections are just another added responsibility to the county, Brannon said.

Brannon said she plans to meet with city and township clerks and school officials, which is required by law, in the coming months to finalize everything.

Dennis Halverson, Charlevoix Public School Board president, said the board voted to approve a May election date because it coincided the best with the school board's terms and schedules.

Currently, Halverson doesn't have any concerns about the changes at hand.

"I think we'll have to give it some time and see," he said.

Now that the election process is no longer the school's responsibility, Halverson said the administrative staff will have a little less work they have to do.

"They have enough going on; they might appreciate having time off," he said.

The change may affect voter turnout, which Halverson said will help determine if the change was for the good and he doesn't have a reason to believe otherwise.

> "I think they are going to make it a little more difficult."

Rayders take district, advance in regional

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Rayder Express rolled on in tournament play with three more victories and the district championship.

Charlevoix defeated Boyne City, 75-51 and East Jordan, 75-47 to win the girls' basketball district held in Charlevoix last week.

The 24-0 Rayders then rolled over Whittemore-Prescott, 81-49 to open regional action.

Charlevoix plays Suttons Bay on Wednesday, Nov. 24 in the regional final with the winner advancing to the elite eight in Class C.

"The kids have a renewed energy playing in the tournament," coach Keith Haske said. "We're playing some of our best basketball right now."

Against the Ramblers, Charlevoix raced out to an 11-4 lead midway through the first quarter, keyed by six points by Grace Farrell. The trend continued throughout the first half as Farrell scored 14 and the Rayders led 30-17 at intermission.

Charlevoix led by as many as 18 in the third quarter but Boyne City held tough, cutting the margin to 12 at the end of the quarter.

Boyne inched to within 11 as Farrell picked up her third foul with 7:42 left in the game. Undeterred, however, Charlevoix went on a 10-3 run in the next two and a half minutes to blow the game open at 59-41.

Farrell's three-point play off a putback seconds later put the game away for good.

On that night, Farrell scored 28 points and grabbed 17 rebounds. Laura Nitchman had 12 points, four assists and three steals.

Sarah Cross and Kari Way contributed to a strong rebounding effort with nine and seven boards respectively.

East Jordan held tough early as their game was tied 6-6 early on. The Red Devils could never get over the hump though as Charlevoix never trailed. A 7-0 spurt gave the Rayders a 13-6 advantage and East Jordan could never draw closer than seven the rest of the way.

Charlevoix led 19-11 after the first quarter, keyed by Jaime Pettis's seven points in the stanza. The Rayders extended the lead to 32-11, scoring the first 13 points of the second period. Shannon Dibble had a three-pointer and a drive in the key run.

The Rayders led 44-27 at halftime. East Jordan was no closer than 13 points the rest of the game.

Pettis finished the night with 15 points. Farrell had 14 points, five rebounds, four steals, three assists and three blocks. Laura Nitchman and Madison Ramsey each had eight points and five steals.

Charlevoix opened regional play with an impressive win over a Whittemore-Prescott team that came into the contest with a 20-3 record.

"They wanted to run with us," Haske commented. "And we kind of like that."

Fourteen of fifteen Rayder players scored in the game, led by Farrell's 20 points and nine rebounds. Way added 13 points and seven rebounds. Dibble also contributed 10 points.

"It isn't often to get to have all the players play and so many score in a regional game so that was especially nice," Haske said.

Charlevoix led 21-8 after one period, 47-20 at the half and 70-36 after three quarters.

The winner of Wednesday's regional final in Boyne City will play in the quarterfinals at 7 p.m., next Tuesday, Nov. 30.

Sheriff offering reward for vandals

VANDALS

Bingo.

Goldstick said nothing inside the building was damaged, except for the possibility of a few minor scratches on some of the tables where the rocks landed on or skid off of.

The tables are homemade and Goldstick's glad more damage wasn't done to them.

Goldstick said the only other problem the post had in regards to vandalism was five years ago when the building was broken into during a string of break-ins in the area. That incident cost the post about $10,000 worth of damage and those responsible were prosecuted.

"We don't really have enemies," Goldstick said of VFW Post 1153.

He said Post 1153 doesn't have any accusations or reasons why someone would throw rocks through two of the buildings windows.

"We'd love to personally catch them," he said.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department was quickly at the scene, Goldstick said.

Anyone with any information about this incident is requested to contact the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office at 547-4461.

Charlevoix sheriff's office is offering $300 reward for information leading to the arrest of the responsible party.

Township may place cap on building sizes

meeting, the commission voted on a cap size of 80,000 square feet. The vote resulted in a tie with Rajewski and John Dixon supporting the size and Dave Christiansen and Stanley Martin voting against it.

Although she would have preferred a smaller cap size, Rajewski said she is happy with 90,000 square feet.

"I think the 90,000 square feet will work," she said.

Martin originally voted down a cap size of 80,000 square feet because he said he thought a different size would better suit the needs of the community.

However, he made the motion for the proposed cap size of 90,000 square feet, which he found to be a compromise between 80,000 and 100,000 square feet.

Dixon originally supported 80,000 square feet, which he said was a workable size and would be consistent with the characteristics of the Charlevoix community. He voted in favor of the 90,000 square feet proposal.

Christiansen voted against a 90,000 square foot cap size and was unable to be reached for comment before press time.

During the meeting, Robert Hoffman said the cap size is just another tool to help guide the community.

"That's what the zoning ordinance is," Hoffman said. "A tool the planning commission uses to assure that the township and the community are following what the community wants for the master plan."

He said the proposed cap size at 90,000 square feet is a little larger than the current Kmart store in Charlevoix. Hoffman said he'd like to see smaller stores, unless something large would positively affect the community.

Township resident Al Wojan attended the meeting and expressed concern about limiting the size of retailer that can come into Charlevoix. Wojan's property on US-31 was previously being considered as the location of a Wal-Mart, but the company pulled out.

During the meeting he said a zoning ordinance isn't a tool for growth, but is something that limits free enterprise.

Wojan questioned a statement made during the meeting that Wal-Mart isn't competitive but a monopoly. He said a customer gets the best value for their money at a store like Wal-Mart.

"Money goes where it's treated best," Wojan said during the meeting.

Resident Marell Staffel attended the meeting and said she thinks a cap size of 90,000 square feet is a start but is larger than she would prefer.

Staffel said most people live in Charlevoix because they choose to live in a small town and want the accompanying lifestyle.

However, if the open spaces are filled in with buildings she said Charlevoix wouldn't be a small town anymore.

"We don't stay here because we want it to be a big town," she said during the meeting.

Free HIV tests to be given on Nov. 30

In recognition of World AIDS Day on Dec. 1, Planned Parenthood Northern Michigan will be offering free HIV tests on Nov. 30 and will be handing out red ribbons in the lobby of the health center.

The regular cost of an HIV test is $22. Appointments are necessary to receive a free test.

Planned Parenthood Northern Michigan uses the Orasure — an HIV test, which does not involve needles or taking of blood.

To be tested, a testing wand is held in the mouth for a few moments, similar to having a temperature taken. The whole procedure, including risk assessment and counseling, takes about fifteen minutes.

Results are available within two weeks of testing. The tests are completely confidential, and patients can opt to remain anonymous. Counseling and follow-up education are included with every HIV test.

Five people worldwide die of AIDS every minute of every day. HIV has hit every corner of the globe, infecting more than 42 million men, women and children, 5 million of them last year alone. Around half of all people infected with HIV are under the age of 25. It only takes moments to learn about the risks of HIV and to get tested.

Council, DDA look at marina, park plan

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix City Council and Downtown Development Authority decided to move forward with plans to build a new Charlevoix marina and renovate East Park at a joint meeting Monday night.

The council and DDA gave city officials and the project designer Peter Pollack the OK to continue pursuing permits for the marina and park from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and the Army Core of Engineers. However, the Monday meeting also gave the city officials and many members of the community a chance to learn more about the project and dispel some misconceptions.

According to Pollack, of Pollack Design Associates in Ann Arbor, the total marina and East Park project will cost about $10,570,207.97. Of this, $6,809,674.48 is being paid for by the state Waterway's Commission — about 75 percent.

This leaves the community with a bill of $4,324,613 — this total amount includes a 15 percent cost for bonds that will be used for the project. However, this tab will be picked up by the Charlevoix Downtown Development Association, who will use existing funds for it.

See a related marina story on page 31

This means the taxpayers of Charlevoix will not be footing the bill for the project, Wiesner said.

"Your taxes will not be raised," he said.

However, many people at the meeting did express concern that city taxes would be used.

Charlevoix resident Jill Picha questioned how accurate the figures were, saying she is concerned the actual price tag will be higher and the taxpayers will be stuck with the bill.

Pollack said the estimate given is very conservative. He said the estimates were formulated in 2003, but used 2004-2005 figures. However, Pollack said there are some unknowns that could raise the costs of the project.

"What we can't account for are steel prices. They have gone up tremendously," he said.

Pollack said the city will be

Driver's windshield struck by shotgun round

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater reported on Friday, Nov. 19, a woman's vehicle was hit by gunfire while traveling south on US-31, just south of the intersection of Barnard Road at the Norwood-Barnard intersection.

Bonnie Lou Wilkinson of Alanson, reported her vehicle windshield was struck by pellets from a shotgun round.

Air 5 of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources responded and checked the area, but found no hunters who would have been in the proper location to have fired this shot.

Wilkinson's windshield showed three impacts with what appeared to be pellets in her windshield.

Wilkinson said she heard a shot and thought someone must have gotten a deer. She then heard a second loud, close, shot and her windshield was immediately hit. The area of the impact was directly in front of her face.

None of the pellets penetrated the safety glass, but the windshield was destroyed.

Deputies responded to the location and coordinated with the DNR, but no hunter could be located. The hunter had to be really close to the highway, undoubtedly shooting across the highway for shotgun pellets to have reached her vehicle.

Clean up help for fall offered by Sheriff

Sheriff George T. Lasater announced the Fall Clean Up Program for senior citizens of Charlevoix County.

Lasater will be assigning county jail prisoners, supervised by a sheriff's officer, to assist senior citizens with raking and general clean up of their yards.

The program also includes townships in Charlevoix County where prisoners may be assigned, under supervision, to clean cemeteries, parks and others.

Lasater said only prisoners who are not a security risk to the community will be assigned this detail.

Chamber hosting annual Merchant Open House

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

To kick off the holiday season, the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce is hosting its annual Merchant Open House from noon to 8 p.m. on Dec. 4.

With activities for all to enjoy while shopping for family and friends, both children and parents are encouraged to come.

Jacqueline Merta, president of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce, said the object of the Merchant Open House is to give local businesses the opportunity to showcase their wares.

However, the event also occurs to allow members of the community to see what the merchants have to offer, while enjoying the treats and activities available at various businesses.

This year, Merta said, is the first time entertainment will be available in several stores. She said live music was added as a way to make the traditional event more festive and to give shoppers something else to make their time enjoyable.

"I think the shoppers will enjoy it," Merta said.

The day is filled with several activities starting with the arrival of Santa Claus at noon in East Park on a fire truck provided by the City of Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department. Santa will hand out candy canes before heading back to the North Pole.

After they meet with Santa, children are invited to see a free full-length feature film at 1 p.m. at Charlevoix Cinema III.

Bill Supernaw, owner of the Charlevoix Cinema III, said there will be two films shown at that time, one being G-rated and the other of a PG-rating. The showings are sponsored by the Charlevoix State Bank and children are asked to bring a non-perishable food item that will be donated to the Charlevoix County Food Pantry.

The other activities occurring during the Merchant Open House will be located in several businesses downtown.

Children's storytelling by Jim Ribby will be at noon and 4 p.m. at the Bridge Street Book Shop along with book signing opportunities at 2 p.m. with John Deckinga, author of "An Enemy in Shadows," and at 7 p.m. with Jeffrey Schatzer, author of "The Bird in Santa's Beard."

The Bridge Street Book Shop will also feature music at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. by the Northwest Academy Instrumental Christmas Ensemble and will also have music at 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. by concert flautist Ashleigh King of Lansing.

The Coffee Shop will feature music at 4 p.m. by Andy Tuck, a local violin prodigy. There will also be a book signing by Nancy Swan Drew at 5 p.m. at Elements in Charlevoix.

Other activities will be taking place at most downtown businesses including arts and crafts and tasteful treats.

For more information on the Merchant Open House call the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

Community Christmas Choir to have musical

The Charlevoix Area Community Christmas Choir, made up of 50 plus people representing over 10 area churches, will present its annual musical "Festival of Lights" at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 11, and again, at 6 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 12.

This is hosted by Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix located at the corner of US-31 and Meech Street in Charlevoix.

There will be inspirational songs of the musical, enhanced by the fine craftsmanship of Chuck Britton and crew.

Rachel Titus, 10, will open the musical and local soloists, Rick Torres, Donald Heeres and Sharon Batdorff will also be featured, along with the mother/daughter duet of Dianna and Veronica Shull and with a selection led by Sarah Klooster.

Mickey Grooters is the narrator, with assistance from Rachel Shull. Theda Williams provides the piano accompaniment with support from instrumentalists, Beth Barnadyn, David Otis, Dee Hoadley, Treasure Eggers, Mary Beth Kur and Elizabeth Kur.

The musical is directed by Cindy Mansen. There is no admission fee, but a free gift opportunity will be available.

Top ten ways of the north and new parents

Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

Here are a few thoughts to start out this holiday season (and the start of winter).

Still here

Yep, I am still here. As many of you know, I will be leaving the Courier in the near future to take a position at the Petoskey News-Review — our sister paper.

However, I will not be leaving until a suitable replacement is found for me. Therefore, I am still here as we search through the many applications we have received for the Courier editor's position.

Northern Michigander

With the winter season starting to make its presence known to us here in northern Michigan, I started thinking about all of our seasonal friends who are spending their winters in sunny, warm locations like Florida.

So, in order to let them know what kind of people live here in the north throughout the year, here are my top ten ways to know you are from northern Michigan:

10) You know firewood is a useful home heating fuel and not just something for campfires.

9) When you go sledding, your sled generally can go up to 70 mph and runs on gas.

8) When shopping for a new vehicle, its ability to stay on roads covered in great amounts of snow ranks higher than looks and fuel economy.

7) You know how to drive the speed limit during winter storms and have disdain for those "out-of-state" licensed vehicles driving 10 mph.

6) You have seriously considered putting your vehicle in the garage for the winter and just using your snowmobile for transportation.

5) Just because there is ice on the lake and it is 30 below doesn't mean you must stop fishing.

4) Opening day of deer hunting season is a work-free holiday.

3) You have actually experienced "cabin-fever" due to being snowed into your home.

2) In addition to shoveling your driveway, you can also be seen shoveling your roof after each snow storm.

1) Fashion means "whatever is warm."

New parents

Since I am on this "top ten" kick and a new parent, I have also made up a "top ten ways to know you are a new parent" list. (Hey, I had some time to let my brain wander last week due to the holiday. Besides, top ten lists are fun and easy to read.)

10) Due to a particularly messy incident involving baby, you have learned you can actually touch human fecal matter and not vomit immediately.

9) Every shirt you own has a small stain on the shoulder due to baby vomit and it doesn't phase you one bit.

8) Even if you hated dancing before, if it puts baby to sleep, you will dance (or something you call dancing) for up to an hour in your living room with her.

7) You actually know the words to more children's songs than top 40 hits.

6) You videotape every little thing your baby does, including that really, really cute burp she belts out after eating.

5) You have actually said to your friends, "I am sorry I cannot attend that cool party you are throwing Saturday. The wife and I are going to give baby her first taste of solid food and one of us has to work the videocamera."

4) A wonderful intimate moment with your wife is being able to sit on the couch together, watch a television program and drink a beer while the baby is taking a nap — even if it is only for 15 minutes.

3) You think it's cool that you can change baby's diaper in 5 seconds flat. Your wife doesn't think it's cool you put the diaper on backwards in the process and she has to redo it.

2) A full night's sleep is just a distant memory for you. Now you are just hoping for three straight hours...just this one night, please, God, please.

1) You are completely in love with this little being you have created and are not afraid to share that fact with total strangers. Even though she cries at you, vomits, farts, poops and drools on you and makes you look like the walking dead due to lack of sleep, you would give and do anything for her, especially if it makes her break out into a big toothless smile — although even a grin will do.

Have a good winter and keep warm.

New technology may help change the lives of many

Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

Only infrequently does some new sort of scientific instrument make possible a real change in the way we see ourselves and the world around us.

Such a rare moment seems to have happened recently — something comparable to the invention and use of the microscope and the telescope.

The earliest development of the microscope in the 1600s by Robert Hooke and Anton van Leeuwenhoek rendered visible things that had since the beginning of human history been invisible. Bacteria could be seen and their role in disease and decomposition could then be understood. Without a microscope blood was just a red fluid. With a microscope it was for the first time understood as innumerable red and white cells floating in a clear liquid. Our understanding of immunity and the treatment of AIDS ultimately depends on that long-ago microscopic view. Microscopes have improved in the intervening centuries and can now produce images of even the atoms that we believed to form the basis of all matter.

During those same 1600s Galileo and others used the primitive telescopes of the time to reinforce a completely new view of our astronomical neighborhood. The heavenly bodies were not perfect as the theory of the time claimed, but had hills and valleys like the earth. The planet Jupiter had moons that could be seen with a telescope.

Telescopes have since been improved and even placed away from earth in space. They now bring us information about the first years of the universe and about a multitude of otherwise invisible wonders indescribably far away.

Scientists and technologists at the University of Wisconsin have in recent years developed a remarkable new way of seeing that might have the same potential that microscopes and telescopes have. As reported by the New York Times, the new device which is called a "Brainport," appears to have the potential to change the ways in which we can see our

Please help

Editor:

Now that the trick or treating is over and the Thanksgiving turkey only a memory, many people's thoughts turn to Christmas — shopping, mailing cards, decorating, Christmas music and others.

Some people, though, have been thinking Christmas since October, well before Halloween and Thanksgiving. Those are the committee members of the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project.

This group, which operates under the umbrella of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association, sponsors this project to help those who may need a little extra boost at holiday time.

This year we have had 108 households referred to us by various agencies, and that includes almost 200 children. However, this number was our count before Thanksgiving, and we will certainly receive more names now that December is upon us. With the price of gas, groceries, heating, and others, all higher this year, we expect a large number of referrals in the month ahead.

To provide for them requires numerous volunteers, many gifts, and lots of money. All of our money comes from donations, and last year we spent $4,000 on food alone. You can understand, then, that this is a project that requires a lot of faith that God will provide for us and He always has. Of course, He does that through our Charlevoix friends and neighbors.

If you belong to a club, class, business group, organization, coffee klatch or if just on your own you and/or your family would like to help, it would be most appreciated.

You could donate toys to the group (call 547-2078), volunteer your time to help (call 547-9515) , supply gift wrap, tape mittens or socks or, most helpful of all, send a check to Carolyn Batdorff, 4903 Marion Center Road, Charlevoix, MI, 49720. Checks should be made out to the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project.

The committee will appreciate any help you can offer, but the families and children who receive these Christmas presents and this food will enjoy a more bountiful Christmas than they might otherwise have had. And you will receive a gift also, that wonderfully happy feeling you get when you give to someone else.

We live in such a beautiful community, let's remember to share some of our blessings with others. Thank you in advance.

Marina change wrong

Editor:

All the articles that I have read about the new marina, I have not heard one word about the amount of traffic through the bridge. With all the boats from East Jordan, Boyne City and Charlevoix coming through now, the car traffic in the summer is a terrible traffic jam. What is going to happen to the traffic if we add 50 more boat slips in Round Lake?

There are times now that it takes an hour to get through town. I have seen traffic lined up from St. Mary's Church on the south side all the way to Don's IGA on the north side. State Street traffic is also backed up to Antrim to wait for the light to change on Clinton. Then you have to wait for the pedestrians to walk across the street. That leaves about enough time to get two or three cars through.

There are times that people have had to wait for two bridge openings. By the time the boats get through the bridge it is up for 15 to 20 minutes. Then it is down for 10 to 15 minutes to clear traffic, and it is up again.

We have to consider the look of Round Lake! With all those docks and boats in, the park will look like a sales room for boats instead of a peaceful, restful place to sit and look at the lake, sky and clouds.

I think it is a terrible mistake to put any more docks in.

Great job Rayders

Editor:

I would like to express how proud I am of the Charlevoix Rayder Ladies Basketball program.

The coverage on their accomplishments has been dismal and disappointing at best.

Being a father of a eighth grade and sophomore girls I've been gifted to see no less then stellar seasons out of all the teams from eighth through varsity levels. The freshmen, junior varsity and varsity all ended with a 20-0 season where as the eighth graders ended with an 11-1 season.

I don't know of too many schools who can put that in their record book. The expectations of our kids today is so far beyond what I remember at that age. The work they put in on and off the floor is exemplary and I look up to them all.

Girls' athletics has come so far and these girls prove with hard work and dedication comes success. Congratulations ladies. Keep up the great work.

One of your biggest fans.

Blood drive success

Editor:

The American Red Cross brought their staff to Charlevoix on Nov. 11 for a blood drive at Bethany Lutheran Church for donors with O type blood. Edith Dale coordinated the event. The results were wonderful as we collected 33 pints. The following week, on Nov. 18, the Red Cross conducted a community blood drive for Charlevoix at the Reformed Church. Once again, blood donors in Charlevoix responded to the need of the sick and injured. Our goal was 70 pints; the Red Cross was able to collect 69 pints. Five of those pints came from first-time donors. Awesome! I want to thank both the churches for the use of their multipurpose rooms. I'm also very grateful for all of the volunteers who worked at each blood drive and the bakers who produced delectable treats that rewarded each donor. The Charlevoix Lions Club did a great job setting up and removing all the Red Cross equipment.

Many hands are always needed to ensure a successful blood drive. I believe that I work with the best of the best in Charlevoix. Thanks to all of you!

Please mark Jan. 20, 2005 on your calendar and plan to donate blood on that day at the Reformed Church in Charlevoix.

The Brainport makes use of the idea that our brain is able to transform information normally obtained by one sense into another sense. That might make it possible to see smells or to hear colors, but why would anyone want to do that? Are there practical uses for such a device? Consider the situation of a blind person who is so because the eyes or optic nerves have been irreparably damaged. Apparently the brain can, with some training, use information from the sense of touch to form images similar to those that might be formed by an intact eye.

An array of electrodes on the skin can send images directly to the brain. The expectation is that within a year or so, devices which use a tiny video camera to collect the image and electrodes to stimulate the sense of touch will enable some blind people to "see" images of their surroundings.

Since cameras are available that can in effect see warm objects in complete darkness, such a Brainport connection could be modified to allow someone with or without normal vision to see those warm objects in complete darkness without night vision goggles or other such aids.

Like the early microscopes and telescopes, this is only the beginning. In the future it should be possible to connect almost any information that can be perceived, by any instrument, directly to our brain. This is getting close to nature in a very new way.

Is this technology good or is it bad? Like the microscope and the telescope centuries ago, it has the promise of altering the way we see our world. Older ideas may have to be changed as they had to after Leeuwenhoek and Galileo expanded our vision.

The future is indeed filled with wonder. We should expect it and maybe even welcome it.

Junior lifeguards practice at the Charlevoix Area Pool.

New lifeguards graduate

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool recently graduated nine students from its Junior Lifeguarding program.

The students spent five weeks studying about the responsibilities of lifeguards including: CPR for the professional rescuer, standard first aid and water safety.

The Junior Lifeguards participated in the current lifeguarding class being offered at the pool. They also participated in drills and scenarios to help the lifeguard candidates practice the skills needed to be a certified lifeguard.

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool's Junior Lifeguard program was started to educate students from 10 to 14 years of age the different responsibilities and characteristics of being a lifeguard.

This program is a way to get the kids excited about lifeguarding which in result will make them safer swimmers at the pool and at the many local beaches.

Instructor, Betsy Granstra is excited about the interest level these kids showed in lifeguarding and water safety. She hopes that these Junior Lifeguards will remain active and take the American Red Cross Lifeguarding class when they turn 15, and hopefully lifeguard at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool,

The Junior Lifeguards will be volunteering their time at the pool. They will be paired up with a senior member of the lifeguarding staff.

They will be "shadowing" the lifeguards during their shift at the pool.

Junior Lifeguards may be asked to help with chemical checks, cleaning up the pool toys, counting patrons or other duties that fit into their skill level. They will also meet once a month to continue learning about lifeguarding and water safety.

If you would like more information about becoming a Junior Lifeguard or a certified lifeguard contact the Charlevoix Area Community Pool at 547-0982.

Kiwanis celebrates 70 years of service

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix is getting ready to celebrate 70 years of service to the community.

Kathy Johnson, current publicity chairman for the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix and co-membership chairman, said the objective behind Kiwanis is to serve the children of the world and that's what the club has done on a local level for 70 years.

Recently, the club was honored for 65 years of support they have given to Boy Scout Troop 11 on Nov. 3 at the annual dinner for the Scenic Trails Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

This service has not only touched the Boy Scouts, but the rest of the community through various programs.

Kiwanis International started in Michigan when a group of Detroit-area businessmen came together and founded the club in 1915.

Today, Kiwanis International is based out of Indianapolis and has nearly 600,000 members in 92 different nations, Johnson said.

However, it wasn't until Dec. 4, 1934 that Charlevoix founded it's chapter with an initial 28 members.

Since then, the Charlevoix club has grown to encompass 55 members.

John Lachman, current president of Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix, said it is significant that Kiwanis formed at that time, since money is involved and the Depression was rampant.

"There must have been a significant need in Charlevoix for public service," Lachman said.

Lachman said at one time Kiwanis was the only service club in Charlevoix.

On Dec. 4, Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix members will enjoy a celebration feast at the Argonne Supper Club. Johnson said Dec. 4 wasn't purposefully picked so the club could celebrate on the actual day they were founded, but things just worked out that way.

Johnson said the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix focuses on children.

They do so by sponsoring several youth organizations such as the Northwest Academy Key Club for high school students, Charlevoix Middle School's Builder's Club and Charlevoix Elementary's K-Kids Club.

Each club focuses on serving the community and accomplishes that in their own way with help from the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix.

One youth program, that started internationally in 1990, is called Young Children: Priority One. This program is supported by the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix and provides a way to help younger children in the community.

Lachman said the club has members that read to students once a week in the Head Start reading program. The Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix also supports the Aktion Club through the Bergmann Center.

Both clubs meet for lunch twice a month and the Aktion Club sings Christmas carols to residents at Boulder Park Terrace.

Lachman said the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix also supports Camp Dagget.

On an international scale, the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix and other clubs worldwide have raised $75 million over the past 10 years to help in the effort of the elimination of iodine deficiency defects in countries that don't have the technology to iodize salt.

Lachman said the funds help provide those countries with iodized salt that they can add to their diet and eliminate the possibility of developing serious diseases.

The Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix has several fund-raisers that help support the club's programs. The club is known as the sweetest club in Michigan, Johnson said, because of the maple syrup fund-raiser the club has all year long.

Other fund-raisers the club is known for in the community include an annual cut rose sale, installing 9-1-1 signs in people's yards, selling kielbasa during the Trout Festival, Venetian Festival, Apple Festival and three-on-three basketball contest.

Currently, the club is selling three pound tins of nuts for $20 for the holiday season.

Lachman said the club doesn't have any specific plans other than continuing with its programs and fund-raisers and heading up a major membership drive in the coming year.

Local marines collecting for annual Toys for Tots drive

A traditional toy solicitation program will again take place throughout the area.

The Marine Corps League, Northern Michigan Detachment, announced its annual "Toys for Tots" donation program which began Saturday, Nov. 20 and continues through Friday, Dec. 17.

Specially-designed boxes will be placed in area stores, banks and other establishments throughout Emmet and Charlevoix counties.

In aggregate, over 70 stores, in eight cities will collect new, unwrapped toys for children of all ages. Look for the boxes in Petoskey, Charlevoix, Boyne City, East Jordan, Harbor Springs, Indian River, Cheboygan and Alanson.

In Charlevoix, toy boxes will be found in the following locations: Kmart, Rite-Aid, Oleson's Food Store, Glen's Market, Ace Hardware, Pat McKeown Ford, Harbor Industries, The Clothing Company, Charlevoix Elementary, Lexalite Corporation, Dollar General, Brumm Showroom, Don's IGA, Copy Plus, Shop of the Gulls, Band of Odawa Indian Center and Bolt's Gallery.

Toys donated in this area will stay in this area. Last year, about 2,500 youngsters received nearly 13,000 toys from a large number of individuals and corporations.

Toys collected will be distributed by The Salvation Army beginning Dec. 19. Donations are also accepted, please make your check payable to: Toys for Tots Foundation.

For additional information or details, please call Russ Bolt (231) 547-4807 or Jerry Walker (231) 526-5595.

Wynkoop wants to heal Norwood wounds

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Wayne Wynkoop wants his township to heal from bitter conflicts that have almost torn it apart and to do this, this new Norwood Township supervisor is going to lead by example.

Wayne Wynkoop

"My primary goal is to put the township right back on track. I want to open the doors of the township hall to people and prove they can voice their opinion without being ridiculed," he said.

Norwood Township over the past few years has underwent intense infighting among its officials, faced lawsuits and harsh criticism from various members of the public.

Wynkoop, 47, took over as the new Norwood Township supervisor on Nov. 22 following a nasty August primary election. In that election, he beat incumbent Wayne Boss, 175 votes to 110.

During his first meeting on Nov. 22, he got right to work changing the township's ways of doing business by getting resolutions passed that would make all meetings run according to Robert's Rules of Order and make all township employees and officials sign a code of ethics and conduct.

Wynkoop said the township was not running under the Robert's Rules of Order — a guide for government officials to efficiently run meetings. By applying these rules, he said more work will get done at the meetings and more people will have a chance to give their input.

Under the new township meeting rules, all audience members will have a chance to speak on every topic that is up for consideration during a period of debate on that topic, but before the board votes on the topic proposition. Wynkoop said people wanting to speak on the various topics will all be given a chance to voice their questions or concerns.

There will also be a miscellaneous public comment section at the end of the meeting. In the past, Norwood Township has always had a miscellaneous public comment section at the end of the meeting, but people were not permitted to speak during any other time, Wynkoop said.

Wynkoop said he enacted a code of conduct and ethics to further prove to the township residents that he means to be a fair supervisor. Basically, under these rules, a township official or employee must not benefit financially from any decisions he or she makes as a township official or employee, shall not accept gifts or loans, shall not use the township office for his or her personal gain, shall not represent their personal opinion as that of the board or commission they serve on.

"All this is for a direction. We need to put the township in a proper direction," he said of the new meeting rules and code of conduct and ethics.

"I can't stress enough to unite this township is the main priority overall," he said. "We need to get people to feel good about where they live. We want people of the township to feel they are a part of this."

Wynkoop said he thought his first meeting as a township supervisor went well.

"A lot of people commented to me on it. I think it eased the pain," he said.

Now that he has his first meeting under his belt, Wynkoop said he will be focusing on filling the vacant seats on the township planning commission and getting the township going on a new master plan.

Wynkoop has lived in Norwood Township since 1979 — with the exception of a stint in Alaska from 1980 to 1983. He is the owner of an automobile body repair shop called Wyknoop's Truck and Auto Body Repair. He is married and has four children.

Wynkoop said he decided to run for township supervisor after attending a few township meetings and seeing Norwood had "serious problems." He added several people asked him to run for supervisor.

He said at first he did not want to run for supervisor and was more interested in getting a seat on one of the township's various boards. However, he was not nominated and decided the best way to serve was hy running for supervisor.

Saltonstall to appeal to public on library

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Connie Saltonstall is appealing to other governmental agencies to pressure the Charlevoix School Board into selling the current library in an effort to help pay for the new library.

"I am trying to use public opinion to get the school board to do what they should do," she said. "All of the community support is on the side of the library selling it."

What Saltonstall is referring to is an issue she and her family have been having with the Charlevoix School Board over ownership of the current library.

Saltonstall said her family donated the land the current library sits on.

But, the donation came with the stipulation that if it ever were no longer used for a library or educational purposes, then the land's ownership would revert hack to the Saltonstall family.

She said the land and building currently belongs to the library, so the library should benefit from its sale by using money gained from it to pay off the new building. The former Charlevoix Middle School building on Grant Street is going to be made into a new library.

But, the school district has other plans for the current building.

Charlevoix School's superintendent John Sturock said the building will be used for educational purposes, as was outlined in the clause. He said it will be used as the administration building for the school district, a training center for the district and many have other educational uses.

Saltonstall added her family will not sign off on the land if the school wants to use it as an administration building.

But, Sturock says this is a moot point, and claims the current library building will belong to the school district once the new library is built.

According to school attorney Gordon VanWieren, Jr., in a previous story on this issue, back when the library and the schools were splitting in 1997, there was a reverter clause over the library building written. This reverter clause says the library's ownership reverts back to the school district when it is no longer being used for a library.

But, due to a mistake in paperwork, that reverter clause was never filed with deed. However, both the school and the library's attorney have said that clause should have heen filed with the original 1997 deed.

Sturock argues that the school district can say the library belongs to them because of this reverter clause that was suppose to be filed.

Therefore, if the school district then owns the library, Sturock claims school code forbids the district from giving it away.

But, Saltonstall claims the library will still own the building.

She says the library is not leaving Charlevoix, just moving to a new location.

In her fight to get the school board to sell the library, Saltonstall has appealed to the Charlevoix School Board, Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority, Charlevoix Public Library Board and the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library.

All of these governmental bodies have passed resolutions supporting Saltonstall's position and asking the school board to sell the building and give the proceeds to the library for the new library's construction.

And Saltonstall said she is planning on going to the townships for help when she returns to Charlevoix in April. Currently, Saltonstall is at her winter home in California.

But, Sturock said this will not effect the school district's decision to use the current library.

"They can get all the support they want and resolutions from the Charlevoix City Council and other places, the law is the law," he said.

> "I am trying to use public opinion to get the school board to do what they should do. All of the community support is on the side of the library selling it."

Unemployment numbers down in area

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Michigan Department of Lahor and Economics is reporting Charlevoix's unemployment rate has improved over last year.

According to the latest unemployment numbers, the city of Charlevoix had an unemployment rate of 4.7 percent in October, which is down from October 2003's rate of 5.8 percent. This is very good news for the economy of the area, according to Jim Rhein, labor market analyst for the state department of labor.

"Basically from what we have been seeing over the last year, employers are starting to hire again," Rhein said.

Rhein said in 2001 there was a short recession that seemed to freeze the job market. For some reason, employers were not quick to recover from that recession and did not want to really start hiring more employees.

"Employers weren't still quite convinced that we would pull out of it (a recession). There was a lot of uncertainty," he said. "But with the economy starting to grow, I think employers are starting to get more confident."

Rhein added, "It did take a long time though."

Rhein said the worst employment numbers posted in Charlevoix were in 2003, which had steadily declined since 2000. In 2003, the county of Charlevoix showed an unemployment rate of 7.1 percent for September. But for September of this year, that county unemployment rate had fallen to 5.7 percent.

In the city of Charlevoix, September of this year saw an unemployment rate of 4.5 percent. But in September of 2003, the unemployment rate was 5.6 percent.

As for wages, Rhein said they have stayed flat over the past few years. He said, the labor department records show in the first quarter of 2000, the average weekly wages for a person working at a private business in Charlevoix was $527 a week. In the first quarter of 2004, those wages had risen to $605 a week — about a 13 percent increase over five years or 2.6 percent per year.

According to Derek Chowen, a broker with Edward Jones Investments in Charlevoix, from 2000 to 2004, the average inflation rate was 2.5 percent per year. In 2000, Chowen said the inflation rate was 3.4 percent, in 2001 it was 1.6 percent, in 2002 it was 2.4 percent, in 2003 it was 1.9 percent and in 2004 it was 3.2 percent.

Charlevoix, and much of northern Michigan, has a seasonal unemployment rate. This means, the unemployment rate changes throughout the year, based on the season.

The highest unemployment rate in the area is usually in March. For example, in March 2004, the city of Charlevoix posted an unemployment rate of 8.1 percent and Charlevoix Township had an unemployment rate of 7 percent.

Those rates gradually lowered as the year went on. In June, the city had an unemployment rate of 5.3 percent and the township had a rate of 4.6 percent and in August the city posted a rate of 4.3, while the township posted a rate of 3.7.

"This is very typical. Things are extraordinarily seasonal up there (northern Michigan)," Rhein said.

Center hosting holiday bazaar

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Senior Center will be hosting it's Christmas Bazaar Craft and Bake Sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Dec. 10 and Dec. 11.

This is the first time the center will be hosting a bazaar on this large of a scale, as it used to be a part of the St. Mary School's Holiday Craft Show.

Rosalyn Goldstick, secretary of the Charlevoix Senior Citizens Board of Directors, said she didn't know if the new location and date of the bazaar would draw in more people or a different group of people than before.

"There are a lot of beautiful items, for low prices," she said.

The event is open to everyone and Goldstick said there's a kaleidoscope of available items such as homemade jams and jellies, afghans, crocheted and knitted items and some paintings.

The bake sale portion will include various treats that individuals create.

A lunch will be available during the bazaar from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and is also served five days a week. The lunch includes soup, salad, entree, vegetables, bread, dessert and a drink. The cost is $3 for anyone over 60 years old and $4.50 for those under 60 years of age.

For more information call the Senior Center at 547-5361.

Former county employee arrested for embezzlement

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office has arrested a 47-year old South Arm Township woman on felony warrants for financial crimes.

Brenda Lee Guarisco was charged by the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's Office with three counts of embezzlement by a public official and one count of NSF (non-sufficient funds) Check over $500 stemming from separate incidents.

According to the sheriff's office, the embezzlement charge involved Guarisco taking cash from deposits while an employee of the Charlevoix County Treasurer's Office and substituting NSF personal checks. The NSF charge was from a $6,108.75 personal check written by Guarisco to a Boyne Falls business for lumber.

Guarisco has appeared in front of a 90th District Court Magistrate and bond has been set at $20,000 personal recognizance.

Embezzlement by a Public Official over $50 is a felony with a maximum penalty of ten years. The NSF Check over $500 is a two-year felony.

Little decorators

These children all made their own decorations for the Charlevoix Christmas Tree in East Park. They are (from left) Angela Kile, 7, Rick Kile, 6, Kandra Bootsma, 7, Deanna Devincent, 12 and Michael Shaffer, 8. These children were just some of the many that decorated the community tree Friday before the annual Christmas Tree Lighting. In addition to decorating the tree, children were treated to hot chocolate and cookies.

Church to have its cookie walk

The Annual First Congregational Church Cookie Walk, to be from 9 to 11 a.m. on Dec. 4 , has added a new cookie to its vast selection — one in the form of a house.

This year the Cookie Walk committee asked Charlevoix residents Barb and Tim Clagett, who have been making Cookie Houses for their grandchildren to decorate for 20 years, to share their expertise in making cookie houses with other members of the church. They willingly obliged and turned their kitchen into a hands-on cookie house workshop where eager participants learned everything from making the dough to the assembling the pieces with royal icing.

The houses turned out at the workshops along with others that have been baked by church members will be available for sale at the cookie Walk for $15 for those wishing to have the fun of decorating their own.

Two of the ready-to-decorate houses were given to pastry chef, Kelly Romano, co-owner of the Grey Gables, who decorated them with a colorful assortment of candies, royal icing and molded chocolate. These houses will be raffled off and are on display at the First Congregational Church. Tickets are $1 each or six for $5 and are on sale at the church until 12 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 4 when the drawing will take place following the cookie walk.

The annual cookie walk has been a much anticipated event for many years. Lines form before the doors open at 9 a.m. It's no wonder people look forward to this event since there are over 500 dozen homemade in a large variety of holiday favorites. Cookies are sold by the pound ($7 per pound). Craft items and pre-wrapped plates of cookies for gift-giving will also be for sale.

THERE ARE GOOD REASONS WHY

PUBLIC NOTICE

APPEARS IN YOUR NEWSPAPER.

Currently, and historically, it is the responsibility of state and local government to publish public and legal notices here in Michigan's newspapers. This paper you're holding right now is a historical document, printed and published with a date on every page. And its pages hold your right to know what the government is doing in your community. In fact, it's law.

In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look or when to look, let alone to know what you're looking for to be informed. That is why you have, and read, your newspaper, where public notices are published with accountable circulation and presented to you on these pages in clear black and white.

Hospital Guild to have annual bake sale

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild will be having its annual Bake Sale this Friday, Dec. 3, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Along with this sale, there will be the drawings for two raffle items, which include an afghan, as well as a beautiful golden tea light tree. Tickets will be sold until they are drawn in the afternoon.

New this year, the guild will be having a volunteer and customer appreciation sale in the gift shop, and will be setting up a "children's store" for kids to come and shop for loved ones, at a discounted rate, and be able to receive help with gift wrapping. The Gift Shop and children's store will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

This is a fund-raiser for the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild, and all proceeds benefit the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The Guild, in keeping with the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation's desire for this to be A Year for Women's Health, has chosen to support the foundation's goal to purchase a Computer Aided Detection Mammography System and fund the expansion of Boyne Rehabilitation Center in Boyne City.

For more information, please call 547-8651.

How to get your event in the paper

If you have a news item you think would be perfect for the Charlevoix Courier, feel free to call 547-6558, e-mail news@charlevoixcourier.com or visit the Courier office located at 112 Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix.

News items include events sponsored by non-profit organizations. Please inform us of your event at least two weeks in advance.

Our coverage area is the city of Charlevoix and its immediately surrounding areas, including Beaver Island.

Because of space limitations in the newspaper, we generally try to avoid publishing "check-handing" pictures or "ribbon-cutting" pictures. However, we will work with your organization to get a picture that reflects the event and is visually interesting to our readers.

Due to time constraints on the staff, we cannot attend every event of which we are notified. If you have a picture of your event, we will gladly consider it for publication. But, please, contact us before your event.

It should be noted, each story and picture is dealt with on its individual merits. Any policies outlined above may be suspended by the editor or general manager of the Charlevoix Courier if necessary.

Retail drift is costing your community millions of dollars

DANGER
Retail Drift

Retail drift is the technical term researchers use when dollars generated in a smaller community are spent in a large community or nearby city.

A recent major university study says: "Small town residents who leave their communities to shop in big-city malls are committing a form of economic suicide." The study concludes the retail drift is so severe that it could be the death knell for some communities.

Shopping at home is the only way to stop retail drift. Keeping your dollars at home helps keep your community strong and economically healthy.

It's simple logic. Your hometown businesses provide the same or equivalent goods and services at the same or better prices with less traveling time and expense.

Stop retail drift - Shop at home!

Madison Ramsey goes for the basket in the regional championship game.

Rayder girls' basketball wins first ever regional

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

When the going gets tough, the tough get going. Or so they say.

The old maxim has held true for the Charlevoix Rayders as despite playing tougher competition as they march through the state tournament, they continue to wind up victorious.

The latest victim was Suttons Bay, who finished 18-6 on the season. The Rayders, now 25-0, turned back the Norse 61-48 for the school's first girls' basketball regional championship.

"It is real nice to win the regional," coach Keith Haske said. "It wasn't one of the better games we've played this year but I credit that to Suttons Bay and what they were doing to us."

Early on Suttons Bay tried to slow down the game's tempo but their efforts were thwarted as Charlevoix pulled out to an early 8-0 lead.

The Rayders led 13-5 at the end of the first quarter and extended the lead to 33-22 at the half.

In the second half, Charlevoix pulled away, led by Madison Ramsey who came in off the bench.

"Madison played maybe her best half of the season in the second half," Haske said.

Ramsey finished the game with 11 points, four assists and eight steals.

The Rayders led 47-31 after three periods.

"I thought our pressure eventually just wore them out," Haske said. "We were up by 22 points at one point in the middle of the fourth quarter. I felt good about that, especially in a regional final."

Grace Farrell had 13 points, 12 rebounds and six steals on the night. Sarah Cross and Shannon Dibble each scored 10 points as Charlevoix posted four players in double figures.

Charlevoix played against ninth-ranked Iron Mountain (25-0) in quarterfinal action in Petoskey on Tuesday, Nov. 30. Results will appear in next week's Courier.

If victorious, the Rayders would play at the Jack Breslin Student Event Center on the campus of Michigan State University on Thursday, Dec. 2 against the winner of Flint Hamady (23-3) and Shelby (20-5).

The Class C state finals are also held at 5 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 4 at the Breslin Center.

MDEQ seems to be more favorable to revised marina

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

According to Charlevoix officials, a slightly new marina plan that has been submitted to the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) is getting a more positive reaction.

Peter Pollack, of Pollack Designs, who is designing the city marina, presented a slightly changed plan to the Charlevoix City Council Monday night during its joint meeting with the Downtown Development Authority (DDA). The plan has not been officially resubmitted to the MDEQ, but the city has been in talks with the department about it.

"The MDEQ said this is about 85 to 90 percent in compliance," Pollack said of the new design. "I should stress the MDEQ has not approved anything yet."

In April 2004, the city was informed by the MDEQ that the department had some concerns about the Charlevoix marina plan. The department was concerned about the width of the piers, the location of a new bulkhead and the size of some of the docks.

Pollack said the revised plan addresses many of these concerns.

On the bulkheads, Pollack said the MDEQ was concerned because the plan called for constructing new bulkheads in front of the existing ones. The MDEQ felt this was an unnecessary intrusion into Round Lake.

However, Pollack said the reason these bulkheads were designed to be built in front of the existing ones was to minimize the impact on the soils behind the existing bulkheads. This is because the soil has been found to be contaminated with a fuel compound.

To cut out the existing bulkhead and get into the soil behind it would increase the costs of the project.

But, Pollack said the new plan makes a compromise with about half of new bulkhead remaining in front of the old, but half behind the old bulkhead. He said about 110 feet of the existing bulkhead will be removed under the new plan.

As for pier width, Pollack said the MDEQ was concerned that the piers were 12 feet wide and said it was excessive. Pollack said the piers were designed at this width to allow room for boaters and people walking on the docks.

There are 67 slips in the new plan — an increase from the current 34.

To answer the MDEQ's concerns, Pollack said the northern-most pier will be left at 12 feet in width. However, piers to the south will be lowered to 8 feet, with ends at 12 feet due to structural needs. The piers have also been pulled back slightly from Round Lake to about 212 feet being the longest.

A benefit to this is due to the smaller widths on some of the piers, the viewing corridor into Round Lake has increased slightly, Pollack said.

Questions about the location of shopper's docks and the riparian rights with Ward's Brothers are still being worked on Pollack said.

In the Ward's issue, there was concern that the southernmost pier would encroach upon the riparian rights of this private business located next to the marina — the Ward Brothers run a fueling station at that location.

Pollack said the pier in question has been moved back about 30 feet from the riparian line. However, a shopper's dock next to it is still in question.

Don Ward, of the Ward Brothers, said the new plan is better. He said he is concerned about the smaller shopper's dock at the southernmost portion of the plan.

"We already have a great deal of congestion. I think the shopper's docks ought to stay to the north. With the extra space, this would help," he said.

Ward added the southernmost pier should be moved back even further to prevent large boats from using it. If too large of a boat is put at that pier, it would add too much congestion to that area.

Pollack said a new drawing of the marina plan will be submitted to the MDEQ in a couple of weeks. He expects more information from the working to keep the project at this estimate when it comes to bidding.

Mayor: Plan will add to view of Round Lake

Picha also questioned including East Park into this plan. Under the East Park portion of the plan, the park will be renovated and a new band shell will be built at the southernmost point and a new harbor master's building will be built at the northernmost point, leaving the middle of the park open with a fish pond and ice skating rink. However, this portion of the project amounts to $1,490,642, which will not be covered by the Waterway's Commission and is included in the DDA's cost.

"I think what you want to do to this park is really a waste of money. I hate to see the (band shell) come down. I hate to see the park built up with that fancy stuff," she said.

Dick Georgi, Charlevoix resident, said he also has concerns about the East Park portion of the project, specifically plans to tear down the current band shell and build a new one. Georgi said the community of Charlevoix paid for the construction of that band shell in a funding drive.

He added he probably paid for the roof himself.

Georgi pointed out if the band shell was taken out of the plan it would save the DDA money. According to the city's figures, a new band shell would cost $1,145,042.

In response to this concern, Charlevoix resident and Waterway's Commissioner John Winn said the DDA spent a lot of money purchasing the Wharfside and Parkside buildings — former buildings located at the base of Mason Street in East Park that were torn down — with a plan to open up the park.

"I don't know why anyone would buy those buildings and leave the bandshell in the middle of the park," Winn said.

He added the current band shell has problems with its acoustics.

Other people also questioned the size of the project and its impact on views, such as if the harbor master's building and the longer docks would impact the views from the street into Round Lake.

Charlevoix resident Birdie Whitley said, "Who gives you the right to take our view of Round Lake?"

She said once the docks are extended and the boats are put next to them, the view into Round Lake will be cut tremendously.

Charlevoix City Mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson, addressed the harbor master's building, saying its elevation would be equal to the elevation of the intersection of Clinton and Mason Streets. He said the new building will be lower and farther away from the street, thus limiting the impact on the view.

Carlson also addressed the docks, saying they are floating docks, so they will be lower in the water. He added viewing corridors have been added into the plan.

"I was looking at it as I was giving you more of a view," he said.

Another concern was the impact this new marina plan would have on the Charlevoix bridge in the summer. Some residents were concerned that the bridge would be up for longer periods of time, thus causing more traffic congestion on Bridge Street.

Winn addressed this saying he believes that boats that would use the new marina are already visiting Charlevoix.

He said they are either anchored out in Round Lake or doubled up on the current city docks.

The new marina plan will eliminate the boats anchored out in Round Lake, bringing more of those boaters to the Charlevoix marina, where they will then venture into downtown Charlevoix.

Winn added another solution to this problem would be to have the Charlevoix bridge tender contact the boats in the channel to let them know ahead of time when the bridge is going up and how long it will be up. This would give the boats a chance to get ready for the bridge opening, thus lessening the wait time.

This is the revised plan being used in discussions between the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and the city of Charlevoix.

John Yaroch, a DDA member, also had a slight concern about the plan's number of shopper's docks. Yaroch said he wants the plan to accommodate more shopper's docks.

"We are missing the boat if we do not accommodate shoppers. We are missing a great source of revenue," he said.

Yaroch said we should look at more shoppers docks in the northern portion of the plan and making more of the docks currently in the plan into shopper docks, rather than docks for seasonal boaters.

According to plans, once the city receives the proper permits for the project, a final design will be drawn up.

The city will then decide, based on funding, how to proceed with bidding the project out and a construction timeline.

MDEQ about five weeks later.

According to Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner, the plan is to submit designs to the various permitting agencies — MDEQ and Army Core of Engineers. Once those permits have been received, the city will look at a final design for the project and then decide how to proceed with bidding and construction. The project will probably be built in phases based on funding.

John Winn, Charlevoix resident and member of the Waterway's Commission, said he is hoping the bulkhead will be replaced next fall and new docks put in over the winter and spring of 2006, with a completion date of that following summer. After the summer, he said work on the park portion could begin that fall.

The marina project is part of a larger project to renovate the city marina and Charlevoix's East Park.

The total projected cost of the project is estimated at $10,570,207.97. Of that, 75 percent is being paid for with funding from the state Waterway's Commission. The remaining 25 percent of it will be paid for by the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority using existing funds.

Under this plan, the city of Charlevoix will not have to pay for the project using its taxpayer funds.

Council wants criminal investigation

CCMS still in the hot seat over check

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The city of Charlevoix is asking for a criminal investigation against CCMS, of Sault Ste. Marie, who is at the center of a mistakenly written check issue that may cost the city over $220,000.

Charlevoix City Attorney Jim Young suggested to city council Monday that it have Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson contact the police agencies located in the community CCMS has its main office and ask to have a criminal investigation started. Council agreed to have Halverson contact these authorities.

"I think we are a victim. A victim has a right to ask for a criminal investigation," Young said.

Charlevoix Mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson said, "I think it is something of not letting someone get away with a white collar crime that affected everyone in the city."

Halverson said he wants to get some more details on the case and then proceed from there.

According to the city, CCMS was paid over $220,000 in April 2004 for work on Belvedere Avenue and Michigan Avenue back in 2001. However, the city wrote the check to just the contractor, CCMS, when it appears it should have written the check to the contractor's insurance company, United Fire and Casualty.

The contractor, in the meantime, cashed the check and did not pay any of the subcontractors for the work, thus forcing United Fire and Casualty to pick up the tab. United Fire wants its money back, so it

Kur offers her service to city

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Soon-to-be former Charlevoix County Prosecutor Mary Beth Kur is offering her services to the city of Charlevoix in hopes of being its city attorney.

Kur recently sent a letter to city council members, the city mayor and City Manager Mike Wiesner explaining that she will be joining the law offices of Schmoll, Martin and Kur and could offer her services to the city in municipal law at a competitive rate to the current city attorney.

Mary Beth Kur

"It is my understanding that the city has spent a considerable amount of money on attorney fees in recent years and that the current city attorney receives health insurance from the city. The members of our firm provide for their own health care costs. I believe our firm can offer the city an arrangement that is very competitive with the city's current costs for legal fees," she said in the letter.

In addition, Kur wrote she has some ideas on how the city can generate revenues through drunk driving cases and other traffic matters.

When asked about the letter, Kur said she is just inviting the council to discuss the issue.

"The ball is in their court," Kur said. "My partner and I bring a lot of experience to the table."

Kur has been the Charlevoix County Prosecutor since 1995. She was beaten in the August primary election by her former assistant chief prosecutor John Jarema, who later went on to win in the November General Election.

Kur hands over her seat to Jarema on Jan. 1. At that time, she will begin working full-time for her private law firm in Petoskey.

Charlevoix City Attorney Jim Young, who was once the prosecuting attorney for Antrim County, said he understands that Kur is trying to build up a client base now that she is going into practice for herself.

"I respect what Mary Beth is trying to do," he said.

According to the April 2000 contract between the city of Charlevoix and Young, Young is paid $7,800 per year for basic legal services in addition to $105 per hour for additional legal services, plus expenses, and has his health care for himself and his family paid for by the city.

Charlevoix City Treasurer Rick Brandi said, as of last week, Young has been paid $85,730 for his services to the city of Charlevoix. In 2003, he was paid $74,185. In comparison, Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner makes $82,509.

Young's total pay includes the $7,800 per year. The rest of the $85,000 making up this year's bill comes from the additional legal services the city must pay for at $105 an hour.

On top of this, Young's health insurance costs the city an additional $863.64 a month.

Brandi said the city does not pay for the health insurance for any other outside contracted workers. The only other truly contracted worker like Young Brandi could think of is City Planner Gerry Harsh. His health insurance is paid for by Garfield Township, near Traverse City, who also has hired Harsh to provide his planning services.

Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner said the hiring of a city attorney is handled by the city council.

"I am usually not involved," he said.

According to the city charter, a city attorney is hired by a majority vote of the council for an indefinite term. The city attorney may also be removed by a majority vote of the council or the city attorney can terminate his services upon seven days written notice.

Young said he has been serving Charlevoix since about 1988. He said he was approached by the city after the previous city attorney had resigned.

"Council decided it would be in its best interest to find someone who did not reside or have a private practice in the city," Young said. Young has a private practice in Antrim County called Young, Graham and Elsenheimer that specializes in municipal law.

By going outside of the city, Young said the council wanted to avoid any conflicts of interest with its new attorney or the appearance of a conflict of interest.

"It was rather wise and I have seen other municipalities do it as well," he said.

Charlevoix Mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson said some council members have expressed interest in looking into this issue. At Monday night's council meeting, he asked the Charlevoix City Clerk to work with Young and break down exactly how much the city spends on its attorney and for what cases.

"I think the council wants to look at its options," he said.

Clarification

Two stories in last week's Charlevoix Courier are in need of some clarification.

First, in a story on page one about the proposed Charlevoix marina and East Park plans, it stated the project will be paid for using money from the Michigan Waterway's Commission and the Downtown Develoment Authority, therefore city taxpayer money would not be used. It should be noted money from the Charlevoix City tax fund will not be used, but tax money from the Downtown Development Authority will be used. While these are two different taxing entities, the Downtown Development Authority does get its funding from taxes placed on property located in the downtown district.

Also, in a story about Wayne Wynkoop on page 11, it said audience members were not allowed to speak during the meeting, except during the audience comment portion. People did speak at the Norwood Township meetings when issues were brought up, but they were not necessarily called upon and, Wynkoop said, some speakers were treated poorly.

Congratulations to the girls' basketball team

EDITORIAL

Once again a group of Charlevoix High School students are the talk of the town.

Last week the Charlevoix High School varsity girls' basketball team continued its winning streak — the team was undefeated this season — into the tournaments and earned a trip to Michigan State University's Breslin Center as a result.

The young women on this team fought like champions throughout the tournament. They were determined to get to the state finals and they were determined to beat whoever got in their way.

Team after team fell to the lady Rayders, until there was just one team left. This team from Detroit was bigger and stronger than the Rayders, but the Charlevoix women would not be intimidated.

The faced down the competition in that final game with that same determination they had all season. And they fought for every basket and kept the game exciting to the very last minute.

Up until that final buzzer sounded, the Rayders did not give up their goal of becoming state champions. Unfortunately, the end result was not in favor of the Rayders. Detroit DePorres had beaten the lady Rayders 61-56.

But, these women did not complain about the loss and they were saddened but not disheartened. You could still see the look of determination on the faces of the ones not graduating this year, saying, "We will be back."

The Charlevoix girls' basketball team serves as an example of what you can accomplish if you set your mind to your goals. They showed that determination, heart and a good attitude can help you overcome many obstacles.

And, what is great about this team is they are not the only students at Charlevoix High School with that attitude. Look at the high number of Charlevoix sports teams that do well in each season, lasting well into their tournaments. Look at the high number of Charlevoix students who achieve high test scores, win prestigious academic awards and are granted hard-to-get scholarships.

These lady Rayders are just another example of the fine students we have representing our community. We should be proud of all of them.

Wrong word

Editor:

Since schools seem to be failing in the proper use of our language, I suppose the last vestiges for promoting good English are our print and electronic media. With that in mind, I would bring to your attention the story on page 11 (last week's edition of the Courier), "Wynkoop wants to heal Norwood wounds." In the third paragraph you wrote, "Norwood Township over the past few years has underwent..." For shame! The word is "undergone."

The job of editor includes proofreading. I do understand that not all errors are found. I just am so aggravated with the poor state of language usage that these types of errors only seem to magnify the problem. My take on it is that if reporters use the language this way, people will think it must be okay. It's not! This is not the first time I've found improper use of English in your paper and would hope some improvement is forthcoming.

Great job

Editor:

Congratulations to the Charlevoix girls' basketball team and Coach Haske.

What a great season you have bad. The few games that I was able to attend this year, as I don't live in the Charlevoix community anymore, were inspiring. You girls played with heart and determination, you were steady and unwavering. It is amazing what vision; determination and hard work can accomplish. Coach Haske did a fantastic job helping you see the goals you could attain. Don't forget the lessons you learned — you will use them the rest of your life.

Column response

Editor:

Your opinion on "What really is morality in the United States?" in the Nov. 10, 2004 paper was truly a self description of yourself. There were some things I found interesting, because you left them out.

You say you were taught as you were growing up "to end poverty, help heal the sick and promote peace." Were you not taught to give honor and credit to the service people who defend your right to do all this with their lives? After all Veterans Day was Nov. 11. No mention made in your column about them. Were you not taught to tell the truth? Not to lie. Were you not taught to respect other people and their various ideas, religions and beliefs?

Were you taught to honor your promises — no matter how difficult it could become after the promise was made? I was taught that a promise made was a promise kept. My word is my bond. Were you taught to respect life? All forms both human, animal and plants? I consider a human baby a baby no matter what the age — already born or still waiting in the womb to be born. A partial birth abortion is heartless and cruel to an innocent and also to the mother.

A lot of these questions apply to us all. If people truly want the world to he a better place, perhaps they should quit pointing fingers at others and seriously consider that there is always something we can do. Let uss pray for one another and especially our president, George W. Bush. God bless him and guide him.

Great play

Editor:

Congratulations to Connie Ford and the Charlevoix High School Performing Arts. "Godspell" was everything it was written up to be. The Saturday performance was unique, diverse and vibrant.

From the set, costumes, lighting, audience participation, orchestra to actors singing it was exciting to see those students having fun and doing it so well. If you missed it, I hope you won't have to wait another 20 years for an encore.

Tax credit program promotes giving

Editor:

At year's end when many folks are considering charitable contributions, we would like to call attention to the State of Michigan's Tax Credit program for gifts to food banks and homeless shelters. This is the same type of tax credit program one hears about for Interlochen Public Radio, or Central Michigan University's public television and radio stations.

Here is how it works: An individual can make a cash donation of up to $200 ($400 for a couple) to a food bank or homeless shelter and receive a credit — better than a deduction — for 50 percent of the donated amount against taxes otherwise owed to the state. So that reduces the cost of the donation by that amount.

In addition, the full amount of the donation also qualifies as a federal income tax deduction, so there is a savings on federal taxes as well, the amount depending on one's tax bracket.

These credits apply to an individual who itemizes deductions on the their federal tax return. For example, in the 28 percent federal income tax bracket for one who makes the maximum contribution of $200, the out-of-pocket cost is $44. The comparable figure for a couple contributing $400 is $88. For those in higher brackets, the cost is even less, dropping down to $42 in the top bracket for a $400 gift by a couple. At these rates, it is quite easy to see one's way clear to help others who are down on their luck with a hot meal and a warm dry place to stay for awhile.

There are two local agencies who can receive such donations: The Nehemiah Project Hospitality House, 36 Bridge Street and the Manna Project, 13 McBride Park Drive, both in Petoskey. One's entire donation could go to either of these organizations, or could be

To complete the picture on Michigan's Tax Credit program, the credit is also available for contributions with the same limits and provisos to certain Michigan public institutions, including Michigan colleges and universities, public libraries and public broadcasting stations (which is why Interlochen and CMU cite this program). The same goes for contributions to the permanent endowment of funds of community foundations, such as our local Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation.

An individual so inclined could donate up to $200 ($400 per couple) to each of these three categories of institutions (such as homeless shelter, public institution or community foundation endowment fund) and receive the same tax credit for each donation.

For more information on this program, consult your accountant or refer to the 2004 Michigan Income Tax Information booklet. You're also welcome to contact us.

Now that cold weather has arrived, we hope that many of our fellow citizens will count their blessings and use this means to help out others who are not so fortunate.

Here's to a pleasant holiday season for all of us,

United Way names award winners and campaign goal

The CharEm United Way announced its 2004/2005 campaign goal of $230,000 at an award ceremony on Nov. 30 at the Bergmann Center in Charlevoix.

The John Newton Award of Excellence is given annually to both an individual and an organization, who through their actions, give significantly to health and human services in either Charlevoix or Emmet counties.

The award was created in 2002 by the CharEm United Way to commemorate the life of John Newton. Newton was an active member of the community who served not only on the United Way Board of Directors, but also gave of his time and talents to many other local organizations.

Past recipients of the Newton Award are Big Rock Point, Harbor Industries, Greg Withrow and Scott Kelly. This year's recipients were the Bergmann Center and Jennifer Archambault.

Jennifer Archambault of Harbor Industries received the individual award because of her involvement in organizing the first annual, CharEm United Way Day of Caring. This event took place on Thursday, Sept. 16 and included 70 volunteers working for seven non-profit organizations in both counties.

The Bergmann Center is a work/activity center for mentally and physically handicapped adults. They provide both recreational and learning activities that encourage increased independence, self-sufficiency and improve basic living skills. On this year's Day of Caring, the Bergmann Center sent a group of disabled adults to paint one of the horse rings at the Bay Harbor Equestrian Center. They painted the ring used for the Exceptional Riders program.

This year the CharEm United Way increased the campaign goal from $210,000 to $230,000.

According to Mike Atchison, president of the United Way Board of Directors, "The CharEm United Way has been gaining momentum in recent years, and we plan to keep that momentum going in the current campaign. We have raised our goal from last year by roughly 10 percent. The ultimate objective is to ensure that everyone in our area who needs the help of our agencies can get that help."

Anyone interested in making a tax-deductible contribution to the United Way may send it to CharEm United Way, P. O. Box 22, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Library officially owns former middle school

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix Public Library now officially owns the old middle school property.

On Dec. 3, the deed was finalized and the library took possession of what will become the new public library.

Valerie Meyerson, director of the Charlevoix Public Library, said the process took a lot longer than she had originally anticipated.

"We're pretty excited," she said.

With the change of ownership comes a change of address. The library's new address will be 220 Clinton Street.

Since the library now owns the building, the asbestos abatement process can now proceed.

The abatement started on Dec. 6 and will hopefully be finished by the end of the year, Meyerson said. It is an environmental hazard to go into the building during the abatement process.

An easement was settled between the library and the city, Meyerson said, that states when the city is ready to build a parking lot they can make use of the library's driveway.

From here, the next step on the path to building a new Charlevoix Public Library out of the former middle school is to open up demolition bids, which started on Dec. 7.

Meyerson said the demolition will start in mid-January, which is before the construction documents will be bid out in March or April of 2005.

"The reason we're doing the demolition first is so the architects can get in there and get a better feel," Meyerson said.

That way, with the walls down and the area opened up, the architects can know exactly what is a support beam and what they have to work with and can then make any necessary changes to the construction documents before they are put out for bidding.

Alice Riemenschneider of Riemenschneider Design Associate presented some of the creative ideas for the children's and teen areas of the library during the summer planning sessions.

The ideas include creating an enchanting children's area featuring a cottage with mushroom-type roofing that parallels Earl Young's architecture seen throughout Charlevoix and castle-like cobble stones and passageways made out of trees.

Other ideas include featuring a teen area that will be enclosed in glass so those using the room can have privacy, but others can supervise the room.

For now, the first step is getting the abatement completed.

"It's going good," Meyerson said of the whole project. "It definitely has a life of its own."

Seek idyllic harmony when celebrating holiday season

Beacons of Blessing

By FATHER TOM NEIS
St. Mary's Church

The famous Isaiahan passage (11:1-10) fills the pulpits of many Christian churches during this second week of Advent.

The shoot to sprout from the stump of Jesse will bring forth one who will judge the poor with justice because the spirit of the Lord will rest upon him: a spirit of wisdom and understanding, a spirit of counsel and strength, a spirit of knowledge and of fear of the Lord :

"Then the wolf shall be guest of the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down the kid;
the calf and the young lion shall browse together, with a little child to guide them.
The cow and the bear shall be neighbors,
together their young shall rest;
the lion shall eat hay like the ox.
The baby shall play by the cobra's den, and the child lay his hand on the adder's lair." (Is. 11-6-8)

During this familiar season of blitzkrieg from merchants who want to share the best, the latest, the most durable or stylish or fashionable of goods at the most economical price, we try to find some quiet time to reflect on the final coming of the Lord (eschatology) and the final judgment, to His historical birth. There is a spirit of real hopefulness in Isaiah's dream of a leader-king who would fill this role of bringing peace and justice for people of all nations.

Today we are faced with a continuing war in Iraq, plus the on-going civil wars in some parts of Africa. With so many people suffering from the effects of poverty worldwide; the injustice of abortion, child-abuse, corporate mismanagement, lack of comprehensive health-care for all and a hundred and one other social ills, we echo Isaiah with a plea that the Lord God send us a Messiah with justice and faithfulness a belt around his waist.

But if we truly seek the idyllic harmony of nature as Isaiah did, we need to be active in preserving our environment as best we can. If we look for a Messiah of peace, we might do well to examine our relationship with the God who created us, the Son who redeemed us and the Spirit who fills us with wisdom and understanding, counsel and strength, knowledge and fear of the Lord.

We might want to examine our relationship with family and friends who ought always be our first objects of a peaceful, loving relationship. The next level of concern in our concentric circle of peace-sharing efforts should carry us to the workplace, the neighborhood, the school or the church. Finally, we look for opportunities to share peace-love-justice with people in the broader community, county, state, country and world. It's really a never-ending mission.

While we continue to look for "the" Messiah in our world, we could well look inward to see how well our discipleship of the one, true Messiah is faring!

Obituaries

Suzi Reis: Dec. 19, 1938 - Nov. 22, 2004

Suzi Reis, 65, passed away at her home in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., on Nov. 22, 2004, after a lengthy illness.

She was very blessed to be surrounded by her friends and loved ones as her life came to its end.

She was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, on Dec. 19, 1938 to Dr. Lawrence E. and Pearl M. Grate and spent a lot of time in Charlevoix before moving here. Her father was an integral part of the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Suzi fell in love with art while a student in college. It became a big part of who she was. Her love for art colored her world.

As a young woman she met the love of her life. She and Jimmie Reis married and spent five wonderful years as husband and wife before his death.

Charlevoix was very lucky to have had Suzi as one of its biggest fans. She truly believed that everyone should give back to their community and she did so many times over. Her dedication to this town took several different directions. She served as a member of the board of directors of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce for a total of 10 years. She was president of the board for two of those years. The Ambassador Club was created by Suzi in 1984. She also ran the most successful membership drive ever in the history of the chamber.

In addition to her community involvement, Suzi opened her own art gallery in town. The Reis Gallery was on Park Avenue from 1972 to 1976. It was a very classy gallery. She also started the Charlevoix Home Tour and was the driving force of the Waterfront Art Council for 20 years. She was a very successful Realtor at Ski and Shore and then Vacation Properties Network.

In 1995, growing weary of the long cold winters here, she set out on yet another adventure. She moved to West Palm Beach, Fla. where she became involved in the symphony. She met many wonderful people in her new life who shared her zest for living and her love of the arts. She was elated to establish an arts education fund to benefit children, a pet project of hers for years, with the Kravis Center for the Performing Arts, 701 Okeechnobee Boulevard, West Palm Beach, FL 33401.

Bishop Cooney seeking info on Catholic Native Americans

James Maddix, an Elder with the Sault Ste. Marie tribe of Chippewa Indians is, at the request of Bishop Patrick R. Cooney, looking for Catholic Native Americans living within the 21 counties of the Diocese of Gaylord.

Maddix, an Elder with Unit 3 in St. Ignace and a member of St. Mary Cathedral Parish in Gaylord, has agreed to assist in gathering and compiling the data received from local Catholic Native American.

"It would be great if we could have a Native American contact in each of the parishes," Maddix said. "I feel that we can combine our Catholic faith and Native beliefs at the diocesan level, much the same as we already do at St. Isaac Jogues in Sault Ste. Marie and Blessed Kateri Tekakwitha in Suttons Bay."

If you are a Catholic Native American who lives in the 21-counties that make up the northern half of the lower peninsula, please contact James Maddix, c/o Diocese of Gaylord, 611 W. North Street, Gaylord, MI 49735 or by phone at 231-585-7599.

All information gathered will be used for the purpose stated above only.

Mittens for h.a.n.d.s helps those with HIV/AIDS

The holiday season can be an especially difficult time for individuals living with HIV.

The "Mittens for h.a.n.d.s." project, sponsored by HIV/AIDS Network and Direct Services (h.a.n.d.s.), helps make the holiday brighter for northern Michigan families affected by HIV/AIDS.

Now in its fifth year, "Mittens for h.a.n.d.s." matches client and family wishes with holiday donors. Each wish is recorded on a paper mitten provided to local churches and individual donors. The mittens are then used as tags on the donated gifts, which are collected and distributed by volunteers and staff members of h.a.n.d.s. The project is directed by Cheri Brogan of Charlevoix.

While the first priority of "Mittens for h.a.n.d.s." is to brighten the holiday season, community involvement and client needs vary from year to year. When community involvement is high, h.a.n.d.s looks toward extending the holiday spirit throughout the winter and spring. "There is always a need for assistance with home heating, snow plowing and transportation, as well as fresh fruits, vegetables and other perishables essential for the nutritional demands of living with HIV," Brogan points out. "These needs can be met with pre-purchased fuel or food vouchers or with cash donations to h.a.n.d.s. specifically directed for client assistance.

HIV/AIDS Network and Direct Services, centered in Petoskey, is a nonprofit organization serving Alpena, Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Chippewa, Emmet, Luce, Mackinac, Montmorency, Otsego and Presque Isle counties.

Anyone wishing to make a donation can call the h.a.n.d.s. office, toll free, at (888) 526-9213 or contact Cheri at (231) 348-3600.

Sheriff offers tips for winter safety in the county

While winter is synonymous with the joy of the holiday season, there is also danger in the cold and icy weather of the winter months.

By taking precautions now, Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater hopes the residents of the county will stay safe this winter.

Swirling winter snowflakes seem to turn into a blizzard in the blink of an eye. Sheriff Lasater wants area residents to know the four most common winter weather notices so you can take the proper action.

- Winter storm watch — Be alert, a storm is likely but has not been spotted yet.
- Winter storm warning — The storm has entered, or is approaching, your area.
- Winter weather advisory — Conditions are expected to cause significant inconveniences and may be hazardous, especially to motorists.
- Blizzard warning — This is the most dangerous situation. Combinations of snow and strong winds will produce blinding snow, near zero visibility, deep drifts and life threatening wind chill; seek refuge immediately.

Before heading out onto snow-covered roadways, Sheriff Lasater cautions residents to pay attention to travel advisories and adjust your plans accordingly.

Additionally, Lasater provides some tips on what you can do now to stay safe later.

- Winterize your car — check levels on anti-freeze, oil (10W30 is best for colder months), windshield wipers and fluid and tire pressure. Replace your battery if it is more than three years old, or if it no longer holds a full charge. Carry an ice scraper with a brush for removing snow.
- Prepare an emergency car kit which should include: Sand or kitty litter to provide traction, snow shovel, candles to provide light and heat inside your car, blankets, non-perishable food items and water, brightly-colored cloth to use as a flag.
- Always maintain a full tank of gasoline and keep your cell phone charged. Sheriff Lasater urges every person who will be on the roads this winter to carry a cell phone.

"In so many instances, the difference between life and death has been a person's ability to call for help from a cell phone," he said.

It is also highly important that residents prepare their homes for the coming winter months. Have your furnace checked by a certified technician, seal any windows leaking air, and create a home emergency kit that includes the following items: Battery-operated radio to listen to weather forecasts, candles and matches or flashlights and batteries, extra blankets including some for sealing doors and hanging over windows, non-perishable food, several gallons of water, and extra supplies of prescription medication.

For any outdoor activities this winter, Lasater advises people to put on several layers of lightweight, loose-fitting clothing, choose mittens over gloves and always wear a hat.

The combination of strain from cold temperatures and heavy exertion (shoveling, pushing a car, or walking in deep snow) can trigger a heart attack in people who are susceptible.

"With this information, the citizens of Charlevoix County can prepare themselves for winter ahead and more fully enjoy the beauty of the season," he said.

Charlevoix second grade starts penny drive

Second-grade students in Nicole Sterrett's class volunteered to help count and roll the numerous pennies Charlevoix Elementary School has gathered through a school-wide penny drive. Pictured is Sammy Hovie.

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The holidays are just around the corner.

In order to help those in need and learn a thing or two about money, the second grade classes at Charlevoix Elementary School are hosting a penny drive to raise money that will go toward Toys for Tots.

Nicole Sterrett, second grade teacher at Charlevoix Elementary School, said the penny drive is a school-wide event that was successful last year and is receiving great support from the community this year as well.

"The whole school is wonderful in bringing in pennies," Sterrett said.

Last year Sterrett said approximately $400 was generated through the penny drive and the hope is that this year will bring in as much money as possible to go toward Toys for Tots.

As a part of their social studies curriculum, Sterrett said the second grade students learn about community and how they can be helpful, which is enhanced through raising money for Toys for Tots.

The project also helps the students learn how to deal with money. Sterrett said the students take time during class to count and roll the pennies and graph their progress each day. Charlevoix State Bank helped roll the rest of the pennies.

"It's been fantastic," Sterrett said.

On Dec. 10, Sterrett said the students will make their way to Kmart where they will receive a 10 percent discount on the toys they purchase.

Sterrett said each group of students will be given a budget to work with and they will have to decide what types of toys are the best for the money they have to spend.

On Dec. 16, Sterrett said representatives from Toys for Tots will be present to receive toys and money the school raised and purchased.

Arvilla inspired by 'Calendar Girl' movie

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

One Charlevoix resident is baring a new side of herself in an effort to help her mother.

Dr. Denis Erin Arvilla, 54, created a calendar in the theme of the film "Calendar Girls" in order to help offset the medical costs her mother, Lyla Arvilla, 90, has incurred over the past three years.

"I thought how neat that 50-something women are doing something unique to raise money," Arvilla said.

The idea came after her husband, Lloyd Mel Vance, insisted on viewing the film "Calendar Girls." The film is about a few women of the Rylstone Women's Institute in North Yorkshire, England, who decide to pose nude in artistic photos that are turned into a calendar in order to raise money for Leukemia research after one of them loses her husband to Leukemia.

Instead of cancer, Arvilla's situation centers around the heart.

"Sport Age with a Smile" is the title of the 12-month, 2005 calendar Arvilla posed partially nude for. Each month features a sport Arvilla personally participated in and is an attempt to show that people should be upbeat and positive about their age and continue to remain active. The photographs were taken by Mary Paquette of Petoskey and the calendars were printed by Mitchell Graphics Inc. in Petoskey.

"My motto is you've got to get out there and be active," she said.

Arvilla said her mother has suffered from chronic arthritis in the spinal column that caused pressure on her spinal chord. This situation would have left Lyla Arvilla paralyzed from the neck down, but surgery relieved the pressure.

After a year and a half of therapy at $12,000 a month, Arvilla said her mother was able to walk, but was left with a huge medical bill.

A little while after the therapy, Arvilla said her mother contracted a virus that affected her heart and caused cardio myopathy or the heart muscle to become diseased. This in turn lead to congestive heart failure.

Arvilla said her mother was told in October 2003 that she wasn't going to live.

However, on Nov. 22, 2003, Arvilla's mother went to Northern Michigan Hospital and had her pacemaker replaced with a bi-ventricular lead pacemaker. This new pacemaker features two leads that connect to both sides of the heart instead of one lead, which causes both sides of the heart to beat together, Arvilla said.

After the pacemaker replacement and proper medication, Arvilla said her mother's heart beat rose from 23 percent to 40 to 45 percent.

The bill her mother incurred from medical treatment astounded Arvilla, who has studied in Canada and thinks the United States needs to look at things differently in regards to health care. She said the Canadian system may not be the answer, but something between that and the current system in the United States may be worthwhile.

"It's great to have good medical care, but it shouldn't take everything you own to have it," she said.

Arvilla said she wants to lobby for more affordable health care for all.

"Mom can't be the only person in this situation," she said. "It's something I want to bring to the floor for all."

Arvilla said she thinks there is a better way that people can get proper care and not have to lose everything in the process.

"I think we're the only civilized nation in this world that doesn't have affordable health care," she said. "It may or may not be true, but it's pretty close.

In September 2004, Arvilla said her mother's health became worse when she developed mitro-valve regurgitation. Arvilla said the only way to correct the situation is through open heart surgery, which her mother couldn't survive.

After her mother's medical costs are taken care of through the sale of these calendars, Arvilla plans to donate the rest of the proceeds from the sale of her calendar toward continued research on heart valve replacement technology.

Arvilla said her husband and family including brothers Joel William Arvilla and Erik Fraley Arvilla and sister, Dr. Dana Ellen MacMilian, have been very supportive.

Arvilla is taking her mission to Jay Leno, as she is in the process of writing him and sending a calendar in hopes to reach a broader audience.

Calendars will be available for $15.50 at several area bookstores including Bridge Street Book Shop in Charlevoix, McLean & Eakin Booksellers in Petoskey, Boyne Country Bookes in Boyne City, Between the Covers in Harbor Springs, Moose Junction in Mackinaw City, Log Mark Bookstore in Cheboygan, Book World in St. Ignace and Saturn Book Store in Gaylord.

Arvilla said she is currently working with Player's Choice, the Hockey Pro Shop at Centre Ice, as a location for purchase of the calendars.

For more information on the calendars or to make a donation e-mail Arvilla at mel4erin@sbcglobal.net. Donations can be mailed to Lyla Arvilla Trust, P.O. Box 201, Charlevoix, Mich., 49720.

Middle School hosts holiday food drive

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

In order to get into the spirit of giving and to help reach out to members of the community, Charlevoix Middle School is starting up its annual Spirit of Christmas Food Drive.

Jane Garver, student council advisor and eighth grade teacher, said the food drive is a school-wide event, but the Charlevoix Middle School Student Council is taking the lead on the project, which they have for the past two years.

"We want all the kids to share in this whole season of giving type of thing," Garver said.

The school is collecting any non-perishable food item and monetary donations until Dec. 17 and will donate all to the Charlevoix Food Pantry.

Adding a monetary goal is new this year and Garver said this year's goal is to collect 5,000 food items and $1,000 in donations.

The food drive is set up as a competition of sorts among the middle school students. If the goal is reached, the students will enjoy an activity per grade in January after the Christmas break.

There is another incentive for students to help collect as many items as possible. Garver said the seminar class from each grade that collected the most items will be treated to a breakfast.

When all the items are collected, they will be boxed up and taken to the Charlevoix Food Pantry, which Garver said the students will have a hand in.

"It's really exciting for them to see how they can actually help someone and be able to help in their own community too," Garver said.

For more information or to make a donation call Charlevoix Middle School at 547-3206.

Remember no alcohol/porn/racist or gender hiased materials.

When shopping online for treats for your soldier there are many sites out there to use and here are a few suggestions for web browsers: Go to Google and type Care4Troops, Support US Troops or Design a Package.com and remember to avoid chocolate for desert locations.

Go to military.com/deployment to find out details on how to deal with this trying time and ways to make the situation easier on all involved.

Calling cards are good to stay in contact with a loved one overseas, but the Army & Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) is recommending having soldiers read the fine print on the hack of phone cards because they may not get their money's worth due to varying international rates and per minutes charges.

For more information on AAFES phone cards and international calling go to www.aafes.com and choose the "Help Our Troops Call Home" link or call 1-800-527-2345.

All veterans invited to annual dinner Dec. 11

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Annual Veteran's Appreciation Dinner is from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. on Dec. 11 and all veterans are invited to attend.

Bob Drebenstedt, director of the Office of Veteran's Affairs, said the dinner will be a way to bring together all hrother's in arms for a celebration of the holiday's and each other.

"This is our thank you not only to those who served our country, but to those who continue to serve our community in a number of ways," Drchenstedt said.

The dinner will occur at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Charlevoix this year due to the large turnout last year.

"It's something that we started out at the Coast Guard station and we've grown to a bigger place," Drebenstedt said.

The new location will allow for veterans to bring their family and friends to celebrate in the holidays and each other.

This is the first year the dinner is open to all veterans, for in the past Drebenstedt said the focus was primarily on the World War II veterans.

By bringing all together, Drebenstedt said the hope is to unite all veterans and not continue to have a gulf between the generations.

"If you talk to the Vietnam veterans they'll say the World War II guys never really accepted them," Drebenstedt said.

Whereas, he said the Desert Storm veterans were accepted by all.

"We hope to heal some feelings," Drebenstedt said.

The older generation of veterans are very active in their respected social organizations and volunteer their time to the community.

Drehenstedt said the veterans from Desert Storm and Operation Iraqi Freedom are young enough to still be working full force and don't necessarily have the time to volunteer.

However, Drebenstedt said there is a need for the Korean and Vietnam veterans to join in the various service organizations such as the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"We need to keep this thing alive and things like this dinner get people acquainted with one another," he said.

Service organizations originally provided a place for veterans to be amongst each other and enjoy activities such as playing cards and finding out about jobs during the World War II era, Drebenstedt said.

They also provided a place soldiers could go to for healing from Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder, which is seen predominately amongst the American soldier, Drehenstedt said.

"The healing took place just by talking ahout it," he said.

Some veterans from Desert Storm and Operation Iraqi Freedom will experience this disorder and they too will need people to talk to ahout their experiences.

Also, the wives of veterans play an important part. Drehenstedt said several families of veterans volunteer their time in preparing food for those in need during the holidays among other activities.

"The entire family gives back," he said.

The Annual Appreciation Dinner is a way for veterans and their families to come together and keep the torch alive that will be passed onto the next generation of veterans.

"The once a year appreciation dinner is a very little thing compared to what they also give to the community," he said.

Veterans may know one another, but they are able to come together, break bread and reminisce on experiences only brother's in arms can ever know.

The dinner will feature turkey, ham, mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes, stuffing, assorted desserts and other holiday delights. The dinner is free for veterans but only $5 for guests.

All veterans are asked to hring photographs or scrapbooks to share with others during the dinner.

To RSVP call Coast Guard Station Charlevoix at 547-2565 or 547-9260.

Gooch raising money for educational Europe trip

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

One Charlevoix Middle School student is preparing to take the adventure of a lifetime.

Kristen Gooch, a sixth grader, will be traveling to Europe in June 2005 as a student ambassador through the program People to People.

Gooch said she will be visiting France, Italy, Switzerland and Austria as a part of her 20 day stay in Europe.

"I'm really excited," she said, for she has never been to Europe before.

The part she's most looking forward to is getting to travel to another country, but she doesn't have any predetermined favorites at this time.

Her mother, Liz Gooch, said Kristen will be traveling with about 40 other students from the Traverse City area, including a few students from Petoskey.

The opportunity is by invitation only and will allow the students to meet with various public officials in each country and to see the different cultures.

Gooch said the program was started by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and has been going strong since.

Last year, Gooch said a group of students went to Australia.

As a part of the process, Gooch said Kristen has to attend five monthly meetings, write a report on Austria and obtain a passport.

Each student is also responsible for raising the necessary $5,000 and Gooch is helping her daughter by creating several stuffed cloth cats that the pair had for sale during the 11th Annual Charlevoix Open House and Holiday Craft Show on Dec. 4 at St. Mary School.

The Gooch's featured Liz's homemade cats that were created with fabric donated by Bartlett's Home Interiors. They also sold dog treats donated by Pet Haus Cusine Inc. in Boyne City and various artwork donated by local artist Helga Strey.

Strey said the opportunities are important, which is why she donated some of her artwork for Kristen to sell.

Kristen and Liz Gooch sold crafts on Dec. 4 during the 11th Annual Open House and Holiday Craft Show at St. Mary School in order to help raise money for Kristen's adventure abroad as a student ambassador this summer.

"You have to support that very much so," she said.

Strey said the experience of different cultures and sites along with politics is important for students.

Kristen has raised some money through selling caramel corn, raking leaves, collecting pop cans, a bake sale, various crafts and from private donations.

Donations can be made by calling the Gooch's at 547-9640.

Snowmobile crash reported

A 20-year-old East Jordan man was injured in a snowmobile accident around 12 a.m., Saturday on private property in the 4000 block of Healy Road in Wilson Township.

A snowmobile being operated by the man was crossing private property when it struck a row of rocks which had been placed at the edge of a driveway. One of the front skis was caught between two rocks causing the snowmobile to flip over and roll several times throwing the operator off.

The man sustained head and neck injuries as a result of the crash. He was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital for treatment of his injuries by East Jordan Ambulance service.

The man was wearing a crash helmet which is believed to have prevented further or more serious injuries.

Alcohol is believed to be a factor in the accident which remains under investigation by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office.

Charlevoix girls beaten by big Detroit team

Grace Farrell fights her way through a tough defense in Saturday's state final game.

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

For the first time this season, the Charlevoix ladys met their match.

As a result, the Rayders suffered defeat for the only time in the 2004 campaign. Detroit St. Martin dePorres showed why they were the number one ranked team in Class C for most of the season in a 61-56 win over Charlevoix for the state championship.

"A little bit bigger, a little bit stronger, could get up a little higher than we could and just a little bit too physical in there for us," Coach Keith Haske said, describing DePorres "That was the story of the game."

They didn't have more fight or guts than the Rayders, however, who finished their season with a 27-1 record and gamely hung around despite playing what Haske termed their worst half of basketball of the season in the first half.

"I'm not surprised that the kids hung in there," Haske said. "They're intelligent basketball players and just a tremendous group of girls to be with.

Charlevoix trailed by 10, 53-43 with only 2:51 left in the game. Worse yet, the Rayders were without sparkplugs Madison Ramsey, who left the contest with a knee injury early in the second quarter, and Jaime Pettis, who fouled out with 3:33 to go.

The Rayders clawed their way back to within three at 55-52, aided in large measure by a rare five-point play. While Betsy Dennis was sinking a three-point shot from the top of the key, Grace Farrell was fouled underneath on the rebound. Farrell sank both free throw attempts.

In the next two trips down the floor, the Rayders fouled DePorres guard Jazmine Ellis who missed four straight free throws. Charlevoix could not capitalize; however, as they turned the ball over off the first set of misses and on the second set, dePorres' Michelle Carr rebounded the ball and was fouled.

She made both free throws with 58 seconds remaining to make the score 57-52. The Rayders later cut the lead again to three on another Dennis three-pointer at 59-56 but they could get no closer.

DePorres sank six of eight free throw attempts in the final minute of play.

"Obviously I'm proud of the kids, the way they came back, fought back on a day that I didn't think we played one of our better games," Haske said.

"The key to the whole game was dePorres' ability to offensively rebound the basketball," Haske said. "Hats off to their kids. I thought they were very tenacious. Every rebound that went up, they seemed to just want that ball."

Related story on page 29

DePorres outrebounded the Rayders, 38-18 in total rebounds and 18-5 on the offensive glass. They scored 22 points off offensive rebounds and 42 of their 61 points in the paint.

Dennis, Farrell and Laura Nitchman led Charlevoix in scoring, each with 16 points. Nitchman was 10 for 12 from the charity stripe, grabbed six rebounds and dished out four assists.

Farrell, earlier in the week named Class C Special Mention All-State, had five steals and four rebounds. Dennis was a scintillating five-for-nine from three-point range to keep the Rayders in the game, just two three-pointers short from the state final record for all classes.

Lady Rayders invade the Breslin Center

the stretch and it was apparent she was the one we were going to try to go to," Haske said. "She was feeling it. She was awesome; what a great way to finish her career."

DePorres led at the end of the first quarter, 9-4 as Charlevoix shot only 13 percent from the floor. At halftime, the Eagles upped the lead to 27-19.

"I really thought we regrouped at halftime," Haske said. "We really did what we were trying to do coming into the game. But when you can't get baskets in the paint, things change a little bit. We're used to having Grace get some good looks. They took that away from us."

Another factor was the injury to Ramsey who twisted her knee making a pass.

"In the tournament run, (Ramsey's) been one of the keys to us being successful," Haske said. "When Jaime got into foul trouble, it was hard to find that second person that we like to play there."

Despite the loss, the Rayders were still able to put things into perspective.

When asked whether she was nervous to play in the finals at the Breslin Center, Nitchman said, "No, I was nervous before the first game because I didn't want to go to school the next day, but I didn't really get that nervous (for the finals).

"It was amazing," Nitchman said. "I came down here last year to watch my brother play last year and he told me it was the best feeling in the world and I was like, 'no', there are better things out there."

"And then I came down here to play and it's just awesome, nothing beats playing down here."

Seniors Farrell, Dennis, Sarah Cross, Madison McKenzie and Kari Way closed out their high school careers in the final.

Rayders beat Hamady to advance to final

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

Charlevoix's Lady Rayders played their way into the state finals with two victories that were impressive for different reasons.

In the quarterfinals at Petoskey, Charlevoix trounced a previously unbeaten Iron Mountain squad, 63-39 while in the semi-finals in East Lansing; they came from behind for the first time all season to defeat Flint Hamady, 70-67.

"They're a great team," Haske said of Hamady who had defeated top-ranked Pewamo-Westphalia in the regional finals.

"I didn't think we'd come down here and win a game by 14 points. I thought it'd be a game just like we had today. Nothing out there surprised me at all."

The Rayders led by as many as 14 in the third quarter against Hamady at 53-39 but the Hawks used a 10-0 run at the end of the third quarter and start of the fourth to pull close, then a 14-4 run to pull ahead, 63-60 with 3:31 to play.

"I thought (Hamady) picked it up a little bit. They came after us with a bit more intensity and put a press on us. I thought we lost our intensity there for a few minutes," Haske said.

Laura Nitchman then sank two free throws and seconds later assisted on a Grace Farrell basket to retake the lead for Charlevoix at 64-63.

After a miss by Hamady, Coach Keith Haske called a timeout and set up a play for all-stater Farrell who responded. Farrell, at the low post, took a feed from Sarah Cross at the high post, scored and drew a foul.

She then converted the free throw to push the lead back to four at 67-63. Farrell then followed that up with a block at the defensive end of the court.

"Grace made the big plays and that's what an all-stater does," Haske said.

The Hawks wouldn't fold though, pulling to within one with seven seconds to play but Madison Ramsey calmly sunk two free throws with five seconds to go to ice the game. Hamady's desperation three at the buzzer was no good.

"The neat thing for me is that through the whole season, 27 games, and this was the first game where we've actually been in what I would call a real contest that came down to the end," Haske noted. "And to watch Madison Ramsey and Grace and the other girls finish in that situation, when they haven't been in it, I think that's quite an accomplishment."

"Only the coaches were panicking," Haske joked. "The kids did a great job keeping their composure and just hanging in there."

The Rayders were a very strong 26 for 31 (82 percent) from the free throw line. Farrell and Nitchman were both perfect from the stripe, making seven and six, respectively.

Farrell finished with 17 points, seven rebounds and three assists. Kari Way came off the bench to post 13 points and six rebounds.

Ramsey had 12 points and six rebounds. Betsy Dennis was the fourth Rayder in double-figures with 10 points and four rebounds. Shannon Dibble added eight points. Nitchman had six points and four steals.

Against Iron Mountain, after an 8-8 tie with 1:50 to go in the first period, Charlevoix used runs of 10-0 and 8-0 to jump to a 33-17 halftime lead. The Rayders won going away, leading by as many as 30 in the final stanza.

Nitchman led the Rayders with 13 points and five steals. Dibble scored 11 points.

Farrell had a double-double with 10 points and 11 rebounds. Cross and Dennis each had eight points. Ramsey scored seven points while Way grabbed eight rebounds.

Open house slower, but successful, this year

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

With the Lady Rayders down in Lansing vying for the state champion title, Charlevoix became quiet, but activities still thrived in the downtown area despite a drop in the population.

On Dec. 4, the Eleventh Annual Charlevoix Open House and Holiday Craft Show at St. Mary School and the annual downtown Merchant Open House still drew people in.

However, Judy Bunton, who displayed her various Forget Me Not crafts during the craft show at St. Mary School for the first time, said several people that came through told her it was slower than normal.

"I did well for the first time," she said.

Bunton said the morning was the busiest time, but things tapered off by the afternoon.

"I have nothing to compare it to," she said.

Gail Seidel and Helen L. of the Bergmann Center said they noticed a little less traffic this year at the craft show.

Both women have participated in the craft show for the past two years.

"We did really well this year," Seidel said.

The morning brought in a lot of people, Seidel said, but overall there were less visitors than the previous year.

Seidel said some of the people that did come were stopping by on their way to Petoskey or Traverse City as part of a northern Michigan craft circuit.

Helga Strey, a local artist, participated in the craft show for the first time this year and displayed her various artistic talents.

"It has been going well," Strey said.

Strey said at first things were slow, but then things began to pick up.

One of the crafts that Strey had for sale were cards featuring her various watercolors of the Charlevoix lighthouse.

"I thought I'd sell more of the Charlevoix lighthouse, but it's not Christmas," she said.

The same sentiment resonated from the downtown merchants as well.

Patrice Stieglitz, store manager for J. Phillips in Charlevoix, said the store did surprisingly well.

"What I love about this day is I get to see all the locals," Stieglitz said. "I didn't get to see a lot of the locals."

Pat Marshall, a sales associate at J. Phillips in Charlevoix, said of the people that stopped in, no one seemed to be buying Christmas presents.

Instead, Marshall said most people were shopping for themselves.

"We wrapped two gifts all day," she said.

Both Stieglitz and Marshall said there seemed to be the same amount of people as last year.

"It felt busier this year than last year," Marshall said. "There were a lot of people."

The homemade food the store presented may have helped draw people in.

"Everyone told us we had the best food on the street," Marshall said.

Jacqueline Dipert, owner of The Clothing Company, said the open house wasn't as busy as last year but business wasn't too bad.

"I was very happy with what we did," she said.

Dipert said the night was busy as well.

"I thought there was a lot more going on than in previous years," she said.

Santa Claus visited the Bridge Street Book Shop during the annual Merchan Open House. Jeffery L. Schatzer autographed copies of "The Bird in Santa's Beard" and spread happiness to all who came by.

The Ragamuffins performed at the store during the open house, which Dipert said always draws a crowd.

The entertainment throughout the downtown merchants was new this year and Dipert said it may have helped draw people downtown despite the weather.

"I think every year will get better," she said.

Jim Berlage, owner of The Bridge Street Book Shop, said his store was fairly busy.

"I had a better Saturday this year than last year," he said.

Berlage wasn't sure why, but said perhaps featuring book signings and entertainment all day long during the open house helped.

Charlevoix Senior Center receives more funding

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix Senior Center is coming into its own as construction is slowly coming to a close that will extend the kitchen and provide an enclosed sun area.

On Dec. 1, the center received a $2,500 grant from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation that will go toward financing already purchased equipment.

Earl Muma, director of the Charlevoix Senior Center and chairman of the Charlevoix Senior Citizens Board of Directors, said all is going well with the construction and renovations.

Muma said a lot of help with the center comes from people knowing what the center stands for and is used for.

"It behooves us to take care of it," he said.

In order to enhance what the center already provides its members, the kitchen is being extended 10 feet and an extension of the dining room is being installed.

"We are serving a lot more people," he said.

Muma said the room will be used as a sun room since it has a wall of windows. Heat goes to the new room and Muma said he plans to have a library at one end and tables so people can put together puzzles and enjoy their day.

"Everything's going good," Muma said.

Muma said he wants to purchase a walk-in freezer and refrigerator in order to store large amounts of food that is bought ahead of time.

"To keep this place going," Muma said. "That's made what we have today."

Bob Tambellini, president and CEO of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, presented the grant along with Program Officer Maureen Radke.

The Charlevoix County Commission on Aging has helped finance the Senior Center as well through a grant last year of $18,275 for operational costs. This year, Sue Bergmann, director of the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging, said the center was approved for a grant of $12,390 to be used for the purchase of new kitchen equipment and to cover air conditioning installed last summer.

The center also received funding months ago from the Grand Traverse Bay Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians to help with operational costs.

The Senior Center is even getting Congressional attention. Muma said he received a call from Congressman Bart Stupak's office on Nov. 13 informing him that the center will be receiving a $24,500 grant. The funds will be used to finish construction on the building.

On Dec. 1, the Charlevoix Senior Center received a check from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for $2,500 that will cover costs for renovations. Bob Tambellini, president and CEO of the Foundation and Maureen Radke, program officer for the foundation, presented the check to Earl Muma, director of the senior center and members. Guess who supports the local boy scouts, little league, etc.

Local merchants are the same people that serve as scoutmasters, coaches or fund raisers for your community. These merchants donate many hours of time and effort to building and improving the community for everyone. If they prosper — we all prosper.

Shopping locally ensures that your money will stay at home supporting the things we all need and enjoy. Each dollar spent locally is returned many times over in local services for you and your family.

Think about it! Do you want your money supporting parks, streets or service in some other city? And when is the last time a big city merchant took a local scout troop camping for the weekend?

City's insurance company argues wording then sued the city of Charlevoix for the money in federal court.

CCMS

Young said by asking for a criminal investigation, the authorities can determine if CCMS committed a crime.

When asked if CCMS was cooperating with the city, Young said, "A former owner has been utterly uncooperative in terms of coming to the table."

He said he will continue to try to talk to CCMS about the issue, but added a criminal investigation can be conducted parallel to this.

Upon originally learning of the lawsuit and the mistakenly written check, the city asked its insurance company to pay. The insurance company has balked at that plan.

According to Young, the city's insurance company is basically arguing wording as a way to not pay for the check error.

In filing its case against the city, United Fire is claiming the city was in breech of contract for paying CCMS and not United Fire for the road work. The city's insurance company is therefore saying that it will cover mistakes, but it is saying it will not cover breech of contracts.

Young argues the insurance company should not be using the way the attorney for United Fire decides to frame his lawsuit through the use of words to determine if the city has coverage, but should look at the facts of the case. He said it is clear this check was a mistake, therefore coverage is available.

"The city's options now are to make one last attempt to get the insurance company to pay," Young said.

Venture Crew 16 hosting Santa and Craft Workshop

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix Venture Crew 16 will be hosting their first annual Santa and Craft Workshop from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Dec. 11 in the deli department at Glen's Markets in Charlevoix.

Priscilla Lemond, advisor for Venture Crew 16, said the workshop is something new the crew wanted to do in order to help raise funds for projects throughout the year.

Venture Crew is a co-ed branch of the Boy Scouts of America with members between the ages of 14 and 21. Lemond said the Venture Crew is able to do more adventurous activities than the Boy Scouts such as white water rafting and hiking in the mountains.

Venture Crew 16 has seven current members including Michelle Lemond, Michael Lemond, Josh Louiselle, Ellie Strong, Carry Musser, Chuck Green and Andrew Leusink. The adult advisors include Lemond, Linda Louiselle, Christi Givens, Bobby Jo Givens and Brad Waterman.

Some of the crafts featured are the opportunity to decorate a tote bag with fabric paint and various foam crafts. The public can purchase a craft and then let their artistic creations flow.

"The kids will be there to help do the crafts," Lemond said of Venture Crew 16.

Aside from the crafts, cookbooks will be available for purchase. The cookbooks, Lemond said, include family recipes from the crew members that they collected during elementary school.

The cookbook also features recipes from former girl scouts, boy scouts, classmates, teachers, from people in Charlevoix and surrounding areas and some from a boy scout troop from Zilwaukee that Lemond said Venture Crew 16 met at an international scout rally.

Aside from crafts, Santa Claus will be paying a visit for photo opportunities during the day.

Crafts will range in price from $1 to $2 and cookbooks will be available for $8. Pictures with Santa will cost $4.

All proceeds will go toward the crew's general fund to finance such as camping and bowling.

"We would like to do white water rafting," Lemond said.

Fire may have started in electrical system

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1153 lost the building that has been their home since 1953 during a fire around 2 a.m. on Dec. 10.

Charlevoix Township Fire Chief Curt Thompson said the building was fully engulfed when the firefighters arrived on the scene. Thompson said when they arrived, most of the smoke and flames were located on the northeast corner of the building and flames were coming through the windows. A passerby called in the fire, Thompson said, which took two hours to get under control.

"Like most fires when no one's in the building, by the time someone drives by it gets advanced," he said.

Thirty firefighters were on the scene and received assistance from the Charlevoix City Police Department.

Arrests made in city wastewater case

Former superintendent one of those facing charges

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Two former employees of the Wastewater Treatment Plant in Charlevoix have been arrested by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ).

Former superintendent Samuel Louis Creswell and former lead worker James Stanley Mazur were arrested and charged with breaking both environmental law and traditional criminal law according to the MDEQ.

In a written statement, Wiesner said, "These entire circumstances are very unfortunate. The allegations against these two individuals, who served the city for a long time, involve testing and record-keeping requirements. Fortunately, there was apparently no impact on human health or the environment. The city will continue to cooperate fully with MDEQ."

Sgt. Vince Woods, a detective with the MDEQ's office of criminal investigation, said the men were charged with making false statements and providing false information to the MDEQ under environmental law.

They were also charged with uttering and publishing false information as fact under traditional criminal law.

Creswell was arrested on Dec. 14 and was arraigned later that day. Mazur was arrested on Dec. 7 and is currently out on bond.

For the false statements charge, the men could receive two years in jail and a fine that could range between $2,500 and $25,000 per violation. Right now both men have been charged with one violation of making a false statement.

The men are also facing a $25,000 fine per day that an unlawful discharge occurred.

For the uttering and publishing charge, the men could get a maximum penalty of 14 years in jail.

Problems at the Wastewater Treatment Plant reach back over a three year period, which the city staff discovered last winter according to a letter written by Dustin Ordway, a city attorney to Barry Selden, chief of the MDEQ's Cadillac unit.

The MDEQ's investigation team recorded some of the problems they found in a March report that was given to City Manager Michael Wiesner. The report included that 31 total residual chlorine limit exceedences were reported to MDEQ as being in compli-

Jarema announces new prosecutor staff

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix County Prosecutor-elect John Jarema has announced his new staff.

Leading off the office staff will be attorney Shaynee Fanara as the new chief assistant prosecutor. Fanara was a candidate for the Emmet County Prosecutor's race but lost in the August primary election.

She served as the assistant Emmet County Prosecutor from October 2001 until October 2003. Fanara has is also a Fraternal Order of Police attorney and has experience in defense work. She is a resident of Emmet County, is the secretary of the Charlevoix/Emmet Bar Association, a diver for the Emmet County Sheriff Dive Team and a firefighter for the Bear Creek/Resort Township Fire Department.

Fanara will be replacing John Puzzuoli, who has 12 years experience as an attorney.

Also new to the staff will be Sandra Raecke as the office manager. Raecke is coming to the prosecutor's office from the 90th District Court.

While the current prosecutor's office does not have an office manager, it does have two clerical workers — Debra Niswander and Staci Seelye. Niswander will not be staying, however Jarema said Staci Seelye will remain in her current position.

The new, full-time, child support specialist will be Brieann Carey. Carey graduated from North Central Michigan College with a degree in the paralegal program. Carey will be replacing Kerry Zahner. Zahner, an attorney, has worked with the prosecutor's office for five years and is currently the part-time child support specialist. She will be opening her own law office in Charlevoix.

Rounding out the list of new faces is Judy Telgenhof as victim advocate. Telgenhof has a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University in management and secretarial experience working for the lawfirm Joseph, Corcoran, Telgenhof and Snyder, whose practice Jarema is currently a member of.

Telgenhof will be replacing current victim advocate Shaeana Burk, who is working on a bachelor's degree in law. Burk is taking a position with current county prosecutor, Mary Beth Kur's new law firm in Petoskey.

Jarema has decided to keep assistant prosecuting attorney Brian Seelye on staff. The other current assistant prosecuting attorney, Jennifer Deegan, will not be staying.

Drive according to the road conditions

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office investigated a one-vehicle crash around 7 a.m. on Sunday, Dec. 12 on M-66 near Shaw Road.

Deputy Jeremy McAuliff and Aux Officer Kevin Cooper were traveling north on M-66 and observed a 1997 Pontiac Grand Am lose control, leave the roadway and roll. The driver, Carmella Ann Burns, 23 of East Jordan was not injured, however she was trapped inside the vehicle, as she was unable to release her seat belt.

The Charlevoix Fire Department and EMS assisted at the scene and Burns refused transport by ambulance.

Investigation determined that the crash was the result of driving too fast for conditions. Several inches of snow had just fallen within the previous hour and the road was extremely slippery.

The deputies who saw the crash said the vehicle was traveling between 40-45 mph when the driver lost control, but due to the road conditions that was too fast. Drivers are reminded that the maximum posted speed is not always a "safe speed."

Act with class when cheering on the team

EDITORIAL

With the close of the girls' successful basketball season, court-side excitement in Charlevoix will not be coming to an end as the boys have started up their basketball season.

Fans of this sport will surely see some enjoyable playing from a team that is known for playing great on the court and acting with class off the court. And having ended the season last year with a second place finish in the state finals, the boys' team will bring in many fans to the stands.

However, we should take this moment to remind the fans to behave as they attend these games.

Charlevoix High School basketball is ultimately just a game being played by teenagers, who are learning how to work as a team, take direction from a leader and strive to reach goals. Being on the basketball court is like being in a classroom for these athletic students, and we should remember and respect that.

Too many times in the past have we had to deal with certain Charlevoix fans who are ruining it for the rest of us (and some of these bad fans are considered community leaders).

Too many times we hear stories about the unruly fan who is swearing at the refs, being aggressive to other spectators and just plain making a fool of themselves and embarrassing the school they say they are supporting. Unfortunately, because of a few unsportsmanlike fans like this, Charlevoix has gotten quite the reputation among other schools in the region. Charlevoix does not deserve this image, especially the students. Many coaches and others close to the Charlevoix sports program will tell you that the student athletes at our schools are very classy kids...it is just some of the fans they don't like.

It is time to turn this reputation around. We need to support these students with the same kind of class they are known for. We need to be respectful of the fact that these athletes we are cheering on are just teenagers, having fun and learning some useful lessons in the process, and we need to understand we are being judged for our actions.

Let's make this an enjoyable basketball season for all.

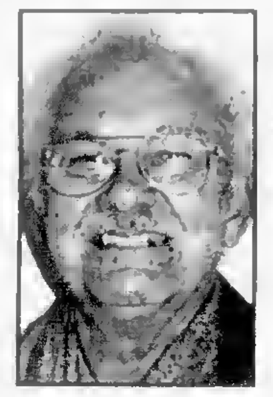
Winter Solstice deserves more recognition as holiday



Roger Knutson

'Ear to the ground'

This is a reprint of a previous article in order to bring more attention to the Winter Solstice.

We are about to observe one of the world's great est holidays.

No, not Christmas, not Hanukkah, not Ramadan, not Kwanzaa, not the New Year, although the clustering of so many ethnic and religious celebrations at about the same time of the year is no accident. What we will observe is a world holiday, an astronomical one, not an ethnic, religious or geographic one. We are approaching the winter solstice — an occasion that has been celebrated in some way for almost as long as there have been human beings living some distance from the equator.

For most of us in the modern world, the solstice is just a date on the calendar which in the northern hemisphere of our earth is sometimes called the beginning of winter. The word "solstice" literally means a stopping of the sun. Surrounded as we are with artificial light at all seasons of the year, it may be difficult to understand the significance that early temperate zone humans attached to the one day when the sun, which had been inexorably moving lower and lower in the sky, stopped its descent. Back when we believed in fickle gods who might do anything to us or for us, people built great fires and performed all sorts of rituals and entreaties in hopes of luring the sun back from its distant journey — just as we now deck our houses and businesses with lights. The day the sun stopped moving away and began to return was probably the greatest day each year. Long before we had calendars or months or weeks, people knew intimately the pattern of movement of the sun, source of warmth and life. That the hours of light began to lengthen and the conviction that the sun was surely returning, must have helped make the cold of winter more tolerable for those people who had winter. And is should make it more tolerable for us.

Even if we humans do not much note the beginning of longer days, we are surrounded by creatures who do. There is not likely any native plant or animal here in northern Michigan that is not at some level aware that the solstice has passed and that the days are getting longer. The built-in clock which almost all creatures share, is accurate to within 10 minutes, even in the most unconscious plant. So surely by the first week in January on our calendar, everything but us humans will know the solstice has passed and days are lengthening. Those little hormonal signals that guide the behavior and activities of every living thing have begun to tell them that spring is on the way and they should be getting ready. Buds on plants are months from swelling and doing anything we can see, but deep down inside, they are beginning to make ready. Little microscopic hints of cell division and growth are already under way. Our exalted humanness doesn't totally keep us from awareness that the days are short. Some number of us suffer notably from what is called Seasonal Affective Disorder, appropriately abbreviated SAD. Depression of varying degrees of seriousness is part of winter for many of us. The cure for such depression is, not surprisingly, exposure to bright light for some additional hours each day.

The solstice might appropriately remind us that we are tied to the world and all its living things by bonds much stronger and longer lasting than any of the more recently inaugurated human holidays on our calendar. Celebrate the Solstice.

Skateboarders working to fix stereotype

Editor:

Hi, my name is Stephen Parker and I am one of the many skateboarders in Charlevoix. I am sure you have probably noticed us, crowding your sidewalks and roads, skating in your parks and just plain causing "trouble."

I, like most of us skateboarders, have been repeatedly warned regarding doing these things, as there are laws against most. However, I feel that sometimes skateboarders are not treated fairly.

We are often stereotyped as kids who have nothing better to do but cause trouble. Actually, most of us try to stay out of the way because we know that we can become a nuisance to other people. We make attempts to avoid the crowds by visiting the less busy spots during the day when there are more people around town.

We do this to benefit both ourselves, by making it less of a hassle to get around on our boards and the non-skateboarders, who tend to thin out later at night, when we go out. My crew and I have gone to the extent of skating into the wee hours of the morning to avoid crowds during events such as Venetian Festival.

Recently, thanks to the efforts put forth by some citizens of our community, a skatepark has been built. This has drastically decreased any problems associated with skateboarders on the streets.

Indeed, it is true that some skate-

Article response

Editor:

After reading your article in the Dec. 1 Courier, I cannot help but find the arrogance of the Charlevoix School Board and their administrator, Dr. Sturock, disheartening. The facts of the library are this:

1) The land and the current library building are owned by the library and will continue to be owned by the library as long as they use it.

2) The current building was built with library funds, not school funds. The land was donated for the purposes of a library.

3) The current deed does not have a reverter clause on file.

4) The library offered to exchange the current library for the old middle school property at the Oct. 14, 2002 Board of Education meeting. Following committee meetings, the school told the library they absolutely did not want the building and property. Then the school sold the old middle school to the city for $635,000.

5) The quit claim deed with the reverter clause that the school says is part of the agreement that transferred the library from the school to the library board was never signed. Many of the current school board members and library board members were on their respective boards at the time of transfer. Nobody knew anything about this reverter clause. It is not signed or initialed.

6) Dr. Sturock says we should ignore the fact that the reverter clause is not on the deed that he signed, but it doesn't matter that the quit claim deed in the transfer agreement was never signed by anyone. He is saying that the recorded deed is less important than the unsigned quit claim deed with the reverter clause.

7) Taxpayers have given the school a sinking fund. Why don't they use those funds to build administration offices instead of usurping valuable downtown commercial space that would contribute to the city of Charlevoix tax base? This past year the school built an athletic facility at the high school. When it came in under bid they didn't save the money, they just made it bigger.

8) Dr. Sturock says "the law is the law." This is the same administration that had to be sued to make them comply with the law regarding the sewer for the new high school

I was a student, a teacher and a former school board member for the Charlevoix School District. I am appalled at this administration's lack of regard for the public opinion of the taxpayers they represent. There was a time when the school administration honored the wishes of the community and worked to promote harmony. Unfortunately I don't think that is the tone of Dr. Sturock's remarks. The school taxpayers and the library taxpayers are exactly the same people. If they want the value of the current library to stay with the library, the school administration should respect their wishes. The law will allow it.

Lastly, thank you to all the people who continue to support the plan for the current library to be sold by the library and used to pay down the debt of the new facility.

I believe it is time for the community to remind the school board and administration that they represent the community, not rule it. After all, the next time the school asks the taxpayers to approve another millage, the taxpayers will be able to vote their opinions.

Constance Saltonstall
Charlevoix

(Editor's note: The reverter clause referred to by Saltonstall was supposed to be included in the deed. Due to a clerical error it was left out. Both the library and school district have said that reverter clause should have been included in the deed.)

Thank you

Parents were invited to attend and watch their children perform magic tricks they already knew or learned from the non-fictional magic books they read in class. Board votes for smoking ban

Members of the Board of Health for the Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency voted to adopt a smokefree workplace restriction at their monthly meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 7 after considering the issues and dangers of secondhand smoke for the last six months.

The Board of Commissioners from each of the four counties served by the health agency — Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego — must also approve the restriction before it becomes effective.

If adopted, the restriction will require businesses in these four counties, except for restaurants, bars, hotels, and motels, to provide a smokefree environment for their employees and patrons. The restriction becomes effective 90 days after the last county adopts the restriction.

The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency is the local health department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties.

Its staff is dedicated to preventing disease and injury and promoting healthy communities. For additional information about the smokefree workplace restriction, contact Teresa Sington, Tobacco Reduction Coalition Coordinator, at (231) 547-7659.

Sunny Smiles expanding to group daycare

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Sunny Smiles Daycare, of Charlevoix, is expanding to include up to eight children.

According to owner Cindi Ann Baird, this Charlevoix daycare has recently been licensed by the state of Michigan as a group daycare for up to 12 children. Baird plans on having only eight children to get a ratio of four children to one adult, with help from her assistant Celeste Marr.

"Our goal is to provide nurturing, loving care to children...,"she said. "We want you to feel secure that your child is at the very best place he can be, next to being home with you."

Sunny Smiles Daycare has been in operation since 1990, around the same time Baird started taking care of her children full-time. She has two children, Joey, 14 and Katie, 12.

Baird and Marr are both trained in CPR, with Baird also being a nutritionist. Baird, who has trained and run a marathon before, said she uses her personal interest and knowledge in health and fitness as she prepares meals and activities for the children in her daycare.

Additionally, Baird is currently taking classes in early childhood education at North Central Michigan College for an associates degree.

Baird is also a member of the North Central Chapter of the Michigan Association for the Education of Young Children.

In addition to expanding her knowledge of educating children in her daycare, Baird is pursuing the degree to further expand her daycare into a head-start program.

She said she is planning on building a separate building next to her current daycare for this.

Currently, Sunny Smiles Daycare is located in Baird's home. However, she said, her home was specifically built to allow her to provide daycare services.

"There is plenty of room to play, lots to do for creativity and it is a great place to grow and explore the unique individual that all children are," she said.

Sunny Smiles Daycare is located on the north side of Charlevoix, right on Susan Lake.

Baird accepts children around the clock, seven days a week. Call 547-0967 for more information on Sunny Smiles Daycare or see Baird's web site at www.upnorthdaycare.com.

Charlevoix students to attend inauguration

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

A group of Charlevoix High School students are about to get the experience of a lifetime.

Government students will be leaving on Jan. 19 for Washington D.C. where they will attend the inauguration of President George W. Bush.

"I think it'll be a good experience for the kids," Curt Harwood, a math and geometry teacher at Charlevoix High School, said.

Harwood and Lorraine Niswander will chaperone the trip, which will culminate on Jan. 21.

The Presidential Inauguration will be at the nation's capitol on Jan. 20 and the students will get the chance to see a president sworn into office and take part in the "A Vision of America" theme.

The theme honors the centennial of Theodore Roosevelt's 1905 Inauguration and the bicentennial of the Meriwether Lewis and William Clark expedition in 1805.

After the Inaugural parade and address, the students will attend a student inaugural ball, but may have the possibility of attending the Inaugural Ball.

However, this would require $150 extra on top of the approximately $980 trip.

Chuck Mason, a student attending the trip, said even though the total amount is a lot of money, the opportunity doesn't come along that often.

"I think we'll come up with the money somewhere," Mason said.

Mason, who leaned toward Bush during the election, is excited about attending the inauguration.

"I love it. It's a great opportunity," he said.

"I would enjoy it to the fullest if either candidate won."

Anna Taylor, who participated in the Michigan Democratic Coordinated Campaign, is looking forward to the trip because it is a once in a lifetime experience.

"I think that this trip is going to be awesome even though my guy didn't win," she said.

Melissa Grosberg, who participated in the Michigan Democratic Coordinated Campaign, likes politics and looks forward to the trip.

"I'm very disappointed in the outcome of the election but it's a rare opportunity," she said. "I'm glad that everyone that's going is interested in politics."

The students will get to see many famous sites during their short stay in Washington D.C. When they arrive on Jan. 19, the students will see Arlington National Cemetery and witness the Changing of the Guard and other aspects of the cemetery.

They will also get to see the Iwo Jima Memorial, Capitol Hill and will culminate the day with a night tour of Washington D.C.

On Jan. 20, the students will visit the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall, the Korean Memorial, the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Memorial and will then attend all the Inaugural events.

Before returning on Jan. 21, the students will visit the Washington Monument, National Archives, Ford's Theatre, Peterson House and then the White House.

It doesn't take all day when you shop here at home

When you shop in the big city, you risk life and limb on the highway ... have to fight heavy traffic, so you're tired before you even get started.

Then come parking problems, elbowing your way through crowds of people in a hurry, try to find a place for lunch, gulp it down, and back into the fray.

Then after trying to deal with harassed and impatient salespeople, you drag yourself back into the car, hoping you won't get run over crossing the busy parking lots, and battle your way back home again.

Wouldn't it have been easier to shop here at home?

Your friendly home-town merchants probably had just what you wanted anyway ... and often cheaper than bigger city stores. Certainly shopping at home is easier and quicker, giving you time for other more important "chores!"

Former candidate starts city oriented web site

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Charlevoix resident and former third ward council candidate Dave Scott is starting an interactive community web site in order to allow citizens to stay informed and come together.

The web site, www.yescharlevoix.com, is currently in its beginning stages. However, it can be accessed and a newsletter written by Scott that tells what is going on in the community is available.

"Really, the web site is being set up because I want to start an organization," Scott said. "Get people more involved in the community."

Scott said the site is projected to be completed sometime after the first of the year and the newsletter will take a back seat as others write future articles and post messages.

"A lot of people have expressed interest in writing for it," he said.

The web site will feature an interactive message board, which Scott said will act as a venue for communication and allow people to openly express their opinions about what is going on in Charlevoix.

"It's like a town hall meeting without the town hall," he said.

There will also be an interactive events calendar available for anyone to post an event. Scott said everything will be set up so people can receive the same information posted on the web site through e-mail.

Aside from the what the web site itself provides, Scott said it will also feature several links to other sources of valuable information about other counties and the city itself.

"Whatever might be of interest to people," Scott said.

The web site will never have a printed version, so Scott said it will be less formal and more "sassy" in regards to the content and graphics.

Involvement in the city doesn't only have to be limited to serving on city council, Scott said. The web site will allow those who are interested but can't attend the meetings to view what occurred and what is being discussed.

Scott started the web site alone, but has received help from Gaslight Media, the area's leading Internet company, to set up the site.

"It's not the Dave Scott press," he said.

Scott wants others to become involved.

"I would like to see yescharlevoix become a social club," he said. "Kind of a fun way to get involved and serve the community."

Scott is the owner of Michigan Talk Radio Network. He also ran for city council's third ward seat in the November election and lost to incumbent Sherman Chamberlain.

Wendy Perrett and her two therapy dogs, Cast (left) and Samson (right) go to Boulder Park Terrace Nursing and Rehabilitation Center once a week to visit residents bringing cheer, laughter and memories.

Women uses furry friends to help bring joy to lives

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

One Charlevoix resident helps bring a smile to people's lives through her two therapy dogs that frequent Boulder Park Terrace Nursing and Rehabilitation Center.

Wendy Perrett is a member of Therapaws of Michigan, which is based out of Ann Arbor. The group's goal is to help heal or bring emotional and social support to people who are in long-term care for acute or chronic illnesses.

"You think you're doing something for others, but it's rewarding for yourself," Perrett said.

Every Wednesday, Perrett takes one of her two dogs to Boulder Park Terrace Nursing and Rehabilitation Center where she visits with residents in order to bring laughter and cheer into what she said can be a lonely and depressing situation.

Samson, a 7-year-old Golden Retriever, is taken every Wednesday, except for the one week Cast, a 3-year-old English Pointer and Black Labrador mix, is brought in to visit.

Cast hasn't gone through the training like Samson, but Perrett said since he was a stray puppy he seeks and gives love. He was found in Roscommon and taken to the Little Traverse Humane Society.

"He knows," she said. "He's so grateful to have a warm loving home."

Perrett and her dogs have been visiting Boulder Park Terrace Nursing and Rehabilitation Center for two and a half years.

Perrett said some residents don't have visitors and visiting with people and sharing stories about past dogs helps communication and can promote healing.

"It's very therapeutic psychologically," she said.

Perrett started with Therapaws of Michigan in 1991 while she was living in Ann Arbor.

At that time Perrett's mother had just had a stroke, which promoted her to delve into animal therapy.

Perrett's first therapy dog was a Golden Retriever named Tucker. She said they had to go through a screening process to make sure both the dog and the person were right for the delicacy associated with animal therapy.

Perrett said the test and screening process shows whether the dog is too shy or excitable around people and in public situations. Tucker and Perrett passed the test and were assigned to a nursing home then

Holiday giving

Students In Nicole Sterrett's second grade class place the toys they picked out for Toys for Tots in the cart while waiting to check out at Kmart. Kmart gave the group a 10 percent discount on the toys. The students raised money for Toys for Tots over the last month in pennies. After collecting $946 in pennies, the kids visited the local store to buy presents for the charity Toys for Tots.

then to the cancer, dialysis and pulmonary units at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Eventually, Tucker got cancer and wasn't able to continue as a therapy dog while he received radiation.

Once his cancer was in remission, Perrett and Tucker visited the cancer unit to talk with people about their cancer and Tucker's.

While Perrett and Tucker were involved in the program, Perrett got Samson, who continues what Tucker started.

After Tucker died, Perrett decided to take Samson through the screening process when he was 2 years old and they were assigned to an assisted living home much like Boulder Park Terrace Nursing and Rehabilitation Center they currently visit.

Perrett said the healing aspect of the therapy depends on the individual resident, but usually they are changed.

One woman Perrett visits each week has isolated herself in her room and didn't really respond much to visitors.

However, after repetitive visits, the woman talks energetically to Perrett.

"It brightens their whole day," she said.

Popular Madrigal Singers to perform in Charlevoix

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Madrigal Singers will once again be bringing their talents to Charlevoix this Christmas.

This talented group of Petoskey High School students performs at dinner shows and one free concert each Christmas.

Julie Saunders, choir director, said this year's group is an even blend of veteran Madrigal Singers and new performers.

"It's a new group of kids and I enjoy working with them every year," Saunders said.

Saunders has been the group's director for 11 years and said her favorite part is the Christmas performances, because by this time everyone knows each other quite well.

This year, Saunders said the group will sing several traditional Christmas songs, both a cappella and with piano accompaniment, but some new songs were added.

The Madrigal Singers will wear their famous sixteenth century costumes as they sing during their several public performances this month. The group has been around for about 30 years.

Not just anyone can become a member, as entry is by audition only.

Membership is open to sophomores, juniors and seniors. Saunders said the students are judged on their singing ability, how well they read music and how confident they are of their own abilities and other criteria.

Amanda Cook, 17, a two year member of the Madrigal Singers, said she likes how close the group becomes at the end of the season.

"It's nice to have that friend base at school," she said.

Cook, who transferred from Harbor Springs High School last year, said what makes the Madrigal Singers unique is their fan base.

"We kind of established, maybe what would be a fan base; they kind of need us to make their holiday complete," she said.

Cook's first public performance occurred when she was four years old and took the stage during a Cook family reunion. Since then, Cook has attended the Interlochen Arts Camp for three summers and recently had a brush with fame.

At Interlochen, Cook sang back up for Josh Groban in a choir of 20 people.

"That was the coolest experience of my life," she said. "The best part of my entire singing career was singing with Josh Groban."

The Madrigal Singers are a holiday favorite for many people.

Cook said her grandparents on her mother's side are coming up from Florida to see her sing at Stafford's Perry Hotel.

Her favorite aunt and grandmother on her father's side are coming up from Bay City to watch her perform as well.

"I'm really excited to see them," she said.

Nikita Petitt, 17, a two year member of the Madrigal Singers, said she became interested in singing in seventh grade. One of her goals while in junior high was to eventually become a Madrigal Singer.

The songs she once longed to know will entail her final performances with the group before graduating.

"It's really, really cool to be in that tradition and actually sing it," she said.

Petitt said her favorite part of performing is meeting the audience. She said people will come up and talk with the singers about the performance and costumes.

Some of that prestige comes from the history of the Madrigal Singers and the talented students who comprise it each year.

The Madrigal Singers are performing a dinner show at the Charlevoix Country Club at 6 p.m. on Dec. 16.

They will also perform a dinner show at Stafford's Perry Hotel in Petoskey at 6 p.m. on Dec. 19 and Dec. 20.

The Madrigal Singers will also give a free concert at St. Francis Xavier in Petoskey at 7 p.m. on Dec. 21.

For more information on the dinner performances and to purchase tickets call the Charlevoix Country Club at 547-9796 and Stafford's Perry Hotel at 347-4000.

Some of the current Charlevoix Kiwanis Club Members

Objectives of Kiwanis

To give primacy to the human and spiritual, rather than to the material values of life.

To encourage the daily living of the golden rule in all human relationships.

To promote the adoption and the application of higher social, business and professional standards.

To develop, by precept and example, a more intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship.

To provide, through Kiwanis Clubs, a practical means to form enduring friendships, to render altruistic service and to build better communities.

To cooperate in creating and maintaining that sound public opinion and high idealism which make possible the increase of righteousness, justice, patriotism and good will.

Kiwanis

Kiwanis was founded in 1915 by a group of Detroit-area businessmen. Kiwanis offers you an opportunity for personal involvement in the leadership and improvement of our community, the nation and the world. It is a group of men and women who know that as a group they can achieve what individuals cannot do alone. Consequently, the motto and cornerstone of Kiwanis has evolved into:

Kiwanis of Charlevoix

The Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix was organized on December 4, 1934 with 28 members. Today we are 55 members strong. Our Club's main focus is to help our community's youth providing sponsored programs to elementary, middle and high school students. Our support of other causes is extensive. Kiwanis Club should not only be seen as a social or business club, but one that is here to work for our young people.

Headstart:

There are many statistics showing the value of reading to children. Looking toward the Kiwanis International objective of "Priority One, Young Children," the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club identified Charlevoix Headstart as a possible partner in meeting that objective. With assistance from the Charlevoix Public Library using their library discount, and with funding from Charlevoix Kiwanis, more than 125 books have been placed at the Headstart Library. Kiwanis volunteers read each week at Headstart for half an hour. Each child gets to pick a book that one of the readers will read, one-on-one. This is a wonderful opportunity for children to experience the book as recreation and provides an inter-generational experience for the children and the Kiwanians.

DEC 2004

Council member wants stronger blight ordinance

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix City Council member Shirley Gibson said many people have been contacting her about blight in the city and she wants a stronger ordinance to address it.

At the Dec. 6 city council meeting, Charlevoix City Attorney presented council with a draft ordinance as was requested by Gibson, dealing with blight in the city. The blight in this case is run-down and abandoned buildings.

"I have received numerous complaints about deteriorating buildings. I feel we really need this ordinance," she said. "This isn't me. There are various individuals that think we need stricter ordinances. This is about buildings deteriorating."

Gibson pointed to the former Clark gasoline station at the corner of M-66 and Bridge Street as an example.

Young said the ordinance was an excellent idea and he suggested looking further into ways to uphold it, such as putting lien's on properties. However, Young said he would have to research if the city could take such an action.

But, some council members insisted the current ordinance is enough and said this new suggested ordinance goes too far. The city does currently have a blight ordinance, but it deals mostly with trash.

"I feel the ordinance we have in place now is fine," said council member Bill Bellows.

However, Young pointed out that the current ordinance deals mostly with rubbish around buildings.

"This draft is one we took from other communities and really focuses on buildings," he said.

Gibson added, in regard to the current ordinance, "There is no teeth in that. It can't be enforced."

But Bellows still had his reservations about the ordinance, saying some of the rules in it are too restrictive on private property owners. He pointed to a prohibition in the ordinance saying all wood on a house needed to be painted and said some people like the weathered wood look.

Council member Bob Timms agreed.

"Some of these rules and restrictions are counter to a person being comfortable in their own home," Timms said.

Gibson shot back saying in the future she would tell the people contacting her about shoddy structures in the city to talk to the council members against this ordinance.

Charlevoix Mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson said he understands the concern of some of the council members and this ordinance being restrictive — he added under the wording he would have been in violation because he had taken the siding off of his home for a short period of time while he was renovating it. However, Carlson said he thinks the general intent of this ordinance is for someone who doesn't intend on fixing up their property or home.

"I think that maybe we can come up with something that could be agreeable to all. There are some issues here that could be addressed," he said.

It was also pointed out that some people cannot afford to fix up their homes right away and there may need to be some leeway given.

Carlson agreed, saying the ordinance could include situations such as that.

.The ordinance has been sent back to city staff for rewording and to have issues such as enforcement further answered. Carlson said he is not sure if this ordinance is really needed or if current ordinances need to be reworded to address these issues.

According to the drafted ordinance it would be unlawful for any person to own, posses or use any structure which has three or more: Deteriorating roof, siding off, broken windows, unfinished exterior, collapsing porch or deck, scaffolding (unless associated with a current building permit) and/or cracked and broken foundations/chimney's which constitute a structural or health hazard unless such structure is in the course of construction in accordance with a valid building permit issued by the city.

The ordinance further states any person that owns, occupies or has control of a property shall maintain the property's exterior and keep it sanitary, free from debris, brush, severed tree limbs, junk, rubbish, garbage, physical hazards and rodent infestation.

A violation of the draft ordinance would be a civil infraction. If the person does not correct it within 90 days, the city may correct the violations and the costs of the repairs shall be made by the owner or a lien may be placed on the property.

Charlevoix Rayders start season out strong

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

There are no rebuilding years for Charlevoix hoys' basketball...the Rayders just reload.

After losing six seniors from last year's state runner-up team, including leading scorers Scott Friske and Bryce Daly, Charlevoix showed no ill effects, blowing out Suttons Bay, 70-23 and St. Ignace, 79-44 last week.

"I've been so impressed by our defense and hy our effort," Rayder coach Keith Haske said. "It's been like that since the first practice of the year."

The Suttons Bay game began looking like a replay of the battle of the Little Big Horn. The Rayders shook off the long bus ride to Suttons Bay by outscoring the Norsemen, 29-0 in the first quarter. Jared Hunt scored 10 points in the game's first five minutes.

During the eight minute explosion, Suttons Bay's coach called three timeouts in an attempt to calm his team and stall Charlevoix's momentum to no avail.

On many occasions, the Norsemen could not advance the hall past midcourt against the Rayders' stifling press. When they did get a shot off, it was hurried and offline.

Eddie Waldron scored six straight points in the blitz to push the score from 21-0 to 27-0.

In the second quarter, Suttons Bay recovered and was only outscored 14-13 but the damage was done. The shortest margin after the first quarter was 26 points, at 34-8 and 36-10.

Cody Crain came out like a house on fire to begin the second half. He scored 13 points in the first 3:40 of the half, including three three-pointers to turn the game into a laugher.

The last of the three-balls made the score 57-15 and caused a running clock for the remainder of the game.

Crain finished with a game-high 15 points. Matt Kautz scored 14.

Hunt had 13 points, five rebounds, five assists and five steals. Jake Teuscher pulled down seven rebounds and had four steals.

Derek Friske grabbed seven rebounds. Phil Steen had six rehounds and two blocks.

Charlevoix made eight three-point shots on the night, by five different players (Crain, Kautz, Sparky Nitchman, Matt Teuscher and Dustin Dibble).

"I thought it was a great defensive effort," Haske said. "If we do that every night, you've got a chance to win. I was pretty pleased by the effort."

Earlier in the week, the Rayders used a similar strategy against St. Ignace, jumping out to a 26-8 lead at the end of the first period. Charlevoix led 51-23 at the half and 71-28 after three quarters.

Crain again led the Rayders with 17 points. Hunt scored 15.

Jake Teuscher had nine points, six rebounds, three assists, two steals and took two charges. Ben Bergmann scored seven points.

Steen had nine rebounds and three blocks. Friske had five rebounds.

In each of the first two games of the season, 12 of the 13 Rayder players scored.

After hosting Benzie Central on Dec. 14, Charlevoix opens the Lake Michigan Conference schedule at home against Boyne City on Friday, Dec. 17.

Public notice is the people's right to know the issues that affect them directly, and people know the place to find public and legal notices is in the newspaper. What you're holding right now is a historical document, printed and published with a date on every page. Public notices have been posted here since the days of colonial America. In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, or when to look, let alone to know what you're looking for to be informed. Why guess? Rayder wrestlers do well at recent meets

The Charlevoix Rayders wrestled at home Dec. 9.

Against Kalkaska, Charlevoix took the win 44-28.

Wins by pins for the varsity team went to Nick Gotshall 130, Jed Daman 140, Matt Novotny 145, and Pat Russell, heavy weight. Jaimen Waha 215 took a win by decision.

Against St Ignace Charlevoix tied 42-42 in total team points. St. Ignace won the tie breaker by having more take down points than Charlevoix.

The two exhibition matches were won by Nathan Tripplehorn and Drew Marsh each with a pin. Wins by pins for varsity were Gotshall, Daman, Novotny, Shannon Gillespie 171, Waha and Russell.

"We lost to Kalkaska last week by just four points so tonight's win was great," said Coach Craig Golovich. "The wrestler of the night was Pat Russell with an 8 second pin."

Charlevoix's junior varsity wrestlers traveled to Alpena on Saturday competing against wrestlers from Petoskey, Chehoygan, Munising, Sault Ste. Marie and Alpena.

First place medal winners were Spencer Hankins, RJ Moore and Nathan Tripplehorn. Woody Nitchman and Nick Gotshall placed second. Kris Bartling and Pat Russell finished third.

Charlevoix will travel to Rudyard on Friday, Dec. 17 to compete in the Bridge Brawl.

Area hunters winners in annual buck pole

The second annual Atwood Buck Pole Contest at Friske's Farm Market showcased some of the area's finest bucks.

There were winners in all three divisions.

In the men's division, Larry Drost of Charlevoix took first place. Second place went to another Charlevoix resident, Jon Boss. Third place was awarded to Gordon Ferweda of Atwood. All three men bagged 10 points. The spreads of the racks determined the placements.

In the women's divisions, there was only a first place winner this year: Lea Ann Elliott of East Jordan. She brought in a seven point.

Friske's youth division had two winners: Derek Friske of Charlevoix bagged an eight point. Dendra Muma of Ellsworth got a four point.

Points were received for the outside rack width measurements plus the number of tines.

Library Friends can bring resources to your door

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library are available to help those who have difficulty getting to the library.

The group created an outreach program designed to bring books and other materials directly to a person's home and return the items when all are finished.

Mary Snider and Sharon Knutson, co-chairs of the Charlevoix Public Library Outreach Program, have been delivering and returning materials for about a year.

"I have met several delightful women I wouldn't have met otherwise," Snider said.

Snider said she and Knutson bring a human element and a positive interaction to those they serve, but there hasn't been a huge demand for book delivery.

Those who are interested in participating in the service do not have to be a member of the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library and the option is open to those who have difficulty getting to the library and to parents with new babies or young children.

"It's not just elderly based," Snider said. "Anybody that can't get out."

The current library isn't very handicapped accessible, but the new library will be once it's complete.

"I can't help but think it's a good connector for people to have available to them something their tax money supports," Snider said.

Knutson said her and Snider are very accessible and typically deliver books the same day they receive a call

Both Knutson and Snider said they talk about the books and authors their patrons are reading among other things.

Knutson said when she visits, her patrons tell her information about books and authors she didn't know and is tipped off to good novels to read. Snider experiences similar conversations.

"I think they like our visits," Snider said. "I think they love the books; The connection to the outside world."

Knutson said that has been the case for all three patrons of the Outreach Program.

Snider personally picks out the books while Knutson prefers to have the librarian choose the material. All in all, both women have only had requests for printed material, but they are able to get books on tape, books on CD, music tapes and CDs and videos.

If a book isn't available at the Charlevoix Public Library, Snider and Knutson said they will get the book from another library through an inter-library loan.

The regular check out time is three weeks, but if that isn't enough time to read all the material requested, Snider said patrons can call the library and renew the books they want to keep over the phone.

The rest will be picked up by a book runner and returned to the library.

"I think we have a very strong Friends group, they're hard workers," Snider said. "We wouldn't have difficulty getting book runners. We just need people to take advantage of the service."

The Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library will go out of the city limits to deliver books.

Knutson said Northland Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped features a Talking Books program.

This delivers materials to individuals homes, but a physician must sign the application before service can begin.

The program covers Alcona, Alpena, Arenac, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet, Iosco, Montmorency, Ogemaw, Oscoda, Otsego and Presque Isle counties. For more information on Talking Books call (800) 446-1580.

For more information on the Charlevoix program or to volunteer as a runner, call the library at 547-2651 and leave your name and telephone number and a Friend of the Charlevoix Public Library will contact you with more information.

City council may look at conflict of interest

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Some on the Charlevoix City Council are considering ways to beef up its conflict of interest policy.

At the Dec. 6 city council meeting, Council Member Shirley Gibson suggested the group take a look at its conflict of interest policy as was suggested in a recent city audit.

"I really believe we need a formal process or for someone to explain it," she said.

While the city does require that council members and the mayor inform the rest of the council if they intend to bid on any projects that the council as a whole must vote on, at issue is a provision in the rules where Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner can award city projects without council approval if they are under $10,000.

In the past, city council members Sherm Campbell, Bill Haggard and mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson have benefited from this.

Campbell is the co-owner of the local surveying firm Ferguson and Chamberlain, which has done survey work on many city projects; Haggard is a co-owner of Haggards Plumbing and Heating, which has done a lot of work on the heating system in city hall; and Carlson is the owner of Carlson Construction, which has performed construction work for the city.

Many times, other council members were not aware that these members were given city projects.

"I am just saying the rest of us need to know about it," Gibson said.

Carlson said he agrees council needs to look at the portion of the current policy that allows Wiesner to award projects under $10,000, such as having Wiesner get a verbal agreement from the city or just informing the council about the award. However, he said he does not support any change to the rules that would restrict current city council members from bidding on city projects.

Carlson has said he will not be bidding on any city projects during his term as mayor.

Carlson said not allowing a city council member to bid on city projects would unfairly penalize the council-member's company, their employees and the partners in that company for them being a member of council. He pointed out the bids on city projects are sealed.

But, Charlevoix resident Becky Doan said, "It doesn't look right that you sit on council and vote on a project you might get paid for."

As for the projects under $10,000, Charlevoix Street Superintendent John Martin questioned any changes to the current system and how they relate to city emergencies.

"If we got a restroom plugged up or broken I am going to get whoever I can get as soon as I can," he said.

When asked about emergencies after the meeting, Gibson said, "Since when is there such a thing as emergency surveys?"

Carlson said the issue will be looked at further in the near future.

Fourth grade class takes trip to Raven Hill center

Charlevoix fourth grade classes each had the opportunity to have a field trip to Raven Hill Discovery Center through contributions of the Charlevoix Lions Club and the Charlevoix Area Garden Club. The two and a half hour sessions were part of an opportunity to experience hands-on study as part of the IR science curriculum.

Students learned about photosynthesis by building a sugar molecule and walked the trails identifying different trees and the roles they play. A demonstration of the interaction of plants and the environment was also part of the study, as well as time in the museum and with the animals. Students rotated in small groups participating in four different activities.

The enrichment activity for area youth is part of the service to the community provided by the Charlevoix Lions and Charlevoix Area Garden Club.

Charlevoix woman former member of English army

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Charlevoix resident Eileen Wyszynski was one of several young women who were drafted into the British Army during World War II.

Wyszynski, 84, was only 21 years old when her life transformed from one of civilian duties to that of the military.

"All 21-year-old women who had no children had to go in the Army and work," she said.

During World War II, the British registered and required national service of its female citizens.

During that time, several women did munitions work as civilians, but 125,000 were drafted into military service and 430,000 volunteered.

When she was drafted into the British Army in 1943, Wyszynski was a corporal of the Auxiliary Territorial Service (ATS), which was the largest of the women's units.

In 1938, the ATS started out as a women's auxiliary for the military, but was granted military status in 1941. As a part of the ATS, she and the other members did the bookkeeping for the regiment.

By the time women were drafted, Wyszynski said, the war was almost over, but between 1943 and 1945 she was actively taking part in the war effort.

When drafted, Wyszynski had to leave her home and family, including her sister, Joyce Thornton, who wasn't drafted because she had a baby.

"My father was furious and wrote a nasty letter to the war office," she said. "He said you've taken all our sons, now you're taking our daughters."

However, Wyszynski said military life wasn't all bad.

Wyszynski was born on Nov. 30, 1920 in Yorkshire, England and grew up in Rotherham. Before she was drafted, Wyszynski worked for four years as a seamstress for the Singer Sewing Machine Company in Sheffield, England.

Wyszynski and thousands of others were involved in the Sheffield Blitz of 1940. The raids by German bomber planes occurred on Dec. 12 and on Dec. 15, which killed more than 700 people.

As a seamstress for the Singer Sewing Machine Company, Wyszynski would go to people's homes and demonstrate how to use the equipment.

Her daughter, Sandra Laucher Button, said she could make a dress without a pattern.

"She was a wonderful seamstress," Button said.

Wyszynski's work with the Singer Sewing Machine Company required her to make dresses and some men's suits.

When she was drafted, she was taken to Chelsea, an area near London, which she was then stationed out of.

When she arrived in Chelsea, the Army took her weight, which was 108 pounds at the time.

"I hated it when I got in uniform," she said. "It wasn't nice material."

The khaki color was awful, Wyszynski said, and felt like a man's suit.

Wyszynski said she cried the first night she spent in the barracks with her friend, Lynn, who was also drafted.

"I hated it at first; then I got used to it," she said.

Wyszynski said Lynn would poke her in an effort to get her to stop crying. The two friends still keep in contact and have been doing so for 63 years.

Wyszynski enjoyed the weekly Saturday dances and the music of the Glenn Miller Orchestra and Henry Hall and his BBC Dance Orchestra.

Wyszynski lost several close friends during World War II, including a fiancé who was a wireless operator air gunner.

Wyszynski met Tomasz Wyszynski during the war, who she later married and had four

Area hockey team gets three straight home wins

Depth on the bench, unselfish passing and solid defense took the Boyne Area Hockey Paul Bunyan Lanes Midgets to three straight wins at home at the Polar Bear Ice Arena recently.

On Dec. 4 the team played Mackinaw City and took the game 7-4.

Russell Williams and Troy Scarbrough each scored two, while Ryan Paridee, Ryan Hennessy and Nick Dunwoody tallied one apiece. Hennessy gave two assists; Will Brown, Josh Aown, Eli Barsy and Ryan Paridee one each. Charlie Courtright and Nick Ferree split goaltending.

Dec. 5 the team played two games with Gladwin.

With Nick Ferree between the pipes, Darren Looze, Dunwoody and Barsy all scored a pair of goals; Williams, Paridee and Hennessy each chipped in one. Assists came from Scarbrough and Aown; playmaker Williams gave three, while Paridee, Barsy, Looze and Evan Keller each contributed two.

The final score was 9-2. Boyne outshot Gladwin 42-4.

Game two went 7-4. Paridee gave two assists and Williams, Dunwoody, Hennessy, Gear Robinson, Gabe Korthase and Chris Loyselle each gave one. Finding the mesh were Scarbrough, Williams, and J.P. Fiedorek, Barsy and John Miller scored two apiece. Boyne put 34 shots on net, while goalie Ferree faced 14.

Wyszynski talks about her time in English army children with. The two have been divorced for 30 years.

Tomasz Wyszynski was a Polish soldier who met up with the British Army. He was captured when he was 19-years-old and sent to work in a Russian labor camp. When he escaped to England, he met Wyszynski and married her around 1946.

He left for the United States, which was typical after the war. Button said her father has always said that since there were a lot of foreigners in England after the war, only certain nationalities were allowed employment.

In the United States, he lived with the relatives who sponsored his passage. He worked for a year to get a steady job and housing available for Wyszynski and their children.

"That was a pretty typical thing for war brides," Button said.

Wyszynski came to the United States aboard the H.M.S. Queen Mary on March 25, 1949.

"I got seasick," she said.

She missed home and later traveled to England aboard the H.M.S. Queen Mary in 1953 with three young children. She has since been to Long Beach, Calif. to see the old ship.

Wyszynski worked for the First National Bank of Akron, Ohio when she came to the United States.

Button moved to Charlevoix in 1987 and taught at the intermediate school district and worked with the hearing impaired at Charm-Em. Wyszynski was in Colorado near her son, but came to Charlevoix in April 2004 to be closer to Button.

wasn't a problem for the firefighters, but the tin roof was.

"The tin roof probably helped keeping the fire inside so we couldn't get to it," he said.

No one was in the building and no firefighters were injured.

"No one supposedly had been in the building since early yesterday afternoon (Dec. 9)," Thompson said.

Arson is one factor being investigated, but Thompson said all fires are considered suspicious unless a logical explanation can be proven.

"You just can't help consider that with all the 'issues' they've had," he said.

The VFW Post 1153 was recently vandalized during the night between Nov. 18 and Nov. 19, when four rocks were thrown through two different windows.

The rocks broke through the 48 inch by 41 inch windows and storm windows and created about $1,000 worth of damage including cleanup costs.

The only other problem the post had in regards to vandalism was five years ago when the building was broken into during a string of break-ins in the area. That incident cost the post about $10,000 worth in damage and those responsible were prosecuted.

But, Spl./Sgt. Jerry Briolat, of the Fire Investigation Unit of the Michigan Department of State Police, said at this point the fire looks like it was an accidental fire.

The fire originated in the attic, which Briolat said is an unusual place for an arsonist to start a fire.

Briolat said two people accessed the building during the afternoon and early evening on the day of the fire. One person came in at 3 p.m. and another at 5 p.m., but neither person stayed long and everything was locked up when firefighters arrived. Briolat said a key was needed for the firefighters to enter the building.

"It is undetermined, but one of the highest probabilities of the fire is an electrical failure," he said.

The fire originated near the building's electrical service panel, but Briolat said there is no way to prove or disprove that it was an electrical fire because of the amount of damage.

"I'm going to leave it undetermined at this point," he said.

David Goldstick, the quarter master for Post 1153, said while the building is gone the VFW is still here.

"We're still a post," he said. "We'll still be going."

The home of VFW Post 1153 was formally dedicated in 1953 during the 13th District Rally. Before that time, the post and its auxiliary functioned out of the second floor of a building in downtown Charlevoix.

VFW Post 1153 received its charter on June 16, 1937 and has continuously served the community. The building that became the post's home in 1953 took two year's to build and was constructed almost entirely by volunteer labor, including the plumbing and wiring.

The only feature that wasn't built by volunteers was the Onaway stone fireplace and other stone work. The volunteers also didn't dig the well.

A second edition was added in the 1970s followed by a garage addition in the 1990s.

Ed Linse, a life-time member of the VFW Post 1153, said he is looking forward to rebuilding.

"I want to get an American flag to put on the pole (one of the few items left standing at the building)," he said. "To let them know we're still in business."

Linse said Bingo was a good fundraiser for the post and despite the casinos taking away business, Post 1153 managed to keep people coming back.

He said Bingo brought people from Harbor Springs, Petoskey and East Jordan.

"I don't know what we're going to do," he said.

Linse said all the veterans will work together and try to find a solution.

Charlie Butcher, commander of VFW Post 1153, said there isn't much they can officially decide upon until Briolat signs off on the investigation.

However, Butcher said he appreciates Joe Seidel, commander of the American Legion in Charlevoix, for opening the hall to the VFW.

"We sincerely appreciate that," he said.

Seidel said the hall is open indefinitely for the VFW.

"They can use our meeting rooms and whatever may be of need until we can find out what the future holds," Seidel said.

Butcher said most of the VFW members are also members of the American Legion and so the transition is natural. He said the meetings will continue at 7 p.m. on the second Tuesday of the month.

Charlevoix Township Firemen look over the remains of what used to be the home of VFW Post 1153 on Dec. 10. The fire was advanced when firemen arrived on the scene.

"We've had outstanding support from various groups and people," he said.

At this point there aren't any plans to raise funds at this point, but the VFW's has an emergency fund set up through their insurance agency.

Thompson said the firefighters thank 7-Eleven and McDonald's for the food and coffee they provided.

Former city employees arrested

ARRESTS

ance.

The March report also stated that reports for 15 phosphorus results and 32 fecal coliform results were falsely reported to MDEQ. The report also stated that there were 27 days when monitoring didn't take place and other areas where proper protocol wasn't followed.

Originally, bench sheets, where initial readings of the treated water are recorded before being entered into a computer system that will provide a report given to the state, didn't match up with the reports given. In some instances, the bench sheets had been doctored or erased.

During the investigation, Richard Shoemaker, the senior environmental quality analyst with the surface water quality division of the MDEQ, said in a previous interview with the Charlevoix Courier, that he didn't know why the operator would purposefully falsify information. Shoemaker said in the interview that he thought the person was trying to make the Charlevoix plant look good.

One problem Shoemaker said the plant had was that the formerly unnamed staff members were putting too much chlorine into the treatment process.

To kill the bacteria, the water needs to mix with the chlorine in the contact tank for 30 minutes. Shoemaker said the staff members just added more chlorine instead of waiting for the 30 minutes.

The high concentration of chlorine in Lake Michigan wasn't enough to harm fish, but Shoemaker said it probably killed some zebra mussels living near the discharge line.

Shoemaker said chlorine that concentrated dissolves in minutes once it reaches a body of water like Lake Michigan and wouldn't have affected the drinking water located over one mile away.

The plant also had problems with the pump.

In May, the city hired Tim Truax, a Traverse City based consultant, to identify what the problems were at the plant and to suggest ways to solve them.

Wiesner said in a previous interview with the Charlevoix Courier, that he didn't want to just look at the concerns of MDEQ and solve them. Rather, he wanted to look at the entire operation of the Wastewater Treatment Plant and try to decide where it should go in the future.

On March 17, Wiesner discussed suspending Creswell, who had been the plant's superintendent for almost 30 years. In a previous interview, Wiesner would not comment on the grounds for the proposed suspension because it was a personnel issue.

Creswell chose to retire instead, which became effective on March 17. He gave his notice to Wiesner's office on March 22.

Creswell said in a previous interview with the Charlevoix Courier, that he didn't retire due to the impending investigation, but rather because he had just turned 60 and decided he needed to leave the stressful position.

Shoemaker said in a previous interview that if the individuals responsible are convicted of falsifying the reports to the state, they could face jail time and fines.

Before the Sept. 7 City Council meeting, council members were given a tour of the Wastewater Treatment Plant to view the updates that have been made in order to fix the problems that led to the possibility of fines from the MDEQ.

Jim Caldwell, current superintendent, said in a previous interview that a lot of the ways the records are kept and handled have been changed. He also said the Quality Assurance, Quality Control (QA/QC) manual is currently being updated.

Caldwell led the tour and informed council on what changes had occurred. One issue concerned a critical spare parts list. Caldwell said this list will include only those parts that are vital to the operation of the plant.

The list won't need to be incredibly long because the plant is able to run in two halves. When something breaks down on one side, Caldwell said the other half can handle the flow until the problem is corrected.

Santa Claus to visit soon

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

In a rare moment, Santa Claus agreed to be interviewed by the Charlevoix Courier just days before Christmas Eve, which is the busiest time of year for him.

However, since most children have been very good this year, he agreed to an interview on Dec. 16.

He arrived in a gray sweater vest and white button-up shirt, which is a little easier to blend into a crowd with, than the red suit he wears on Christmas Eve.

Inspired by questions asked in several Dear Santa letters from first grade students at Charlevoix Elementary School, the interview started.

One question the first graders asked the most was whether or not Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer was real.

Santa laughed and said yes.

"Rudolph is the youngest of the reindeer," he said.

Santa said Rudolph's nose is red because he has a severe allergy problem. When anyone has allergies and blows their nose a lot their nose becomes red, Santa said.

"I think he might be allergic to holly," Santa said, which is why Rudolph's nose stays red throughout Christmas.

Santa said Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer's origin dates back to 1946 when he appeared in a holiday catalog for Montgomery Ward in Chicago. He then was

Is there more runoff?

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Those who live around the Charlevoix High School say water runoff is a problem, but the school board disagrees.

During the Dec. 13 school board meeting, Drain Commissioner JoAnne Bier Beemon spoke during the public comment section about the concern many neighbors of the school have concerning the excess water runoff from the school.

Beemon read a letter she wrote to the board that stated how over the past four years people have experienced loss of farm land, loss of income, have had flooded properties and damaged and flooded roadways.

"Storm water is a liability," Beemon said.

Beemon told the school board that according to the General Rule of Stormwater Management expressed by the Michigan Association of Drain Commissioners Counsel, excess water is considered a trespass.

City to pay United Fire

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix City Council voted unanimously Monday night to pay United Fire and Casualty over $220,000 in two payments.

"It was more than fair, so we accepted," Charlevoix Mayor Boogie Carlson said.

United Fire and Casualty is the insurance company for CCMS, a contractor that did construction on some city roads, who the city mistakenly paid $222,978.36 in April 2004. United Fire claims the city should have paid it for the work, not CCMS and sued the city for the money. CCMS cashed the mistakenly written check.

According to Charlevoix City Attorney Jim Young, under the deal proposed by United Fire to the city,

Break-in at Don's IGA

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Don's IGA in Charlevoix was broken into between 9 p.m. and 11:45 p.m. on Dec. 16.

Charlevoix City Police Chief Dennis Halverson said the police found the store with the right glass door broken and several items missing.

He said a large quantity of tobacco products were stolen and other miscellaneous items including alcohol, but no money was taken.

On Dec. 20, Halverson said the Charlevoix City Police executed search warrants and recovered some of the stolen merchandise.

He also said the police have identified suspects and are anticipating arrests.

There were also break-ins in Boyne City and Petoskey that are believed to be connected to the one in Charlevoix.

Last night, Halverson said a Boyne City Police Officer was almost run over by two suspects trying to flee and allude officers. The two suspects in that incident are believed to be connected to the Don's IGA break-in. The effort has also involved the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, the Boyne City Police Department, the Michigan State Police, the Emmet County Sheriff's Department and the Petoskey City Police.

Don's IGA was broken into on Dec. 16 and those responsible may be connected to break-ins in Boyne City and Petoskey.

With the holidays right around the corner, the Charlevoix Community Food Pantry is ready to receive donations that can be given back to those in the community.

Maxine Bergmann, a board member of the Charlevoix Community Food Pantry, said any canned or dried goods are important for the pantry as there aren't any facilities to store fresh food.

However, people who use the food pantry are given vouchers to Oleson's Farm Fresh Markets to receive the fresh food they need such as fruits, vegetables, bread and milk.

Any non-perishable item is needed and appreciated such as peanut butter, cereals, evaporated and dry milk, pancake mix, hamburger helper, cake mix, Saltine crackers, macaroni, oatmeal, graham crackers, pork and beans, Jiffy baking mix, muffin mix, Jell-O, rice, pudding and much more.

Rosemary Horton, a board member of the Charlevoix Community Food Pantry and member of the Christmas Project, said baby products such as food and diapers are needed since they are expensive.

Horton said items the food pantry likes to receive around the holidays are candy and cookies to be put in gift baskets along with toothpaste, toothbrushes and shampoo.

Monetary donations are also welcome.

The food pantry was started in 1984 when a few women saw a need for it in the community. Horton said those who started the pantry were working and saw that some people, no matter how hard they work, weren't going to have a good Christmas.

Horton has personally been involved with the food pantry since 1989 and said a lot more people are coming to the food pantry.

"Some think people who come there are lazy," she said. "It's not true."

Horton said the people who come to the food pantry are the working poor. Typically both parents are working, but don't generate enough income to cover life's surprises such as medical emergencies.

The food pantry is only open to people in the Charlevoix school district, Horton said, and those who utilize it can only come once a month. The food pantry is open from 10 a.m. to noon on Mondays and Thursdays.

The Charlevoix Community Food Pantry is located in the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. Donations can be dropped off at the church between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday. For more information call the First Congregational Church at 547-9122.

Sing-a-long

During the Annual Sing-A-Long on Dec. 16 at Charlevoix Elementary School, most of the students dressed up in order to help bring Christmas spirit to all who attended. Some were reindeers, others were Santa's, but everyone was in good spirits and participated in the songs.

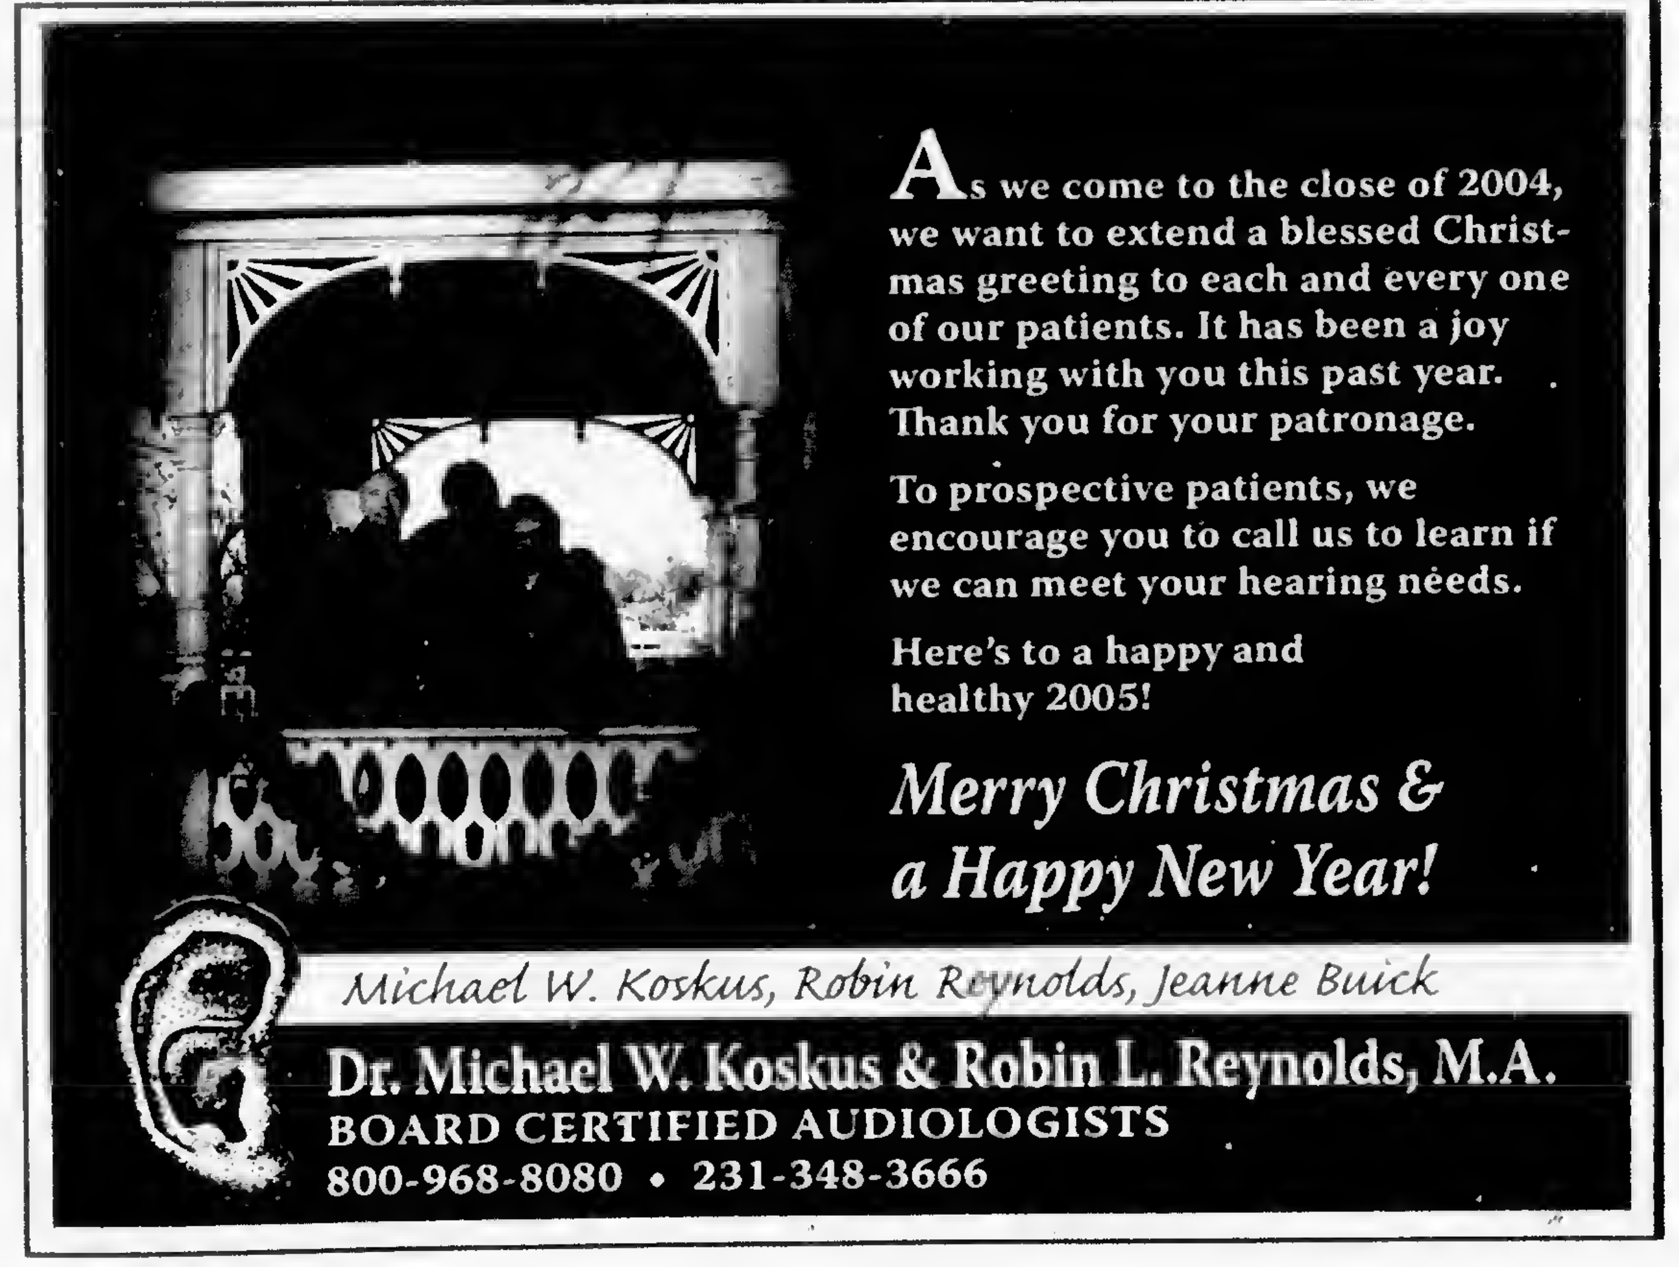
Holly Daze exceeds goal

Patti Barraw, chairperson for this year's Charlevoix Area Hospital Holly Daze, announced recently that the 2004 12th Annual Holly Daze is officially a big success.

"Our goal was $60,000 and with 150 individuals attending this year we raised $64,325.00 all to benefit our Year for Women's Health," said Barraw.

Items included in the Year for Women's Health include funds to assist in the purchase of a Computer Aided Detection Mammography System, assist with the expansion and remodeling of Boyne Rehabiliation Center in Boyne City and helping to underwrite Community Out-Reach programs with specific focus on women's issues.

This year's live and silent auction was at the Charlevoix Country Club.



As we come to the close of 2004, we want to extend a blessed Christmas greeting to each and every one of our patients. It has been a joy working with you this past year. Thank you for your patronage.

To prospective patients, we encourage you to call us to learn if we can meet your hearing needs.

Here's to a happy and healthy 2005!

Merry Christmas & a Happy New Year!

Keep this holiday safe on area roads

EDITORIAL

With the holiday season upon us and winter in full bloom, it is time to remind everyone to be safe on the roads.

Typically many people are out on the roads during the holidays as they travel to various relatives' homes or friends' parties. And typically, especially this week, the roads are covered in snow and ice, and visibility due to snow and blowing snow can be spotty.

Therefore, we urge our readers to drive carefully as they are out and about during the holiday and we offer these tips:

- Slow down. Just because the speed limit is 45 mph, does not mean you must drive at that speed. Sometimes the road conditions force a driver to travel at slower speeds. Patience is not only a virtue when driving in winter, but it is also a safety issue.
- Turn on your lights. With visibility being an issue, driving with your lights on will improve your chances of being seen by other drivers.
- Fasten your seat belts. Not only is it the law in Michigan to wear a seat belt when riding in a vehicle, but it will also save your life in an accident.
- Do not tailgate. Always leave a safe distance between you and the vehicle in front of you. Realize that on icy and snow covered roads it sometimes takes longer to fully stop your vehicle, especially when you have to stop suddenly.
- Be aware of the vehicles around you. Just because you have a top-of-the-line SUV, complete with the best snow tires on the market today and snow is just an annoyance to you, that does not mean the vehicle next to you, in front of you or behind you has those same options.
- Stay sober. With all the holiday parties people take part in during this time of year it is very important to have a designated driver or don't drink if you are going to drive home. You are not only putting your life at risk when you do so, but the lives of everyone else on the road at risk.

We wish our readers the happiest of holidays and look forward to celebrating a new year with all of them. Let's keep this Christmas and New Year's filled with joy and celebration and not dampen the mood with a tragedy.

School could help community

Editor:

In this holiday season, what could be more fitting than to recognize the role our public library plays in our area. The school board, by donating their interest if any, in the old library facility (to be used toward the new library facility) would then become an important participant in our central business district, our city and community interests.

Thank you for city hall

Editor:

In the spirit of the holidays, I feel it is appropriate to thank and compliment the city officials and all others involved in the renovation of City Hall. It is historically one of the most significant and architecturally the most unique and beautiful public building in town. All the residents of Charlevoix — who own City Hall — can be justly proud if it, as it serves the city for another half-century.

Letter response

Editor:

In an issue of the Courier, in November, a Mrs. Button suggested that the delay to the marina was caused by council bickering. Nothing could be further from the truth.

There were two delays: The first was that City Manager Mike Weisner failed to get the paper work in on time. This was before John Engler decided legally or illegally to use the funds for other reasons. The second delay was the DEQ didn't approve Mr. Pollock's design and to this date still hasn't.

Neither council or the mayor were told of this delay for over three months. And the only reason they were told was that the Courier found out and printed a story. Until that time it was on a need to know basis, and evidently the city manager decided we didn't need to know.

I want to thank the churches that provide rides to churches such as Bible Baptist Church and the United Methodist Church.

Also I want to thank the Rainbow Shoppe which provide good clothes for the needy.

Also, I am glad we have good doctors and a good hospital, Charlevoix Area Hospital in Charlevoix.

Thank you all.

BASES hires Vollmer as new counselor

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

BASES Teen Center in Charlevoix has a new counselor on board who is already creating a class to help teens cope with the realities of life.

Jen Vollmer, 27, has always been interested in psychology and helping others.

"Just probably the differences in people and getting into their minds to help them find happiness," she said.

Vollmer received a bachelor's and master's degree in psychology from Central Michigan University.

During her undergraduate work, Vollmer worked for four years at the Family Independence Agency. She then came to BASES Teen Center for an internship during her graduate work that lasted from the fall of 2003 to the summer of 2004.

Vollmer started full time at the center in October and has already had great success with her new program, Life Skills.

"It's gone really well," she said. "We had great participation."

The first session of the Life Skills program was an eight week course that ran from October to December.

Vollmer is going to have another session that will run for six weeks beginning Jan. 4 and ending Feb. 10. The sessions are free and occur on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The program is designed for teens, but Vollmer said anyone can come whether it be a court referral, parent referral, school referral or someone who decided they might need some extra help.

The program features talks about increasing self-esteem, how to build relationships and the influence the media can have on young adults, such as during the Super Bowl.

Vollmer pointed out how the commercials are primarily Budweiser and she uses this to show those in her program who the advertisement is targeting and to look beyond the cute frogs.

The program, which features about 15 to 20 people at a time, enables young adults to learn how to cope with situations and to deal with anxiety and stress.

"I think the kids are really learning some hands on skills they can apply to everyday life," she said.

Aside from her Life Skills program, Vollmer also does substance abuse assessments and one-on-one counseling for adolescents.

BASES Teen Center isn't only for young adults, as Vollmer said anyone, such as adults and outside groups, can use the assessment programs.

Vollmer typically works with young adults ranging in age from 14 years old to 18 years old. She also works primarily with young adults who have substance abuse problems.

"When I first started out I didn't know much about it," Vollmer said of substance abuse. "I learned so much through my internship."

Jen Vollmer has been hired as the new counselor at BASES Teen Center in Charlevoix.

Vollmer said the many faces of addiction are interesting, but her biggest challenge is getting young adults to admit they have a problem.

Working with young adults on any issue isn't always easy, which is why Vollmer enjoys what she does.

"I think because adolescents are so unpredictable there's always something new and different," she said. "There's always a challenge with adolescents."

Drunk driving crackdown

The Charlevoix City Police Department wants its residents to make it home for the holidays — safely.

That's why from Dec. 20 through Jan. 2, 2005, the Charlevoix City Police Department is joining with nearly 500 Michigan law enforcement agencies during a "You Drink and Drive. You Lose." drunk driving crackdown.

Motorists are reminded that Michigan's drunk driving definition of .08 blood alcohol content and the costs associated with drunk driving arrests have increased. In addition to court costs and fines, convicted drunk drivers will also be subject to a new additional $1,000 penalty included in the driver responsibility program. The $1,000 penalty will be imposed for two consecutive years.

During last year's crackdown, there were six Christmas holiday traffic fatalities and seven traffic deaths during the New Year's holiday. Of those fatalities, three involved alcohol.

In Michigan, 34 percent of traffic fatalities involve alcohol and/or drugs. Although alcohol-related fatalities have been on the decline, there were still 442 traffic deaths in 2003 where alcohol and/or drugs played a factor.

Anderson donates to Locks for third time

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

One Charlevoix resident is helping others one inch of hair at a time.

Zita Anderson, 15, has recently given her third donation of hair to Locks of Love and is already thinking about her fourth.

"I guess I'm thankful I'm able to give something that's able to change someone's life," Anderson said.

Locks of Love is a non-profit organization that provides wigs to children under 18 years of age who have lost their hair due to long-term medical hair loss in the United States and Canada.

Her mother, Zita Winn, said ever since Anderson was a little girl her thick hair grew very fast. So, in a matter of a few years, Anderson has been able to regain the length necessary to donate the minimum of 10 inches required by Locks of Love.

On Nov. 30, 2004, Anderson donated 12 inches of her golden hair to Locks of Love.

Before that at 12 years old, she donated 13 inches of hair on Dec. 17, 2001 and had her brother do the honors of cutting it off. Then on Sept. 24, 2002, when she was 13 years old, Anderson donated 12 inches of hair.

Winn said Locks of Love has several guidelines one must follow when donating hair such as it must be cleansed and pulled back into a ponytail. However, when Anderson's hair was cut the first time in 2001, the cut wasn't straight.

Winn said due to her daughter's thick hair, it was hard to cut the pony tail directly across. However, when Anderson recently donated her hair, Shelley Stevens, owner of New Creation Hair Designs in Charlevoix, divided the hair into several smaller ponytails in order to get a straighter cut.

Anderson originally found out about Locks of Love from a friend and then went online and read about how to donate hair.

"I mean, if my hair grows that fast, why not give it to somebody," she said.

If Anderson should ever be in the position of needing hair, she would want someone to be generous with what they themselves can grow back.

Anderson said those who receive the hair can't do anything about the fact that they don't have hair and Locks of Love is one way they can have nice hair once again.

Winn agreed with her daughter and said Locks of Love will compile the hair into a wig and then cut it into the style the person receiving the wig wants.

When looking at pictures on the web site, Winn said one wouldn't be able to tell the hair was a wig because they are crafted very well.

Giving hair is something small and easy, but a really neat thing to be able to give someone else, Winn said.

In 2001, when Anderson first gave hair to Locks of Love, Winn said several girls copied her and donated their hair.

Anderson said more people should do the same.

"If they're going to cut it anyway, why not give it," Anderson said. "They're not going to do anything with it once it's cut."

Anderson said she will probably continue to donate her hair to Locks of Love throughout her life. She will also continue to give to various charities.

"Yeah, I mean it makes you feel good," she said.

For more information on the requirements for donating hair and on Locks of Love call (888) 896-1588 or go to www.locksoflove.org.

McSauba trying for opening on Sunday

According to Charlevoix Recreation Department Supervisor Ike Boss, the city is shooting to have Mount McSauba open by Sunday.

Boss said crews at the hill are currently making snow and working to get it open as quickly as possible. While he said it is looking good for Sunday, he did not want to say the hill will be open for sure.

Mount McSauba opened on Dec. 21 last year. Boss said the hill is not too far behind this year.

Mount McSauba can be contacted by calling 547-3267.

Keep the reason for the season in mind

By FATHER JIM GUNN
Christ Episcopal Church
Charlevoix

Beacons of Blessing

As I have been seeing the garlands of lights that were hung on the trees along Bridge Street, it occurred to me that it is one of the different faces of Charlevoix.

The two longest lasting aspects of the face of the community are these lights and the petunias.

We know that sometime in late May there will be the petunia planting and then we will have their beauty with us until the fall. Then, when the weather really starts to turn cold, the crew of men appear who festoon the Bridge Street trees with hundreds of bright little lights.

Our nights are adorned with those lights on into the new year. Other faces of shorter duration are the festive face of the carnival and other parts of Venetian Week, and the booths that cover various grassy area during art fairs. Those are some of the public faces that are worn by the community of Charlevoix.

Then there is the question of the underlying reality behind those obvious appearances. Is there a "internal" spirit of beauty behind the petunias? Is there a joyful and festive spirit behind the lights on the trees? Those are questions to ponder — as is the question of what each of us can do to be part of the reality underlying the public appearance.

Since this issue will appear just days before Christmas, I want to add another facet to this article.

There is also a "public face" on this season. We see trees with ornaments. We see stores with Santa Claus present to meet children. We see houses with colored lights. We hear various songs of the season from "Here Comes Santa Claus" to "Silent Night." We also see crèche scenes, both small and big in parks and homes and on cards.

What is the underlying reality here? Is this just an opportunity to spend a lot of money and get a lot of presents? Is it just a sort of generic time of peace and good will? Or are we, in our hearts and minds and lives, doing all we can to make clear that this is the time when we celebrate the birth of the Savior of the world?

That, too, is a point to ponder. Remember, Jesus is the reason for the season.

Venetian to end sports theme for 2005

The Charlevoix Venetian Festival has decided to end its "Charlevoix Sports Legends" theme it started this year.

In planning for the festival in 2005, one of the first issues which was addressed by the Venetian Board was the theme of the past 2004 festival, "Charlevoix Sports Legends."

Basketball was the sport which received "Sports Legends" attention in 2004, with the anticipation that an annual series could develop to focus on additional sports during future Venetian Festivals. Through the combined effort of the Charlevoix Historical Society and the Venetian Sports Committee, noteworthy Charlevoix basketball teams, players and coaches were identified, acknowledged and displayed as a feature of the 2004 festival.

According to a press release, the festival states, "While the concept of recognizing the sports heritage of Charlevoix is a popular and 'good fit' with Venetian, both the historical society and the Venetian board now realize that neither organization possesses sufficient volunteer resources to conduct such an enormous undertaking on a yearly basis."

The release further states, after much discussion, the Venetian board concluded that the festival needed to concentrate its limited volunteer resources on fund-raising and event planning and management.

It was thus decided that "Charlevoix Sports Legends" will not be a feature of the 2005 Venetian Festival, unless another community organization steps forward to handle the project.

Venetian Board member and Commissioner of the Venetian Games, Dean Davenport, has asked residents to submit their feelings on this issue by contacting the Festival at (800) 360-8750.

"We welcome local reaction regarding the Charlevoix Sports Legends as well as any fund-raising ideas," Davenport said in the release. "Our belief is that you plan with, and not for people. The Venetian Festival belongs to everyone in Charlevoix and we hope to hear how you feel."

The 2005 Venetian Festival will take place from July 17, 2005 through July 23, 2005.

Cool Santas

Five Charlevoix Elementary School students dressed as Santa Claus danced their hearts out on miniature roof tops to a song about Santa dancing on the rooftops. Some beards fell, but not a step was missed during the school's Annual Sing-A-Long.

Many area children to get toys this Christmas

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff writer

The Charlevoix community came together and provided enough toys and goods to give families in need a Christmas to remember.

Bev Boss, chairman of the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project, said this year 161 families in the area were able to get groceries, fresh food products, toys and candy to provide their families with a warm Christmas.

"It's been wonderful," Boss said.

Boss said the entire project came together with the help of several people who all had numerous ideas.

"It's a community effort," she said.

On Dec. 17, the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project operated out of the American Legion Leslie T. Shapton Post in Charlevoix.

Boss said there were over 3,000 toys donated to the cause through the Marine Corps Reserve Toys for Tots Program and some from other donations such as giving trees and adopt-a-family programs.

However, with about a dozen volunteers and National Honor Society student helpers, the day went smoothly and families were able to have helpers carry items out to their cars.

Over 2,000 toys that were provided to fill children's stockings came from the Dollar Tree in Charlevoix, who took dollar donations from customers for toy purchases. Dollar Tree is a national sponsor of the Toys for Tots program.

Russ Bolt and Ken Staley, both corporals in the Northern Michigan Detachment of the Marine Corps League, which covers three counties, attended the sing-a-long at Charlevoix Elementary School on Dec. 16 where they were presented with the toys collected from the school's penny drive.

Nicole Sterrett, a second grade teacher who headed up the penny drive, said this year the school raised $946 for Toys for Tots compared to about $400 last year.

Bolt said aside from toys, donations were also taken that are used to purchase items for any age group that didn't receive as many items through the Toys for Tots program. Teenagers, Bolt said, are one age group that the program usually doesn't round up enough items for.

Bolt said the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1153 in Charlevoix and the urology department of Northern Michigan Hospital donated money to purchase any needed items.

Staley said the toys collected this year is the largest it has ever been in the area.

Bolt said the neat part is that all the toys collected in Charlevoix are distributed in Charlevoix.

"It's a very good program," Bolt said.

The local businesses that allowed for a Toys for Tots donation box to be placed in their store are: Dollar Tree, Kmart, ACE Hardware, Brumm Norman-Showroom, Pat McKeown Ford, Harbor Industries, Holiday Station Store 181, Oleson's Farm Fresh Markets, Glen's Markets, Copy Plus of Charlevoix, Rite Aid, The Clothing Company, Koucky Gallery, Brady's Carpet Cleaning and Janitorial, Bolt Design, Don's IGA, Lexalite International Corp., Muscle Menders Therapeutic Massage and the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix.

Nationally, Bolt said the program has collected $8 million dollars.

With the help from the Marine Corps Reserve Toys for Tots Program and the generosity of community members in Charlevoix, the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project was able to give a lot and provide local families with a wonderful holiday season.

On Dec. 16, Russ Bolt and Ken Staley, both corporals in the Northern Michigan Detachment of the Marine Corps League, were present to receive the toys Charlevoix Elementary School raised through their penny drive. Charlevoix Elementary School Principal Richard Swenor announced that the school raised $946 dollars and three students presented Staley and Bolt with a poster they created. Filmmaker brings documentary skills home

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

BEAVER ISLAND – Beaver Island native Phillip Michael Moore is using his cinematic skills to not only tell stories, but to help solve problems facing communities, such as his beloved island.

Moore, a who recently received a master's degree in cinematic and broadcast arts, gave two premier showings of his first documentary — and the same one he used for his master's thesis — on Friday night at the Peaine Township Hall. The documentary, called 32 Miles Of Water, was about the island's volunteer Emergency Medical Service volunteers and the need for an air ambulance.

"My first goal with this was to tell why they (island EMS) do what they do and what are the unique challenges to them. That is where I got the title from; The nearest emergency room is 32 miles across the water," Moore said.

To tell this story, Moore spent last winter riding with and interviewing the members of Beaver Island's EMS. The movie tells how some of the EMS became interested in this line of work, what they do as full-time jobs and how challenging it is to get people in need of medical help to an emergency room from the island.

In the movie, Moore's father and EMS worker, Joe Moore, talks about the "golden hour." The golden hour is the first hour after a person calls 9-1-1 for help and the need to get them to a hospital.

But, on the island, the golden hour is hard to reach. If a person is in need of medical assistance, they call 9-1-1 and the island EMS is dispatched. The person is then treated by EMS and taken to the Beaver Island Rural Health Center for further treatment, but if they need further medial care the situation becomes more challenging.

Beaver Island does not have a full-time doctor nor an emergency room and to get someone off of the island in a hurry is a difficult. The only two services currently available to get a patient off the island and to a local hospital is Northflight out of Traverse City and the United State's Coast Guard. It is estimated that 34 patients a year are flown off the island.

In the movie, Joe Moore said it takes at least 45 minutes to get Northflight to the island and, he adds, "Everyone knows it takes 20 minutes to fly to Charlevoix."

Therefore, the island EMS is pushing for an air ambulance to help them get patients to the mainland quicker. An air ambulance is essentially an airplane stocked with emergency medical supplies and waiting on the island to take patients to the mainland.

It was this issue that filmmaker Moore was hoping his audience would seize upon and they did just that.

After Moore's first showing of the half-hour documentary at 7 p.m., in front of a crowd composed of EMS workers and those who have been literally saved by the island's EMS workers, those in the audience began debating what it would take to get an air ambulance on the island. The discussion continued until the next showing at 8 p.m.

EMS worker Gerald Lafreniere Jr. told the crowd that the organization is working on trying to get money to pay for an air ambulance. He suggested help from the townships on the island and perhaps an endowment fund. Many others in the audience suggested using Moore's movie as a way to raise money for the cause.

Moore said, "As far as the life of the movie, it is out of my control and in your hands."

Documentary shows need for air ambulance

EMS

He added, "I am going to send it to PBS for consideration. It was never intended to be a blockbuster and was intended for a local or regional audience."

Lafreniere said there will be EMS meetings on this subject.

Moore, 29, now a resident of Washington, began filming 32 Miles in December 2003. He wrapped up filming in late February of 2004 and was in the editing process until this fall.

He said he decided to focus on the island's EMS after being in a car accident near Traverse City a few years back. Moore was unhurt in the accident, but he was trapped in his vehicle for about 20 minutes. During that time, EMS workers cut him out of the mangled car, while one crawled inside of it to talk to Moore and keep him calm.

"They were all volunteers," Moore said of those EMS workers. "I realized that in the town I grew up in was filled with the same kind of people."

So, to complete the requirements for his master's degree from Central Michigan University, Moore decided to make a documentary about these people.

Moore said when he first started making the movie, he thought it was going to be a plot driven narrative, where he rode in the ambulance with the EMS workers while they went on calls. But, as he filmed,this focus quickly changed into one that focuses on who these people are and why they do what they do.

The hard part of doing this documentary was the emergency scenes, he said. Because Beaver Island is such a small community, Moore knew the emergency sequences he would be filming would have people he grew up with.

This came true during the most dramatic rescue call of the film. In the film, the EMS is called out to the home of an elderly man who was having trouble breathing. That man turned out to be Moore's own grandfather, Phil Gregg.

"That was very difficult emotionally with what was going on. But, my family told me I should film it, it was what my grandfather would want," Moore said.

Thankfully, Moore's grandfather — who was considered very close to dying at the time — had recovered and was seen sailing his boat in St. James Harbor over the summer.

"Although it was the hardest to film, it was the best shooting I had done, perhaps it is because I was so emotional," he said.

Moore said the other difficulty in making the movie was the climate of Beaver Island. When Moore arrived to film 32 Miles, he arrived at the beginning of one of the coldest winters on the island. This was a problem for Moore because his camera equipment was only rated to 32 degrees.

So, Moore was loaned several different mini-vans to use for his outdoor sequences. These vehicles allowed him the ability to shoot from inside a warm vehicle by opening the sliding side door.

Help from many people on the island, like loaning the mini-vans, he said, was essential in getting this movie made. Moore added he also was thankful to the United States Coast Guard and Northflight for making special trips to Beaver Island just so Moore could film them for his movie.

It was this help that was given to him was the root cause of two premiers Moore hosted Friday night.

"This is just one way I can show the community the film free of charge," he said. "It is my way of giving back."

Now that Moore has this first movie under his belt, he said he has begun working on his next documentary called Cornucopia. This next movie will be about the homeless problem in Washington State and show the humanity of those who are homeless.

Charlevoix couple have fun with mystery

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Is murder a game?

To Kathy and Hal Johnson it is.

The couple have been producing several murder mystery dinners and weekends to thrill those who attend to try and outsmart the sleuths.

"I just like to figure things out," Kathy Johnson said.

Since 1988, Johnson has written several mysteries under the name Murder is a Game. She has gone on to also produce and perform her original scripts.

In 1986, Ron Grow, the Johnsons' friend, was putting on mysteries and they volunteered to act as suspects. They participated in about six such productions before Grow moved away. However, he had asked the Terrace Inn in Bay View to see if Johnson would want to continue the tradition.

Kathy said she gave it a try and successfully put on six mysteries her first year. She now produces as many as 18 in one year. Last year she produced and wrote 13 different.

Both Johnsons have produced 185 original mysteries. Now, every single mystery that is written is different and sometimes written for a specific group.

Kathy said she will write specific inside information into a script when she does parties for businesses and organizations.

When a script is written and performed, even audience members who are the sleuths can find themselves as one of the suspects.

"I try to see if I can fool most of the audience," Kathy said.

If she fools everyone then the mystery was too difficult.

"I like them to be solvable," she said.

Kathy said she gets her ideas from the news and various things she reads. When she read about a murder in Virginia last year she based a mystery off the premise about a young woman who poisoned her very old husband.

All of the mysteries she writes are good, clean fun that feature motives such as sex and greed. Nothing vulgar is used and all stories are family appropriate as the actors will bicker, but not swear at one another.

"My big thing is to try and make it fun," she said.

The fun comes in two choices, either a mystery dinner or a mystery weekend. The mystery dinners start after eating and are written to be solved that night.

After dinner, Kathy, as the inspector, announces that a murder has taken place and will then interrogate the suspects. The suspects, including Hal Johnson, have been talking to people throughout the evening without anyone knowing they will be a suspect.

Both Johnsons said it's fun when the audience is new because no one knows who to watch.

"However, when playing to a familiar crowd, which happens often, some distractions are necessary in order to divert people's attention off the suspects.

Once Kathy, who portrays the inspector, interrogates the suspects, it's the audience's turn to question and search the suspects completely.

Kathy said many people may have the right answer, but she announces the person who had the best answer and who explained how they came to their answer as the winner.

The mystery weekends are similar, but occur in real time. The scripts are written to last over the weekend and incorporates people's rooms as the suspects are staying in the hotel as well.

The Terrace Inn in Bay View and the KOA Kampground in Petoskey are the sites for the mystery weekends.

Kathy said the scripts are more complex and feature live "dead" bodies instead of just photographs.

The weekends start out with dinner on Friday and end with breakfast on Sunday. However, on Friday, Kathy said the actors must wait and see how the night will progress to know what direction they may need to take.

"That night we have to play it loose," she said.

Hal said he enjoys the weekend mysteries because he and the other actors have to improvise for unforeseen situations that arise and if the audience is watching too closely.

There are usually last-minute changes, but the seasoned actors aren't thrown off by new information or for a change in whether they are a suspect or murderer.

Hal said he enjoys being both the murderer and a suspect.

Hal and Kathy Johnson create and solve mysteries over dinner or throughout the weekend under the name Murder is a Game.

"I like fooling people," he said.

Hal said he enjoys getting into character and either playing up the good old boy image if he is the murderer or making himself seem guilty if he is innocent.

"I think it's the mystery I enjoy," he added.

Both Johnsons said children are usually the ones who will solve a mystery and not the adults.

"Young people are really good at this," Kathy said.

She said young people aren't afraid to approach someone and ask to search them. Adults are typically more shy about it.

"Children aren't as trusting," she said.

When they produced a mystery at Bay Harbor, the only one who solved the mystery was a little girl about 10 years old.

Kathy said the little girl solved the mystery because she asked Hal if there was anything else in his coat pocket.

Everyone else watched him take out his billfold, but only the little girl asked if there was more.

"Children make me nervous when they come in because they will pin you to the wall," Hal said.

The audience has to work for the answer, it won't easily be provided. Plus, red herrings are thrown in to try and get people going in a false direction.

Kathy said the mysteries usually center around a murder, but other themes are used when dealing with classrooms.

Upcoming dates for public attendance to mystery dinners are on Jan. 22 in Bay City and on Jan. 29, Feb. 19 and March 19 at the Terrace Inn in Bay View.

For mystery weekends upcoming dates are April 15 through April 17 at the Terrace Inn in Bay View and on Sept. 16 through Sept. 18 and Sept. 23 through Sept. 25 at the KOA Kampground in Petoskey.

For more information on private mysteries call the Johnsons at 582-2715 or e-mail them at halkj@nmo.net.

To make reservations for either the mystery dinners or mystery weekends call the Terrace Inn at 347-2410 or the KOA Kampground at 347-0005.

Aesop's fable still holds true

Bigger isn't always better -

The best shopping is here at home.

The fable: Aesop, a famous fable teller is remembered for his story about the dog trotting home with a prize bone. On the way he saw what looked like a much larger one in the reflection of a stream...but, in grabbing for it, lost the bone he already had.

The fact: Many of us today are still risking and losing some of the good things we have by reaching for a tempting offer outside our own community.

By shopping elsewhere for the bigger bone, we seriously undermine the economic structure that supports our schools, churches, businesses and everything else that makes our home town a great place to live and work.

This community could enjoy greater prosperity and many more social and civic facilities if out-of-town spending were kept in our local economic bloodstream. Shop at home. Don't be a victim of a 1300-year-old fable.

Another successful week for Charlevoix Rayders

By ALLEN TELGENHOF
Sports writer

The Charlevoix Rayders upped their record to 4-0 last week with wins over Benzie Central and East Jordan by identical scores of 92-63.

"It's been fun," Coach Keith Haske said. "It's a great start to the season."

A 32-15 second quarter against Benzie put the game out of reach. Benzie had led 14-13 at the end of the first quarter.

Cody Crain scored nine points in a 19-5 run to start the quarter. The spurt, which took less than 4 minutes, was capped by a Sparky Nitchman layup off a Jared Hunt behind the back pass.

In the first three minutes of the second half, the Rayders exploded on another run, this one 16-4 to take a 60-32 lead. Jake Teuscher scored six points in that period, including a three-point play.

Benzie could get no closer than 24 the rest of the way.

Crain finished with 17 points. Teuscher had 14 points, 10 rebounds, two assists and two steals.

Eddie Waldron had 13 points and seven rebounds. Sophomore Derek Friske scored 10.

Hunt dished out six assists while Matt Kautz had six assists, four rebounds and four steals.

Against East Jordan, the Rayders trailed early at various points while the Red Devils gave Charlevoix some of their own medicine, pressing the Rayders defensively.

The Rayders, however, took the lead to stay at 10-9 on a lay-in by Phil Steen who had just come in off the bench. Steen followed his basket with a block at the other end.

East Jordan's Kyle Daneff scored his team's first 11 points of the game and had 13 in the first quarter.

Charlevoix led 23-17 at the end of the first period. The Red Devils stayed close, cutting the lead to two at 27-25 on another Daneff basket. The Rayders, however, outscored East Jordan, 21-9 the rest of the half, led by seven points by Hunt and six by Jake Teuscher.

Three three-pointers, two by Crain and one by Nitchman, extended the lead to 59-38 midway through the third quarter. The Red Devils cut the lead to 15, at 61-46 but they could get no closer the rest of the way.

Charlevoix closed the scoring with a 14-2 run that made the game's final score a bit misleading.

"I thought East Jordan played well," Haske said. "And I thought we played well except for a couple of spots."

Hunt led the Rayders with 22 points and six assists. Crain tallied 20 points, four assists and two steals.

Ben Bergmann had 11 points. Jake Teuscher finished with 10 points and nine rebounds. Steen had perhaps his best game as a Rayder, with 10 points and six rebounds.

"Steen had an outstanding game on both ends of the court," Haske said. "He did well rebounding and blocking shots. Our big guys off the bench, Ed (Waldron) and Phil played real well and gave us a lift."

Haske said, "Hunt did his usual solid job, getting us running and creating tempo."

The junior varsity (4-0) and freshman (3-0) teams also began the season undefeated. As such, the Charlevoix Rayder high school basketball program has won its last 67 regular season games. The girls' varsity (20-0), junior varsity (20-0) and freshman (19-0) teams all had perfect regular season records.

The high school's last regular season loss was the varsity's defeat the hands of Petoskey to close out last season, 58-41.

The Rayders will attempt to avenge that loss as they return to action after Christmas break, at Petoskey on Jan. 4.

Volleyball team starts off strong

By B. JON GOHS
Sports writer

The lady Rayders volleyball team muzzled the competition as they stormed the Bulldogs' house and showed who should really stay on the porch.

Not to be outdone by the success of the girls basketball team, the Rayders varsity volleyball team defeated opponent after opponent during the season opener December 11, at Inland Lakes.

"Thumbs up to the girls, who worked so hard last year," said varsity volleyball Coach Liz Grunch. "Last year's season ended well and coming into the first game we were strong."

She added, "We dominated the tournament. And that was with only one day of practice. That was a real nice highlight for me."

Charlevoix bested Boyne City 25-12 and 25-24, St. Ignace 25-20 and 25-21, Hillman 25-18 and 25-13. The Rayders had splits against both East Jordan with 24-25 and 25-21 and Inland Lakes with 19-25 and 25-22.

And, the Rayders won the championship against Hillman with scores of 25-23 and 25-19 for an overall record of 4-0-2.

Players of mention were Kary Way with 33 Kills, Theresa Martin with 31 kills and nine aces, Zita Anderson with 128 assists and Betsey Dennis with 18 aces.

Charlevoix's fierceness was due in large part to a strong offense.

"I know we hit the ball well and served the ball strongly," Grunch said.

This year's line up includes sophomores Emily Heffling, Bethany Pearson, Ashlie Bradley and Zita Anderson. Juniors Sally Haselschardt, Liz Jadwin and Genevieve Kochanny. Returning seniors are captain Theresa Martin, third year all around left defense Kary Way, middle setter Betsey Dennis and Sonya Plude.

"She (Martin) does a great job bringing the team together by encouraging and helping the other players to get better," Grunch said.

While some of the positions can change, Grunch said some of the girls will tend to work in areas they know best.

Rayders do well at volleyball tournament

"Bethany will be playing middle. Sally and Ashlie will be on the right side most of the time. Emily got brought up as a sophomore for defense. Sonya will play defense mostly on the right side, and Liz and Genevieve will be corner defense left or right," she said.

According to Grunch, the team has come a long way in her four years coaching them. And watching them improve through their hard work makes her job all the more worthwhile.

"The program was really down when I got it. But, in four years we won districts twice in a row and for the first time in a long time we won the conference," she said.

"We have a lot to work on, but we don't have to start from square one."

It seems setting goals and keeping high expectations is as key to a strong team as having a driven coach.

"Every year I want them to get better and play further in the tournament," she said. "When I first started I thought it would be great to win conference — and now it's expected."

In spite of their powerful performance, this year's team has only begun to hone their skills.

Some definite areas of improvement, according to Grunch, are communication and defense.

"We've already started and we're going to continue to work on communication," she said.

The culprit of this lack of communication, Grunch said, was having five new players and six of her players on the successful basketball team which overlapped volleyball practice allowing time for only one practice before the tournament.

"That lack of communication is one thing that really stuck out during the tournament," she said.

And, she added, "Our defense is really down compared to other schools."

Despite some shaky communication and a softer than desired defense, the Rayders showed the other schools a mere taste of what they have planned for the remainder of the season.

According to Grunch, they have a great incentive to do well.

"This year the quarter finals are in Charlevoix. And that's something the girls are excited about," she said.

No matter how the season unfolds, Coach Grunch is thankful for all who come out and rally for the team.

The Rayders see action again 8:30 a.m., Wednesday, Dec. 29 in Leland.

Wrestling team takes third in annual Bridge Brawl

The Charlevoix Rayders wrestling team traveled to Rudyard for the annual Bridge Brawl tournament Friday, Dec. 17, a wrestling competition between the Lower Peninsula and the Upper Peninsula.

The Lower Peninsula won the tournament this year with Cheboygan coming in first for the Lower Peninsula teams and Negaunee coming in first for the Upper Peninsula teams.

Charlevoix placed third for the Lower Peninsula.

Wins for the day went to Woody Nitchman, one pin and three decisions; Spencer Hankins, one pin and one decision; Nick Gotshall, three pins and one decision; Jed Daman three pins and two decisions; Matt Novotny, one pin and three decisions; R.J. Moore, one pin and one decision; Shannon Gillespie, two pins and one decision; Jeff Golovich, two pins; Nathan Tripplehorn, three pins; Pat Russell, three decisions; Jaimen Waha, two pins and one decision and Drew Marsh, one pin.

The Rayders travel to Frankfort Jan. 8.

Midget hockey shows its ice skills

On Dec. 18, the Boyne Area Hockey Paul Bunyan Lanes Midgets hosted a pair of contests with Gaylord.

With Gaylord's bench riding very short facing the first game, Boyne loaned one of their offensive lines to Gaylord and called it a scrimmage.

Gabe Korthase, John Miller and Britt King donned their away jerseys and played with Gaylord, but Boyne ruled their home ice, outscoring the opponent 11-1.

Eli Barsy, Ryan Paridee and Ryan Hennessy each scored twice; Troy Scarbrough, Nick Dunwoody, Josh Aown, JP Fiedorek and Will Brown all hit the net once. Russell Williams led the assists with four, Scarbrough and Dunwoody each had two.

Pridee, Brown, Barsy, Aown, Gear Robinson, Chris Loyselle, Evan Keller, Matt Kopke, Hennessy and Isaac Krey all added an assist. Charlie Courtright was the winning goalie.

Later, Gaylord gained a few more of their own players and the league game was on.

Balanced scoring, aggressive offense and tight defense earned Boyne a 5-2 win.

Scarbrough, Barsy, Williams, Brown and Gabe Korthase scored, with assists from Dunwoody, Paridee, Barsy, Brown and Aown. Boyne outshot Gaylord 30-11.

Nick Ferree was between the pipes.

Dec. 19 saw the team in Alpena for two games.

In the first game, Barsy fed two assists to scorers Paridee and Hennessy.

Goaltenders Ferree and Courtright shared netminding.

Alpena took the game 2-3.

In the second, league game, Boyne came out on top 5-3, including three power play goals. Paridee scored twice, Scarbrough, Fiedorek and Nick Dunwoody, once apiece. Assists came from Scarbrough, Kopke, Robinson, Russell Williams, Brown and Hennessy.

Ferree and Courtright again shared goaltending, with Courtright earning the win.

Neighbors claim water runoff is worse after school

WATER

ter resulting from the change, the increase in flow constitutes a trespass," she wrote in her letter.

During the meeting, Beemon suggested to the school board that water trespass is similar to that of having one's cows eat off another person's property.

Since the school is bound to create excess water, Beemon said the school board can petition the Drain Commissioner to establish a legal drain.

This can be a costly and lengthy process, Beemon said, so her alternative is to design and develop a Low Impact Design (LID) school grounds. Beemon said this could involve students, government officials and the entire community and would enable storm water to be managed responsibly.

"It's a good way to be good friends and neighbors," Beemon said. "I'd do anything I could to help."

The design would also involve local landscapers and could be used as a teaching tool.

Beemon met with some resistance, however, as the school board questioned her knowledge of the history of the situation.

John Sturock, superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, asked Beemon if the people she talked to had an engineering study done like the school had.

"The water run-off is less now than before we touched the property," Sturock said.

Scott Boss, a school board member, said he has hunted the land surrounding the school his entire life and said there isn't any more water now than there has always been.

Boss said the roads that used to be saturated are also better.

"It's so much more superior to what it is now," he said.

Beemon said the people she's talked to don't agree.

"I wouldn't just come up here and accuse you guys," she said.

Sturock said the concerned individuals wouldn't agree to a possible solution the school board had presented to them when the situation first arose.

Joe Seidel, a neighbor of the school, said the solution presented to them was a drain system that would require a 5 to 6 foot trench across the swamp. This wasn't what Seidel or his neighbors had in mind.

"Would you like to have a 5 to 6 foot trench in your backyard?" he said.

Seidel said the water run-off from the school is a real problem.

"For the last three years we've had problems with drainage we've never had before," he said.

Seidel said the natural flow of water runs into the valley and used to create a small canal in the spring time that would last for about a week. He said his parent's generation dug ditches to help control the water flow.

Now, instead of having a small canal for a few weeks in the spring, Seidel said the water is constant.

Last week Seidel said he was walking around his property and came upon 6 inches to a foot of water, which shouldn't be there this time of year.

When the school was first being built, Seidel said he was talking a walk around his property in the early summer and found himself in ankle deep water.

"It worsened when they actually opened the place," he said.

Seidel said he and others believe and have observed that most of the drainage from Charlevoix High School was designed to flow into their fields.

In order to protect their land from what they felt could be future development since a Charlevoix municipal sewer line runs to the high school, Seidel and Joe Martinchek contacted the Little Traverse Land Conservancy.

Seidel said he and Martinchek's land became part of the conservancy last spring and their land is now protected.

"We specifically made sure there was no room for loop holes," he said.

Seidel said he has tried numerous times to get people to fill out affidavits, but most are too scared of the repercussions they could face. He said they're afraid for their children and for losing their jobs since the school district is a large employer in the area.

Martinchek said the water has been a problem ever since the school was built.

"It's against the law to run water across someone's property, but they seem to get away with it and we're the one's that suffer," he said.

He said the school suggested this fall to put a 12 inch tile under the ground that would allow the water to run off into the swamp. However, some neighbors didn't want that running under their land.

Martinchek said he offered to have the school drain the pond that has formed on Veenstra Road onto his land so they could work on putting in the tile drain. He also offered to have the drain system run under his property so it wouldn't bother the neighbors who didn't want it on theirs.

"They (the school) didn't seem to want to bother with it," he said.

Martinchek has been in Charlevoix for about 60 years and he said the normal water run-off from snow and rain wasn't a problem before.

"I hope they get together and do something," he said.

The more the merrier.

Insurance company still being asked to pay bill

BILL

the city would pay United Fire $111,489.18 by Dec. 27 and the remainder of the bill by July 31. For this, United Fire will drop its lawsuit against the city and not include any attorney fees or interest in the final bill.

Charlevoix City Council Member Shirley Gibson said, "It sounded to me it was the best resolution to this matter. We were not going to get out of paying this."

Carlson added the money to pay this bill will be taken out of the city's infrastructure fund. He said there was a balance in that fund that could cover the total cost, without hurting funding for any city projects.

"It will not tie anything up," he said.

In the meantime, Young said the city is still working on getting its insurance company to cover the bill and prosecute CCMS.

Charlevoix's insurance company has refused to pay United Fire for the mistakenly written check, arguing under the wording of United Fire's lawsuit the city was not covered.

In a previous interview, Young said in filing its case against the city, United Fire was claiming the city was in breech of contract for paying CCMS and not United Fire for the road work. The city's insurance company is therefore saying that it will cover mistakes, but it is saying it will not cover breech of contracts.

Young argues the insurance company should not be using the way the attorney for United Fire decides to frame his lawsuit through the use of words to determine if the city has coverage, but should look at the facts of the case. He said it is clear this check was a mistake, therefore coverage is available.

"We are preparing a last strategy and attempt to get them to reconsider their position prior to litigation," Young said.

And by getting the issue with United Fire resolved, that will make the city's insurance company more responsive, he said. Because United Fire will dismiss their lawsuit against the city, Young said then he can concentrate 100 percent of his focus on getting the city's insurance company to pay.

As for prosecuting CCMS, during an early December City Council meeting, members decided to move ahead with a plan to have Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson contact the police agencies located in the community CCMS has it's main office and ask to have a criminal investigation started.

In a memo to Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner, Halverson said he has contacted the prosecuting attorney in Mackinaw County. The city is currently gathering information on the matter for the prosecutor.

Claus: Most children were good this year

CLAUS

mentioned in 1949 when Gene Autry sang "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer." Santa said Rudolph has become quite famous for his allergies.

What do reindeer eat? Santa smiled, for reindeer are always hungry. Reindeer eat reindeer food that is available at a store in Grand Rapids, but for those living in Northern Michigan, Santa said carrots are good, but not celery.

"Baby carrots are just the right size," he said.

Vegetables are good for the reindeer's teeth and also gives them energy, but Santa said they also love maple leaves, which may be for the sugar content.

He said reindeer also eat lichen, which is known as reindeer moss. This moss is buried down in the ice, Santa said, and so the reindeer must dig through the ice. He said this causes the reindeer's legs to become very powerful.

As a result, the reindeer are able to jump higher than 10 feet in the air, which is how Santa gets up on people's rooftops.

He said his reindeer don't actually fly, but rather pull his sleigh across the ground then jump onto people's roofs. Santa said it makes the reindeer look like they're flying, much like a long-jumper at the Olympics.

"It's actually explained in the poem, 'Twas the Night Before Christmas'," Santa said.

In a line of the poem, it states that "when out on the lawn there arose such a clatter," which shows that the reindeer were actually pulling the sleigh on the ground.

Also, many people believe all the reindeer are males, but Santa said Vixen is the only female member of the team.

Both male and female reindeer have antlers, but around Christmas time the males lose their antlers. The females, however, keep them throughout Christmas. Santa said in reality, only Vixen should have antlers when the reindeer are drawn.

Dasher, Dancer, Prancer, Vixen, Comet, Cupid, Donner, Blitzen and Rudolph help Santa get his presents delivered throughout the night, but so does a little magic from the man in red himself, which helps him deliver presents to boys and girls the world over in just one night.

"I have a mechanism for stopping time," he said.

Santa said that many people may not believe he stops time, but everyone both young and old know how long Christmas Eve lasted when they awaited the morning.

"It seems like Christmas Eve is the longest night of the year because I am actually stopping time," he said.

Santa said he prefers to come down people's chimneys because it's the easiest way to get into houses. Also, he uses a chimney stretcher to make the opening large enough so he can fit through.

Even though Santa delivers the toys, he has several elves who craft the toys.

"They have very specialized skills," Santa said.

Some elves are woodcrafters while others are electronics experts. However, all of them have an influence on the toy industry. The elves are in charge of manufacturing while Santa said he is in charge of distribution.

Aside from elves, Santa has a large network of helpers who keep an eye out to see if boys and girls are good or bad. With the computer age, Santa said he and his helpers are able to communicate more easily.

"Theres lots of e-mails flying back and forth," he said.

With his knowledge and that of his helpers, Santa said this year most children have been good.

"Especially those who are helpful and go to bed the first time when asked," Santa said. "I watch for that admirable trait."

When all is said and done and the presents are safe underneath various Christmas trees, Santa starts preparing for the next year.

When asked why he gives presents, he said, "I think every little one has the answer to that in their heart."

Santa said all children know how good it feels to create a picture and then have their parents put it on the refrigerator. That is how Santa said he feels when giving presents to others.

"I get great enjoyment like they do," he said. "It's the magic of giving that I think is so wonderful."

With that Santa said his goodbye and left in order to finish last minute preparations for Christmas Eve when he will deliver presents to all good children with the help of his loyal reindeer.

Writer continues tour of 1940s Charlevoix

'Days gone by'

The 1940 Charlevoix the Beautiful directory has a wealth of information about the people and times of that era. It was complete with a map of the city streets, and all the listings of the population, making it a most interesting book to peruse.

The following people certainly made for colorful and memorable times. Charles and Pauline Hamlin lived at 302 Nettleton. Charlie was an insurance agent. Their children were Patricia and Thomas, who was my age. Ethel Hamlin was a widow (Henry) who lived at 203 Burns with her children, Helen May and Herbert. Nelle Hammond was a widow (Oakley) who lived at 209 E. Dixon with her daughter, Helen Jean. Luther and Irma Hannah and their son, William, lived at 112 E. Upright. Andrew Hansen owned the DX Service at 100 Antrim on the southwest corner of Antrim and State. He was a Studebaker car representative. He and his wife, Louisa, lived on Norwood Road, in the house directly across the road from the present Charlevoix Senior Center. His phone number was 7015-F2, which was the typical party line number. Phones that were other than party, were two and three digits. Their son, Bill, was a clerk at the Charlevoix Terminal Co., and lived on Norwood Road. Lillian was the chief operator at Michigan Bell Telephone Co., and lived at 801 Bridge.

Fred Hardy and wife Hilma, lived at 801 Grant. He was in the Coast Guard. Their children were Richard, David, Donald and Joyce. Jud Hardy was a carpenter and he and his wife, Edith, lived at 102 Green Street with their children. Lyla M., Lylas I., Kenneth and Richard. Barney Harrington and wife, Marie, lived at 104 W. Garfield with their daughter, Eleanor. He was a mason. Doris Harrington also lived there. Earl and Ann Harrington lived at 219 Antrim with their son, Thomas. Earl was a meat cutter. Thomas was in my grade at school. John and Daisy Harsha lived at 409 Michigan Avenue. Lillie Belle Hartwell was a widow (Thomas), and lived at 610 Norwood Road. Elmer (Pat) Hawley and wife, Esther, lived at 300 E. Dixon. He was a cashier at the Charlevoix County State Bank. Esther was a teacher in the Charlevoix Public Schools. Bertha Heise was a widow (William) and lived at 813 State. Charles and Clare Heise lived at 817 State Street, with their daughter, Joan. He was the owner of the Charlevoix Coal and Ice Co. He was also a city alderman. Clarence and Alice Heise lived at 821 State Street. Clarence was the Chief of Police. Clarence (Bud) Heise was a fisherman and lived at 218 W. Upright. Edward Heise and wife, Laura, lived at 104 Mason. He owned a plumbing, tinning and heating company. Their son, Edward C., lived there, also. Paul Heise lived at 218 W. Upright, as did Robert, who was a driver.

William and Carrie Heise lived at 311 Mason. He was a laborer. Their daughter, Ruth, and son, Glenn, also lived there. Glenn was a driver. Ilo and Virginia Helms lived at 105 Wood. He was a clerk at the A&P store. Their son was Norman. Bert Helms was a janitor at the court house. He and his wife, Clara, lived at 305 State. Charles Hendricksen and wife, Mary, lived at 310 Mason. He was a fisherman. Rasmus and Alga Hendricksen lived at 314 Mason. They were all neighbors of Dale when he was young.

Erwin (Sonny) Belly told the story about riding in the back seat of Ras' big green 1938 Oldsmobile with a group of fishermen heading for their tug that was stationed in Leland for the winter. The men were commercial fishermen, and worked with Ras. The Charlevoix harbor was frozen, and they couldn't get in or out of it. They got in the vicinity of the forty-fifth parallel marker, north of Elk Rapids. They came upon a school bus. The bus had "Caution School Bus" written on the back door. Sonny made the remark "Look! There's the Caution school bus. He said to Ras, "I wonder where Caution is." Ras answered him and said "It must be over east of here somewhere." Sonny enjoyed telling that story for years. He was in his glory telling a story.

Dallas Henry and his wife, Dorothy owned and operated the Henry D. Barber and Beauty Shop at 409 Bridge. They and their daughters, Donna and Jon, lived at 204 State Street. Donald Herrick and wife, Kathryn lived at 304 E. Dixon. He was the Charlevoix City Superintendent, and Secretary of the Charlevoix Board of Commerce. Their children were, Donald, Paula and Roxanne. Alonzo Hewitt was a carpenter, and lived at 213 W. Lincoln with his wife, Grace, and Emerel Howe, their grandson.

Anna Higman was reporter for the Charlevoix Courier. She lived at 109 E. Upright. William Higman was a carpenter and lived at 109 E. Upright. He was the father of Anna. Ernest Hiller was Vice President of the Charlevoix County State Bank, and Secretary-Treasurer of the Charlevoix Lumber Company, which he owned. He and his wife, Christine and daughter, Annabel, lived at 304 Antrim. James, their son, was driver for the company. Lee was a student at the time. Catherine Himebauch was a widow (Daniel), and lived at 107 W. Upright. Virgina Hoelzle was an English teacher at Charlevoix Schools and lived at 409 Antrim. The house at 409 Antrim was a boarding house where many of the single school teachers boarded. It was owned by Frank and Mary Bird. They called it the Bird's Nest. Dale remembers they all ate breakfast there.

Bernard and Bertha Hoffman and children, Duba Jean, Bernard Jr. and Ralph lived at 704 Sherman. He was a laborer. Ralph Hoffman lived at 307 W. Upright. He was a laborer, also. Theodore and Charlotte Hoffman and children, Ruth, Robert M., Shirley, Joan and James, lived at 208 W. Upright. He was a laborer. Patrick and Lena Holland and Vernice, lived at 318 Antrim. Elva Holm lived at Carpenter and State. Louis Holm lived at 210 1/2 Mason. His wife was Edith. Their son was Gene L. Albert and Coral Holmes made their home at 314 Clinton. Albert was an excellent stone and brick mason. On cold winter mornings, Dale was invited into their living room, where they had a big, beautiful hard coal burner stove. It was made so that the fire could be seen burning from all four sides. He would warm his hands, and then continue on his milk route. Alida Holmes was a teacher. Ivan and Beatrice Holmes lived at 208 Nichols. He owned the Model Home Laundry at 101 Clinton with Sam Sorensen.

Harry Hooker and wife, Rose, lived at 108-110 Antrim where Hookers Horses and Garage was located. This was on the State and Antrim corner where the Oleson Complex now stands. I remember the business there, and watching Charlevoix kids riding the horses through town to the paddock on the north side. It was a fenced in enclosure on the corner of Burns and Division streets. It was a busy place in the summer, where resort kids could ride the horses. The Hooker children were Harrison, Beverly, Charles and Harriet. Lucy Hooker also lived with them. She was a widow (Mark).

Neii Horniman and wife Jessie and daughter Carol Anne lived at 303 1/2 Petoskey. He was a clerk at Federal Surplus located at 112 Bridge. Adeline Hosler was a widow, (Alexander), who lived at 303 W. Lincoln with her daughters, Lucille and Betty. Wesley Howard and his wife, Annie, lived at 206 Sheridan. Charles and Averil, who was a clerk, lived there also. Joseph Howard was the manager at the Municipal Dock, and he and his wife, Rose, lived at 406 E. Dixon. Joe was always dressed in a double breasted full navy 1940 uniform, and looked very impressive, with a large cigar in his hand. Joe would invariably call Maxbauer's with an order at the last minute. They would jump in the truck and rush down, and many times, the gangplank was up, and they had to sling the cases across open water to the fellows on the boat to get them aboard. Ernest Howe was a painter. He and his wife, Clara, and children, Arland and Janice lived at 218 Mason.

Helen Howe was a widow (Robert). She and her children Donald and Richard lived at 105 E. Garfield. They later lived at 205 W. Hurlbut, next door to my home. I first went to the Baptist Church Sunday School with Donald, when I was 4 years old.

Henry and Amelia How lived at 215 Antrim. Jeralynne J. also lived there. Wilson and June Howe lived at 215 Antrim. Their children were Ruth Ann and Robert. Wilson was a laborer. Philip Howe and his wife, Elizabeth lived at 545 Petoskey Avenue.

Robert and Augusta Howe and their daughter, Maryellen, lived at 549 Palmer. He was in the Coast Guard. Esther was a receptionist for Dr. Fraley McMillan. Their children were Virginia Mae, Eugene and Esther Elaine. Eugene was in my class at one time in early elementary.

All of those who lived in Charlevoix in those years were interesting people, and I trust that you who resided here at that time will remember them.

Tips on staying healthy during this flu season

Influenza can be a serious disease and according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) complications from the flu cause up to 20,000 deaths annually, many among the elderly which could be prevented.

In fact, people with diabetes are three times more likely to die from the flu or pneumonia.

From November through April, the virus spreads causing fever, cough, chills, sore throat and head and muscle aches. Since the virus changes often, the vaccine is updated each year to increase its effectiveness. It takes about two weeks to become protected and the shot can be given along with other vaccines, including pneumococcal. The most likely side effect is a sore arm. Allergic (eggs) reactions are very rare, and the shot cannot give you the flu.

Get your flu shot if you: Are 65 years of age or older, have a chronic health condition such as diabetes, heart, lung or kidney disease, asthma, cancer, HIV/AIDS, will be at least three months pregnant during the flu season or are a health care worker.

These steps may help prevent the spread of respiratory illnesses like the flu:

- Cover your mouth and nose with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. Throw the tissue away after you use it. Wash your hands often with soap and water, especially after you cough or sneeze. If you are not near water, use an alcohol based hand cleaner. Stay away from people who are sick as much as you can.
- If you have the flu, stay home from work or school. Do not go near other people so that you don't make them sick, too.
- Try not to touch your eyes, nose, or mouth. Germs often spread this way.

Remember: A shot anytime during the flu season can still protect you. Check with your physician or your local health department of availability of the flu vaccine.

Donald Herrick and wife, Kathryn lived at 304 E. Dixon. He was the Charlevoix City Superintendent, and Secretary of the Charlevoix Board of Commerce. Their children were, Donald, Paula and Roxanne. Alonzo Hewitt was a carpenter, and lived at 213 W. Lincoln with his wife, Grace, and Emerel Howe, their grandson.

Anna Higman was reporter for the Charlevoix Courier. She lived at 109 E. Upright. William Higman was a carpenter and lived at 109 E. Upright. He was the father of Anna. Ernest Hiller was Vice President of the Charlevoix County State Bank, and Secretary-Treasurer of the Charlevoix Lumber Company, which he owned. He and his wife, Christine and daughter, Annabel, lived at 304 Antrim. James, their son, was driver for the company. Lee was a student at the time. Catherine Himebauch was a widow (Daniel), and lived at 107 W. Upright. Virgina Hoelzle was an English teacher at Charlevoix Schools and lived at 409 Antrim. The house at 409 Antrim was a boarding house where many of the single school teachers boarded. It was owned by Frank and Mary Bird. They called it the Bird's Nest. Dale remembers they all ate breakfast there.

Bernard and Bertha Hoffman and children, Duba Jean, Bernard Jr. and Ralph lived at 704 Sherman. He was a laborer. Ralph Hoffman lived at 307 W. Upright. He was a laborer, also. Theodore and Charlotte Hoffman and children, Ruth, Robert M., Shirley, Joan and James, lived at 208 W. Upright. He was a laborer. Patrick and Lena Holland and Vernice, lived at 318 Antrim. Elva Holm lived at Carpenter and State. Louis Holm lived at 210 1/2 Mason. His wife was Edith. Their son was Gene L. Albert and Coral Holmes made their home at 314 Clinton. Albert was an excellent stone and brick mason. On cold winter mornings, Dale was invited into their living room, where they had a big, beautiful hard coal burner stove. It was made so that the fire could be seen burning from all four sides. He would warm his hands, and then continue on his milk route. Alida Holmes was a teacher. Ivan and Beatrice Holmes lived at 208 Nichols. He owned the Model Home Laundry at 101 Clinton with Sam Sorensen.

Harry Hooker and wife, Rose, lived at 108-110 Antrim where Hookers Horses and Garage was located. This was on the State and Antrim corner where the Oleson Complex now stands. I remember the business there, and watching Charlevoix kids riding the horses through town to the paddock on the north side. It was a fenced in enclosure on the corner of Burns and Division streets. It was a busy place in the summer, where resort kids could ride the horses. The Hooker children were Harrison, Beverly, Charles and Harriet. Lucy Hooker also lived with them. She was a widow (Mark).

Neil Horniman and wife Jessie and daughter Carol Anne lived at 303 1/2 Petoskey. He was a clerk at Federal Surplus located at 112 Bridge. Adeline Hosler was a widow, (Alexander), who lived at 303 W. Lincoln with her daughters, Lucille and Betty. Wesley Howard and his wife, Annie, lived at 206 Sheridan. Charles and Averil, who was a clerk, lived there also. Joseph Howard was the manager at the Municipal Dock, and he and his wife, Rose, lived at 406 E. Dixon. Joe was always dressed in a double breasted full navy 1940 uniform, and looked very impressive, with a large cigar in his hand. Joe would invariably call Maxbauer's with an order at the last minute. They would jump in the truck and rush down, and many times, the gangplank was up, and they had to sling the cases across open water to the fellows on the boat to get them aboard. Ernest Howe was a painter. He and his wife, Clara, and children, Arland and Janice lived at 218 Mason.

Helen Howe was a widow (Robert). She and her children Donald and Richard lived at 105 E. Garfield. They later lived at 205 W. Hurlbut, next door to my home. I first went to the Baptist Church Sunday School with Donald, when I was 4 years old.

Henry and Amelia How lived at 215 Antrim. Jeralynne J. also lived there. Wilson and June Howe lived at 215 Antrim. Their children were Ruth Ann and Robert. Wilson was a laborer. Philip Howe and his wife, Elizabeth lived at 545 Petoskey Avenue.

Robert and Augusta Howe and their daughter, Maryellen, lived at 549 Palmer. He was in the Coast Guard. Esther was a receptionist for Dr. Fraley McMillan. Their children were Virginia Mac, Eugene and Esther Elaine. Eugene was in my class at one time in early elementary.

All of those who lived in Charlevoix in those years were interesting people, and I trust that you who resided here at that time will remember them.

Tips on staying healthy during this flu season

Influenza can be a serious disease and according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) complications from the flu cause up to 20,000 deaths annually, many among the elderly which could be prevented.

In fact, people with diabetes are three times more likely to die from the flu or pneumonia.

From November through April, the virus spreads causing fever, cough, chills, sore throat and head and muscle aches. Since the virus changes often, the vaccine is updated each year to increase its effectiveness. It takes about two weeks to become protected and the shot can be given along with other vaccines, including pneumococcal. The most likely side effect is a sore arm. Allergic (eggs) reactions are very rare, and the shot cannot give you the flu.

Get your flu shot if you: Are 65 years of age or older, have a chronic health condition such as diabetes, heart, lung or kidney disease, asthma, cancer, HIV/AIDS, will be at least three months pregnant during the flu season or are a health care worker.

These steps may help prevent the spread of respiratory illnesses like the flu:

- Cover your mouth and nose with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. Throw the tissue away after you use it. Wash your hands often with soap and water, especially after you cough or sneeze. If you are not near water, use an alcohol based hand cleaner. Stay away from people who are sick as much as you can.
- If you have the flu, stay home from work or school. Do not go near other people so that you don't make them sick, too.
- Try not to touch your eyes, nose, or mouth. Germs often spread this way.

Remember: A shot anytime during the flu season can still protect you. Check with your physician or your local health department of availability of the flu vaccine.

Basketball team to have different look

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

The Charlevoix High School basketball team will look a little different this year, according to coach Keith Haske.

After coming off of a very successful season last year — the team was second in the state finals — Haske lost many of his tall players to graduation. This year he finds himself with a slightly smaller team in height, but they make up for it with their quickness.

"This year we are going to be more quick and more dependent on the perimeter game," Haske said.

He said his players are tenacious and strong, which is their strong suit. However, he said their size is a weakness, so he will have to find ways to overcome it when they face larger teams.

This year's team is:

Jared Hunt, one of the returning players from last year. Haske said this 6 foot, 1 inch player does a great job on both ends of the court.

Cody Crain, a three year varsity player. Haske said he is showing tremendous improvement from last year.

Ben Bergmann, another three year varsity player. Haske said he has some great athletic abilities and has jumped up a notch this year.

Jake Teuscher, the last of the famed Teuscher boys. Haske said his game has stepped up from last year. He is a very tough kid, who really mixes it up in the paint.

Eddie Waldron, a 6 foot, 3 inch junior. Waldron is "pretty rugged," Haske said. He is expected to get better and better as the season progresses.

Phil Steen, another returning player. Haske said he has stepped up from last year. He has great athletic abilities and is a great shot blocker.

Sparky Nitchman, a senior in the perimeter spot. Haske expects him to make more of a contribution this year. He added he is very quick.

Matt Kautz, a sophomore. Haske also expects him to make big contributions to the team this year.

Tyler Haske, a sophomore. Haske said he handles the ball very well and is one of the best passers on the team.

Derek Friske, a 6 foot, 3 inch sophomore. Haske said this big guy plays well in the paint and will get tougher through the year.

Michael Wojan, the guts of the team. Haske said he is a very hard worker and a great team player. He added he loves having him on the team.

Lastly is the first freshman Haske has ever called up to the varsity team, Dustin Dibble. Haske said he is a shooting guard that is a pretty talented player. He is an excellent shooter, ball handler and an all around great kid.

As for the league, Haske said the Rayders are not the favorites.

"We will be in the mix hopefully," he said.

Haske will be looking out for St. Francis, Kalkaska and Harbor Springs, all very good schools.

Volleyball team looking strong this year

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

While the Charlevoix varsity volleyball team has not had many practices yet, coach Liz Grunch is confident they will do well this season.

Grunch said while she has a pretty young team — out of 11 total players, three are juniors and four are sophomores — the Rayders are coming off of a strong season last year. Last year, the girls' volleyball team won the league championship and were the district champion.

"We will be very competitive in the league and as time goes by we will get stronger and better," she said.

Grunch has three key players this year. First is Theresa Martin, who did not get a lot of time last year due to injuries, but Grunch believes this will be her year to shine.

Second is Kari Way. Way plays on the left side of the court and is known as a power hitter.

Third is Betsey Dennis. Dennis is a great all-around player and a great passer.

Grunch also is expecting strong plays from many other players on the team.

Sophomore setter Zita Anderson is one of those. Due to her strong athletic abilities, Grunch feels she will be a very good setter.

"Early on it will be a struggle, but she is an athlete, she will pick up on it quickly," she said.

Another strong player will be Sally Haselschwardt, who will be playing on the right side of the court. Grunch said she has pretty good power and this is her second year on varsity.

Sonya Plude will also be a go-to person on the court. Grunch said she is working hard to gain a starting position in the back row. She is a great server and a smart defensive player.

Next up is Emily Heffling. Heffling was brought up as a defensive specialist. She is quick, can get to the ball and has the potential to be a great passer.

Bethany Pearson and Ashlie Bradley will be playing in the middle of the court. Grunch said both girls are pretty tall and have a lot of athletic abilities.

Lastly is Genevieve Kochanny and Liz Jadwin. Grunch said these two girls have a lot of desire to do well this year.

Grunch lost four girls from last year's team to graduation.

Ski team young but filled with experience

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix ski team coach Sue Miller said her team may be young, but it is experienced.

The team has only three senior girls and one senior boy, out of 29 on the team.

"We have a lot of freshmen, but a lot of them came from the middle school program (in East Jordan). And most of mine from Charlevoix were on the team last year," Miller said.

The Charlevoix ski team is composed of students from Charlevoix High School and students from East Jordan High School. At the time of the interview for this story, the team had not had a practice on the mountains yet.

Miller also said she has some returning lettermen who should be pretty good this year.

"They will be consistent and grouped in the results," Miller said.

"As I discussed with them in looking at the year, the end result our goal is to stay consistent and work for that ultimate goal (state finals)."

She added, "We may be young, but we have a strong chance of reaching that final facet."

Miller said the team is committed to this goal and they have been working together wonderfully, which adds to the team's strength.

"With the experience they bring and being such a great group of kids, who have a love of the sport, that is their strengths," Miller said.

The weakness is that many of them have not competed at the high school level before. This means they will be taking part in different meets than what they are used to.

In middle school, the meets are made up of only one event, the giant slalom. However, in high school, the meets are composed of the giant slalom and the slalom.

As for the competition this year, Miller said many of the strong teams from the past have lost their strong skiers to graduation last year. So, this year, many of those formerly strong teams are facing a rebuilding year.

"We might have that extra edge...," Miller said.

However, she stopped short of making any predictions.

"I don't want to jinx it," she said.

Wrestling team looks better than ever

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

According to Charlevoix wrestling coach Craig Golovich, the team is looking real good this year.

"We have all of our weights full for the first time in years," he said.

On top of that, all of his wrestlers are performing quite well.

"The program is looking up. It is the best I have seen in years," he said.

In fact, as of last week, the Rayder wrestling team has only had one loss to St. Ignace on a tie-breaker. Individually, while Golovich was shy about naming one standout grappler about the rest, he mentioned Nick Gotshall has only had one loss so far.

"As a team they are doing great," he said.

The only problem the team is facing this year, Golovich said, is injuries. This year, three of his juniors could not come out for the team due to injuries.

"As long as we stay healthy we should do well," he said.

This year's wrestling team is also very young, which could mean good things for the future of the program. With younger wrestlers, more return for following years, thus bringing more experience to the team.

The only senior on the team is Jaimen Waha. Juniors are Jed Daman, Shannon Gillespie, Jeff Golovich, Drew Marsh and Matt Novotny. Sophomores are Nick Gotshall, Spencer Hankins, Drew Klooster, Pat Russell and Nathan Tripplehorn. Freshmen are Chris Bartling, Clinton Longley, R.J. Moore and Woody Nitchman.

The next home meet for the Charlevoix wrestlers is at 6 p.m., Jan. 13. The popular Charlevoix tournament is at 10 a.m., Jan. 22 with nine schools attending.

Golovich said what makes his tournament so popular is that only take downs are counted. The guy with the most take downs wins.

"We used to do this in the 70s and early 80s. The kids really like it," Golovich said.

Because of this, a lot of schools have wanted to take part in it. Last year, Golovich had five schools attend and this year he expanded it to nine.

As for how he believes the team will finish overall, Golovich pointed out most of the schools in the district are very strong.

"I am not making any predictions. They are all very tough," he said.

Senate trip

2004 was a busy year

By COURTNEY E. PACE

The Top 10 stories of 2004 feature the mishaps, debates and decisions that occurred in Charlevoix.

Wal-Mart

Wal-Mart ended its push to build a 155,800 square foot supercenter in Charlevoix Township. The project was to be built on the south side of Charlevoix Township near the intersection of Marion Center Road and US-31.

Area residents against a Wal-Mart in the area formed the group This Is Our Town, Inc. The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority also did not support a Wal-Mart.

Aside from public resistance, the proposed site had some problems including a need to vacate Stover Road, wetlands issues and traffic flow concerns. The city of Charlevoix did not seem favorable to providing the site with sewer and electrical services.

VFW seeking help in replacing items

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1153 has been a staple in the community and will continue to be even though it has been physically destroyed by a fire.

Charlie Butcher, commander of Post 1153, said the insurance will only cover some of the costs of the fire and the rest have to be generated. VFW Post 1153 is currently accepting any donations.

"We will rebuild," he said.

The building that had been the home of Post 1153 since 1953 was lost during a fire that started around 2 a.m. on Dec. 10.

Many thought that arson might have been a factor due to the vandalism that occurred during the night between Nov. 18 and Nov. 19, when four rocks were thrown through two different windows. However, Spl./Sgt. Jerry Briolat of the Fire Investigation Unit of the Michigan Department of State Police said at the time the fire looked to be accidental.

He said in a previous interview that the cause of the fire was undetermined, but one of the highest probabilities was an electrical failure.

VFW Post 1153 received its charter on June 16, 1937 and has continuously served the community. The building that became

In a story in last week's special winter sports supplement, that was included in the Charlevoix Courier, a story about the Charlevoix boys' basketball team left out two players. First, Chris Golski, who is on injured reserve, should have been included. Second, Matt Teuscher should have heen included. He is the youngest of the Teuscher boys and coach Keith Haske said he is a perimeter player who is just coming into his own.

Wiesner proposing DDA extension for marina plan

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Who: Downtown Development Authority
What it is: A discussion on extending its life to pay for the Charlevoix marina and park plan
When: 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, today
Where: City hall

Downtown property owners may find themselves paying taxes to the Downtown Development Authority for longer than they had originally anticipated.

City Manager Michael Wiesner said he has recommended to the DDA that they update their Development Plan and Tax Increment Financing Plan to incorporate the marina project. This would also allow the DDA more time to consider bonds instead of rushing to get them in before the 2013 deadline.

In 2013, the DDA's financing plan will come to an end, but the marina project will require a 20 year time period to repay the bonds used to finance the million dollar project.

The DDA is footing the bill for some of the project and will repay the bonds over the 20 year period. By extending the financing plan, Wiesner said the DDA can reconsider the whole plan and not have to worry about bond rates.

Wiesner said the city didn't look closely, but the marina may not qualify under the current DDA plan. However, he said the current finance plan that will expire in 2013 definitely wouldn't allow for a 20 year bond sale.

Downtown property owners would be expected to keep paying a tax until about 2024 or 2025, Wiesner said.

Wiesner said whether the DDA was there or not, the downtown property owners would still be paying the 1.3 mills required for operations.

By extending the DDA's finance plan, Wiesner said it will only extend the amount of time the DDA can get taxes from property owners but will not increase the current tax rate.

The 1.3 mills generated from the downtown property owners covers attorney fees for research on downtown and other costs. The captured money the DDA takes in is only used for construction purposes and can't be used for anything else.

Wiesner said he didn't have the exact figures, but about five percent of the money collected by the DDA comes from downtown property owners and about 95 percent comes from taxes collected on downtown properties before it's shared between other entities such as the Charlevoix Public Schools.

The authority will meet at 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, today, in the city hall chambers at Charlevoix City Hall.

Historical society to add old English twist to party

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Instead of their traditional New Year's Eve party, the Charlevoix Historical Society is changing things up and bringing in 2005 in the spirit of Shakespeare.

On Jan. 5, the Charlevoix Historical Society, the Charlevoix Area Garden Club and the Charlevoix Evening Garden Club will sponsor a Twelfth Night Party at the Depot.

The event is a fund-raiser to raise money for the maintenance and continued expansion of the Depot Heritage Garden.

Dave Miles, co-director of the Harsha House Museum, said interest in the New Year's Eve party had waned over the years and it was time to try something new.

Entrance to the Twelfth Night Party is $40 per person and will cover a film, dinner and dancing. Miles said a private showing of the film version of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" will start at 6 p.m. at Charlevoix Cinema III.

After the film, the party will then gather at 8 p.m. at the Depot where patrons can dine on various hors d'oeuvres, tomato basil soup, sandwiches, King's Cake, coffee, tea and wassail. Everyone attending their own event are to bring a beverage of their choice.

Music will fill the night air and dancing will occur in the Old English tradition.

Miles said costumes and masks are optional, but add to the spirit of the celebration. They also bring to life the world of Shakespearean characters and events.

To attend the party, send checks to the Charlevoix Historical Society, P.O. Box 525, Charlevoix, Mich., 49720.

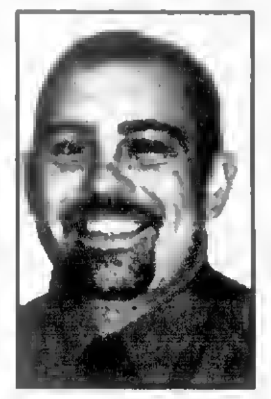
Writer takes a winter boat ride to the island



Jeremy McBain

'Just a thought'

Winter is officially here in Charlevoix once again.

The changing of the seasons in Charlevoix does not just mean the weather changes, but the sights and sounds of the community change as well. With it comes, snow-covered woods, strange ice mounds near the lakes created by the waves, bundled up residents shuffling through the snow to their home or business, slowly moving vehicles patiently traveling on slick roads, snowmobilers speeding gleefully across the fields and trails (hopefully not the yards) and many other sights.

Missing from our world are the throngs of shorts-wearing tourists, beaches filled with bathers, monstrous yachts filling up Round Lake, Florida license plates on vehicles and the Beaver Island ferry.

It is that last one that intrigues me most. It has fascinated me for the entire five years that I have been here. Like the birds that travel south for the winter and the animals that go into hibernation, the Beaver Island ferry makes its last trip of the year to sleep in its island harbor home. Like clockwork, once the snow starts flying in December, the ferry starts becoming a less familiar sight in Round Lake. Then, before we realize, it makes its final trek.

I always wondered what it would be like to ride this ferry during its final trek across. I have been on it many times during the summer, when it is filled with laughing tourist families and their pets. I love sitting on the upper deck in the sun or walking to the front of the ferry to feel the wind in my face as it sails across the big lake.

But I have never experienced it after the season. But, recently, I got a chance to get a taste of that.

A good friend who is a native of the island, and is now living in Washington State, recently came home to give a premier showing of a documentary he made on the island's EMS situation. It seems it is very difficult to get a patient off of the island to an emergency room in a hurry and the EMS is in need of an air ambulance (see the Charlevoix Courier last week for the full story).

I thought this movie would make an interesting story and the timing of his visit allowed my to try something I have always wanted to try — ride the ferry in the off season. Actually it was the third to the last ferry of the season, so I figured this would be a good chance to see what the differences are compared to winter.

Think about this. The ferry is the easiest transportation to the island. It is large enough to bring a couple hundred people over, as well as vehicles and plenty of supplies, such as groceries and equipment. When the ferry is not running, people must rely on airplanes to and from the island.

The airplanes cannot haul vehicles and they cannot haul large amounts of supplies.

So, when the ferry is not running, Beaver Island is basically on its own. Which, if you are a business on the island that must ship in goods such as food, beverages or even buildings supplies, it makes it important to get all of the items you need for the winter before that last ferry sails.

Upon arriving to the ferry dock in Charlevoix I saw this very thought in action. The dock was loaded with supplies of all sorts destined for the island and dock workers raced around on fork-lifts carrying pallets filled with these supplies into the ship.

What was missing was a large group of people patiently waiting to board the ship. Instead, there were a few people — about 15 — scattered about. They were mostly college kids heading home for the holiday break.

Once on the ship, I noticed the atmosphere was a little different. The ferry was quiet. Most of the passengers immediately went to sleep on the benches in the lower decks, no one — with the exception of one man with a dog — ventured onto the upper open decks.

Of course, I had to venture out onto those decks. In the summer I enjoyed catching some rays and feeling the breeze. Now, as soon as I walked out the door to the open decks, I was blasted with cold lake winds and a slippery ice-covered deck. I felt it would not be a good idea to submit myself to the cold of the open waters very long, so I headed back inside.

Once inside I ventured up to the pilot house and asked to speak to the captain. Inside the pilot house, I found the entire crew huddled together over a couple of pizzas and laughing about the journalist they had in their midst.

According to the captain, Mike Green, sailing the ferry in winter does have its challenges, such as the occasional storm that pops up, in addition to the cold conditions workers face. But, it is pretty quiet for the most part.

Upon arriving on the island, a couple of people could be seen standing near the snow-covered dock waiting for a passenger on the ship. The ferry quietly pulled up as the passengers awoke from their slumber, gathered their gear and trudged out into the cold of the island in winter.

Soon, the ferry would be joining them on the island. Soon the ferry would be in its slumber, blanketed in snow, on a bed of icy water. Perhaps it is dreaming of another warm summer, with its decks packed with laughing families traveling to Michigan's Emerald Isle.

Area snow a delight to many winter visitors

'Ear to the ground'

One of my neighbors insists that there are only two seasons in Charlevoix: winter and visitors.

Fortunately, for both residents and visitors, there is some overlap of the seasons.

The Christmas visitors have mostly left by now, but their chance to see Charlevoix during this remarkably beautiful season persists in our memory. The parts of the family that come here around Christmas are from far more urban places in our nation. One daughter comes from Minneapolis and the other brings her two daughters from the Chicago area.

Our usual winter white blanket may be to us an impediment to transportation and travel, but to them it has almost alien air. Of course it snows in Minneapolis and in Chicago, but this is different. You cannot safely eat the snow in either of those places, but here there are whole yards full of genuinely unsullied, probably eatable snow.

"Don't eat the yellow snow" was good advice when my mother-in-law pronounced it to her children 60 years ago, and it is still good advice. Most of our snow at least looks unsullied. I am sure that is has sprinkled sparsely over it a certain amount of very fine cement dust, but there is not enough to be noticed without a microscope, and not enough to affect its taste.

Take a look at snow with new eyes

KNUTSON

The two grandchildren from Chicago find sufficient joy in our local snow to remind me how much fun it was at their age to make the first tracks in a place that gave every indication of never being visited before. Almost every day brings a completely new layer of never before disturbed snow to make more first tracks in — tracks that will likely be gone by the next day. The "here today and gone tomorrow" nature of the tracks provides us with a good visual metaphor for the importance and span of our lives here on earth.

I grew up on the western edge of Minnesota in a place with few trees and almost no hills steep enough to make a sledding run. I have often told people that until I left home at about 18 years, I had no idea that snow actually fell. The only snow I had seen falling was the little bits of white inside the ball of a snow globe. Where I lived the snow seemed to always move horizontally with the wind and there was always wind.

In Charlevoix our home is protected from the west and northwest winds off the lake by an intervening sand dune and our snow genuinely falls. If there are no winds from the south after an overnight lake effect, 4 inches of snow can stand precariously on even the smallest horizontal branch and the round top of the barbecue grill can hold an 18-inch snow cap for weeks.

It is always good to see some familiar place with new eyes and our winter visitors almost demand that we do that. We live in a place of surpassing beauty and not all of that beauty centers around liquid water.

See the snow with new eyes and shovel it with a song in your heart. Remember that the snow is also a visitor.

Alano Club could use your help

Editor:

This Christmas, I am grateful for the Charlevoix Serenity House and its original donor and the board members of the Alano Club who manage it.

Inside the Serenity House, at 106 Mason Street, home of the Alano Club, is a framed poster. It reads:

"Welcome To The Charlevoix Alano Club.

"The Alano Club is not affiliated with Alcoholics Anonymous or any other self help group. Our primary purpose is to provide a drug and alcohol-free environment for all persons, young and old.

"The club is supported through donations and membership dues. You need not be a member to be welcome here, but we most happily accept anyone into membership for a modest ($5) monthly dues.

"Meetings such as AA that are held on these premises do so independently of the Alano Club for a rental and expense fee."

For family and friends, the doors of the Alano Club have been open to offer literature and books, a friendly smile, a listening ear, encouragement and a gathering place for those in recovery and for their loved ones.

The Alano Club Board has insured that there is a dependable, supportive meeting place for 12 step groups. Anyone who has known the loneliness, despair and helplessness of trying to deal with the problems of addiction (alcoholism, drug dependency, overeating, gambling) alone, understands how important a service to the community the Alano Club has provided.

This season, support a local charity that provides a vital service to this community. All donations the Alano Club are tax deductible.

Thank you sheriff

Editor:

For the third year since moving to Charlevoix, and becoming a widow, I have enjoyed the privilege of having the leaves raked in my yard, with the supervision of a deputy sheriff and his crew of polite, pleasant young men.

It is great for the seniors to be given this and other services from the tax money that they have contributed throughout the years.

Gift of life

Editor:

Recently, I gave a Christmas party at the Charlevoix Country Club for some of my friends.

In the spirit of Christmas, the most wonderful gift of giving at this party was....the gift of life! Our Sheriff George Lasater and Under Sheriff Don Schneider noticed Jack Begrow's wife, Barbara, choking on a piece of meat.

She had completely stopped breathing and there would have been no time to have the rescue squad or a paramedic attend to her. Both gentlemen (Lasater and Schneider) immediately went to her aid, as she was nearly unconscious. Her rescuers were finally able to dislodge the blockage and saved her life, for she surely would have been gone. Both men returned to their dinner seats as though nothing had happened and refused any accolades.

So these two wonderful, dedicated, Charlevoix public servants did it again. They brought to our party one of the true meanings of Christmas, and that is, the willingness to help others and ask for nothing in return.

God bless you George and Don.
Merry Christmas to all!

Great job

Editor:

A Big Thank You To The Mt. McSauba Staff.

Bo Boss, Jim Boss, Chuck Miere and the whole staff, should be commended for a great job. Mt. McSauba is in super shape and was open before Christmas. The staff spent many hours getting the hills ready.

They continue to upgrade by adding a new snowmaking tower on the back of the hill. All the hours spent making snow set a solid foundation, and the addition of last weeks snowfall has made the conditions incredible. On behalf of all the kids and adults who enjoy the hills.

Thank You.

How did it happen?

Editor:

Much has been written about the hoped for recovery of funds which were evidently misdirected by the city.

I have not seen an explanation of how this happened. Are there not checks and balances? Have I missed something?

Lowell Blossom
Charlevoix

(Editor's response: The explanation given has been that the city accidentally wrote a check to just CCMS when it should have written a check to both CCMS and CCMS's insurance company United Fire and Casualty. This check was approved by the city treasurer Rick Brandi. Brandi said, at the time, he did not realize that both companies had to be on the check.)

Arts center to host Lily Chou

Crooked Tree Arts Center will host pianist Lily Chou in concert at 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 14 in the Ross Stoakes Theatre.

Chou has been many things in her life, mother, musician, missionary and, earlier this year, the first female minister at Smith Chapel United Methodist Church in Mount Olive, N.C.

Chou and her sister, Irene, happened to stop by the Crooked Tree Arts Center this past summer and were regaled with all that executive director Dale Hull had to say about the activities here. They also fell in love with Petoskey, calling it the "Beverly Hills of Michigan."

They hope to retire to Petoskey within a few years.

Chou learned to play the piano as a small child, taking lessons until she was 10 years old, then playing on her own until she came to the United States for college.

She is a graduate of Juilliard and has performed in the Tchaikowksy International Competition in Moscow in 1986, the Schevernigen International Competition in the Netherlands in 1989 and in Tchaikowsky and Rachmaninoff Halls in Russia. She's performed with orchestras from the Urals to Kazhakstan; with nine orchestras in China, Salzburg and the United States.

Tickets for the performance are $15 each and can be purchased at the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

Guild gives $25,000 to Boyne rehab center

Ruth Waters, current president of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild announced recently that the Guild members made a $25,000 pledge at the December meeting, in support of the remodeling and expansion project to take place at Boyne Rehabilitation Center.

"We believe the work being done at Boyne Rehabilitation for women's health problems is very important and we want to help insure that no one has to wait for therapy," Waters said.

A plaque will be placed in the new pediatric room at Boyne Rehabilitation when construction is completed.

Before making the pledge, Guild members discussed the contribution of the many Boyne City residents including Jean Korthase, Lois Ciesielski, Eleanor Sutliff, Pat Hayden Cozier, Harriet Housel, Irene Fall, Inez Noble, Anneke Radar, Chuck Davis, Yvonne Pluister, recently deceased Elinor Dubin, and others who have spent time volunteering for the hospital. These volunteers and others donated their time either at the Rehabilitation Center or Charlevoix Area Hospital and many continue to do so.

"We are very grateful to the many Boyne City residents who have so generously donated their time," said Kathy Johnson, Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation Director.

"This is a wonderful gift from the Guild, and it honors volunteers from throughout the area and what they have done for us. The Guild continues to be a major supporter of the hospital, not only in all the tasks they willingly perform, but in the level of financial support they provide."

In addition to making a pledge in support of the Boyne Rehabilitation Center, new Guild officers were elected for the 2005/2006 term.

Louise Hilligan was elected president; Christine Unbehaun, vice president; Anne Marie Barnes, secretary and Dee Vincent will return as treasurer.

Current president Ruth Waters, who will step down as president following the installation of officers in January, will continue as manager of the Gift Shop. The Guild, which celebrated its fiftieth anniversary this year, has donated more than a quarter of a million dollars to the hospital for equipment and expansion and donated thousands of hours volunteering at Charlevoix Area Hospital, Boyne Medical Center and Boyne Rehabilitation Center. Each year more than 200 volunteers give generously of their time in support of Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Committee to look at services

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix City Mayor Norman Carlson is proposing a citizens committee that will look at the current services in Charlevoix and what changes need to be made.

Carlson talked about this committee at the Dec. 20 city council meeting. Some in the audience had concerns that this committee would waste money on a consultant and its purpose would be to find services to cut in order to raise city revenues.

"This is not necessarily to save money (by cutting services) hut to try to make some of the services better," he said. "We are not looking at cutting services, we are just going to look at services to see if they need any changes."

Charlevoix City Manager Mike Weisner did say the revenue stream for the city was not getting better and the city has to routinely transfer about $100,000 from the infrastructure fund to stabilize the general fund.

Weisner suggested allowing city staff time to gather information on city services, such as what is provided and comparisons to other communities.

"The outcome (of the committee) I see them coming with is potential service elimination, can we do the service cheaper and are there any revenue enhancements," he said.

Wiesner said it would take the staff at least three to four months to gather all of this information.

And, Wiesner suggested a consultant to help the committee look over the information and double-check the work compield by city staff.

"The consultant is only there if there is a credibility problem with my staff," he said.

However, some balked at the city paying for a consultant, saying the city does not need a consultant for every project .

Former Charlevoix Mayor and resident Gabe Campbell said, "I don't have any problem with streamlining our services, but I sure do have a problem with getting a consultant to tell us what we want."

Campbell suggested cutting out the consultant from this project.

Carlson said the consultant helps provide a system of checks and balances for the

A winter pastime

With the coming of winter, some streets in Charlevoix are too covered with snow and too steep to bother plowing, such as a section of Grant Street, near Hurlbut Street. But, this means sledders have a great place to play. Here, Priya Phasin, 5, of Detroit (on right) and Clayton Mitchell, 12, of Charlevoix slide down the Grant Street hill.

Mount McSauba open for business

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

Mt. McSauba ski hill opened before its targeted date, which was Sunday, on Christmas Eve, just in time to provide winter fun for the holidays.

Ike Boss, recreational director for the city, said the ski hill couldn't make snow earlier this year because of a lack of water.

Last year the ski hill opened on Dec. 21, but a lack of snow fall and water caused this year's opening to be delayed.

Boss said the resort has relied upon a three inch waterline with two booster pumps to help create snow when the weather hasn't yet provided it. More water was desired, but there wasn't a way to get the water to the resort in time to open early for the season.

"There wasn't a way of doing it that quick," he said.

However, Mother Nature and the northern Michigan temperature helped provide a fresh blanket of snow to cover the hills and draw people to the slopes.

Boss said there aren't any big festivals going on at Mt. McSauba, but there are group ski lessons for children that are starting the second week of January. He said forms can be picked up at Mt. McSauba Ski Lodge.

When the doors opened on Dec. 24, Boss said the amount of people that came was just right.

"We weren't swamped," he said.

That changed on Dec. 26 and Dec. 27 when many people, especially those visiting Charlevoix over the holidays, came out to make use of the abundance of snow.

"The biggest week is Christmas and New Year's," Boss said.

In addition to the downhill runs, the cross country trails at Mt. McSauba are in good shape, Boss said.

"A lot of people are on them more than in past years," he said.

Mt. McSauba also offers snowshoe rentals along with snowblades, snowboards, cross country skis and downhill skis.

"We have a lot of stuff out here now," he said.

The slopes are open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily, but are closed on New Year's Day.

Starting Jan. 3, Boss said Mt. McSauba is open from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. The slopes are open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sundays.

For more information call Mt. McSauba at 547-3267.

work submitted by city staff to the committee.

"We wanted to make sure the citizens committee felt comfortable with the numbers," he said.

Carlson added city staff will not be hiring this consultant. A consultant will he used if the committee feels it is needed.

Wiesner added, "We would recommend to the committee to check us."

The proposed citizen's committee would be made up of two residents appointed by each council memher from their respective wards. The mayor would be able to appoint three additional residents to the committee and three student representatives.

Carlson said he is considering forming the committee at the end of February or early March.

"The first meeting will not happen until all of the information is gathered," he said.

A person claiming an interest in a parcel of property set forth in the petition for foreclosure, who desires to contest that petition, must file written objections with the clerk of the circuit court and serve those objections on the State of Michigan, the Foreclosing Governmental Unit. The docket number of the petition is 04-386-20-CZ.

There is no procedure for purchasing these parcels from the Foreclosing Governmental Unit at this point in the foreclosure proceedings. Those parcels that are foreclosed and not redeemed may become available at public auction in July, September, and November of 2005. These parcels remain the property of their current owner until redemption rights have expired. No party should make any attempt to inspect or enter upon these parcels assuming them to be for sale. This may constitute trespassing and subject the offender to criminal prosecution. The street address of the parcels listed is based on local records and is not guaranteed to be the actual location of the property.

Timms: $1.5 million for building too much

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

Charlevoix City Council Member Bob Timms thinks the city is wasting money on a new building at the Charlevoix Municipal Airport for snow equipment.

The $1.55 million proposed building will be paid for with grants and will house various snow removal equipment at the airport, such as snow plows, loaders and sweepers. Timms questioned the estimated cost that was created by the designer Mead and Hunt of Lansing.

"I think it is quite a boondoggle with $1.5 million for whistles and bells. I think it is a misappropriation of tax dollars," he said. "I am afraid I cannot be a part of this."

However, a majority of the council did not agree.

A motion instructing city staff to move forward on this project and obtain the necessary grants passed four to two at the Dec. 20 council meeting.

Timms and council member Karen Campbell voted against it.

According to estimates by Mead and Hunt, the proposed building will have a total space of 8,223 square feet. Of this space, 5,490 will be for vehicle storage; 1,200 will be for material storage; 998 will be support areas (such as a supervisor's office and lunch room); and 535 will be for special equipment. In a project breakdown to the city, Mead and Hunt said the recommended building for this type of storage would be between 9,050 and 12,820 square feet.

Charlevoix City Council Member Bill Haggard said, "This is much more than a pole building."

Which caused Council Member Shirley Gibson to respond, "This looks more like a new terminal."

Charlevoix City Manager Mike Wiesner said the city wants a quality building that will last throughout the years, hence the cost.

"The sizing was really set by the consultants (Mead and Hunt) based on FAA requirements," he said.

As for the cost, Wiesner said most of it will be used for sitework, saying only about $800,000 of the total cost is for the actual building.

It was pointed out by council member Sherman Chamberlain that most of the money being used for this project, 97 percent, will come from grants that the city will be pursuing.

"So, we will pay about $140,000 for the building," he said.

But, Timms was not impressed and said the grant money they would be applying for is created from tax money.

"That free money is tempting, isn't it?" he said.

Regardless of the cost, many other council members said the storage building is needed.

"I think for the longevity and the maintenance of the (snow removal) equipment, it has to be stored in a proper building," Chamberlain said.

Haggard agreed, saying without a building there would be a lot of money in equipment sitting outside.

Wiesner said he expects to be back before council in a couple of months to ask it to accept some grants he is applying for and award a bid on the project.

If it is ultimately passed by council, the building would be on the south-east side of the airport property, across US-31 from the Flight Deck Bar.

Car fire

On Dec. 22, a 1983 Pontiac Firebird caught fire at Pine Cove Apartments. Charlevoix Fire Chief Paul Ivan said the fire was accidental as the owner had been having mechanical problems. The car had been running, because the owner wanted to preheat the car to prevent it from stalling, and the engine over heated. The owner wasn't in the car at the time.

City police to crack down on drunk driving

The Charlevoix City Police Department wants its residents to make it home for the holidays — safely.

That's why from Dec. 20 through Jan. 2, 2005, the Charlevoix City Police Department is joining with nearly 500 Michigan law enforcement agencies during a "You Drink and Drive. You Lose." drunk driving crackdown.

Motorists are reminded that Michigan's drunk driving definition of .08 blood alcohol content and the costs associated with drunk driving arrests have increased. In addition to court costs and fines, convicted drunk drivers will also be subject to a new additional $1,000 penalty included in the driver responsibility program. The $1,000 penalty will be imposed for two consecutive years.

During last year's crackdown, there were six Christmas holiday traffic fatalities and seven traffic deaths during the New Year's holiday. Of those fatalities, three involved alcohol.

In Michigan, 34 percent of traffic fatalities involve alcohol and/or drugs. Although alcohol-related fatalities have been on the decline, there were still 442 traffic deaths in 2003 where alcohol and/or drugs played a factor.

Plenty of fun in town for New Year's Eve

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

With the new year rapidly approaching, several restaurants are gearing up for the night that lets everyone start over anew.

Stafford's Weathervane is planning on serving up some New Year's cheer with a special holiday menu and a champagne toast at midnight.

Jeff Sprecksell, general manager, said he and his staff are preparing for a New Year's Eve as though it was a busy summer night.

"We're staffed that way," Sprecksell said.

Last year, Stafford's Weathervane served 326 people on New Year's Eve and Sprecksell said the numbers are looking to be about the same for this year. So far, 250 reservations have been made but more are expected this week.

"It should be good all around," he said.

Sprecksell said the restaurant isn't doing packages this year, which incorporate a full course meal, because it wasn't favored by many people.

Instead, Stafford's Weathervane will feature a holiday a la carte menu so people can either eat a five course meal or just a salad and dessert.

Jennifer Donker, assistant manager and banquet coordinator, said the holiday menu will include several specials such as lobster, shrimp and scallop pasta a la creme and grilled Hawaiian seabass served with a mango hollandaise. Another featured special is a pan seared filet of beef-rofert crusted with portabella mushrooms and beurre rouge.

The evening wouldn't be complete without music to liven up the festive atmosphere. From 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Marty Ward will perform in the dining room and from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. Night Blend featuring Maggie Dickson will perform in the bar.

Whitney's of Charlevoix is also getting into the festive mood.

Paul Andrzejewski, general manager, said the restaurant served about 120 people last year and is expecting to match that number or surpass it.

He said the staff is excited to be busy again and many who are returning from college are eager to work.

"We're just looking forward to a good New Year's," he said.

Karen Glass, bartender and server, said Nelson Olstrom will perform a set of tunes while patrons dine on the featured lobster tail and petite filet.

Whitney's will also feature a champagne toast at midnight. Those who come to the restaurant will also receive various party favors to get them in the spirit of the New Year.

Giuseppe's Italian Grille is ready to serve those that are looking for a good meal before they head off to whatever gathering awaits them.

Aaron Moffat, owner, said the restaurant will feature their full menu for dinner along with two specials. One special will feature prime rib and lobster and another possibly tenderloin.

Villager Pub isn't serving anything particular, but instead is kicking off the New Year with a New Year's Eve Party. Those who attend the party, which starts at 9 p.m., will hear music played by Mojo and the Boogieman.

Tickets are required to get into the party and must be purchased ahead of time from the restaurant's bar. Tickets cost $20 per person and entail the ticket holder to music, two free drinks and free hors d'oeuvres. Tickets are on sale now and will be on sale until they are all sold.

The Grey Gables Inn will feature two seating times for their New Year's Eve delights.

The first seating is from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. and is $40 per person and a children's menu is available. The second seating is $50 per person and is from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Both seatings can choose from nine appetizers including Maine lobster and roasted corn chowder, California roll with wasabi, scallops and crab voulent pastry.

At both seatings, diners can choose one entree such as prime rib with a salt, garlic and rosemary crust that is served with a baked potato and sour cream with chives. Another entree is a baked salmon en croute filled with lobster mousse, spinach and hollandaise.

All the dinners include a choice of seven desserts and New Year's party favors.

There will be a performance by Hat Trick and a champagne toast at midnight.

Charly's Seafood Grille is featuring dinner for two as a part of their New Year's Eve festivities. The dinner for two features filet, shrimp, a bottle of wine and appetizers.

Chris Martin will provide entertainment starting at 9 p.m. and there will be a champagne and coney bar served at midnight. Breakfast will also be served from midnight to 3 a.m.

Flight Deck Bar and Paul Bunyan Lanes are gearing up to bring in the New Year in style.

Debra Blanchard, bartender and waitress, said Cherri and the Violators will be playing from 9:30 p.m. to 2 a.m. on New Year's Eve. The bar will not be taking a cover charge and party favors will be available.

Blanchard said there will also be special drink prices and hors d'oeuvres will be served after midnight.

On New Year's Day, at 10 p.m. Cherri and the Violators will be performing. A free buffet will be served all day and there will also be special drink prices.

Blanchard said from 8 p.m. to midnight Paul Bunyan Lanes will feature bowling for $1 per game.

Community mediation to offer classes to non-profits

Non-profit organizations are dedicated to helping others, the only aspect that differs from one agency to another is the specific nature of the assistance that they give.

In their generosity to help others, however, non-profits often forget to take care of themselves.

It was this premise that motivated Northern Community Mediation to seek a grant from the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Community Foundation to develop a series of workshops that would focus upon the needs of non-profit employees.

Specifically, the curriculum would target non-profit organizations for the purpose of training the staff in the various skills involved in conflict resolution.

Northern Community Mediation is piloting this project with Hospice of Little Traverse Bay so that the curriculum can be tested for its effectiveness. Upon completion of the pilot project, NCM will offer the series to other non-profit organizations.

The first session, Conflict Theory, provides the foundation for the series. Upon completion of that session, an organization will be able to choose to participate in either one or all five of the remaining sessions: Communication Skills, Power and Conflict, Diversity and Culture, Problem Solving and Team Building.

Anyone interested in learning more about Northern Community Mediation's workshops for non-profit organizations should contact Dr. Jane Millar at (231)487-1771.

PUBLIC NOTICE

If it's not in the newspaper, how will the public notice?

Zoning changes. Tax increases. Legislative proposals. These are just a few topics where government actions can affect your life and community. Imagine if government no longer had the legal obligation to publish this information in your newspaper. How would public notices get noticed? In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. It should not be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, when to look or even to know what you're looking for to be informed. It is government's responsibility to publish and deliver public notice information as it becomes available. So take notice. Your right to know is being served... right here in your newspaper.

Two hurt in one car accident

Two people were injured in a one vehicle accident around 1 a.m., Dec. 26 on M-66, near Fulsome Road.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, a deputy was dispatched to a vehicle in the ditch on M-66 near Fulsome Road.

When the deputy arrived on scene, he found a late model Mercury Sable in the ditch. The vehicle's occupants however had left the scene.

The deputy received a call from Charlevoix Area Hospital saying the subjects were at the hospital seeking treatment. The occupants were transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by their son in his personal vehicle.

The deputy met with Charles and Nancy Owen, both of Petoskey. Nancy suffered a fractured wrist and Charles' head struck the windshield following the impact.

The passenger was not wearing his seatbelt.

The occupants were treated and released for their injuries on Dec. 26.

Student to take part in Senate program

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

A Charlevoix High School student is heading off to Washington D.C. and was chosen as one of two students to represent the state of Michigan at the United States Senate Youth Program.

Chris Golski, 18, will be going to Washington D.C. from Feb. 26 to March 5, all expenses paid, to join other youth state representatives and also those from the Department of Defense Education Activity.

"It's pretty exciting," he said. "I was surprised at first. When you apply for something like that you don't usually think you'll get it."

Golski got it and will also be receiving a $5,000 scholarship from the William Randolph Hearst Foundation, which is also paying for the trip including transportation, hotel accommodations and meals.

"I'm looking forward to just spending a week and meeting all the other delegates from around the country," he said. "I think it should be a pretty interesting group."

The 104 delegates from around the country and the Department of Defense Education Activity will visit the Senate, the House of Representatives, the Supreme Court and the Pentagon, among other activities.

The nationwide youth program was endorsed by the United States Senate in 1962, and created through Senate Resolution 324. This would allow for high school students elected to a student body office to experience the functions of the federal government of the United States.

The program is funded by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation and is of no cost to the federal government.

In 1963, the Senate resolved Resolution 146, which amended Resolution 324 and stated that students in the Department of Defense education system could also participate in the program.

The program is open for any junior and senior high school student who is currently serving as an elected or selected student body representative.

Golski is currently the president of the student council and was also a representative his freshman year. He has also served for the past two years as a student representative on the Curriculum Design Team, which is comprised of a committee of teachers.

This won't be Golski's first trip to Washington D.C. as he went his sophomore year for a week-long leadership conference.

Golski said he had to pay to go, but was nominated to attend. He experienced leadership workshops, a Senate simulation and heard several speakers.

"I came back with a new outlet that helped with other stuff around school," he said.

Golski doesn't have any definite plans to pursue a political career, but said he is interested to see if that changes when he comes back.

The opportunity is one that should be taken advantage of such as when he went to Traverse City to hear Vice President Dick Cheney speak, who later shook his hand.

"I think it just kind of goes back to taking advantage of your opportunities," he said. "You don't know if anything will come of it, but you're putting yourself in an opportunity to have good things come down the line."

Two hurt in three car accident

Two people were injured in a three care accident around 10 p.m., Dec. 21 on US-31 near Barnard Road.

According to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, Robin Ferguson, 49, from Charlevoix, was driving a 1997 Ford Aspire when she made a U-turn in the path of Patricia Blanchard, 50, from Charlevoix, driving a 2003 GMC Envoy. A third vehicle, a 1993 Saturn 4D driven by James Allen, 53, from Eastport then hit the Ferguson vehicle that was in the roadway.

Ferguson and Allen were transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by Charlevoix City EMS for minor injuries.

The Charlevoix Township Fire Department assisted the sheriffs office at the scene.

The crash is still under investigation at this time.

Fire department to use portable for training

By COURTNEY E. PACE
Staff Writer

The Charlevoix City Fire Department is taking an old portable that used to house the Charlevoix Community Skatepark and making it into a smokehouse that will be a part of the new training facility.

Charlevoix City Fire Chief Paul Ivan said the portable was purchased as part of the land when the city bought the old middle school property.

However, the fire department asked the school and the library if they had a use for it and the answer from both was no.

On Dec. 23 the portable was moved by J & R Building Movers Inc. from Petoskey and relocated at the Electrical Department until next spring when it can be placed on the ground.

Ivan said transforming the portable into a smokehouse and adding it to the department's training facility will help them obtain a lower rate for fire insurance than they already have.

The cost will be relatively small to taxpayers since the city already owned the portable and resources are available through the electric department. The only expenses so far were involved with moving the portable.

The facility will include the smokehouse and four to six telephone poles with platforms that will be of varying heights to simulate different rescue situations.

The fire department's training facility that will be located on the Irish Boat Shop side of the land parcel housing the Electric Department across from the baseball fields on West Carpenter and will be several hundred feet behind the Charlevoix Community Skatepark's permanent location.

Currently, Ivan said the only other training facility is located in Traverse City.

Soaps N' Such opens showroom near Atwood

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Editor

What started as a hobby for Mary Corp and her family has grown into its own business.

Mary Corp, a lifelong Charlevoix resident, opened her new business Soaps N' Such out of her home on Atwood Road between Atwood and Ellsworth on Dec. 4. This move came after a few years of selling her wares at area craft shows. Corp said she decided she could not properly showcase the items her and her family make at these shows, so she decided to open her own shop.

The path to the family business began about eight years ago when Corp started making soap for her family, something she enjoyed doing. Then, a couple of years ago, one of her daughters suggested she sell her soap and start her own business with it.

With that was the birth of Soaps N' Such.

While the original idea for a business started with handmade soap, now it is grown to much more.

Corp said she makes all sorts of bath products, and many out of all natural ingredients. Soaps N' Such offers lotions, bath salts, bath teas, candles, scented hot pads, laundry soap and bath towels, among many others. Additionally, Corp makes special order gifts, such as knitted sweaters for children.

Corp said she is working on expanding her natural products to items such as dish-soap. She added some of the scented products do contain essential oils, which are not necessarily natural, and her lotions do have preservatives in them.

To help Corp make all these items for her customers, her family pitches in. Corp homeschools her children and those still living at home help her make the products for Soaps N' Such. Corp has six children, five of them are still living at home, one daughter is living in Chicago.

Soaps N' Such is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday and evenings by appointment. For more information on Soaps N' Such, call (231) 588-6311.

Exceptional Riders program celebrates 20 years

The Exceptional Riders Program, which offers therapeutic riding instruction for those with physical, emotional, and learning disabilities of all ages, is celebrating its twentieth anniversary this year.

For individuals with disabilities, equine-assisted activities have shown to improve muscle tone, balance, posture, coordination and motor development, as well as emotional well-being.

The program's professional occupational therapists and instructors provide riding therapy to students with such physical and mental disabilities as cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, spina bifida, blindness, Down Syndrome, as well as other developmental challenges. Students have ranged in age from 3 to 73. Supporting this work is a large group of dedicated volunteers, who serve as horse leaders and side walkers.

What started out in 1984 as a couple of people with the vision to provide a therapeutic horseback riding program for the area disabled youth and adults, has evolved into a highly regarded and well-respected program with three certified instructors and over 80 volunteers, who have served hundreds of students in the last two decades.

Corky Price and Barbara Lane coordinated the first class 20 years ago and have been bringing the benefits and joys of horseback riding to the disabled of our community since that time.

The Exceptional Riders Program is fortunate to have three certified instructors — Barbara Lane and Mary Lee, both of Petoskey, and Dawn Kocourek-Pemberton of Harbor Springs, as well as occupational therapist Jeanne Gorkiewicz of Charlevoix.

Instructor certification is offered through the North American Riding for the Handicapped Association (NARHA). This is an intensive program consisting of classroom studies, written exams, riding and teaching exams and teaching experience, with annual updates.

With emphasis on safety, all instructors are certified in CPR and First Aid through the American Red Cross.

The Exceptional Riders Program is a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization with an all volunteer working board. The original board members included Barbara Lane, Corky Price, Carol and John Sneathen, Lester Crandell, Kim Swan, Frank Leist, Vivian Woodcock, Vince Brewster and Jock Rayder, who were instrumental in developing policies, fundraising, publicity and exhibiting perseverance during the start-up years.

Many key individuals played integral roles in developing and keeping the program viable over the last two decades and deserve recognition for their generosity and contributions.

One of those individuals, Frank Leist, a mainstay over the years, loaned the program horses, paid vet bills, purchased tack and other equipment in the early years to ensure the program's continuance.

The Exceptional Riders Program has been hosted at several locations over the years including Lake Charlevoix Farms, owned in 1984 by Corky and Bill Price.

Corky and Bill Price who graciously hosted the pilot program in 1984, followed by Gentry Peevehouse and then Todd Warner. Other locations have included Bri-Ann Farms owned by Mike and Ann Olsen and Pace Setter Farms, owned by Paula Pace Jones.

Currently the program is at the Bay Harbor Equestrian Center who donates the use of the handicapped accessible arena, staff and horses. The facility is owned by David Johnson and managed by Alicia Byberg.

Throughout the years, Mike and Denise Schlitt have often donated framed pictures commemorating each student's successful participation in the program.

The Exceptional Riders Program is completely free of charge to all students due to the financial support over the years by many funding sources and many parents, friends and even some students who donated their allowance. The local program is one of only approximately 5 percent of all the similar programs in the United States that is without charge to the students.

Beginning in 1992, many fund-raising events have been given to benefit the Exceptional Riders Program, including the annual trail ride, which has been hosted at a variety of locations. Proceeds from fund-raisers, donations and grants enable the program to provide the wide-range of specialized equipment to fit both horse and rider and other costs, which include liability insurance and mandatory continuing education.

The Exceptional Riders Program is endorsed by local schools, hospitals, physical and occupational therapists as well as physicians who make many referrals to the program.

In the mid 1990s the program received the Dale Fassett award, which is given annually to an outstanding individual or group that provides assistance to those with special needs.

Current board members include Barbara Lane, Diane Chap\man, Mary Lee, Ed Lane, Dawn Kocourek-Pemberton, Gayle Gennett, Jeanne Gorkiewicz and Laura Kemp.

For more information about the Exceptional Riders Program, to volunteer, or to make a donation, please contact Lane at (231) 347-3300.

NEWS

Wal-Mart chose to withdraw its application, which Charlevoix Township determined to be incomplete.

Wastewater Treatment Plant

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality arrested two men suspected to be involved with violations that occurred at the Wastewater Treatment Plant in Charlevoix.

Former superintendent Samuel Louis Creswell and former lead worker James Stanley Mazur were arrested by Sgt. Vince Woods, a detective with MDEQ's office of criminal investigation, and charged with breaking both environmental law and traditional criminal law.

Both men were charged with making false statements and providing false information to the MDEQ under environmental law. They were also charged with uttering and publishing false information as fact under traditional criminal law.

The problems at the Wastewater Treatment Plant reach back over a three year period and include chlorine exceedences and other violations that were reported to the MDEQ as being in compliance and were revealed late last winter to the public. Bench sheet readings didn't match up to the numbers given to the state and there were areas where proper protocol wasn't followed.

Creswell and Mazur are facing high fines and lengthy jail sentences.

Veterans of Foreign Wars

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1153 lost the building that had been their home since 1953 during a fire around 2 a.m. on Dec. 10.

The building was fully engulfed in flames when the Charlevoix Township Fire Department arrived. No one was in the building at the time of the fire and no firefighters were injured.

Arson was one possibility since the post was vandalized during the night between Nov. 18 and Nov. 19, when four rocks were thrown through two different windows.

However, arson was ruled out by Spl./Sgt. Jerry Briolat of the Fire Investigation Unit of the Michigan Department of State Police. The cause of the fire was labeled undetermined, but Briolat had said one of the highest probabilities was that it was an electrical failure.

The building was built in two years and almost entirely by volunteer labor. It was formally dedicated during the 13th District Rally in 1953.

Charlevoix Bridge

On June 27, the Charlevoix bridge refused to go down during the 5:30 p.m. opening, leaving a 5 to 6 foot gap. The bridge was open for about two hours until workers managed to close it, allowing traffic through.

The bridge stopped functioning due to a limiter switch, which functions similar to a sensory switch in a car that prohibits the engine from starting if the car is not in park.

The replacement part cost $50 and the bridge became fully functional at about 2 a.m. on June 28. However, the bridge caused both vehicular and boater traffic to back up. The Emerald Isle was coming into port from Beaver Island and had to dock at the South Pier in Pine River Channel for several hours.

Emergency personnel helped passengers off the boat and helped to unload luggage. Everything was taken off the boat except vehicles.

Charlevoix Community Skatepark

In July, the Charlevoix Community Skatepark officially opened the doors to its temporary location near the old middle school off Mason Street. The skate park was staffed by volunteers, but is owned and operated by the city of Charlevoix for liability purposes. Parents, children and community members worked hard to bring the skate park to Charlevoix.

The Mason Street location closed in October, but the city of Charlevoix passed a resolution allowing the permanent skate park to be constructed on the southwest corner of a parcel currently housing the Water and Electric Plant on West Carpenter Street across from the baseball fields.

The park is open to rollerbladers, skateboarders and BMX bike riders.

Assisted Living

After a long struggle, the owners of Sunnybank Retirement Community were given the go ahead to build an assisted living facility. The facility will front Petoskey Avenue near Division Street on 3.6 acres of land zoned R2.

Several residents were concerned about allowing such a facility to be built there because the zoning ordinance doesn't mention assisted living facilities. This led the situation into court.

The proposed development is a single-story building spanning 36,000 square feet, which will cover about one acre of land. The building will be constructed in the shape of an X with wings containing 54 units, of which 32 will be efficiency and 22will be one-bedroom apartments.

Green Dye

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality closed its criminal investigation concerning the dumping of green sodium fluorescein into the Pine River Channel on March 17. The incident occurred during the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce's first annual St. Patrick's Day pub crawl.

The case was closed due to a lack of evidence. However, there is a statute of limitations of six years in Michigan, which means the case can be re-opened at any time.

The chamber wanted to dye the channel green to copy Chicago for the St. Patrick's Day festivities, but was told five times by the MDEQ that it wasn't allowed.

The MDEQ said the dye is usually not toxic, but could not say for certain if this prank harmed the environment in the channel because it was not sure exactly how much was poured in.

However, the civil case being brought against the chamber is still open. The chamber denies any involvement with the prank.

Voter Decisions

Charlevoix residents voted to upset two incumbents during the August primary and the November general election. During the primary, voters chose John Jarema for Charlevoix County Prosecutor over incumbent Mary Beth Kur. Kur had been the prosecuting attorney since 1995. Jarema was Kur's former assistant chief prosecutor and also won the general election. Jarema received 3,055 votes to Kur's 2,868.

During the general election, voters chose Norman "Boogie" Carlson as Charlevoix's new mayor over incumbent Gabe Campbell, who had served as mayor for the past two years. The election was close with 790 votes for Carlson to 727 votes for Campbell.

Marina

At a joint meeting, the Charlevoix City Council and the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority decided to move forward with plans to build a new marina and renovate East Park. The total project is estimated to cost about $10,570,207.97. However, the state Waterways Commission is going to pay $6,809,674.48 or about 75 percent of the cost.

The Charlevoix community only needs to fund $4,324,613 of the project, which covers a 15 percent cost for bonds.

The DDA will use existing funds to cover the community's portion, which means it won't cost the taxpayers.

Some residents are still weary of hidden costs, higher taxes and plans for East Park.

The marina plan includes extending the docks and doing away with anchored boats, but the East Park plan involves tearing down and relocating the band shell. This will cost $1,490,642 and will not be covered by the Waterways Commission, but is included in the DDA's cost.

Plans for the park also include a new harbor master's building and an ice skating rink.

Permits are still being pursued for both projects from the MDEQ and the Army Corps of Engineers. The MDEQ initially had a problem with the marina plans, which resulted in a revision.

CCMS

The Charlevoix City Council voted unanimously on Dec. 20 to pay United Fire and Casualty over $220,000 in two payments for a mistakenly written check. The check was made out to CCMS, which is insured by United Fire and Casualty. CCMS was the contractor that did construction on city roads and was mistakenly paid $222,978.36 in April 2004.

United Fire and Casualty brought suit saying they should have been paid and not CCMS. The city will pay $111,489.18 by Dec. 27 and the remainder to United Fire and Casualty on July 31.

As a result, United Fire and Casualty will drop its lawsuit against the city and not include any attorney or interest fees.

The city's insurance company refused to cover the mistakenly written check because United Fire and Casualty says the city of Charlevoix was in a breech of contract for paying CCMS.

The city's insurance company will cover mistakes, but not a breech of contract.

City Attorney Jim Young is trying to get the city's insurance company to reconsider before pending litigation.

The Charlevoix City Council voted in early December to have Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson contact police agencies near CCMS's main office and request the start of a criminal investigation.

Halverson has currently contacted the prosecuting attorney in Mackinaw County and the city is gathering information.

Fire took many hard to find items

VFW

the post's home in 1953 took two years to build and was constructed almost entirely by volunteer labor, including the plumbing and wiring.

The only feature that wasn't built by volunteers was the Onaway stone fireplace and other stone work. The volunteers also didn't dig the well.

A second edition was added in the 1970s followed by a garage addition in the 1990s.

Butcher said it's too soon to make any definitive plans for the future. However, he said the new building will probably be constructed in the same location and be about the same size.

The smaller items such as the ceremonial flags and rifles weren't covered by the insurance.

Butcher said the ceremonial rifles that used to be in Post 1153 are no longer available from the Defense Establishment. He said replacement rifles will be harder to come by and have a market value of about $500 each.

The ceremonial flags are also costly as Butcher said they run about $600 each. Some flags that were lost in the fire were VFW's banner, the American flag and the banners for the Women's Auxiliary of VFW Post 1153.

Some of these small details are what made the post a home to many veterans and not just another building.

"We're trying to salvage any items," Butcher said.

So far, some of the post's records were able to be salvaged. On Dec. 27, a contractor started cleaning up the remains of the building, which will last for three or four days.

Butcher said until that is complete, the post won't know exactly what can be saved.

"We'll hopefully make use of the floor," he said.

Donations can be made out to VFW Post 1153 and can be mailed to Charlie Butcher, P.O. Box 87, Charlevoix, Mich., 49720.

Boogie Woogie at the art center

The Crooked Tree Arts Center continues its Virginia McCune Performing Arts Series with the Boogie Woogie Babies to warm up your January.

The Boogie Woogie Babies will perform two shows at 8 p.m., Friday, Jan. 21 and Saturday January 22 at the Crooked Tree Arts Center. Friday evening's performance is a high energy, entertaining and patriotic revue of music, history and trivia from World War II, while on Saturday, the Boogie Woogie Babies will perform their show, Boogie Down Broadway.

Boogie Woogie Babies is comprised of seasoned performers of the Grand Rapids theater and music scene: Mary Rademacher, Barbara Wisse and Francesca Amari.

Amari created the revue by request of the American Legion Boat and Canoe Club, and the group has been performing the show ever since throughout Michigan and Illinois.

Amari has been a professional vocalist for 20-some years and has appeared in national and regional theater and trained in New York City.

Amari teaches theater at Grand Valley State University, Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp and Grand Rapids Civic Theatre. Her one-woman show, CabaretAMARI is part of the Touring Artist Roster for Michigan Humanities Council.

Rademacher is one of west Michigan's finest jazz vocalist and has appeared overseas with the USO, in dozens of area theater productions, is a regional Star Search winner, a former MSU cheerleader and is a busy choreographer and performer. She's opened for Taylor Dayne and Bob Newhart.

In addition to her own band, the RadPack, she performs regularly with The Night Band and the Midtown Horns in clubs, casinos and private events. She's released two CDs: Radhot and You Hit the Spot.

Wisse most recently performed her one-woman cabaret act, Laughing Matters as a part of Grand Rapids' Circle Theatre 50th Anniversary Cabaret Series.

Her voice has been heard on stages throughout west Michigan and her singing styles run the gamut from advertising jingles to vocal jazz, from opera to musicals, from ensembles to solos. Her singing and studies have taken her to London and New York, but the musical theater community in Grand Rapids is where she got her start.

Wisse is a language and fine arts consultant for Grand Rapids Public Schools.

Accompanying the Boogie Woogie Babies is pianist Mark Kahny, one of west Michigan's finest keyboard and vocal talents in demand by vocalists and bands alike.

Originally from Cincinnati, Kahny studied classically at the University of Cincinnati's College Conservatory of Music, toured the country with the showband, Kops & Robbers, and is featured on many CDs, including Mary Rademacher's, Edye Evans Hyde's, Boogie Woogie Babies and his own Universe of Two.

Kahny regularly is a headliner with World Class Jazz tours, performing throughout northwest Michigan.

He has worked with such celebrity headliners as Red Buttons, Johnny Mathis and Ray Charles.

Tickets are $50/patron; nonmember rate of $25/adult and $10/student and for art center members, $20/adult and $8/student.

Purchase tickets at Crooked Tree Ats Center, 461 East Mitchell Street in downtown Petoskey. Call (231) 347-4337 or contact it on-line at www.crookedtree.org.
